INCOME, PROFIT AND LOSS, AND GENERAL BALANCE SHEET

§ 10.05 General instructions. The carrier's records shall be kept with sufficient particularity to show fully the facts pertaining to all entries made in the accounts provided herein for income, profit and loss, and general balance sheet. Where the full information is not recorded in the general books, the entries thereto shall be supported by other records in which the full details shall be shown. Such general book entries shall contain sufficient reference to the detail records to permit ready identification, and the detail records shall be filed in such manner as to be readily accessible for examination by representatives of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

§ 10.05–1 General ledger accounts. When the title and definition of an income, profit and loss, or general balance-sheet account clearly indicate that it is a summary of other accounts, it is not required that a special ledger account shall be kept under such a title to include the balances from the accounts usually kept in the ledger, but in such case the titles of the subaccounts in the ledger shall give references by numbers, titles, or both, to the income, profit and loss, or general balance-sheet account prescribed herein of which they are subdivisions.

§ 10.05–2 Leased road and equipment; depreciation. The carrier shall include in operating expenses charges for depreciation on road property and equipment used but not owned the rent for which is includible in account 542, "Rent for leased roads and equipment," and shall maintain the same records of service lives, salvage values, etc., as provided for owned road property and equipment. The amount currently to be charged to account 542, "Rent for leased roads and equipment," is the excess of the total compensation over the amount chargeable by the carrier to the depreciation accounts in operating expenses. If settlement between the carrier and the lessor is not currently made, the amount of the depreciation accrued during the period of the lease shall be credited by the carrier to account 779, "Accrued depreciation—Leased property." The necessary adjustments of the difference between the balance thus accrued in that account and the actual amount of settlement shall appropriately be made through account 607, "Miscellaneous credits," or account 621, "Miscellaneous debits," at the time settlement for depreciation on the property is made with the lessor.

The carrier shall not include in the depreciation account in operating expenses any charges for depreciation of equipment used but not owned when the rents therefor are included in the rent for equipment and joint facility rent accounts 503 to 508 and 536 to 541, inclusive.

§ 10.05–3 Closing general ledger. Accounts shall be written up, posted to the general ledger and balanced monthly. The final entries for any month shall be made not later than 60 days after the last day of the month for which the accounts are stated, except that the period within which the final entries for the month of December shall be made may be extended to such date in the following March as shall not interfere with the preparation and filing of annual reports as required by paragraph 2 of section 20 of the Interstate Commerce Act.

INCOME

§ 10.06–1 Income accounts defined. Income accounts are those designed to show, as nearly as practicable, for each fiscal period, the total amount of money that a carrier becomes entitled to receive for services rendered, the returns accrued upon investments, the accrued costs paid or payable for the services rendered by it, the losses sustained by it, the amounts accrued for taxes, for use of moneys and for use of properties of others, and the appropriations made from income during the period. The net balance of income (or loss) shall be carried to profit and loss.

§ 10.06–2 Delayed items. The carrier shall account for delayed items and adjustments and cancellation of entries recorded in balance-sheet accounts relating to income of former years in accordance with the instructions contained in § 10.02–3 Delayed items.

§ 10.06–3 Unaudited items. When the amount of any item affecting income cannot be accurately determined in time for inclusion in the accounts of the month in which the transaction occurs, the amount of the item shall be estimated and in such form included in the proper income account with contra entry to the appropriate balance-sheet account. When the item is audited the necessary adjustments shall be made through the accounts in which the estimate was recorded. If, during the interval between the date of inclusion of the item in the accounts and the date on which it is audited, a substantial difference from the initial estimate is determined, appropriate adjustments shall be made in the current accounts to cover such difference. The carrier is not required to anticipate items which would not appreciably affect the accounts.

§ 10.508 Joint facility rent income. This account shall include amounts receivable accrued for rent of equipment, tracks, yards, terminals, and other facilities owned or controlled by the accounting company and used jointly with other companies or individuals.

Amounts receivable from other companies in reimbursement for taxes on property jointly used shall be credited to this account.

NOTE: The portion of the cost of maintenance, operation, or administration of joint facilities recoverable from others shall be credited to the various joint facility accounts provided for operating expenses. When the compensation for the use of joint facilities is a fixed amount or is based upon a charge per passenger, ton, car, or other unit, it shall be fairly apportioned by the creditor between this account and the appropriate joint facility operating expense accounts.

§ 10.509 Income from lease of road and equipment. This account shall include the entire amount receivable accrued for the exclusive use of road, tracks, or bridges (including equipment or other railway property covered by the contract), and specific equipment leased for one year or more, the rented property being owned or controlled by the accounting company, whether payable to the accounting company in cash or disbursed by the lessee on behalf of the accounting company as interest on funded debt, guaranteed dividends on stock, or otherwise. (See Note C to account 717, "Interest and dividends receivable.")

When the lessor company maintains the road and equipment leased, the cost of maintaining the property rented shall be charged to this account, except that when the rent thus receivable for the use of property other than equipment is relatively small and the expense of maintenance is not separable, the entire amount received may be credited to revenue account 142, "Rents of buildings and other property."

If, under the terms of a lease, the deficit, or any portion of it, resulting from the lessee company's operations of the property leased is payable by the lessor company, the amount thus payable shall be charged to this account by the lessor.

NOTE A: When taxes on leased property are assumed by the lessor, the accruals of such taxes shall be included in the lessor's account 532, "Railway tax accruals."

NOTE B: If property the rent of which is chargeable to account 542, "Rent for leased roads and equipment," is sublet by the accounting company, the rent receivable therefor shall be credited to this account.

NOTE C: When specific charges against the lessee are made by the lessor for repairs of equipment which is actually maintained by it the amount of such charges shall be appropriately credited by the lessor to its equipment repair accounts and charged by the lessee to the corresponding accounts.

§ 10.510 Miscellaneous rent income. This account shall include such rents of property owned and controlled by the accounting carrier as are not provided for in the foregoing accounts.

To this account shall be charged the cost of maintenance of the property rented, also specific incidental expenses in connection with such property, such as the cost of negotiating contracts, advertising for tenants, fees paid conveyances, collectors' commissions, and analogous items.

NOTE A: If property the rent of which is chargeable to account 543, "Miscellaneous rents," is sublet by the accounting company, the rent receivable therefor shall be credited to this account.

NOTE B: Taxes on property the rent of which is creditable to this account shall be charged to account 532, "Railway tax accruals."

NOTE C: The rent from property carried in balance-sheet account 705, "Miscellaneous physical property," shall not be included in this account, but in account 511, "Miscellaneous nonoperating physical property."

NOTE D: Rent and other income from real estate acquired for new lines or for additions and betterments shall be credited to the appropriate road and equipment accounts until the completion or coming into service of the property.

§ 10.511 Miscellaneous nonoperating physical property. This account shall include the net credit balance of the nonoperating revenues or income from, and the expenses (including depreciation, but excluding taxes) of, physical property the cost of which is carried in balance-sheet account 705, "Miscellaneous physical property."

NOTE A: Net debit balances in this account shall be shown in red ink.

NOTE B: The revenues from the operation of miscellaneous operating physical property shall be included in income account 502, "Revenues from miscellaneous operations," and the expenses of operation shall be included in account 534, "Expenses of miscellaneous operations."

§ 10.512 Separately operated properties: profit. This account shall include amounts receivable under the terms of agreements or contracts whereby the surplus resulting from the operation by others of properties of other companies having a separate corporate existence is to be paid, in whole or in part, to the accounting company.

In determining the amount receivable by the accounting company, consideration shall be given not only to the operating revenues and operating expenses but also to other items of income or deduction which affect that amount.

NOTE A: The amount payable by the operating company shall be charged by it to account 550, "Income transferred to other companies."

NOTE B: Dividends or other returns upon securities issued by separately operated companies, and held or controlled by the accounting company, shall be included in accounts 513, "Dividend income"; 514, "Income from funded securities"; 515, "Income from unfunded securities and accounts"; or 516, "Income from sinking and other reserve funds," as may be appropriate.

§ 10.513 Dividend income. This account shall include dividends declared on railway and other stocks, the income from which is the property of the accounting company, whether such stocks are owned by the accounting company and held in its treasury or deposited in trust, or are controlled through lease or otherwise.

Dividends declared shall not be credited prior to actual collection unless their payment is reasonably assured by past experience, guaranty, anticipated provision, or otherwise. (See Note C to account 717, "Interest and dividends receivable.")

Accruals of guaranteed dividends may be included in this account if their payment is reasonably assured.

NOTE A: This account shall not include credits for dividends on stocks issued or assumed by the accounting company and owned by it, whether pledged as collateral or held in its treasury, in special deposits, or in sinking or other reserve funds.

NOTE B: Dividends on stocks of other companies held in sinking or other reserve funds shall be credited to account 516, "Income from sinking and other reserve funds."

§ 10.514 Income from funded securities. This account shall include interest on bonds and other funded securities and on debenture stock of other companies, the income from which is the property of the accounting company, whether such securities are owned by the accounting company and held in its treasury or deposited in trust, or are controlled through lease or otherwise. Interest accrued shall not be credited prior to actual collection unless its payment is reasonably assured by past experience, guaranty, anticipated provision, or otherwise. (See Note C to account 717, "Interest and dividends receivable.")

At the option of the accounting company there may be included each year in this account the portion, applicable to the fiscal period, of the amount requisite to extinguish, during the interval between the date of acquisition and the date of maturity, the discount or premium on funded securities of other companies owned. Amounts thus credited or charged shall be concurrently charged or credited to the account in which the cost of the securities is carried.

NOTE A: The term "funded securities" as here used means all unmatured bonds, notes, and other evidences of indebtedness (except open accounts for advances) none of which by the terms of the creation of the debt matures until more than one year after the date of such creation, provided that in case of an obligation maturing serially, such as car-trust notes, the entire amount shall be included in funded securities if any portion of the obligation matures later than one year after date of issue.

NOTE B: This account shall not include interest on funded securities issued or assumed by the accounting company and owned by it, whether pledged as collateral or held in its treasury, in special deposits, or in sinking or other reserve funds.

NOTE C: Interest on funded securities of other companies held in sinking or other reserve funds shall be included in account 516, "Income from sinking and other reserve funds."

§ 10.515 Income from unfunded securities and accounts. This account shall include interest on unfunded securities, notes, and other evidences of indebtedness payable on demand or having dates of maturity one year or less from the date of issue, interest on bank balances and on open accounts, and other analogous items, including discount on short-term notes. The discount on short-term notes shall be distributed, through equal monthly credits, over the terms of the notes. (See Note C to account 717, "Interest and dividends receivable.")

NOTE A: Interest on assets held in sinking and other reserve funds shall be included in account 516, "Income from sinking and other reserve funds."

NOTE B: Discount on bills for material purchased shall be credited to the accounts to which is charged the cost of the material with respect to which the discount is allowed.

§ 10.516 Income from sinking and other reserve funds. This account shall include the income accrued on cash, securities, and other assets (not including securities issued or assumed by the accounting company) held in sinking and other reserve funds. (See Note C to account 717, "Interest and dividends receivable.")

At the option of the accounting company there may be included each year in this account the portion, applicable to the fiscal period, of the amount requisite to extinguish, during the interval between the date of acquisition and the date of maturity, the discount or premium on funded securities held in sinking or other reserve funds. Amounts thus credited or charged shall be concurrently charged or credited to the account in which the cost of the securities is carried.

NOTE: Credits to fund reserve accounts representing income on reserve funds shall be concurrently charged to account 552, "Income applied to sinking and other reserve funds."

§ 10.517 Release of premiums on funded debt. This account shall include, during each fiscal period, such proportion of the premiums on outstanding funded debt as may be applicable to the period. This proportion shall be determined in accordance with § 10.08–3 Discount, expense, and premium on funded debt.

§ 10.518 Contributions from other companies. This account shall include amounts received or receivable from other companies or individuals, representing the whole or a part of the net deficit of the accounting company when, under the terms of agreements or contracts, no obligation for subsequent reimbursement is incurred.

In determining the amount receivable by the accounting company, consideration shall be given not only to the operating revenues and operating expenses, but also to other items of income or deduction which affect that amount.

NOTE: The amount payable shall be charged by the contributing company to account 545, "Separately operated properties—Loss."

§ 10.519 Miscellaneous income. This account shall include all items, not provided for elsewhere, properly creditable to income account during the fiscal period.

§ 10.520 Delayed income credits. This account shall include delayed credit items and adjustments for which no provision has previously been made, relating to operating revenues, operating expenses, and income arising during the current year which are applicable to prior years and which are relatively so large that their inclusion in the appropriate accounts of the current year would seriously distort the accounts for the year. (See § 10.02–3 Delayed items.)

NOTE: All entries in this account shall be made in such detail as will indicate the operating-revenue, operating-expense or income accounts to which they relate.

DEBIT

§ 10.531 Railway operating expenses. This account shall include the total expenses caused by operations, as shown in the primary expense accounts provided in these regulations.

§ 10.532 Railway tax accruals. This account shall include accruals for taxes of all kinds (including Federal income tax) relating to railway property (including floating equipment, if any), operations, and privileges, whether based upon the valuation of the property, amount of stocks and bonds or other evidences of debt issued or outstanding; gross or net earnings, dividends declared, number of passengers carried, quantity of freight transported, length of line operated or owned, rolling stock operated or owned, or other basis; also taxes for issuing and recording mortgages and trust deeds and for issuing bonds or other evidences of long-term debt.

The taxes on leased property shall be included in this account by the carrier obligated to assume such expenses under the terms of the lease.

NOTE A: Taxes on leased property paid by one party to the lease and chargeable to the other party to the lease shall be charged directly to the party bearing the expense and not included in the income account of the party first making payment.

NOTE B: Taxes on other than railway property, operations, and privileges shall be charged to account 544, "Miscellaneous tax accruals," when the amount is separable from the taxes chargeable to this account.

NOTE C: Special assessments for street and other improvements, and special benefit taxes, such as water taxes and the like, shall be included in operating expense accounts or investment accounts, as may be appropriate.

NOTE D: Amounts received in reimbursement of taxes on property jointly used shall be credited to account 508, "Joint facility rent income." Amounts paid in reimbursement of such taxes shall be charged to account 541, "Joint facility rents."

In determining the amount payable by the accounting company, consideration shall be given not only to the operating revenues and operating expenses, but also to other items of income or deductions which affect that amount.

NOTE A: The amount receivable by the operating company shall be credited by it to account 518, "Contributions from other companies."

NOTE B: Dividends or other returns upon securities issued by separately operated companies and held or controlled by the accounting company shall not be included in this account to offset a deficit payable, but in accounts 513, "Dividend income"; 514, "Income from funded securities"; 515, "Income from unfunded securities and accounts," as may be appropriate.

§ 10.546 Interest on funded debt. This account shall include the current accruals of interest on all classes of long-term debt, the principal of which is includible in account 755, "Funded debt unmatured"; 755½, "Debt in default"; 756, "Receivers' and trustees' securities"; 756½, "Equipment obligations"; and 757, "Amounts payable to affiliated companies," also interest accruals on debenture stock. NOTE A: This account shall not include charges for interest on funded debt obligations issued or assumed by the accounting company and owned by it, whether pledged as collateral or held in its treasury, in special deposits, or in sinking or other reserve funds. (See account 552, "Income applied to sinking and other reserve funds.")

NOTE B: When funded debt is incurred for new lines or extensions, or for addition and betterment purposes, the accruals of interest on such funded debt (less interest received on unexpended balances), to the date of completion or coming into service of the property so acquired shall be included in the road and equipment accounts.

The discount on short-term notes, if of a considerable amount, shall be distributed through equal monthly charges, over the term of the notes.

NOTE: When short-term notes or other evidences of unfunded indebtedness are issued for new lines or extensions or for addition and betterment purposes the accrual of interest to the date of completion or coming into service of the property shall be included in the road and equipment accounts.

§ 10.548 Amortization of discount on funded debt. This account shall be charged during each fiscal period with the proportion of the discount and expense on funded debt obligations applicable to that period. This proportion shall be determined according to a rule the uniform application of which through the interval between the date of sale and the date of maturity will extinguish the discount and expense on funded debt. The charge to this account for any period must not be either greater or less than the proportion of the balance remaining unamortized applicable to that period so long as any portion of the discount and expense remains unextinguished, except that if the total discount and expense applicable to any particular issue of securities does not exceed $25,000, the entire amount may be charged to this account at time of issue. (See § 10.08–3 Discount expense and premium on funded debt.)

GENERAL BALANCE SHEET

§ 10.08–1 Balance sheet accounts. Balance sheet accounts are intended to disclose the financial condition of the carrier as of a given date by showing the assets, liabilities, capital stock, and related items and surplus or deficit of the carrier.

General levies or assessments against stockholders shall be credited to the appropriate ledger accounts for the subclass of capital stock against which the levy or assessment is made.

The total of net debit balances in these ledger accounts shall be included in account 754, "Discount on capital stock," and the total of net credit balances in account 753, "Premiums and assessments on capital stock."

By the term "discount" is meant the excess of the par value of stocks issued or assumed, plus dividends declared and accrued at the date of sale, over the money value of the consideration receive at their sale.

By the term "premium" is meant the excess of the money value of the consideration received at the sale of stocks over the sum of their par value and dividends declared and accrued at the date of sale.

Discount on each subclass of capital stock may be offset or reduced by charges to account 753, "Premiums and assessments on capital stock," t the extent that net gains from premiums or assessments have been included therein or to subaccount 784.1, "Paid-in surplus," to the extent that net gains from reacquisition and resale or retirement of capital stock applicable to such subclass have been included therein. Any remaining discount may be amortized by charges to account 555, "Stock discount extinguished through income"; account 616, "Stock discount extinguished through surplus"; or discount may be retained and carried in account 754, "Discount on capital stock," until the stock to which the discount applies is retired.

In case the accounting company is permitted and elects with the approval of the Commission, to distribute all or any part of the net balance of paid-in surplus to its stockholders, the amount thus distributed shall be charged to subaccount 784.1, "Paid-in surplus."

When an issue of capital stock, or any part thereof, is reacquired either by purchase or through donations by shareholders, and is not canceled, it shall be charged at its par value or if stock without par value at the proportionate amount at which the particular class of stock is included in account 751, "Capital stock," account 703, "Sinking funds"; 704, "Capital and other reserve funds"; 721, "Insurance and other funds"; 728, "Securities issued or assumed—Unpledged"; or 729, "Securities issued or assumed—Pledged," as may be appropriate.

The difference between the amount at which such reacquired stock was recorded in account 751, "Capital stock," and the amount paid by the accounting company for such stock, including any premium or discount applicable to such subclass carried in account 753, "Premiums and assessment on capital stock," or in account 754, "Discount on capital stock," and the commissions and expense in connection with its reacquisition shall be included in subaccount 784.1, "Paid-in surplus"; Provided, however, That the excess of a debit over the amount of accumulated net gains applicable to such subclass included in paid-in surplus shall be charged to account 621, "Miscellaneous debits."

When reacquired capital stock is resold the difference between the amount at which such stock is included in a particular asset account and the net sale price realized when resold shall be included in subaccount 784.1, "Paid-in surplus"; Provided, however, That the excess of a debit over the amount of accumulated net gains applicable to each subclass of capital stock resold included in paid-in surplus shall be charged to account 621, "Miscellaneous debits."

In no case shall discount on capital stock be charged to or included in any account as a part of the cost of acquiring property or as a part of the cost of operation.

§ 10.08–3 Discount, expense, and premium on funded debt. Ledger accounts shall be provided to cover the discounts, expense, and premiums at the sale or resale of each subclass of funded debt and of receivers' and trustees' securities issued for the benefit of or assumed by the company. For explanation of "subclass" see account 755, "Funded debt unmatured."

By the term "discount" is meant the excess of the par value of funded debt securities (of whatever kind) issued or assumed, and the accrued interest thereon, over the actual cash value of the consideration received for such securities.

By the term "premium" is meant the excess of the actual cash value of the consideration received for funded debt securities (of whatever kind) issued or assumed over the par value of such securities and the accrued interest thereon.

By the term "expense" is meant all expense in connection with the issue and sale of evidences of debt, such as fees for drafting mortgages and trust deeds; fees for issuing or recording mortgages and trust deeds; cost of engraving and printing bonds, certificates of indebtedness, and other negotiable paper having a life of more than one year; fees paid trustees provided for in mortgages and trust deeds; fees paid for legal services to trustees relative to mortgage securities; fees and commissions paid underwriters and brokers for marketing such evidences of debt; and other like expense except taxes for issuing or recording mortgages and trust deeds and for issuing bonds or other evidences of long term debt which shall be charged to account 532, "Railway tax accruals."

The total of the net debit balances remaining in these several accounts should be included in account 725, "Discount on funded debt," and the total of the net credit balances in account 772, "Premium on funded debt."

Each fiscal period there shall be charged to income account 548, "Amortization of discount on funded debt," a proportion (based upon the ratio of such fiscal period to the remaining life of the respective securities reckoned from the beginning of the period to the date of maturity of the debt to which the charges relate) of each of the debit balances in these accounts, and correspondingly there shall be credited to income account 517, "Release of premiums on funded debt," a similar proportion of each of the credit balances in these accounts. When the total discount and expense applicable to any particular issue of securities does not exceed $25 000, carriers may charge the entire amount to account 548, "Amortization of discount on funded debt," at time of issue.

When any funded debt which has been actually issued to bona fide holders for value is reacquired by the accounting company, that proportion of the balance remaining in the accounts containing discount, expense, and premium on funded debt for the subclass of the security reacquired applicable to the portion reacquired shall be credited or charged thereto, as may be appropriate, and concurrently charged or credited to profit and loss. Such proportion shall be based upon the ratio of the par value of the security reacquired to the par value of all the securities of the subclass actually outstanding immediately before such reacquirement.

In case, however, the premium realized or discount suffered at the prior sale of the securities reacquired has been included (in excess of the amount authorized in the text of road and equipment account 76, "Interest during construction") in an asset account other than the premiums and discounts account, such asset account shall be concurrently adjusted through profit and loss to the extent of such excess of the premium or discount previously included therein with respect to the securities reacquired.

Except as provided for in road and equipment account 76, "Interest during construction," no discount and expense on funded debt shall be charged to or included in any account as a part of the cost of acquiring any property, tangible or intangible, or as a part of the cost of operation.

§ 10.08–4 Contingent assets and liabilities. Contingent assets and liabilities shall not be included in the body of the balance-sheet statement, but shall be shown in detail in a supplementary statement accompanying the balance-sheet statement. Contingent assets are those without value to the accounting company until the fulfillment of conditions regarded as uncertain. Contingent liabilities include items which may, under certain conditions, become obligations of the company, but are neither direct nor assumed obligations on the date of the balance sheet.

§ 10.08–5 Book value of securities owned. (a) The investment in securities other than those issued or assumed by the accounting company shall be recorded in these accounts at the money value, at the time of acquisition, of the consideration given therefor by the accounting company, but excluding amounts paid for accrued interest and accrued dividends. The accounting company shall write down the ledger value of any securities to the extent of impairment in their value. Fluctuations in market value shall not be recorded however. Securities shall be written down to reflect anticipated loss in value or written off entirely if there be no reasonable prospect of realizing any value whatever therefrom. Adjustments in the ledger values of securities shall not be delayed beyond the year in which a loss is claimed for income tax purposes. In accordance with paragraph (c) of this section carriers may create reserves from surplus to cover such reductions in value. Under no circumstances shall the investment in the securities be stated in these accounts at an amount in excess of their cost to the accounting company.

(b) The amount of the adjustment shall be charged to account 621, "Miscellaneous debits."

(c) Carriers may create reserves from surplus to provide for depreciation in the value of securities owned and recorded in accounts 706, "Investments in affiliated companies," and 707, "Other investments," by charges to account 621, "Miscellaneous debits." See account 707½, "Reserve for adjustment of investment in securities."

§ 10.08–6 Income from sinking fund assets. Accrued interest on uninvested sinking fund cash on deposit in banks or trust companies, and accrued interest and other income arising from stocks, bonds, or other assets held in sinking and reserve funds shall be credited to account 516, "Income from sinking and other reserve funds," and when required by the mortgage or other provision to be held in the funds shall be charged, according to the character of the funds, to account 703, "Sinking funds," or to account 721, "Insurance and other funds," and concurrently, if a reserve is required, an equal amount shall be charged to income account 552, "Income applied to sinking and other reserve funds," and credited to account 785, "Earned surplus—appropriated."

§ 10.08–7 Current assets. In the group of accounts designated as current assets (accounts 708 to 719, inclusive) shall be included cash, those assets which are readily convertible into cash or are held for current use in operations, current claims against others and amounts accruing to the carrier which are subject to current settlement. There shall not be included in this group of accounts any item the collection of which is not reasonably assured by the known financial condition of the debtor. Items of current character but of doubtful value previously credited to operating revenue, operating expense or income accounts shall be written down or written off by charging those accounts. If there has been any impairment in value, such items shall be included in account 722, "Other deferred assets," at an amount not in excess of a reasonable estimate of future value. If it is desired to retain a record of assets written off they shall be recorded at a nominal value in account 722, "Other deferred assets."

§ 10.08–8 Joint liabilities. The accounting company shall state as a liability in its balance sheet the difference between the total par value of securities jointly or severally issued by it and others and the portion of such liability which, under the joint arrangement, it is expected will be liquidated by the other party or parties to the joint arrangement. The amount of the jointly or severally issued securities it is expected will be liquidated by the other party or parties shall be shown as a contingent liability in accordance with § 10.08–4 Contingent assets and liabilities.

§ 10.08–9 Surplus. Records shall be maintained in such manner as to show two major divisions of surplus:

1. Unearned surplus.
2. Earned surplus.

Unearned surplus and earned surplus shall be segregated and clearly differentiated, and no transfer shall be made from the former to the latter, either directly by credits to earned surplus representing gains on transactions in the accounting company's own capital stock, or indirectly by charges against unearned surplus to cover losses, write-downs, chargeoffs, or dividend distributions unless specifically allowed and approved by the Commission.

The carrier shall maintain account 784, "Unearned surplus"; account 785, "Earned surplus—appropriated"; and account 786, "Earned surplus—unappropriated." Surplus shall be segregated so far as practicable, into "Unearned surplus," "Earned surplus—appropriated," and "Earned surplus—unappropriated," and any unsegregated balance shall be included in a subaccount under account 786, "Earned surplus—Unappropriated."

GENERAL BALANCE SHEET ACCOUNTS

DEBIT

§ 10.701 Road and equipment property. This account, except in connection with the acquisition of transportation property as provided for in accounts 701½A, "Acquisition adjustment" and 702½B, "Donations and grants," shall include the acounting company's investment in road and equipment (including that held under contract for purchase), used or held for use as transportation property in existence at the date of the balance sheet.

When property is retired from service this account shall be credited with the ledger value of the property retired. (See § 10.01–6 Items to be credited.)

NOTE A: This account shall not include any items representing titles to securities.

NOTE B: When any equipment is acquired under an agreement which provides that the cost shall be paid in installments, the cost (its money value at time of purchase) shall be charged to the apropriate road and equipment accounts at the time the equipment is delivered to the carrier, and included in this account in the same manner as the cost of equipment purchased outright. When the par value of notes or other securities issued in payment, or in part payment, for such equipment is more (or less) than the actual cash value of the equipment at the time of the purchase, or of the proportion to which the securities are applicable, the difference between the par value of the securities and the actual cash value of the equipment, or of the proportion paid for by the securities, shall be charged (or credited) to the proper discount and premium accounts.

NOTE C: Held for use, as referred to above, implies the ability of the carrier to substantiate by plans or policy its characterization of the probable future use which is to be made of the property within a reasonable period of time.

§ 10.702 Improvements on leased property. This account, except in connection with the acquisition of transportation property as provided for in accounts 702½A, "Acquisition adjustment" and 702½B, "Donations and grants," shall include the cost of improvements made by the lessee to property which is held under lease from others or through control of the company owning the property, where such improvements are used by the lessee in transportation service, and the lessee is not to be reimbursed by the lessor for such improvements.

When the cost of improvements made by the lessee is to be refunded by the lessor periodically during the term of the lease agreement or at the termination thereof, and provided further that in the meantime the lessor company does not include the cost of such improvements in account 701, "Road and equipment property," the lessee shall include the cost thereof in this account.

When leased property is retired from service this account shall be credited with the ledger value of any improvements thereto the cost of which has been included in this account, and also with the amount representing the liability of the carrier to the lessor or owner for any property retired that has been used in transportation service and was held under lease or through control of the company owning the property.

The carrier's records shall be kept in such manner as to show the debits and credits to this account in accordance with the provisions for road and equipment.

NOTE A: This account shall not include any items representing titles to securities.

NOTE B: When the lessor company includes in account 701, "Road and equipment property," the cost of improvements made by the lessee to property leased by it from the lessor and settlement is not made at the time for the cost thereof, the lessee, pending settlement with the lessor, shall include the cost thereof in account 706, "Investments in affiliated companies," or 707, "Other investments," as may be appropriate.

§ 10.702½A Acquisition adjustment. This account shall be charged with the cost of a railway or portion thereof acquired since January 1, 1938, as an operating entity or system by purchase, merger, consolidation, reorganization, receivership sale or transfer, or otherwise. If the consideration or a part thereof given for the property acquired consists of securities issued by the accounting carrier, the cash value thereof for the purpose of determining the cost to be charged to this account shall be the sum of the par value of securities having par values and the stated or assigned values of no par securities as determined and approved by the Commission. Where the consideration given for the property acquired is other than cash or securities issued by the accounting carrier, such consideration shall be valued on a current cash basis.

The accounting for assets acquired and liabilities assumed shall then be as follows:

(a) Assets acquired, except property includible in accounts 701, "Road and equipment property," or 702, "Improvements on leased property," and liabilities assumed shall be recorded in their appropriate accounts in the manner provided for in classification of general balance sheet accounts.

(b) Property includible in primary road and equipment accounts 1 and $2\frac{1}{2}$ to 58, inclusive, and 72 to 77, inclusive, shall be recorded in those accounts at original cost or estimated original cost as found by the Bureau of Valuation.

(c) In the primary road and equipment account 2, there shall be recorded the original cost of lands owned by predecessor carrier or carriers at basic valuation date as reported under Valuation Order No. 7, dated November 21, 1914, and included in the Commission's basic valuation reports. Any lands so reported without cost except those donated shall be estimated by the accounting company, which will be subject to verification by the Bureau of Valuation. To this shall be added the cost at the time of dedication to public use of any lands acquired since the basic valuation date.

(d) In the primary road and equipment account 71, there shall be recorded the expenditures incident to the organization or reorganization of the accounting company.

(e) The money outlay expended by a predecessor carrier or carriers for additions and betterments to property leased from other companies whose physical properties are not included in the reorganization, shall be transferred to account 702, "Improvements on leased property," in the amounts recorded in that account on the books of the predecessor carrier or carriers.

(f) The amounts thus recorded in primary accounts 1 to 77, inclusive, shall be concurrently charged to balance sheet accounts 701, "Road and equipment property," or 702, "Improvements on leased property," as appropriate.

(g) Balances in accounts $702\frac{1}{2}$C, "Accrued depreciation—Road," $702\frac{1}{2}$D, "Accrued depreciation—Equipment," and 779, "Accrued depreciation—Leased property," carried on the books of the predecessor carrier or carriers as of the date of acquisition or reorganization shall be carried over and recorded in the respective accounts on the books of the accounting company. To the extent that a credit balance is available in this account, the accounting company shall credit account $702\frac{1}{2}$C, "Accrued depreciation—Road," and charge this account with the estimated amount by which the balance in account $702\frac{1}{2}$C, "Accrued depreciation—Road," appears to be deficient with respect to past accrued depreciation on depreciable road property included in account 701, "Road and equipment property."

(h) This account shall concurrently be debited or credited, as appropriate, to offset assets and liability items recorded in accordance with paragraphs (a) to (g), inclusive, of this section.

(i) To the extent that a credit balance is available in this count, if so authorized upon application to the Interstate Commerce Commision, retirement of nondepreciable property in existence at the date of acquisition or reorganization which is not replaced may be charged hereto if the loss is not assignable to operations subsequent to date of acquisition or reorganization. Other charges to this account may be made upon specific approval by the Commission.

NOTE: The accounting company shall be prepared to furnish the Interstate Commerce Commission with a full report of the contract of organization and a statement showing in detail the consideration given for the property acquired. It shall procure in connection with the organization all existing records, memoranda and accounts in possession or control of the grantor relating to construction and improvement of the property acquired and shall preserve such records, memoranda and accounts until authorized by law to destroy or otherwise dispose of them.

Where the records, memoranda and account are so involved with other records, memoranda and accounts of the grantor as to make this transfer impracticable, certified copies shall be procured and retained by the accounting company; the verity of the copies should be certified by the custodian of the originals.

§ 10.$702\frac{1}{2}$B Donations and grants. This account shall be credited with grants obtained from governmental agencies, and with donations from individuals and others in connection with the construction or acquisition of property the cost of which is chargeable to accounts 701, "Road and equipment property," and 702, "Improvements on leased property." (See "Cost," under paragraph (c) of § 10.01–2 Items to be charged.)

§ 10.$702\frac{1}{2}$C Accrued depreciation; road. (a) This account shall be credited with amounts concurrently charged to operating expenses or other accounts to cover the loss in service value of depreciable road property; also with any balance in account 776, "Accrued depreciation—Road and equipment," as of December 31, 1944, for depreciation of road property. It shall also include amounts which the Commission may authorize the accounting company to credit to account 607, "Miscellaneous credits," or charge to account 621, "Miscellaneous debits," or to account $702\frac{1}{2}$A, "Acquisition adjustment," in respect to past accruals of depreciation.

(b) At the time of the retirement of each unit of depreciable road property, this account shall be charged with the entire service value of the unit retired or minor item retired and not replaced.

(c) For balance sheet purposes, this account shall be treated as a single composite reserve for road property. However, for purposes of analysis, the accounting company shall maintain subsidiary records in which this reserve is broken down into components corresponding to the primary accounts for depreciable road property. These subsidiary records shall show the current debits and credits to this reserve by primary accounts. (See § 10.04–8 Depreciation accounting; road property.)

§ 10.$702\frac{1}{2}$D Accrued depreciation; equipment. (a) This account shall be credited with amounts concurrently charged to operating expenses or other accounts to cover the loss in service value of equipment; also with any balance in account 776, "Accrued depreciation—Road and equipment," as of December 31, 1944, for depreciation of equipment. It shall also include amounts which the Commission may authorize the accounting company to credit to account 607, "Miscellaneous credits," or charge to account 621, "Miscellaneous debits," or to account $702\frac{1}{2}$A, "Acquisition adjustment," in respect to past accruals of depreciation.

(b) At the time of the retirement of each unit of equipment this account shall be charged with the entire service value of the unit retired or minor item retired and not replaced.

(c) For balance sheet purposes, this account shall be treated as a single composite reserve for equipment. However, for purposes of analysis, the accounting company shall maintain subsidiary records in which this reserve is broken down into components corresponding to the primary accounts for equipment. These subsidiary records shall show the current debits and credits to this reserve by primary accounts. (See § 10.04–24 Depreciation accounting; equipment.)

(See also Note B to account $270\frac{1}{2}$.) This account shall be charged with the credit balance herein applicable to specific road property at the time the property is retired.

§ 10.703 Sinking funds. This account shall include the amount of cash, the ledger value of live securities of other companies, and other assets which are held by trustees of sinking and other funds for the purpose of redeeming outstanding obligations, including such assets so held in the hands of the accounting company's treasurer when the assets are segregated in a distinct fund; also amounts deposited with such trustees on account of mortgaged property sold the proceeds of which are to be held for the redemption of securities, and the par value or with respect to no par stock, the amounts recorded in account 751, "Capital stock," relating thereto, of live securities issued or assumed by the accounting company and held in such funds. A separate account shall be kept for each fund. The title of each such account shall designate the obligation in support of which the fund is created.

NOTE: In stating the balance sheet in the annual reports to the Commission the total amount of the funds and the par value or with respect to no par stock, the amounts recorded in account 751, "Capital stock," relating thereto, of securities issued or assumed by the accounting company and held in the funds shall be shown in the short columns, and the net amount of the funds (total amount less securities issued or assumed) shall be shown in the long column.

§ 10.704 Capital and other reserve funds. This account shall include the amounts of cash and the ledger value of other assets segregated for capital purposes other than sinking funds. A separate account shall be kept for each fund.

(a) The account shall be charged with:

(1) Funds that have been realized from the sale of equipment obligations and other long-term obligations and that have not been applied toward the specific purposes for which the obligations were incurred;

(2) Funds deposited with trustees to be held until mortgaged property sold is replaced;

NOTE: An appropriate record shall be maintained with respect to securities issued or assumed by the accounting company and held in the funds, identifying those that are nominally issued or nominally outstanding.

NOTE B: Funds specifically set aside for sinking fund purposes shall be included in account 703, "Sinking funds." If one purpose of a capital fund is to provide contributions to a sinking fund under specified conditions, the entire amount of the fund shall be included in this account until the contributions to the sinking fund are made, at which time the amounts thereof shall be transferred to account 703, "Sinking funds."

§ 10.$704\frac{1}{2}$ Maintenance funds. This account shall be charged with the amounts of cash on special deposit and the cost of United States Treasury securities that have been set aside to be held by the accounting company's treasurer until disbursed in settlement of charges incurred for deferred maintenance of way and structures and equipment due to priorities of material and supplies or shortage of labor, also charges incurred for major repairs to equipment that are usually made at intervals of several years.

It shall be credited with withdrawals therefrom as disbursements are made for the purposes for which the funds were set aside.

§ 10.705 Miscellaneous physical property. This account shall include the accounting company's investment in physical property other than property assignable to accounts 701 and 702, including hotels, restaurants, power plants, etc., which are not operated by the accounting company or another carrier in connection with its transportation service.

§ 10.707½ Reserve for adjustment of investment in securities. This account shall include the total of the balances in such reserves as are maintained by the accounting company for the purpose of providing for reductions in the value of securities owned and recorded in accounts 706, "Investments in affiliated companies," or 707, "Other investments." Corresponding charges shall be made to account 621, "Miscellaneous debits." (See paragraph (c) of § 10.08–5 Book value of securities owned.)

If reserves are maintained in provision for anticipated losses in specific securities, when the related assets are written down or written off, or are sold or otherwise disposed of at a loss, the reduction in the book value or the losses sustained shall be charged to this account to the extent of the credit balance in the account applicable to the particular securities involved, and the remainder, if any, shall be charged to account 621, "Miscellaneous debits." In case a general reserve for losses in unspecified security values is maintained, all such losses resulting from write-downs, write-offs, etc., shall be charged to this account to the extent of the total credit balance in the account, and the remainder, if any, shall be charged to account 621, "Miscellaneous debits."

NOTE A: When the net of the balances is a credit it shall be included in acount 759, "Traffic and car-service balances—Cr."

NOTE B: The amount to be entered in this account in the carrier's annual report to the Commission shall be stated in accordance with the text of this account. For convenience in accounting the carrier may maintain currently separate subaccounts under the following captions:

713 and 759 (a) Interline freight, balance.
713 and 759 (b) Interline passenger, balance.
713 and 759 (c) Interline baggage, balance.
713 and 759 (d) Equipment interchanged, balance.

§ 10.714 Net balance receivable from agents and conductors. This account shall include the net balance due in current accounts from agents, from train, sleeping car, and dining car conductors, and from train collectors, train auditors, porters, and other employees and representatives charged with the collection or custody of current revenues. (See § 10.08–7 Current assets.)

NOTE: Amounts advanced to general and special agents as working funds shall not be included in this account, but in account 720, "Working fund advances."

(See § 10.08–7 Current assets.)

§ 10.716 Material and supplies. This account shall include the balances representing the cost, less depreciation, if any, of all unapplied material, such as road and shop material, articles in process of manufacture by the accounting company, fuel, stationery, and dining car and other supplies. NOTE B: An inventory of material and supplies shall be taken during each calendar year and the necessary adjustments to bring this account into harmony with the actual inventory balances shall be made in the accounts of the year in which the inventories are taken. In effecting this adjustment determined differences in accounting for important classes of material shall be equitably assigned among the accounts to which the classes of material are ordinarily chargeable. Other differences shall be equitably apportioned among the primary accounts to which material has been charged since the last inventory.

§ 10.717 Interest and dividends receivable. This account shall include the amount of interest accrued to the date of the balance sheet on bonds owned and on loans made, the amount of dividends declared on stocks owned, and dividends accrued on such stocks when contracts require that the dividends be paid at stated times. NOTE C: If settlement of amounts included in this account is not made when due either in cash or with other tangible assets of equal money value, such amounts shall be cleared from this account and charged to the income account originally credited (subject to § 10.06–2 Delayed items). If notes are taken in settlements of amounts included in this account, the amounts thereof shall be charged to account 712, "Loans and bills receivable," or account 722, "Other deferred assets," as may be appropriate (see § 10.08–7 Current assets,) but such amounts shall not be credited to income (or if previously credited to income shall be cleared therefrom as provided in the first sentence of this note), unless inclusion therein is justified by the current asset position of the obligor. If such notes are of doubtful value, the amount at which they are charged to account 722, "Other deferred assets," in accordance with § 10.08–7 Current assets, shall be credited to account 778, "Other unadjusted credits," and income shall not be credited until payment is received, and then only with the amount collected. If long-term notes are taken in settlement of current assets, the credit to income shall be canceled and account 722, "Other deferred assets," shall be charged with their true values, and a like sum shall be credited to account 778, "Other unadjusted credits."

§ 10.718 Accrued accounts receivable. This account shall include estimates of all unaudited current items receivable by the carrier to the date of the balance sheet which are creditable to revenue, expense, or income accounts in accordance with § 10.02–2 Unaudited items affecting operating accounts, and § 10.06–3 Unaudited items. (See also § 10.08–7 Current assets.)

Examples, without limitation, of items to be accrued:

A separate account shall be kept for each fund.

NOTE A: Sinking funds and capital and other reserve funds are provided for in accounts 703 and 704, respectively.

NOTE B: In stating the balance sheet in the annual reports to the Commission the total amount of the funds and the par value or with respect to no par stock, the amounts recorded in account 751, "Capital stock," relating thereto, of securities issued or assumed by the accounting company and held in the funds shall be shown in the short columns, and the net amount of the funds (total amount less securities issued or assumed) shall be shown in the long column.

NOTE C: This account shall not include funds held by the accounting company solely as trustee and in which it has no beneficial interest.

§ 10.726 Property retired chargeable to operating expenses. This account is intended as a suspense account in which may be included amounts chargeable to operating expenses as follows:

(a) Amounts representing the service value of nondepreciable road property retired which are relatively so large that their inclusion in the accounts for a single year would distort those accounts. (See § 10.04–6 Distribution of charges for nondepreciable road property retired.)

(b) Amounts representing the service value of depreciable road property retired which are relatively so large that their inclusion in the depreciation reserve would result in unduly depleting the reserve. (See paragraph (k) of § 10.04–8 Depreciation accounting; road property.)

(c) Amounts representing the service value of equipment retired which are relatively so large that their inclusion in the depreciation reserve would result in unduly depleting the reserve. (See paragraph (f) of § 10.04–24 Depreciation accounting; equipment.)

(d) This account is to be used only after permission of the Commission has been asked and given. The carrier in its application to the Commission shall give full particulars concerning the property retired, the amount which it is proposed to charge to operating expenses, and the period over which, in its judgment, the amount of such charge shall be distributed.

§ 10.727 Other unadjusted debits. This account shall include the amount of debit balances in suspense accounts that cannot be cleared and disposed of until additional information is received, such as freight claims paid when found to be correct, but in advance of investigation with other carriers; debit balances in clearing accounts, such as "Shop expenses," "Store expenses," "Operations of gravel pits," and "Operation of quarries"; unextinguished discount on short-term notes; unadjusted debit items not otherwise provided for and similar items the proper disposition of which is uncertain.

This account shall be divided into:

(a) Stocks, and

(b) Bonds and other evidences of long-term debt, each of which divisions shall be further subdivided between:

(1) Amounts nominally but not actually issued, and

(2) Amount nominally outstanding.

NOTE A: The term "securities," as used in this account, includes all authorized certificates of stock and evidences of indebtedness which have been signed, sealed, and, when required, certified by the registrar or by the trustees under the mortgage or contract, and are not "short-term securities." By "short-term securities are meant those which are payable on demand or which mature not more than one year from date of issue. (See also Notes B to accounts 751 and 755.)

If such securities are subsequently pledged, they shall be included in account 729, "Securities issued or assumed—Pledged." (See § 10.08–2 Discount, premium, and assessment on capital stock, and § 10.08–3 Discount, expense, and premium on funded debt.)

§ 10.729 Securities issued or assumed; pledged. This account shall include the par value, or with respect to no par stock, the amounts recorded in account 751, "Capital stock," relating thereto, of securities issued or assumed by the accounting company that have been pledged as collateral security for any of its long-term debt or short-term loans.

This account shall be divided into:

(a) Stocks, and

(b) Bonds and other evidences of long-term debt, each of which divisions shall be further subdivided between:

(1) Amounts nominally but not actually issued, and

(2) Amounts nominally outstanding.

NOTE A: The term "securities" as used in this account includes all authorized certificates of stock and evidences of indebtedness which have been signed, sealed, and, when required, certified by the registrar or by the trustees under the mortgage or contract, and are not short-term securities. CREDIT

§ 10.751 Capital stock. This account shall include the total par value of par value stock, and the total amount paid in or the amount approved by the Commission for stock without par value, for all shares of capital stock or other form of proprietary interest in the accounting company which have been issued to bona fide purchasers and have not been reacquired and canceled, also shares of stock nominally issued, and reacquired shares which have not been canceled.

Appropriations of surplus which have been transferred to no par stock account shall also be included. The amount of the consideration received from the sale of par value stock in excess of the amount credited to this account shell be credited to account 753, "Premiums and assessments on capital stock."

When capital stock is retired or canceled, this account shall be charged with the amount at which such stock is carried in this account. In the case of no par stock the amount to be charged hereto shall be the proportion, applicable to the reacquired shares immediately prior to reacquisition, of the total book liability included herein of actually outstanding shares of the particular class and series of stock of which the reacquired shares are a part.

The amounts included in this account shall be recorded so as to show:

(a) Par value of shares of par value stock and amount paid in or approved by the Commission of shares of no par stock (pledged or unpledged) held in the company's treasury, by its agents or trustees, or otherwise subject to its control including shares nominally but never actually issued and

(b) Par value of shares of par value stock and amount paid in or approved by the Commission of shares of no par stock issued and actually outstanding, being the share not held by the company, its agents or trustees, or subject to its control.

The amounts included herein shall be further divided so as to show the amount of each class of stock issued, separated as between par value and nonpar value stock, as follows:

(1) Common stock. Stocks which have no preference over other issues of stock in distribution of dividends or of assets.

(2) Preferred stock. Stocks having preference over other issues of stock in distribution of dividends or of assets.

(3) Debenture stock. Stocks issued under a contract to pay a specified return at specified intervals.

(4) Receipts outstanding for installments paid. Receipts for payments on account of subscriptions to capital stock.

When the subscriber has paid his subscription in full and is entitled to receive certificates representing the shares for which he has subscribed, the par value of stocks having par value or the agreed purchase price or the price authorized by the Commission of stock without par value shall be included in the division appropriate for the class for which the certificates are issued.

Each of the above classes shall also be divided into subclasses according to differences in dividend or interest rights, voting rights, or conditions under which the securities may be retired.

NOTE A: When a general levy or assessment is made against the holders of capital stock, requiring the payment of any sum in addition to the consideration agreed upon at the time of sale, the amount collected upon such levy or assessment shall be credited to account 753, "Premiums and assessments on capital stock."

NOTE B: When capital stock having par value is exchanged for capital stock without par value any sums resting in account 753, "Premiums and assessments on capital stock," with respect thereto shall be cleared to account 751, "Capital stock," and any amounts resting in the discount account with respect thereto shall be cleared to subaccount 784.1, "Paid-in surplus"; Provided, however, That any excess over the amount of accumulated net gains applicable to the subclass exchanged included in paid-in surplus shall be charged to account 621, "Miscellaneous debits." (See § 10.08–2 Discount, premium, and assessment on capital stock.)

NOTE C: An appropriate record shall be maintained with respect to shares of capital stock showing the number of shares nominally issued, nominally outstanding, actually issued and actually outstanding.

NOTE D: For the purpose of the balance-sheet statement capital stock is considered to be "nominally issued" when certificates are signed and sealed and placed with the proper officer for sale and delivery, or pledged, or otherwise placed in some special fund of the accounting company. It is considered to be "actually issued" when it has been sold to a bona fide purchaser for a valuable consideration, and such purchaser holds it free from all control by the accounting company. All capital stock actually issued and not reacquired and held by or for the accounting company is considered to be "actually outstanding." If reacquired by or for the accounting company under such circumstances as required it to be considered as held alive and not canceled or retired, it is considered to be "nominally outstanding."

§ 10.752 Stock liability for conversion. This account shall include the company's liability under agreements to exchange its capital stock for the outstanding securities of companies whose physical property has been acquired under such agreements, but whose securities have not yet been surrendered for exchange.

§ 10.753 Premiums and assessments on capital stock. This account shall include the excess of the actual cash value (at the time of the sale of the stock) of the consideration received over the amounts recorded in account 751, "Capital stock," for par value stock plus accrued dividends, if any, also subsequent assessments against stockholders representing payments required in excess of par or other amounts recorded in account 751, "Capital stock," in accordance with the text of that account. (See § 10.08–2 Discount, premium, and assessment on capital stock.)

When capital stock is retired and canceled, the amount in this account with respect to the shares of such stock retired and canceled shall be charged hereto.

§ 10.754 Discount on capital stock. This account shall include discount suffered in the issuance and sale of capital stock. Record supporting the entries to this account shall be kept to show the discount suffered, if any, on such subclass of capital stock. (See § 10.08–2 Discount, premium, and assessment on capital stock.)

§ 10.755 Funded debt unmatured. There shall be included in this account the total par value of unmatured debt (other than equipment obligations), maturing more than one year from date of issue, issued by the accounting company and not retired or canceled, and the total par value of similar unmatured debt of other companies, the payment of which has been assumed by the accounting company.

The amounts included in this account shall be divided so as to show the par value of (1) certificates or other evidences of funded debt (pledged and unpledged) held in the company's treasury, by its agents or trustees, or otherwise subject to its control, including both those reacquired after actual issue and those nominally but never actually issued; and (2) certificates or other evidences of funded debt issued and actually outstanding, being those not held by the company, its agents or trustees, or subject to its control.

The amounts included herein shall be further divided so as to show the amount of each class of funded debt, as follows:

(a) Mortgage bonds. Bonds secured by lien on physical property and not includible in the other subdivisions of this account.

(b) Collateral trust bonds. Bonds and notes secured by a lien on securities or other negotiable paper; and stock trust certificates that are similar in character to collateral trust bonds.

(c) Income bonds. Bonds which are a lien on a carrier's revenue alone, or bonds which, while being a lien on its property and franchises, can claim payment of interest only in case interest is earned.

(d) Miscellaneous obligations. All funded obligations not provided for by the other subdivisions of this account, also notes, unsecured certificates of indebtedness, debenture bonds, plain bonds, real estate mortgages executed or assumed and other similar obligations maturing more than one year from date of issue, but excluding liabilities for assessments for public improvements and those evidenced by conditional or deferred equipment purchase contracts for which provision is made in account 770, "Other deferred liabilities," and account 756½, "Equipment obligations," respectively.

(e) Receipts outstanding for funded debt. Receipts for payments on account of funded debt. When certificates are issued for amounts so paid, the par value shall be included in the account covering the class of funded debt for which the certificates are issued.

Each of the above classes shall also be divided into subclasses according to differences in mortgage or other lien or security therefor, rate of interest, interest dates, or date of maturity. Parts of any issue agreeing in other characteristics but maturing serially may be treated as of the same subclass.

Records shall be maintained in such manner as to show (1) securities the issuance or assumption of which has been authorized by the Commission under section 20a of the Interstate Commerce Act, and similar securities issued or assumed prior to the effective date of that provision of the act, and (2) other obligations of a kind which may legally be issued or assumed without such authorization.

NOTE A: Securities (other than equipment obligations) maturing one year or less from date of issue shall be included in accounts 757, "Amounts payable to affiliated companies," or 758, "Loans and bills payable," except that where an issue of securities maturing serially over a period of years contains short-term obligations such obligations may be included as funded debt. Matured funded debt shall be included in account 768, "Other current liabilities" if provision has been made for current settlement. If no provision has been made for current settlement, matured funded debt shall be included in account 755½, "Debt in default" except that when the collection of matured funded debt of affiliated companies is not enforced by controlling companies, the principal amount (to the extent held by a controlling company) shall be included in account 757, "Amounts payable to affiliated companies."

NOTE B: For the purposes of the balance-sheet statement funded debt securities are considered to be "nominally issued" when certified by trustees and placed with the proper officer for sale and delivery, or pledged, or otherwise placed in some special fund of the accounting company. They are considered to be "actually issued" when they have been sold to a bona fide purchaser for a valuable consideration, and such purchaser holds them free from all control by the accounting company. All funded debt securities actually issued and not reacquired and held by or for the accounting company are considered to be "actually outstanding." If reacquired by or for the accounting company under such circumstances as require them to be considered as held alive and not canceled or retired, they are considered to be "nominally outstanding."

NOTE C: Nonnegotiable notes having a maturity of more than one year after date of issue, held by affiliated companies, shall be included in account 757, "Amounts payable to affiliated companies."

NOTE D: In the general balance-sheet statement the total unmatured funded debt included in the account shall be shown in the first short column. The amount nominally but not actually issued and the amount nominally outstanding shall be shown in the second short column, and in the long column shall be shown the amount actually outstanding.

§ 10.755½ Debt in default. This account shall include amounts transferred from other accounts representing matured funded securities or obligations, receivers' and trustees' securities, equipment obligations and short-term notes, when maturity dates of such obligations have not been extended.

NOTE A: The principal amount of matured funded debt of affiliated companies the collection of which is not enforced by the controlling company shall (to the extent of the principal amount held by the controlling company) be included in account 757, "Amounts payable to affiliated companies."

NOTE B: The principal amount of unpresented funded debt obligations which have matured, and for which provision has been made for payment shall be included in account 768, "Other current liabilities."

§ 10.756 Receivers' and trustees' securities. When receivers or trustees acting under the orders of a court are in possession of the property of the company, and under the order of such court issue or assume evidences of indebtedness (other than equipment securities or obligations) the par value of such evidences shall be credited to this account.

NOTE: The par value of equipment securities or the principal amount of obligations incurred for the purchase of equipment under conditional or deferred payment contracts shall be included in account 756½, "Equipment obligations."

§ 10.756½ Equipment obligations. This account shall include the par value of equipment securities and the principal amount of contractual obligations including those maturing serially or payable in installments over a period of more than one year.

The amounts included herein shall be divided as follows:

(a) Principal amount of equipment securities including those maturing serially, issued or assumed by the accounting company or by receivers and trustees, which have been authorized by the Commission under section 20a of the Interstate Commerce Act and similar securities issued or assumed prior to the effective date of that provision of the act.

(b) Principal sums of obligations for equipment purchased under conditional or deferred payment contracts, which may be legally entered into or assumed by the accounting company or by receivers and trustees, without authorization by the Commission.

NOTE: Amounts included in this account which are payable within one year from the date of the balance sheet shall be shown in a footnote thereto.

§ 10.757 Amounts payable to affiliated companies. This account shall include the par value of nonnegotiable notes issued to affiliated companies, matured funded debt of affiliated companies held by controlling companies where there is no agreement for an extension as to time of payment and collection of the principal is not enforced, credit balances in open accounts with such companies other than credit balances in current accounts classable as current liabilities, and interest accrued on notes, matured funded debt of affiliated companies and open accounts included in this account, when such interest is not subject to current settlements.

This account shall be divided:

(a) Notes, including herein not only nonnegotiable notes that run longer than a term of one year, but also such notes payable on demand or within one year from the date of issue when it is mutually agreed that the notes shall not be enforced as current assets by the holder.

(b) Par value of mature funded debt of affiliated companies held by controlling companies where there is no agreement for an extension of time and collection is not enforced.

(c) Open accounts not subject to current settlement.

(d) Interest accrued on amounts included in this account when not subject to current settlements.

NOTE A: Accounts with affiliated companies which are subject to current settlements, such as traffic and car-service balances, charges for material and supplies currently furnished, charges for repairs to equipment, etc., shall be classed as current assets or current liabilities, as may be appropriate.

NOTE B: No item shall be included in this account which is not known to be the property of an affiliated company.

NOTE C: The term affiliated companies includes:

1. Controlled companies, including companies solely controlled by the accounting company, and also companies jointed controlled by the accounting company and others under a joint arrangement.

2. Controlling companies, including both companies solely controlling the accounting company, and companies which jointly control the accounting company under a joint arrangement.

3. Companies controlled by controlled companies.

4. Companies controlled by controlling companies.

By "control" is meant the ability to determine the action of a corporation. For the purposes of this account, the following are to be considered forms of control:

(a) Right through title to securities issued or assumed to exercise the major part of the voting power in the controlled corporation.

(b) Right through agreement of some character or through some source other than title to securities, to name the majority of the board of directors, managers, or trustees of the controlled corporation.

(c) Right to foreclose a first lien upon all or a major part in value of the tangible property of the controlled corporation.

(d) Right to secure control in consequence of advances made for construction of the operating property of the controlled corporation.

(e) Right to control only in a specific respect the action of the controlled corporation.

A leasehold interest in the property of a corporation is not to be classed as a form of control over the lessor corporation.

"Sole control" is that which rests in one corporation.

"Joint control" is that which rests in two or more corporations and which is held under a joint arrangement.

§ 10.758 Loans and bills payable. This account shall include the balances representing obligations outstanding in the form of loans and bills payable or other similar evidences (except interest coupons) of indebtedness payable on demand or within a time not exceeding one year from date of issue.

This account shall be kept in such form so as to show separately the amounts of notes payable within one year from date of issue that are secured by collateral.

NOTE. This account shall not include obligations which mature more than one year after date of issue, or demand or short-term notes issued to affiliated companies and includible in account 757, "Amounts payable to affiliated companies."

§ 10.759 Traffic and car-service balances—Cr. This account shall include the net of the balances receivable from or payable to other companies in the accounts representing interline freight, passenger, and baggage revenues, and charges for equipment interchanged on a per diem or a mileage basis, when such balances result in a net credit.

NOTE A: When the net of the balances is a debit it shall be included in account 713 "Traffic and car-service balances—Dr."

NOTE B: The amount to be entered in this account in the carrier's annual report to the Commission shall be stated in accordance with the text of this account. For convenience in accounting the carrier may maintain currently separate subaccounts under the following captions:

§ 10.761 Miscellaneous accounts payable. This account shall include outstanding drafts drawn by station agents, outstanding drafts drawn on the company in settlement of freight claims, conductors' refund and extra-fare checks not presented for redemption, deposits of affiliated companies subject to current settlement, taxes collected from employees and others for the account of taxing agencies, and other items of the nature of demand liabilities not covered by accounts 758, 759, 760, 762, and 763.

NOTE: The amount to be reported under this account is not the net balance between this account and account 715, "Miscellaneous accounts receivable."

§ 10.762 Interest matured unpaid. This account shall include the amount of matured and unpaid interest on funded debt, and other obligations of the accounting company for which provision has been made for current settlement.

NOTE A: Interest accrued which is not paid when it matures shall be included in account 769½, "Interest in default," unless provision has been made for current settlement. Where interest is in default, subsequent accruals shall be credited direct to account 769½, "Interest in default."

NOTE B: Interest accrued on amounts recorded in account 757, "Amounts payable to affiliated companies," and not subject to current settlement, shall be included in that account.

Rents payable under leases due subsequent to the date of the balance sheet which are not includible in account 761, "Miscellaneous accounts payable."

Amounts payable to others for services for which bills have not been rendered.

NOTE: Do not include in this account the carrier's estimate of liability in respect of injuries to persons and loss and damage claims. Such estimated liability shall be credited to account 778, "Other unadjusted credits."

§ 10.767 Taxes accrued. This account shall be credited with the accruals of all taxes which have been concurrently charged to the appropriate income or other accounts for taxes. Such accruals may be based upon estimates, provided such estimates shall be adjusted so as to reflect in this account at all times the carrier's estimate of its unpaid liability for each of the several classes of taxes which have not been finally settled.

Vouchers for the current payment of taxes, including taxes for which accruals have not been made previously, shall be charged to this account. Taxes paid in advance shall also be charged to this account.

The records supporting the entries in this account shall be kept to show separately by classes of taxes the amount of the tax accruals for the current year and adjustments of accruals for prior years.

§ 10.768 Other current liabilities. There shall be included in this account the principal amount of unpresented bonds drawn for redemption through the operation of sinking and redemption fund agreements, also the principal amount of unpresented funded debt obligations, and receivers' and trustees' securities which have matured (for which provision has been made for current settlement), and other current liabilities not covered by accounts 758 to 767, inclusive.

§ 10.769 Liability for provident funds. This account shall include the ledger balances representing the liability of the accounting carrier for the amount of the assets (whether contributed by the company, by the employees, or by others) in the hands of its treasurer or of trustees or managers acting for it in the administration of employees' pension, savings, relief, hospital, and other association funds.

NOTE A: This account shall not include items representing funds in which the accounting company has no beneficial interest and which it holds purely as trustee.

NOTE B: In stating the balance sheet in the annual reports to the Commission, the liability for provident funds which are carried in the current cash of the company shall be included under current liabilities, in account 761, "Miscellaneous accounts payable."

§ 10.769½ Interest in default. This account shall include the amount of matured and unpaid interest (for which no provision has been made for current settlement) on all indebtedness issued or assumed by the accounting company except interest which is added to the principal of the debt on which incurred. Where interest is in default, subsequent accruals shall be credited direct to this account.

§ 10.770 Other deferred liabilities. This account shall include items of deferred liabilities not covered by accounts 769 and 769½ such as assessments for public improvements payable over a period longer than one year; retained percentages due contractors to be paid upon completion of contracts; deposits for construction of side tracks to be refunded on basis of an agreed portion of the earnings from the traffic handled over the tracks, and other similar items.

NOTE: The amount of assessments for public improvements, if payments are to be made within one year, shall be included in account 768, "Other current liabilities."

§ 10.772 Premium on funded debt. This account shall include the total of the net credit balances in the discount, expense, and premium accounts for the several sub-classes of funded debt. (See § 10.08–3 Discount, expense, and premium on funded debt.)

§ 10.773 Insurance reserves. This account shall include the net credit balance in the accounts to which are credited insurance premiums concurrently charged to operating expenses to cover self-carried risks on fire, fidelity, boiler, casualty, burglar, and other insurance, and to which are charged losses sustained on items protected by such insurance.

§ 10.773½ Equalization reserves. This account shall include ledger balances representing reserves created by charges to operating expenses for maintenance of road and equipment, in accordance with § 10.04–19 Equalization of maintenance expenses. The debit or credit balances in this account shall be closed at the end of each calendar year to the accounts through which they were created.

§ 10.774 Maintenance reserves. This account shall be credited with amounts systematically reserved by accruals to maintenance of way and structures and maintenance of equipment for deferred maintenance and major repairs to equipment in accordance with § 10.04–25 Deferred maintenance, and major repairs to equipment.

When the maintenance work for which provision was made has been performed, the cost of such repairs shall be charged, according to the nature of the repairs to the appropriate primary accounts under maintenance of way and structures and maintenance of equipment. Concurrently this account shall be cleared to the extent that provision has been made herein for such repairs through the accounts originally charged therewith.

NOTE: To the extent that provision is made in this account for deferred maintenance and major repairs to equipment an amount of cash equal thereto shall be deposited in a special account or invested in United States Treasury securities and included in account 704½, "Maintenance funds."

§ 10.778 Other unadjusted credits. This account shall include the amount of credit balances in suspense accounts that cannot be cleared and disposed of until additional information is received, such as amounts received from sales of mileage tickets, to be disposed of as mileage is honored; amounts received from sales of as coupons are honored; interchangeable mileage credential ticket redemption funds; amounts collected from the sale of damaged, unclaimed and overfreight held pending claim; estimated liability for injuries to persons and loss and damage claims; credit balances in clearing accounts, such as "Shop expenses," "Store expenses," "Operating gravel pits," and "Operating quarries"; estimated revenue overcharges such as those covered by reclamation claims or by claims of Governmental departments for the application of land-grant rates instead of commercial rates; unadjusted credit items not otherwise provided for and similar items, the proper disposition of which is uncertain.

NOTE: With respect to injuries to persons and loss and damage claims, if the settlements when audited are charged to this account the balances for each year shall be kept separately until all items have been adjusted and cleared, but, if the settlements when audited are charged to the appropriate expense accounts the balance in this account shall be adjusted through the appropriate expense accounts so as to reflect the probable liability at the close of each year.

§ 10.779 Accrued depreciation; leased property. This account shall be credited with amounts concurrently charged to operating expenses or other accounts to cover the estimated accrued depreciation on leased road and equipment when settlements between the accounting company and the lessor are not made currently. (See § 10.05–2 Leased road and equipment; depreciation.) It shall also be credited with depreciation accrued on property the cost of which is included in account 702, "Improvements on leased property." When leased property for which accruals have been included in this account is retired from service, the entire service value of property the cost of which has been charged to account 702 by the lessee and the service value of property, the ledger value of which is carried in account 701, "Road and equipment property," by the lessor for which the lessee is liable to the lessor shall be charged to this account.

§ 10.784 Unearned surplus. This account shall include all surplus arising from sources other than those classable under profit and loss and earned surplus accounts or other balance sheet accounts for which specific provision is made. Subaccounts shall be maintained as follows:

(See § 10.08–2 Discount, premium, and assessment on capital stock.)

§ 10.784–2 Other unearned surplus. This subaccount shall include unearned surplus, as above defined, arising from sources other than those enumerated under subaccount 784.1.

§ 10.785 Earned surplus; appropriated. This account shall include the total of the net balances of appropriations of income and earned surplus for the acquisition of capital assets; the retirement of debt; sinking and redemption funds; and all other appropriations specifically set aside in the hands of trustees as well as appropriations held in general funds for which no specific investment or segregation of assets has been made. It shall also include accretions to the assets held in such special funds. (See income account 552, "Income applied to sinking and other reserve funds.")

A subdivision of this account shall be maintained by classes of appropriations, the titles of which shall indicate the purpose for which the appropriations were made.

§ 10.786 Earned surplus; unappropriated. This account shall include the net balance (debit or credit) of the amounts included in accounts 601 to 621, inclusive. It shall not include transfers either to or from account 784, "Unearned surplus," unless so authorized upon application to the Commission.

The balance of all profit and loss accounts (601 to 621, inclusive) shall be closed into this account at the end of each calendar year.

§ 10.790 Form of general balance-sheet statement. The classified form of general balance-sheet statement is designed to show the financial condition of the accounting company at any specified date.

HANDLING OF LEMONS GROWN IN CALIFORNIA AND ARIZONA

NOTICE OF HEARING ON PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO MARKETING AGREEMENT AND ORDER

Pursuant to the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and in accordance with the applicable rules of practice and procedure (7 CFR and Supps. 900.1 et seq.; 11 F. R. 7737; 12 F. R. 1159), notice is hereby given of a public hearing to be held at Room 212, United States Court House, First Avenue and Van Buren Street, Phoenix, Arizona beginning at 10:00 a. m., P. s. t., August 4, 1947 and continued in Room 324, Federal Building, Los Angeles, California beginning at 10:00 a. m., P. s. t., August 7, 1947.

Such hearing is to be held, on the application of the California Fruit Growers Exchange, Los Angeles, California, for the purpose of receiving further evidence with respect to all aspects of the proposed amendments, set forth in the notice of hearing (11 F. R. 13219) dated November 1, 1946, to the marketing agreement and Order No. 53 (7 CFR Cum. Supp., 953.1 et seq.), regulating the handling of lemons grown in the States of California and Arizona, which were considered at a public hearing held at Los Angeles, California, on December 3, 4, and 5, 1946, which hearing is hereby reopened to that extent. The public hearing commencing on August 4, 1947, is also for the purpose of receiving evidence with respect to economic or marketing conditions relating to all aspects of additional proposed amendments, to the said marketing agreement and order, as hereinafter set forth, and appropriate modifications thereof.

The proposed amendments have not received the approval of the Secretary of Agriculture.

The matters as to which the prior hearing is reopened are as follows:

1 to 11, inclusive. All of the proposals set forth in the notice of hearing (11 F. R. 13219) dated November 1, 1946.

Additional proposals submitted by the California Fruit Growers Exchange, Los Angeles, California:

12. Add to section 4 of the marketing agreement and § 953.4 of the order the following new paragraph "o":

(o) There are hereby established two separate prorate districts for lemons, designated as follows:

District 1—consisting of the entire California lemon production area except that portion in District 2.

District 2—consisting of the entire Arizona lemon production area, and Imperial County, California, and that part of Riverside County, California, South and East of the San Gorgonio Pass.

The regulatory provisions of this section shall be applied independently within each of said districts. In determining and recommending to the Secretary the portion of the total weekly allotment of lemons to be allocated to each of such districts, the following factors shall be considered by the committee: the comparative marketing seasons and marketing practices of the two districts, the relative maturity of the fruit in the two districts throughout the current lemon season, the relative susceptibility or nonsusceptibility to storage of lemons in the two districts, the total quantity of lemons which can be shipped fresh during the normal marketing period of each of said districts, and the market opportunities for lemons throughout the season.

The Fruit and Vegetable Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, has proposed that consideration be given to such other changes in the provisions of the marketing agreement and order as may be necessary to make the entire marketing agreement and order conform with the proposed amendments contained in this notice of hearing.

Copies of this notice of hearing may be obtained from the Hearing Clerk, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., or from the Fruit and Vegetable Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, 1206 Santee Street, Los Angeles, California.

HANDLING OF MILK IN CINCINNATI, OHIO, MARKETING AREA

DECISION WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED MARKETING AGREEMENT AND PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO ORDER

Pursuant to Public Act No. 10, 73d Congress (May 12, 1933), as amended and as reenacted and amended by the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C., 601), (hereinafter referred to as the "act"), and the rules of practice and procedure governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR, Supps., 900.1, et seq., 11 F. R. 7737, 12 F. R. 1159), a public hearing was held at Cincinnati, Ohio, on March 3, 1947, pursuant to the notice thereof which was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on February 27, 1947 (12 F. R. 1397), upon certain proposed amendments to the order, as amended, and to a proposed marketing agreement regulating the handling of milk in the Cincinnati, Ohio, marketing area.

Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, the Assistant Administrator, Production and Marketing Administration, on June 10, 1947 filed with the Hearing Clerk, United States Department of Agriculture, his recommended decision in this proceeding. The notice of the filing of such recommended decision and opportunity to file written exceptions thereto was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER June 13, 1947 (12 F. R. 3865).

The material issues presented on the record of the hearing were:

(1) How and to what extent, if any, should the level of the price differential for Class I milk above the basic Class III milk price be changed;

(2) How and to what extent, if any, should the level of the price differential for Class II milk above the basic Class III milk price be changed;

(3) Establishing a lower price for Class III milk disposed of as butter; and

(4) Revising the manner of computing the value of milk for each handler so that the average price (blend of Class I, Class II, and Class III milk values) for any handler can never exceed the price for Class I milk.

Findings and conclusions. The findings and conclusions herein set forth together with the reasons therefor are, on the basis of the hearing record, as follows:

(1) The Class I price differential over the basic Class III price should be revised to provide a seasonal pattern, including floor prices, and an increase in the annual average level of the differential.

General economic conditions and business activity in the Cincinnati area indicate a continued good demand for milk and milk products.

The prices of livestock and grains have advanced sharply in 1947 and compared to declining milk prices offer returns from alternative farm enterprises which will tend to discourage milk production if these price relationships continue over an extended period of time.

Cincinnati handlers compete with milk buyers in other areas for supplies to be used for fluid milk purposes. Several condenseries also buy milk from farmers residing in or near the Cincinnati milkshed. The record is replete with references to the keen competition for milk between the Cincinnati and the Dayton-Springfield areas. The price relationship between these two areas shows historically that the Cincinnati price has been somewhat higher.

The Cincinnati basic or Class III price is derived from the prices paid dairy farmers by five named nearby Ohio, Indiana, and Kentucky condenseries and is different from the basic formula price used in a number of competing fluid milk markets. The basic formula price used in the Dayton-Springfield, Columbus, Tri-State, and Louisville markets is derived from the prices paid dairy farmers by eighteen named Wisconsin and Michigan condenseries. On a hundredweight basis for milk containing 3.5 percent butterfat the Cincinnati basic price averaged 22 cents lower for 1945 and 19 cents lower for 1946 than the basic price used in the above-named markets. Thus after giving consideration to other price-making factors found in varying degrees in this group of neighboring markets the Cincinnati Class I differential must be about 20 cents per hundredweight above the others to be on a comparable basis and keep the resulting Class I prices in line.

More rigid enforcement of the Cincinnati Health Department Regulations has resulted in producers having to use costly mechanical milk refrigerators. The regulations requiring farmers to deliver cold milk have come about over a period of years. Handlers originally offered premiums for milk of special quality which was usually produced under mechanical refrigeration. About the time of the war emergency the Health Department announced that it would require all milk to be delivered to the Cincinnati fluid milk market at or below a temperature of 60 degrees. This requirement was not enforced because mechanical refrigerators were unobtainable and the effective date requiring cold milk has been extended from time to time. The record indicates that as of May 1, 1947, the requirement would be enforced. Handlers and producer associations have procured great numbers of refrigerators for their producers and will continue until all producers are so equipped. The premium paid for mechanically cooled milk has gradually declined over several years to a level of approximately 10 cents per hundredweight. It would appear that this amount has been the minimum incentive necessary to induce producers to incur the added cost of cooling milk mechanically up to the time they were required to do so by health department regulations.

The trend of the cost of feeds, labor, and supplies incurred by farmers in the production of milk has been upward during 1946 and 1947. The price of some feeds decreased somewhat from the peak reached when ceilings were removed in 1946 until February 1947. During February and March of 1947 the price of dairy feeds advanced sharply and established a new upward trend. Attempting to find an index that will reflect many milk price-making factors, the order provides for a basic Class III price which is the price paid for manufacturing milk by a selected group of condenseries in the Cincinnati territory. The basic Class III price does not, however, reflect fully all the factors necessary to arrive at a price for Class I milk. The order, therefore, provides a differential that is added to the basic Class III price to arrive at the Class I price. This differential is utilized to reflect various price-making factors not fully covered by the basic Class III price and to balance the relative weights of such factors under current local economic conditions, so that the Class I price will be at a level which will reflect, in addition to the price and availability of feeds, other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the marketing area and will insure an adequate supply of pure and wholesome milk and be in the public interest. Farmers producing milk for fluid purposes must use feed, labor and supplies more extensively to maintain production at a more uniform and high level than is required of manufacturing milk producers. Consequently, the increases in the prices which have taken place in these items affect the fluid milk producers more than producers of milk for condenseries. The trend of basic Class III price is downward and has decreased 54 cents from November 1946 to January 1947, the last price quoted in the record.

The level of production of regular producer milk has been insufficient to meet the needs of Class I milk and Class II milk in the Cincinnati market. It has been necessary for handlers to supplement their supplies of producer milk in Class I and Class II with substantial quantities of milk from other sources usually of a lower quality standard than producer milk.

Furthermore, there has been a maladjustment in the supply of regular producer milk in relation to the demand for Class I and Class II milk in the Cincinnati market. The utilization of Class I milk and Class II milk has been relatively uniform throughout the year; whereas the receipts of milk from producers vary among the seasons of the year. The variation in the receipts of producer milk between the flush production season and the short production season has become progressively wider for several years. Production varies seasonally to such an extent that in 1946 the production for November was only 57 percent of that for June. The cost of producing milk is considerably higher during the fall and winter months than during the months of April, May, June, and July. Recent price plans employed in the Cincinnati area have not provided as great a seasonal variation in producer prices as was customary prior to the maximum price regulations effective during the war emergency. For this period of time farmers were urged to produce all the milk possible with little regard to the season or the requirements of their local fluid milk market. Under these conditions, maximum milk production shifted to the spring months when production costs were at their lowest level. To halt and reverse this trend, especially at a time when general milk market conditions are unsettled, will require a guarantee that the fall and winter prices are to be substantially higher than spring prices. Absolute floor prices for the 1947–48 season in conjunction with a Class I price differential employing a seasonal pattern, from a long time standpoint, will give this assurance. If the basic Class III formula produces a higher price for these fall and winter months, it should prevail as a further guarantee that the Class I price will be more in line with the then current marketing conditions. The record indicates the need of a seasonal Class I price differential which would be 30 cents more for the eight months of August through March than for the four months of April through July. Normally, the basic Class III price is about 20 to 40 cents higher for the months of short production. Also normally, the percentage utilization of producer milk for fluid purposes is higher during the fall and winter months, resulting in about a 10 to 20 cent higher blend price compared to the flush production season. Adding these three factors together, it is estimated that the blend price for the short production months will exceed that for the flush production months by about 60 to 90 cents.

Handlers, in their brief proposing certain findings, contend that, on the basis of the record, the present class price differentials should be lowered, but because of the uncertainties in the market conclude no changes should be made in the class prices for milk at the present time. These very uncertainties in market conditions are the best argument for changing the price-making patterns to one calculated to stabilize the fluid milk market as much as possible during the post-war realignment of dairy prices and other commodity prices. Aside from this the other heretofore mentioned price-making factors warrant a revision of the pricing plan.

It is concluded that the weighing of the above-mentioned price-making factors indicates the need for revising the level of the Class I price differential upward about 10 cents per hundredweight on an annual average. It is further concluded that the milk producers of the Cincinnati area need at this time, when they are planning their fall and winter production program, more definite assurance as to the level of milk prices than is presently afforded by the basic Class III price. In order to obviate uncertainty inherent in the basic Class III price during abnormal postwar marketing conditions, a floor price for Class I milk is established below which the price will not be permitted to go. The level of floor prices for the fall and winter months should be substantially higher than the prices prevailing during May and June to emphasize the seasonal factor of milk pricing and assure farmers of higher prices during the season when an increase in milk production is most needed by the market. A Class I floor price beginning July 1, 1947, of $4.80 and increasing to $5.24 beginning September 1, 1947 (approximately 1 cent per quart below December 1946) will recognize this seasonality and result in prices well above the current level of May and June prices. These changes are accomplished by revising the present year-around Class I price differential of $1.15, over the basic Class III price, to the seasonal pattern of $1.05 for the four months of April through July and $1.35 for the eight months of August through March (annual average $1.25); Provided, That for the months of July and August, 1947, the price for Class I milk shall not be less than $4.80 and for the months of September, October, November, and December, 1947, such price shall not be less than $5.24: And provided further, That the Class I price for January 1948 shall not be less than the December 1947 Class I price minus $0.44 and that the February 1948 Class I price shall not be less than the January 1948 Class I price minus $0.44.

Handlers, in their exceptions to the recommended decision, contended that the price differentials are actually increased over 20 cents per hundredweight on an annual average. As applied to price differentials, specifically, this statement is not mathematically correct. However, a computation included with the above exceptions produced such a result by basing the computation on condensery price forecasts (not in the record) through March 1948, and (2) use of floor prices to arrive at price differentials when, if the condensery price forecasts were correct, such floor prices would prevail. Such a computation commingles the factors of floor prices, which have been designed to insure minimum seasonality for a limited period, with the factors of price differentials, which have been employed to accomplish seasonality over a long term, and indicates that the exceptions are more concerned with actual price levels than with price differentials. In this connection the handlers' exceptions stated that, with the floor of $5.24 (for Class I milk), handlers will have to pay much more for milk in 1947–48 than they did in 1946–47. The record shows that the average of prices for Class I milk actually paid by handlers in the Cincinnati marketing area during the months of September 1946 through March 1947 was $5.242. The floor prices, as well as price differentials, have been designed to accomplish seasonality in the pricing plan and, on an annual basis, do not exceed producers' proposals, as was stated in the handlers exceptions. Such prices have been calculated to afford a better alignment with neighboring markets and, subsequently, on the basis of a hearing held on May 7–9, 1947, revisions of the Dayton prices are being considered.

(2) The Class II milk price differential over the basic Class III prices should be revised to provide a seasonal price pattern, including floor prices, and an increase in the annual average level of the differential. The relationship between the present Class I and Class II differentials should be maintained month by month in the revised seasonal class pattern and in the floor prices.

The material factors with reference to revising the Class II price differential over the basic formula price to a seasonal pattern and a higher annual average level and the floor prices are the same as those set forth with respect to Class I.

(3) A lower price for Class III milk disposed of as butter should not be established at this time.

During the heavy production months some milk received in excess of Class I and Class II requirements is disposed of as butter (Class III) by some handlers. When milk is disposed of as butter, the skim milk is normally processed into a by-product. All handlers are not equipped to process condensed skim milk. Some handlers contend that the Class III price is too high for milk disposed of as butter unless the skim milk is salvaged. Handlers not equipped to process skim milk normally sell it to handlers so equipped. The record shows that sufficient sugar would be unavailable for handlers to process the anticipated amount of skim milk during the flush production season of 1947 unless the rationing plan was revised to make more sugar available for condensing milk.

The evidence introduced in support of this proposal was promised primarily on a reasonable price for milk made into butter without making an allowance for the value of the skim milk. The evidence fails to show a basis for lowering the price of Class III milk when made into butter and sugar is available for the manufacture of condensed skim milk or other manufacturing outlets for skim milk are available. The testimony offered in support of this proposal indicated that any lower price for Class III milk made into butter should apply only for the months of April, May, and June. Inasmuch as an amendment to the order cannot be made effective for such period in 1947 and the record fails to show sufficiently that such conditions may be anticipated in the future, and for the other foregoing reasons it is concluded that a lower price for Class III milk disposed of as butter should not be established at this time.

(4) The manner of computing the value of milk for each handler should not be changed at this time.

A proposal was made to revise the manner of computing the value of milk for each handler so that the average price (blend of Class I, Class II, and Class III milk values) for any handler can never exceed the price for Class I milk.

While on its face this proposal might seem reasonable, it completely overlooks the fact that the method of computing the value of milk for a handler was adopted, on the basis of prior hearing records, so that under certain conditions the composite price will exceed the Class I price. The proposal ignores the fact that under the present plan of classification a handler's composite price would normally exceed the Class I price when—(a) most of the butterfat used in the lower classes is so-called "differential fat," (b) considerable milk from undisclosed sources is used to replace producer milk, (c) there is a decided "overrun" (sales exceed purchases) or (d) sizable upward classification changes are made through audit corrections. This proposal could not be adopted without disrupting or nullifying the particular method of classifying milk and computing price employed by the Cincinnati order unless a complete revision of the plan is made. The record is inadequate for this purpose and for this reason it is concluded that no revision should be made in the manner of computing the value of milk for a handler.

The recommended decision containing rulings on the proposed findings and conclusions submitted by interested parties in this proceeding. Such findings are confirmed, except as modified, by the findings and conclusions set forth herein. Exceptions were led on behalf of certain handlers subject to Order No. 65 with respect to certain of the findings and conclusions contained in the recommended decision. With regard to the exceptions filed by handlers to certain findings and conclusions in the recommended decision, such exceptions do not make reference to specific amendments, but with reference to the principal issues raised therein, this decision contains a ruling thereon in the discussion of the material issue to which the exception refers. Such other exceptions of a general, specific, or implied nature are hereby denied. Exceptions were also raised by certain individuals (mostly Cincinnati, Ohio, residents) to the general effect that the proposed actions will increase the prices paid to producers, and that, in turn, will cause increases in the prices charged the consumers which will decrease milk consumption. The exceptions take no cognizance of the fact that there is a shortage of inspected milk, requiring the importation of emergency milk, and that it is necessary to encourage the producers to increase the supply of pure and wholesome milk, especially in the fall and winter months. Also, it is heretofore concluded that the prices proposed to be fixed are in accordance with the standards and objectives fixed by the act and are in the public interest. Such exceptions are, therefore, denied.

(4) General. (a) The proposed marketing agreement and the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended and all of the terms and conditions thereof will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(b) The proposed marketing agreement and order, as amended and as hereby proposed to be further amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in the said tentatively approved marketing agreement upon which the hearing has been held; and

(c) The prices calculated to give milk produced for sale in the said marketing area a purchasing power equivalent to the purchasing power of such milk as determined pursuant to sections 2 and 8 (e) of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply of and demand for such milk, and the minimum prices specified in the proposed marketing agreement and order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest.

Order,[1] Amending the Order, as Amended, Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Cincinnati, Ohio, Marketing Area

§ 965.0 Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to Public Act No. 10, 73d Congress (May 12, 1933), as amended and as reenacted and amended by the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (hereinafter referred to as the "act"), and the rules of practice and procedure covering the formulation of marketing agreements and orders (7 CFR, Supps. 900.1 et seq., 11 F. R. 7737, 12 F. R. 1159), a public hearing was held upon certain proposed amendment to the tentatively approved marketing agreement and to the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Cincinnati, Ohio, marketing area. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(a) The said order as amended and as hereby further amended, and all of the terms and conditions of said order, as amended, and all of the terms and conditions of said order, as amended and as hereby further amended, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(b) The prices calculated to give milk produced for sale in said marketing area a purchasing power equivalent to the purchasing power of such milk as determined pursuant to sections 2 and 8 (e) of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supplies of and demand for such milk, and the minimum prices specified in the order are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest; and

(c) The said order, as amended and as hereby further amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in a marketing agreement upon which hearings have been held.

The foregoing findings are supplementary and in addition to the findings made in connection with the issuance of the aforesaid order and the findings made in connection with the issuance of each of the previously issued amendments thereto; and all of said previous findings are hereby ratified and affirmed except insofar as such findings may be in conflict with the findings set forth herein.

Order relative to handling. It is therefore ordered that on and after the effective date hereof, the handling of milk in the Cincinnati, Ohio, marketing area shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the terms and conditions of the aforesaid order, as amended, and as hereby further amended; and the aforesaid order, as amended, is hereby further amended as follows:

1. Delete § 965.6 (a) (1) and substitute therefor the following:

(1) The price for Class I milk shall be the price for Class III milk plus $1.05 for the delivery periods of April through July and $1.35 for the delivery periods of August through March: Provided, That for the delivery periods of July and August, 1947, the price for Class I milk shall not be less than $4.80 and that for the delivery periods of September, October, November, and December, 1947, such price shall not be less than $5.24: And provided further, That the Class I price for January 1948 shall not be less than the December 1947 Class I price minus $0.44 and that the February 1948 Class I price shall not be less than the January 1948 Class I price minus $0.44.

[Docket No. G-912]

INTERSTATE NATURAL GAS CO., INC.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION

JUNE 27, 1947.

Notice is hereby given that on June 16, 1947, Interstate Natural Gas Company, Inc. (Applicant), a Delaware corporation, having its principal office in Monroe, Louisiana, filed an application with the Federal Power Commission pursuant to section 7 of the Natural Gas Act, as amended, for authority to abandon and remove a certain portion of its natural-gas facilities, subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission, described as follows:

Approximately 1.63 miles of 10.75-inch pipe in the second from the upstream line across the Mississippi River, near Natchez, Mississippi, beginning at the main line header in Section 20, Township 7 North, Range 10 East, Concordia Parish, Louisiana, and ending at the main line header in Section 56, Township 7 North, Range 3 West, Adams County, Mississippi.

Applicant states in its application that the line proposed to be abandoned will be removed in part, and the balance abandoned in its present location. The portion to be removed is that portion from the main line header to the waters edge in Concordia Parish, Louisiana, and that portion of pipe from the main line header to the waters edge in Adams County, Mississippi. Applicant wishes to reclaim this portion of the pipeline for use elsewhere on Applicant's system. The portion to be abandoned in place is that portion of the pipe from waters edge to waters edge in the river bed. Applicant further states in its application that the portion of line proposed to be abandoned has been out of service since December 19, 1944, at which time it was broken by a Navy vessel weighing anchor and that this portion of line cannot be repaired economically.

Applicant, further states that there will not be any loss of service by reason of the abandonment and removal of this pipe, and that its main transmission system has a capacity of 170,000 Mcf per 24 hours. Applicant estimates that a total daily volume of 122,000 Mcf of gas will be available to it under peak conditions from the Monroe Field, the Vixen Field, Caldwell Parish, Louisiana, and the Carthage Point Field, Adams County, Mississippi. In addition, Applicant anticipates that other quantities of gas will be available from other fields recently developed adjacent to Applicant's main transmission system, such as the Holly Ridge field in Tensas Parish, Louisiana, and that in this way Applicant will be able to meet any demand expected to be made on the main transmission system and thus the original delivery capacity of 170,000 Mcf per 24 hours can be maintained.

Applicant estimates that the cost of removing a portion of the 1.63 miles of pipe is $5,327.65. The estimated total original installed cost of the materials to be retired is $67,185.49; and, the estimated total value of saleable material is $11,236.43.

Any interested State commisison is requested to notify the Federal Power Commission whether the application should be considered under the cooperative provisions of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, and if so, to advise the Federal Power Commission as to the nature of its interest in the matter and whether it desires a conference, the creation of a board, or a joint or concurrent hearing, together with the reasons for such request.

The application of Interstate Natural Gas Company, Inc., is on file with the Commission and is open to public inspection. Any person desiring to be heard or to make any protest with reference to the application shall file with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D. C., not later than fifteen days from the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER, a petition to intervene or protest. Such petition or protest shall conform to the requirements of the rules of practice and procedure (effective September 11, 1946), and shall set out clearly and concisely the facts from which the nature of the petitioner's or protestant's alleged right or interest can be determined. Petitions for intervention shall state fully and completely the grounds of the proposed intervention and the contentions of the petitioner in the proceeding, so as to advise the parties and the Commission as to the specific issues of fact or law to be raised or controverted, by admitting, denying, or otherwise answering specifically and in detail, each material allegation of fact or law asserted in the proceeding.

MEMPHIS NATURAL GAS CO.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION

JULY 1, 1947.

Notice is hereby given that on June 17, 1947, Memphis Natural Gas Company (Applicant), a Delaware corporation having its principal place of business at Memphis, Tennessee, and authorized to do business in the States of Louisiana, Arkansas, Mississippi and Tennessee, filed an application for a certificate of public convenience and necessity pursuant to section 7 of the Natural Gas Act, as amended, authorizing the construction and operation of the following:

(a) One 1,200 h. p. gas compressor unit at its Lula, Mississippi compressing station.

(b) One 1,200 h. p. gas compressor unit at its Benoit, Mississippi compressing station.

(c) One 1,200 h. p. gas compressor unit at its Wilmot, Arkansas compressing station.

(d) One 14-inch O. D. submarine pipe line across the Mississippi River near Greenville, Mississippi to replace one 10-inch line lost by changing river currents.

Applicant states that the present maximum pipe line flow capacity, excluding gas for company use, is 159,954 Mcf. Applicant estimates peak day requirements of 185,000 Mcf for the 1947-1948 winter season. The proposed facilities will increase the capacity by 25,046 Mcf. Applicant states that the 14-inch submarine pipeline crossing is needed to replace a 10-inch crossing which has been lost by changing river currents.

Applicant estimates the over-all capital cost of the facilities totals $654,323, of which not more than $500,000 will be borrowed from banks at a probable rate of interest of 2¼%.

Any interested State commission is requested to notify the Federal Power Commission whether the application should be considered under the cooperative provisions of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure and, if so, to advise the Federal Power Commission as to the nature of its interest in the matter and whether it desires a conference, the creation of a board, or a joint or concurrent hearing, together with reasons for such request.

The application of Memphis Natural Gas Company is on file with the Commission and is open to public inspection. Any person desiring to be heard or to make any protest with reference to the application shall file with the Federal Power Commission, Washington, D. C., not later than fifteen days from the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER, a petition to intervene or protest. Such petition or protest shall conform to the requirements of the rules of practice and procedure (effective September 11, 1946), and shall set out clearly and concisely the facts from which the nature of the petitioner's or protestant's alleged right or interest can be determined. Petitions for intervention shall state fully and completely the grounds of the proposed intervention and the contentions of the petitioner in the proceeding so as to advise the parties and the Commission as to the specific issues of fact or law to be raised or controverted, by admitting, denying, or otherwise answering, specifically and in detail, each material allegation of fact or law asserted in the proceeding.

[Docket No. G-915]

UNITED GAS PIPE LINE CO.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION

JULY 1, 1947.

Notice is hereby given that on June 19, 1947, United Gas Pipe Line Company (Applicant), a Delaware corporation with its principal place of business at Shreveport, Louisiana, and authorized to do business in the States of Alabama, Florida, Louisiana, Mississippi, and Texas, filed an application for a certificate of public convenience and necessity pursuant to section 7 of the Natural Gas Act, as amended, authorizing the construction and operation of approximately 33 miles of 20-inch natural gas transmission line extending from the outlet side of Applicant's gasoline plant in the Carthage Field, Panola County, Texas, in a northwesterly direction to a point at or near the terminus of the 24-inch natural gas transmission line of Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation (Texas Eastern) near the City of Longview, Gregg County, Texas, together with approximately 9 miles of 10-inch lateral transmission line to connect with the gasoline plant of Lone Star Gas Company in said Carthage Field and necessary appurtenant facilities. Said 20-inch line is proposed to be interconnected with said 24-inch line of Texas Eastern as well as with the existing transmission system of Applicant in the vicinity of Longview, Texas.

Applicant states that the proposed pipeline will be used to reenforce and augment the delivery capacity of its present Dallas District System west of Longview, Texas, to make more gas available for delivery in the Dallas area, where a deficit presently exists, to transport for, as well as to sell and deliver natural gas to Texas Eastern. The application recites that the estimated maximum daily delivery capacity of the proposed facilities will be approximately 230,000 Mcf with a pressure of 800 pounds at the point of delivery to Texas Eastern. Applicant estimates that the maximum day demand for 1947–48 on these facilities will be 155,000 Mcf, of which 100,000 Mcf will be sold to Texas Eastern, 25,000 transported for Texas Eastern from the Gasoline Plant of Lone Star Gas Company, and 30,000 Mcf to be delivered into Applicant's Longview West System.

Applicant estimates that the total over-all capital cost of the proposed facilities is $1,730,000. In order to finance its 1947 construction including construction covered by this application, Applicant will either (1) borrow from its parent, United Gas Corporation, and issue unsecured notes for the amount of such borrowing, or (2) sell bonds to its parent, United Gas Corporation, in accordance with Applicant's mortgage and Deed of Trust dated September 25, 1944.

Any interested State commission is requested to notify the Federal Power Commission whether the application should be considered under the cooperative provisions of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure and, if so, to advise the Federal Power Commission as to the nature of its interest in the matter and whether it desires a conference, the creation of a board, or a joint or concurrent hearing, together with reasons for such request.

The application of United Gas Pipe Line Company is on file with the Commission and is open to public inspection. Any person desiring to be heard or to make any protest with reference to the application shall file with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D. C., not later than fifteen days from the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER, a petition to intervene or protest. Such petition or protest shall conform to the requirements of the rules of practice and procedure (effective September 11, 1946), and shall set out clearly and concisely the facts from which the nature of the petitioner's or protestant's alleged right or interest can be determined. Petitions for intervention shall state fully and completely the grounds of the proposed intervention and the contentions of the petitioner in the proceeding so as to advise the parties and the Commission as to the specific issues of fact or law to be raised or controverted, by admitting, denying, or otherwise answering, specifically and in detail, each material allegation of fact or law asserted in the proceeding.

MIDLAND UNITED CO.

NOTICE OF FILING OF APPLICATION

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the City of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, on the 30th day of June 1947.

Notice is hereby given that an application has been filed with this Commission pursuant to section 5 (d) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act") by Hugh M. Morris, formerly Surviving Trustee of the Estate of Midland United Company, for an order under said act finding that he has ceased to be a holding company.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than July 15, 1947, at 5:30 p. m., e. d. s. t., request the Commission in writing, that a hearing be held on such matter, stating the reasons for such request, the nature of his interest and the issues of fact or law raised by said application which he desires to controvert, or may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 18th and Locust Streets, Philadelphia 3, Pennsylvania. At any time thereafter, such application, as filed or as amended, may be granted.

All interested persons are referred to said application which is on file in the office of this Commission for a complete statement of the matters contained in such application, which may be summarized as follows:

On or about December 1, 1935, Hugh M. Morris and John N. Shannahan, as Trustees of the Estate of Midland United Company, a corporation in reorganization under section 77B of the Bankruptcy Act in the United States District Court for the District of Delaware ("Court"), filed a notification of registration under section 5 (a) of the act. On February 9, 1939, an amendment to such notification of registration was filed in which it was suggested that John N. Shannahan had died on August 16, 1938, and that Hugh M. Morris thereby became the sole Surviving Trustee of the Estate of Midland United Company. A joint modified plan of reorganization for Midland United Company, and its subsidiary, Midland Utilities Company, filed pursuant to section 11 (f) of the act and Chapter X of the Bankruptcy Act, was confirmed by the Court on April 7, 1945, and has since been consummated. On May 25, 1945, Hugh M. Morris, pursuant to an order of the Court, divested himself of all right, title, and interest in and to all assets held by him as Trustee. As a result of such action taken by him, applicant states that he does not own, control, or hold with power to vote, directly or indirectly, 10% or more of the outstanding voting securities of a public utility company or a holding company. In addition, pursuant to an order of the court, Hugh M. Morris has been discharged as Surviving Trustee of the Estate of Midland United Company. Accordingly, applicant requests that the Commission find and declare by order that Hugh M. Morris, as Surviving Trustee of the Estate of Midland United Company, has ceased to be a holding company.

By the Commission.

KENTUCKY UTILITIES CO. ET AL.

ORDER MODIFYING PREVIOUS ORDER PERMITTING SIMPLIFICATION OF HOLDING COMPANY SYSTEM

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the City of Philadelphia, Pa., on the 1st day of July A. D. 1947.

In the matter of Kentucky Utilities Company, Old Dominion Power Company, and The Middle West Corporation, File No. 70-1520.

The Commission, on June 16, 1947, issued its memorandum findings and opinion and order granting and permitting to become effective, subject to certain conditions, joint applications-declarations, as amended, filed pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935, by The Middle West Corporation ("Middle West"), a registered holding company, Kentucky Utilities Company ("Kentucky"), a subsidiary of Middle West, and Old Dominion Power Company ("Dominion"), a subsidiary of Kentucky, regarding a proposed recapitalization of Kentucky and Dominion and related transactions (see Holding Company Act Release No. 7489). Such transactions included the issue and sale by Kentucky, at competitive bidding pursuant to Rule U-50, of bonds and preferred stock, the acquisition by Middle West of shares of the common stock of Kentucky, and the acquisition by Kentucky of shares of the common stock of Dominion.

Amendments to said applications-declarations were filed by the applicants-declarants which set forth the action taken by Kentucky to comply with the requirements of Rule U-50 and which requested that said order of June 16, 1947 be modified to conform to the requirements of sections 371, 372, 373, and 1808 (f) of the Internal Revenue Code, as amended.

The Commission thereafter, on June 25, 1947, issued a supplemental order approving the action taken by Kentucky pursuant to Rule U-50, subject to certain conditions, and reserving jurisdiction with respect to the request for modification of said order of June 16, 1947 (see Holding Company Act Release No. 7515).

There is presently pending before the Commission proceedings instituted pursuant to sections 11 (b) (1) and 11 (b) (2) with respect to Middle West and Kentucky and certain other subsidiaries of Middle West (see Holding Company Act Release No. 6010).

Applicants-declarants now have submitted additional information with respect to the request for modification of said order of June 16, 1947, and the Commission has considered the record relevant to such request and finds that the proposed investment by Middle West of funds in the common stock of Kentucky and the proposed investment of funds by Kentucky in the common stock of Dominion are appropriate steps toward the simplification of the holding company system of Middle West, and that it is appropriate to modify said order June 16, 1947 in certain respects to conform with the requirements of sections 371, 372, 373 and 1808 (f) of the Internal Revenue Code, as amended.

It is therefore ordered, That the order of this Commission issued on June 16, 1947 in the above matter be, and hereby is, modified by adding thereto the following paragraph:

It is further ordered and recited, That the following transactions are necessary or appropriate to the simplification of the holding company system of The Middle West Corporation and to effectuate the provisions of section 11 (b) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935:

(1) The issue, upon original issue, and the sale by Kentucky Utilities Company to The Middle West Corporation for cash at par of 1,049,689 additional shares of Common Stock of Kentucky Utilities Company of the par value of $10 per share in accordance with the terms of this order;

(2) The expenditures by The Middle West Corporation for 457,972.46 shares of the said 1,049,689 shares of Common Stock of Kentucky Utilities Company of (a) $1,465,714.43, being the amount received by The Middle West Corporation from the sale of 57,226 shares of the par value of $10 each of Common Stock of Michigan Gas and Electric Company and from the redemption by Michigan Gas and Electric Company of 4,878 shares without par value of its $6 Non Par Prior Lien Stock held by The Middle West Corporation, and (b) $2,613,760.17, being the amount received by The Middle West Corporation from the sale of 146,923 shares without par value of common stock of Northern Indiana Public Service Company, and (c) $500,250, being the amount received by The Middle West Corporation from the sale of 9,000 shares without par value of $3 Cumulative Preferred Stock of Copper District Power Company; and

(3) The issue by Old Dominion Power Company to Kentucky Utilities Company of 60,193 shares of common stock of the par value of $25 per share in accordance with the terms of this order.

By the Commission.

Men absent under orders from their station upon duty which involves travel and also temporary detentions during the journey shall be deemed to be traveling under orders during the entire period of such absence including the day of departure therefrom and return thereto. For periods of detention in excess of thirty-one days at any one place, the allowances prescribed in Part I, A, above shall be applicable.

F. Payments of allowances for quarters and subsistence may be made to enlisted men not more than one month in advance, except that as to men proceeding to or from a station beyond the continental limits of the United States or in Alaska, such payments may be made not more than three months in advance. The heads of the departments concerned may prescribe such additional regulations as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this paragraph.

Such per diem allowances shall be uniform for all the services. The heads of the departments concerned may prescribe such additional regulations as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this Part, such regulations to be uniform to the fullest extent practicable.

Any such enlisted man, although receiving an allowance for quarters in a non-travel status prescribed by Parts I or II above, shall be entitled to an additional money allowance for quarters if by reason of orders of competent authority his dependent is prevented from dwelling with him, such additional money allowance for quarters to be paid at the rate prescribed in Part I A 1 above: Provided, that notwithstanding any other provisions herein contained enlisted men on duty ashore, or on ships assigned home ports, outside the continental limits of the United States or in Alaska, who are otherwise entitled to a money allowance for quarters for dependents shall be paid such money allowance at the rate prescribed in Part I A 1 above when their dependents have not established a residence in the locality of their respective permanent station or home port as determined under regulations prescribed by the head of the department concerned.

This order shall supersede Executive Order No. 9386 of October 15, 1943, as amended by Executive Order No. 9561 of June 1, 1945; Executive Order No. 9741C of June 29, 1946; and Executive Order No. 9825 of January 30, 1947, and shall be effective from July 1, 1947 until June 30, 1948 unless sooner modified or revoked.

PART 953—LEMONS GROWN IN CALIFORNIA AND ARIZONA

DETERMINATION RELATIVE TO BUDGET OF EXPENSES AND FIXING OF RATE OF ASSESSMENT FOR 1946-47 FISCAL YEAR

On December 11, 1946, the Secretary of Agriculture approved (11 F. R. 14451) the rate of assessment for the 1946-47 fiscal year under Marketing Agreement No. 94 and Order No. 53 (7 CFR, Cum. Supp., 953.1 et seq.), regulating the handling of lemons grown in the State of California or the State of Arizona. Such approval was given after consideration of all relevant matters presented, including the proposals set forth in the notice of proposed rule making which was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on November 19, 1946 (11 F. R. 13596). One of the factors considered as a basis for the approved rate of assessment was that interstate shipments of lemons for the 1946-47 fiscal year would, according to the estimate of the Lemon Administrative Committee (established pursuant to the marketing agreement and order), aggregate 7,850,000 boxes. It has become necessary, since that time, to revise such estimate to 7,240,000 boxes.

Section 3 of the marketing agreement and § 953.3 of Order No. 53 provide that at any time during a fiscal year the Secretary may increase the rate of assessment in order to secure sufficient funds to cover any later finding by the Secretary relative to the expenses of the aforesaid committee. Such increase shall be applicable to all lemons handled during the fiscal year.

Pursuant to the provisions of such marketing agreement and order and on the basis of available information, it is hereby found that the necessary expenses to be incurred by the Lemon Administrative Committee for its maintenance and functioning during the fiscal year beginning on November 1, 1946, and ending on October 31, 1947, both dates inclusive, will amount to $90,500.00.

It is, therefore, ordered, That the provisions in paragraph (a) of § 953.201 Budget of expenses and rate of assessment for the 1946-47 fiscal year (11 F. R. 14451) are hereby amended to read as follows:

(a) The expenses necessary to be incurred by the Lemon Administrative Committee, established pursuant to the provisions of the aforesaid marketing agreement and order, for the maintenance and functioning, during the fiscal year beginning on November 1, 1946, and ending on October 31, 1947, both dates inclusive, of such committee will amount to $90,500.00, and the rate of assessment to be paid, in accordance with the aforesaid marketing agreement and order, by each handler who first handles lemons shall be one and one-quarter cents ($0.0125) per box of lemons, or an equivalent quantity of lemons, handled by him as the first handler thereof during said fiscal year; and such rate of assessment is hereby approved as each such handler's pro rata share of the aforesaid expenses.

Compliance with the notice, public rule making procedure, and effective date requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act (60 Stat. 237; Pub. Law 404, 79th Cong.) is impracticable, unnecessary, and contrary to the public interest in that: (1) the rate of assessment is applicable, pursuant to the marketing agreement and order, to all lemons handled during the fiscal year beginning on November 1, 1946, and ending on October 31, 1947, both dates inclusive; (2) the expenses of operating this regulatory program since November 1, 1946, have been paid, in accordance with the applicable provisions of the marketing agreement and order, with funds representing assessments collected on the basis of the rate of assessment approved on December 11, 1946 (11 F. R. 14451); (3) a substantial operating deficit now exists which must be liquidated at the earliest possible date so that current operations may be carried on satisfactorily; (4) sufficient funds also must be provided, as soon as possible, to cover all current expenses and to provide a reserve for contingencies; and, inasmuch as the heaviest lemon shipments of the season occur in the summer months and assessments are much easier to collect at time of shipment than at some future date, (5) it is essential that the specification of the amended assessment rate be issued immediately in order for the amended regulatory assessments to be collected so as to enable the Lemon Administrative Committee to perform its duties and functions under the aforesaid marketing agreement and order.

(48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.; 7 CFR, Cum. Supp., 953.1 et seq.)

Acting Secretary of Agriculture.

PART 962—FRESH PEACHES GROWN IN GEORGIA

DETERMINATION RELATIVE TO BUDGET OF EXPENSES AND THE FIXING OF THE RATE OF ASSESSMENT FOR THE 1947–48 FISCAL PERIOD

Notice was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (12 F. R. 3538), dated May 30, 1947, that the consideration was being given to proposals regarding the budget of expenses and the fixing of the rate of assessment for the 1947–48 fiscal period under the marketing agreement and Order No. 62 (7 CFR, Cum. Supp., 962.1 et seq.), regulating the handling of fresh peaches grown in the State of Georgia. This regulatory program is effective under the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended. After consideration of all relevant matters presented, including the proposals set forth in the aforesaid notice which were submitted by the Industry Committee (established pursuant to said marketing agreement and order), it is hereby found and determined that:

§ 962.201 Budget of expenses and rate of assessment for the 1947–48 fiscal period. The expenses necessary to be incurred by the Industry Committee, established pursuant to the provisions of the aforesaid marketing agreement and order, to enable such committee to perform its functions, in accordance with the provisions of the aforesaid marketing agreement and order, during the fiscal period beginning March 1, 1947, and ending on the last day of February 1948, both dates inclusive, will amount to $21,672.00, and the rate of assessment to be paid, in accordance with the aforesaid marketing agreement and order, by each handler who first handles peaches shall be eight mills ($0.008) per bushel basket of peaches (net weight 50 pounds), or its equivalent of peaches in other containers or in bulk, shipped by him as the first shipper thereof during said fiscal period; and such rate of assessment is hereby approved as each such handler's pro rata share of the aforesaid expenses.

It is hereby further found and determined that compliance with the 30-day effective date requirement of the Administrative Procedure Act (Pub. Law 404, 79th Cong.; 60 Stat. 237) is impracticable, unnecessary, and contrary to the public interest in that (1) regulations with respect to shipments of peaches have been in effect since June 5, 1947; (2) a large volume of the Georgia peach crop is handled by itinerant truckers and cash buyers who operate in the area only part of the season; and (3) in order for regulatory assessments to be collected, especially from those handlers who do not have definite or established places of business in the production area, it is essential that the specification of the assessment rate be issued immediately so as to enable the said Industry Committee to perform its duties and functions under said marketing agreement and order.

As used herein, the terms "handler," "shipped," "peaches," and "fiscal period" shall have the same meaning as is given to each such term in the said marketing agreement and order.

(48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.; 7 CFR, Cum. Supp., 962.5)

Acting Secretary of Agriculture.

Opinion Accompanying General Order 8

Section 1 (b) of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, provides that as to offenses committed or rights or liabilities incurred on or before June 30, 1947, the provisions of the Emergency Price Control Act and all regulations, orders, price schedules and requirements issued thereunder shall be treated as remaining in force for the purpose of sustaining any proper suit, action, or prosecution with respect to any such right, liability or offense.

Executive Order 9841 transferred to the Secretary of Agriculture all powers with respect to price control over rice which had been vested in the Price Administrator.

In order to carry out the mandate of section 1 (b) of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, with respect to rice, it is necessary to require the preservation until June 30, 1948, of all records and documents pertaining to rice which were required to be kept on or before June 30, 1947. The accompanying order requires the continued preservation of such records.

[3d Rev. RO 3,[1] Amdt. 59]

SUGAR

A rationale for this amendment has been issued simultaneously herewith and has been filed with the Division of the Federal Register.

Third Revised Ration Order 3 is amended in the following respects:

1. Section 26.4 (a) is amended to read as follows:

(a) Industrial users. Any checks, valid for the delivery of sugar as provided in section 26.3, received by an industrial user must be endorsed on the back and may be transferred to his supplier for the delivery of sugar or, if such user has been authorized to transfer ration evidences to another person for industrial use under the provisions of section 8.8, such checks may be transferred as authorized under that section.

2. Section 26.4 (b) is amended to read as follows:

(b) Wholesalers. A wholesaler who receives checks, valid for the delivery of sugar as provided in section 26.3, from an industrial user must keep such checks as part of his records as required by section 5 of General Ration Order 20.

3. Section 26.4 (c) is amended to read as follows:

(c) Primary distributors. A primary distributor who receives checks, valid for the delivery of sugar as provided in section 26.3, from an industrial user must keep such checks as part of his records as required by section 5 of General Ration Order 20.

4. The second sentence of section 26.6 is amended to read as follows:

However, no more than six checks may be issued in exchange for such check except that in the case of a multiple registration, six checks may be issued for each establishment registered to such

5. Section 26.7 is redesignated section 26.8 and a new section 26.7 is added to read as follows:

SEC. 26.7 Industrial user who fails to close out his bank account by June 11. (a) Any industrial user who did not close out his ration bank account by June 11, 1947 in accordance with the provisions of section 26.2, may draw a check payable to the Sugar Rationing Administration for the balance in his account less outstanding checks and surrender such check, together with a letter stating that the check is one closing out his ration bank account and the reason why his ration bank account was not closed out within the time specified in section 26.2, to the Sugar Branch Office. The Sugar Branch Office, if it finds that such industrial user does have a ration bank account and that such account has not been closed, will authorize the issuance of a check or checks to such industrial user for the amount of the balance in his account less outstanding checks.

This amendment shall become effective July 8, 1947.

NOTE: The record-keeping requirements of this order have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

Issued this 8th day of July 1947.

[SEAL] N. E. DODD,
Acting Secretary of Agriculture.

Rationale Accompanying Amendment No. 59 to Third Revised Ration Order 3

This amendment will permit industrial users who receive checks issued by the Sugar Rationing Administration to either transfer such checks to another person for industrial use under the provisions of section 8.8 or to his supplier for the delivery of sugar.

This amendment also provides that in case an industrial user who has a combined registration, wishes to exchange a Sugar Rationing Administration check for checks in smaller denominations, he may receive not more than six checks for each establishment registered together. The previous limitation of only one check for each establishment registered together did not permit such establishment to acquire sugar in accordance with its general business practice. The issuance of not more than six checks for each establishment registered together will more adequately provide for the purchase and delivery of sugar by each establishment.

This amendment also sets up a procedure to be followed by an industrial user who failed to close out his bank account by June 11 in accordance with the provisions of section 26.2. Such industrial user may draw a check payable to the Sugar Rationing Administration for the balance in his account and surrender such check, together with a letter stating that the check is one closing out his ration bank account and the reason why his ration bank account was not closed out within the time specified to the Sugar Branch Office. The Sugar Branch Office will issue a check to such industrial user in exchange for the check surrendered by such user.

SUGAR

A rationale for this amendment has been issued simultaneously herewith and has been filed with the Division of the Federal Register.

Third Revised Ration Order 3 is amended in the following respect:

1. Section 26.8 is redesignated section 26.9, and a new section 26.8 is added to read as follows:

SEC. 26.8 Procedure to be followed if delivery of sugar cannot be made to an industrial user who has a credit balance with a supplier. (a) If an industrial user has deposited ration evidences with a retailer or wholesaler for the delivery of sugar and a delivery of sugar for all or part of the amount of such ration evidences cannot be or is not made by the retailer or wholesaler, the industrial user may request a refund of all or part of his credit balance. After such request has been made, the retailer or wholesaler must send a letter signed by such retailer or wholesaler to the D.V.I. Center covering his area stating as follows:

(1) Amount of the refund requested by the industrial user;

(2) Name and address of the industrial user requesting such refund;

(3) Amount of credit owing to such industrial user;

(4) That the supplier is deducting the amount of the refund requested from the credit balance of such industrial user;

(5) The name and address of the retailer or wholesaler.

The D. V. I. Center will issue a check payable to the industrial user for the amount of the refund requested and will notify the retailer or wholesaler that the check in the amount requested, has been issued to the industrial user.

(b) If an industrial user has deposited ration evidences with a primary distributor and a delivery of sugar for all or part of the amount of such evidences cannot be or is not made by the primary distributor, the primary distributor, upon request of the industrial user, may transfer a check issued by the Sugar Rationing Administration to the industrial user for all or part of the credit balance owing to such industrial user. Before such check is transferred, the primary distributor must fill in the name and address of the industrial user as payee and must endorse it by writing his name on the back of such check. In order to obtain Sugar Rationing Administration checks which may be used for the purpose of refund or as change under the provisions of this paragraph the primary distributor must apply in writing to the D. V. I. Center covering his area stating the number of checks of each denomination required (checks will be issued in denominations of 100,000 pounds, 10,000 pounds, 1,000 pounds and 100 pounds) and the amount of credit owing to industrial users he has on his books. The D. V. I. Center will issue the number of checks and in the denominations requested: Provided, however, That in no event shall the total amount issued exceed 50% of the total industrial user credit balance owed by such primary distributor. The name and address of the payee of such checks will be left blank to be filled in by the primary distributor in accordance with the provisions of this paragraph. The primary distributor must send a report once a week to the D. V. I. Center stating the number of checks, the amount of each check and the name and address of the industrial user to whom such checks have been transferred by the primary distributor during that week.

This amendment shall become effective July 8, 1947.

NOTE: The reporting and record-keeping requirements of this amendment have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

Issued this 8th day of July 1947.

[SEAL] N. E. DODD,
Acting Secretary of Agriculture.

Rationale Accompanying Amendment No. 60 to Third Revised Ration Order 3

This amendment sets up a procedure to be followed if delivery of sugar cannot be made to an industrial user who has a credit balance with a supplier. Cases have arisen where a supplier is unable to deliver sugar at the time and in the amount requested by an industrial user who has a credit balance with such supplier. It is necessary, therefore, to provide some method whereby the industrial user may be able to obtain a refund of all or part of the credit balance which he has with a supplier who is unable to deliver sugar to him so that he may acquire sugar from some other supplier.

If a retailer or wholesaler, who owes ration credits to an industrial user, is unable to deliver sugar to such industrial user, such retailer or wholesaler must, upon request for a refund of such credit by the industrial user, write a letter to the Distribution, Verification and Issuance Center of the Sugar Rationing Administration stating the amount of the refund requested by the industrial user, the name and address of the industrial user requesting such refund, the amount of credit owing to such industrial user, the name and address of the retailer or wholesaler writing the letter and that the retailer or wholesaler is deducting the amount of the refund requested from the credit balance of the industrial user. The D. V. I. Center will issue a check to the industrial user in the amount requested and this check may be transferred by the industrial user to another supplier for the delivery of sugar.

If an industrial user has deposited ration evidences with a primary distributor who is unable to make a delivery for all or part of the amount of such evidences the primary distributor may, upon request of the industrial user, transfer a check issued by the Sugar Rationing Administration to the industrial user for all or part of the credit balance owing to such industrial user so that the industrial user may acquire sugar from some other supplier. In order to obtain checks which may be used for this purpose, the primary distributor must apply in writing to the D. V. I. Center covering his area stating the number of checks required and the amount of credit owing to industrial users he has on his books. The primary distributor must send a report once a week to the D. V. I. Center stating the number of checks, the amount of each check and the name and address of the industrial user to whom Sugar Rationing Administration checks have been transferred by the primary distributor.

TITLE 36—PARKS AND FORESTS

Chapter II—Forest Service, Department of Agriculture

PART 251—LAND USES

EXERCISE OF MINERAL RIGHTS RESERVED IN CONVEYANCES TO THE UNITED STATES

Pursuant to the provisions of the act of March 1, 1911 (36 Stat. 961), as amended, particularly by the act of March 4, 1913 (37 Stat. 855) and of the act of March 20, 1922 (42 Stat. 465), as amended, I, N. E. Dodd, Acting Secretary of Agriculture, do hereby order that conveyance to the United States of title to lands under the provisions of the acts above cited, or of any acts of similar character heretofore or hereafter enacted, which reserve the right to enter upon the conveyed lands and to prospect for, to mine and remove minerals, oil, gas or other inorganic substances, hereafter shall embody or be made subject to the following conditions, rules and regulations:

§ 251.15 Conditions relating to removal of minerals from lands conveyed to the United States under the act of March 1, 1911 (36 Stat. 961), as amended, and March 20, 1922 (42 Stat. 465), as amended. (a) Whoever undertakes to exercise the reserved rights shall give prior notice to the Forest Supervisor in charge of the lands and shall submit to him satisfactory evidence of authority to exercise such rights. Only so much of the surface of the lands shall be occupied, used or disturbed as is necessary in bona fide prospecting for, drilling, mining (including the milling or concentration of ores), and removal of the reserved minerals, oil, gas or other inorganic substances. No permit, as provided for in paragraph (b) of this section will be required for preliminary examination or exploration to determine the existence of the reserved minerals, oil, gas or other inorganic substances which will involve only transient and non-exclusive occupancy and only small excavations, test pits or borings, but such activities shall be subject to the general national forest rules and regulations.

(b) None of the lands in which minerals are reserved shall be so used, occupied or disturbed as to preclude their full use for national forest purposes until the record owner of the reserved rights, or the successors, assigns, or lessees thereof, shall have applied for and received from the Forest Supervisor having jurisdiction a permit authorizing such use, occupancy or disturbance of those specifically described parts of the lands as may reasonably be necessary to exercise of the reserved rights. Said permit shall be issued by the Forest Supervisor upon agreement as to the lands to be covered thereby and conditions necessary to protect national forest interests, and upon initial payment of the annual fee, which shall be at the rate of $2.00 per acre, or fraction of acre included in the permit. Failure to comply with the terms and conditions of the aforesaid permit shall terminate all rights to use, occupy or disturb the surface of the lands covered thereby, but in event of such termination a new permit shall be issued upon application when the causes for termination of the preceding permit have been satisfactorily remedied and the United States reimbursed for any resultant damage to it.

(c) All structures, other improvements and materials shall be removed from the lands within one year after date of termination of the aforementioned permit, or of an alternative permit, if any, issued under regulations applicable to national forest lands, and all such structures, improvements or materials not so removed shall become the property of the United States.

(d) Timber or young growth necessarily removed or utilized in connection with exercise of reserved rights shall be paid for (1) if merchantable at the rates charged in the locality for comparable national forest timber or (2) otherwise at the rates currently assigned by the Forest Supervisor to comparable growth in appraisals of lands to be acquired for national forest purposes. Other timber shall be cut or removed only pursuant to sale agreements or permits issued in accordance with national forest rules and regulations. All slash resulting from cutting or destruction of timber or young growth shall be disposed of as required by the Forest Supervisor.

(e) If exercise of the reserved rights results in stripping, collapse or other damage to the land or to improvements thereon, the record owner of the reserved rights, or the successors, assigns or lessees thereof, shall repair or replace the improvements damaged or destroyed, and/or restore the land to a condition safe and reasonably serviceable for usual national forest purposes, and prior to commencement of the work which will cause such result shall so notify the Forest Supervisor and provide such bond or cash deposit as will in the opinion of the Forest Supervisor guarantee such repair, replacement or restoration; or, the record owner of the reserved rights, or the successors, assigns or lessees thereof, may deposit in a cooperative fund such amounts as are estimated by the Forest Supervisor to be necessary to accomplish the aforesaid repair or replacement of improvements or restoration of the land, which cooperative deposits shall be available for expenditure by the United States for said purposes with refund to the depositor of the amount, if any, in excess of the cost of such repair, replacement or restoration, and related supervision. Where reserved minerals will be extracted by means of shafts, tunnels, pits or wells, provisions for fencing, covering, filling or plugging thereof upon termination of the mining activities may be required by the Forest Supervisor, together with delivery of acceptable bond, or such requirement may be met through payment into a cooperative fund of the amounts estimated by the Forest Supervisor to be necessary to fulfill said requirement, which deposits shall be available for expenditure by the United States for the purposes for which deposited, with refund to the depositor of the amount, if any, in excess of the cost of the required work.

(f) In the prospecting for, mining and removal of reserved minerals, oil, gas or other inorganic substances all reasonable provisions shall be made for the disposal of tailings, dumpage and other deleterious materials or substances in such manner as to prevent obstruction, pollution or deterioration of springs, streams, ponds or lakes.

(g) Nothing contained in this section shall be construed to exempt operators or the mining operations from any requirements of applicable state laws nor from compliance with or conformity to any requirements of any law which later may be enacted and which otherwise would be applicable.

(h) While any activities and or operations incident to the exercise of the reserved rights are in progress the operators, contractors, sub-contractors and any employees thereof who work on the national forest shall use due diligence in the prevention and suppression of fires, shall comply with all national forest rules and regulations, and shall be available for service in the suppression of fires within a reasonable distance of said operations: Provided, That if such fires do not originate from the operations incident to exercise of the reserved rights, and do not threaten structures, improvements or property employed in or related to such operations, services in fire suppression so rendered shall be paid for at the current rates of fire fighters employed by the United States. (Sec. 9, 36 Stat. 962 as amended, 16 U. S. C. 518)

NOTE: The above section is a revision of §§ 251.15 and 251.16. Section 251.16 is herewith canceled.

All regulations heretofore issued by the Secretary of Agriculture to govern the exercise of mineral rights reserved in conveyances to the United States shall continue to be effective in the cases to which they are applicable, but are hereby superseded as to mineral rights hereafter reserved.

In testimony thereof I have hereunto set my hand and official seal at the City of Washington this 3d day of July 1947.

Acting Secretary of Agriculture.

The Commission having heretofore, on October 24, 1945, entered an order granting and permitting to become effective certain joint applications and declarations of American Power & Light Company ("American"), a registered holding company subsidiary of Electric Bond and Share Company ("Bond and Share"), also a registered holding company, and American's wholly owned subsidiary, Texas Utility Company, subject to the terms and conditions of an agreement and stipulation set forth in full in the findings and opinion of the Commission of that date, and which stipulation and agreement, among other things, provides that American will within one year from the date of the said order (unless the Commission extends such time) sever its relations with Texas Utilities Company and the subsidiaries of that Company, and irrevocably and finally dispose of all of its interest, direct or indirect, therein, either by disposition among American's stockholders, or by a sale or otherwise in a manner found by the Commission to be appropriate. Said stipulation and agreement further containing specific provisions relating to the carrying out by American of said commitment and the enforcement thereof by the Commission as more fully set forth at length therein; and

American and Bond and Share having on September 6, 1946, filed an application with the Commission pursuant to section 11 (e) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 for approval of a plan for retirement of American's outstanding preferred stock through exchange of certain portfolio securities of American or by specified cash payments, which plan, American states, is designed to result in the disposition by American of its interest in Texas Utilities Company and other subsidiaries of that Company; and

The Commission having on January 24, 1947 entered an order extending the time in which American shall comply with said order of October 24, 1945 until June 30, 1947, subject to certain reservations of jurisdiction; and

It appearing to the Commission that it is appropriate in the public interest and in the interest of investors and consumers that the time within which American be required to comply with the aforementioned Order of October 24, 1945 and the stipulation and agreement entered into by American, be extended until December 31, 1947, subject to the reservation of jurisdiction described below; but that the particular request for extension of time as set forth above and the request for consolidation with the pending proceeding under section 11 (e) should be denied;

It is ordered, That the time within which American shall comply with said order of October 24, 1945 and the stipulation and agreement entered into by American is hereby extended until December 31, 1947, subject, however, to the reservation of jurisdiction to terminate, after notice and opportunity for hearing, such extension prior to December 31, 1947, if during such extended period the Commission shall issue an order disapproving the section 11 (e) plan filed by American and Bond and Share on September 6, 1946 and described above, or if such plan shall be withdrawn by either Bond and Share or American.

NOTICE OF FILING

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the City of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, on the 1st day of July A. D. 1947.

Notice is hereby given that an application-declaration has been filed with this Commission pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 by Atlantic City Electric Company ("Atlantic City"), an electric utility subsidiary of American Gas and Electric Company ("American Gas"), a registered holding company. Applicant-declarant designates sections 6, 7, and 12 (c) of the act and Rule U-42 thereunder as applicable to the proposed transactions.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than July 10, 1947 at 5:30 p. m., e. d. s. t., request the Commission in writing that a hearing be held on such matter, stating the reasons for such request, the nature of his interest and the issues of fact or law raised by said application-declaration which he desires to controvert, or may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 18th and Locust Streets, Philadelphia 3, Pennsylvania. At any time after July 10, 1947, said application-declaration, as filed or as amended, may be granted and permitted to become effective as provided in Rule U-23 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the act, or the Commission may exempt such transactions as provided in Rule U-20 (a) and Rule U-100 thereof.

All interested persons are referred to said application-declaration which is on file in the offices of this Commission, for a statement of the transactions therein proposed which are summarized as follows:

Atlantic City has entered into a credit agreement whereby the banks named below will make loans to Atlantic City in the aggregate amounts shown below during the period from the effective date of said agreement to September 1, 1950. Of the aggregate amount of $3,600,000 which the banks are obligated to lend, $2,000,000 will be borrowed and notes will be issued therefor, within 10 days after the effective date of the agreement in the amounts shown below. The remaining $1,600,000 may be borrowed as needed and notes issued therefor subject to approval by the Board of Public Utility Commissioners of the State of New Jersey and this Commission.

Name of bank	Amount of commitment	Amount of immediate loan
Guaranty Trust Co., of New York	$1,800,000	$1,000,000
Irving Trust Co	1,800,000	1,000,000
Total	3,600,000	2,000,000

The proposed loans will be evidenced by promissory notes maturing December 31, 1950 and are to bear interest from their respective issue dates at the rate of $1\frac{1}{2}\%$ per annum for the period from the effective date of the agreement to a date two years from such effective date, and at the rate of $1\frac{3}{4}\%$ per annum during the period commencing two years from the effective date to maturity. Atlantic City will pay to each bank a commitment fee of $\frac{1}{4}$ of 1% per annum until August 31, 1950 on the daily average unused amount which such bank is obligated to lend. Loans shall be made simultaneously from the banks on three days' notice, and may be prepaid on 10 days' notice, such loans and prepayments to be borne by or made ratably to both banks. Atlantic City may, on 10 days' notice to the banks, terminate or reduce pro-rata in the aggregate amount of $100,000 or multiples thereof, the obligations of the banks to make the loans provided for in the agreement.

Applicant-declarant states that from the proceeds of the immediate borrowing in the amount of $2,000,000 it will repay its outstanding $1\frac{1}{2}\%$ note, due September 11, 1947, in the amount of $1,000,000. It is further stated that the balance of the proposed loans is necessary to provide funds to enable applicant-declarant to proceed with its construction program and that any plan for long-term financing will provide for payment of the then outstanding notes issued under the credit agreement.

Atlantic City has applied to the Board of Public Utility Commissioners of the State of New Jersey, the State in which Atlantic City was organized and is doing business, for an order approving the proposed transactions. In the event of approval of the proposed transactions by the New Jersey Commission, a copy of the order of said Commission will be filed by amendment herein.

The application-declaration requests that the Commission's order granting the application and permitting the declaration herein, to become effective be issued at the earliest practicable date and that it shall be effective forthwith.

By the Commission.

NOTICE OF FILING OF APPLICATION-DECLARATION

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the City of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, on the 1st day of July 1947.

Notice is hereby given that a joint application-declaration has been filed with this Commission, pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935, by The United Gas Improvement Company ("UGI"), a registered holding company, and a subsidiary public utility company, Allentown-Bethlehem Gas Company ("Allentown"), designating section 12 of the act and Rule U-45 promulgated thereunder as applicable to the proposed transaction.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than July 18, 1947, at 5:30 p. m., e. d. s. t., request the Commission in writing that a hearing be held on such matter, stating the nature of his interest, the reason for such request and the issue of fact or law raised by said joint application-declaration which he desires to controvert, or may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon; that such request should be addressed: Securities and Exchange Commission, 18th and Locust Streets, Philadelphia 3, Pennsylvania, and that at any time after July 18, 1947, said joint application-declaration, as filed or as amended, may be granted and permitted to become effective as provided in Rule U-23, or the Commission may exempt such transaction as provided in Rules U-20 (a) and U-100 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the act.

All interested persons are referred to said joint application-declaration, which is on file in the offices of this Commission, for a statement of the transactions therein proposed which are summarized as follows:

UGI, the owner of all the outstanding common capital stock of Allentown, proposes to make a cash contribution not to exceed $600,000 to Allentown in order to create capital surplus in sufficient amount, which together with earned surplus at June 30, 1947 will enable Allentown to write off the balance of utility plant adjustments amounting to $912,370, which is the balance of such adjustments, resulting from a determination of the original cost of its utility plant after charging $250,000 of such adjustments to reserve for depreciation renewals and replacements. It is stated that Allentown's proposal for the disposition of its utility plant adjustment account was approved by order of the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission dated June 9, 1947.

Allentown proposes to use the funds to be received from UGI to pay off bank loans amounting to $325,000 and apply the balance toward the payment of capital additions presently underway or contemplated for the remaining months of 1947.

Applicants-declarants have requested entry of the Commission's order on or before July 25, 1947.

By the Commission.

NATIONAL FUEL GAS CO. ET AL

NOTICE OF FILING APPLICATION-DECLARATION

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the City of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, on the 1st day of July 1947

In the matter of National Fuel Gas Company, United Natural Gas Company, and Iroquois Gas Corporation, File No. 70-1559.

Notice is hereby given that a joint application-declaration has been filed with this Commission, pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935; by National Fuel Gas Company (National), a registered holding company, and its public utility subsidiaries, United Natural Gas Company (United) and Iroquois Gas Corporation (Iroquois), designating sections 6, 7, 10 and 12 of the act and Rules U-45 and U-50 (a) (2) promulgated thereunder as applicable to the proposed transactions.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than July 14, 1947, at 5:30 p. m., e. d. s. t., request the Commission in writing that a hearing be held on such matter, stating the nature of his interest, the reason for such request and the issue of fact or law raised by said joint application-declaration which he desires to controvert, or may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon; that such request should be addressed: Securities and Exchange Commission, 18th and Locust Streets, Philadelphia 3, Pennsylvania; and that at any time after July 14, 1947, said joint application-declaration, as filed or as amended, may be granted and permitted to become effective as provided in Rule U-23, or the Commission may exempt such transactions as provided in Rules U-20 (a) and U-100, of the rules and regulations promulgated under the act.

All interested persons are referred to said joint application-declaration, which is on file in the offices of this Commission, for a statement of the transactions therein proposed which are summarized as follows:

National has entered into a credit agreement with Chase National Bank, in the City of New York, whereby the bank will make loans to National in an aggregate amount not to exceed $6,500,000 from the effective date of the agreement to July 1, 1950, with the right on the part of National to terminate the arrangement at any time on thirty days' notice.

The proposed loans are to be evidenced by promissory notes to be issued at various dates on or after July 15, 1947, are to be of three months maturity, and are to bear interest at the rate of $1\frac{1}{2}\%$ per annum to July 1, 1949 and at the rate of $1\frac{3}{4}\%$ per annum thereafter. National will pay Chase a commitment fee of $\frac{1}{4}$ of 1% per annum on the average daily unused amount which Chase is obligated to lend.

National proposes to extend to two of its wholly-owned subsidiaries, United and Iroquois, a line of credit of up to but not to exceed at any one time $5,000,000 and $1,500,000, respectively, which the subsidiaries may borrow, renew and repay from time to time during the period July 1, 1947 to June 30, 1948. The loans of the two subsidiaries are to be evidenced by promissory notes to be issued from time to time during the period July 1, 1947 to June 30, 1948, are to bear interest at the rate of $1\frac{1}{2}\%$ per annum, and are to mature three months from date of issue, or June 30, 1948, whichever shall be earlier. Each subsidiary agrees to pay the parent a commitment fee of $\frac{1}{4}$ of 1% per annum on the daily average unused amount which the parent is obligated to lend to each subsidiary.

It is stated that the proposed loans are necessary to provide funds to enable United and Iroquois to make needed additions to their natural gas transmission systems and to proceed with construction programs which are urgently required to meet an increased demand for natural gas which has developed in their operating territories. It is further stated that the proposed indebtedness of the three companies is to be refunded within a period of approximately one year as a part of a program of long-term financing which will also cover additional expenditures necessary to be made during the years 1948 and 1949.

Applicants-declarants request an acceleration of the Commission's order to be entered with respect to the proposed transactions so that funds may be available not later than July 15, 1947.

By the Commission.

Assistant to the Secretary.

FARM ACREAGE ALLOTMENTS AND MARKETING QUOTAS AND MARKETING CARDS

§ 726.759 Amount of farm marketing quota. The marketing quota for a farm shall be the actual production of tobacco on the farm acreage allotment, as established for the farm in accordance with Tobacco 12, Part I, Fire-cured and Dark Air-cured Tobacco Marketing Quota Regulations, 1947–48 (11 F. R. 243). The actual production of the farm acreage allotment shall be the average yield per acre of the entire acreage of tobacco harvested on the farm in 1947 times the farm acreage allotment. The excess tobacco on any farm shall be (a) that quantity of tobacco which is equal to the average yield per acre of the entire acreage of tobacco harvested on the farm in 1947 times the number of acres harvested in excess of the farm acreage allotment, plus (b) any quantity of tobacco carried over from a prior marketing year which, if marketed during the 1946–47 marketing year, would have been subject to penalty when marketed. The acreage of tobacco determined for a farm for the purpose of issuing the correct marketing card for the farm, as provided in § 726.761, shall be considered the harvested acreage for the farm unless the farm operator furnishes proof satisfactory to the county committee that a portion of the acreage planted will not be harvested or that a representative portion of the production of the acreage harvested will be disposed of other than by marketing.

§ 726.760 No transfers. There shall be no transfer of farm marketing quotas.

§ 726.761 Issuance of marketing cards. A marketing card shall be issued for every farm having tobacco available for marketing. Subject to the approval of the county committee, two or more marketing cards may be issued for any farm. All entries on each marketing card shall be made in accordance with the instructions for issuing marketing cards. Upon the return to the office of the county committee of the marketing card after all the memoranda of sale have been issued therefrom and before the marketing of tobacco from the farm has been completed, a new marketing card of the same kind, bearing the same name, information and identification as the used card shall be issued for the farm. A new marketing card of the same kind shall be issued to replace a card which has been reported to the county committee as having been lost, destroyed, or stolen.

(a) Within quota marketing card. A Within Quota Marketing Card (Tobacco 20 or 20K) authorizing the marketing without penalty of the tobacco available for marketing shall be issued for a farm under the following conditions:

(1) If the harvested acreage of tobacco in 1947 is not in excess of the farm acreage allotment; if any excess tobacco carried over from any prior marketing year can be marketed without penalty under the provisions of § 726.767 (b); and if the operator of the farm does not operate another farm having excess tobacco.

(2) If excess tobacco produced on the farm is disposed of in accordance with § 726.768, or

(3) If the tobacco was grown for experimental purposes on land owned or leased by a publicly-owned agricultural experiment station and is produced at public expense by employees of the experiment station, or if the tobacco was produced by farmers pursuant to an agreement with a publicly-owned experiment station whereby the experiment station bears the costs and risks incident to the production of the tobacco and the proceeds from the crop inure to the benefit of the experiment station: Provided, That such agreement is approved by the State committee prior to the issuance of a marketing card for the farm.

(b) Excess marketing card. An Excess Marketing Card (Tobacco 21 or 21X) showing the extent to which marketings of tobacco from a farm are subject to penalty shall be issued unless a within quota card is required to be issued for the farm under paragraph (a) of this section, except if (1) the farm operator fails to disclose or otherwise furnish, or prevents the county committee from obtaining any information necessary to the issuance of the correct marketing card, an excess marketing card shall be issued showing that all tobacco from the farm is subject to the rate of penalty set forth in § 726.771 or (2) the county committee determines that it is necessary to issue a "zero-penalty" excess marketing card in order to protect the interest of the Government and insure proper identification of and accounting for tobacco produced on the farm and the proper use of the marketing card issued for the farm.

(c) Marketing cards for Virginia sun-cured tobacco. In those counties in which both type 21, Virginia fire-cured tobacco and type 37, Virginia sun-cured tobacco are produced, a within quota marketing card, Tobacco 20X, with the words "Fire-cured" deleted and the words "Virginia Sun-cured" stamped or printed thereon shall be issued for any farm having Virginia sun-cured tobacco available for marketing for use in identifying any marketing of Virginia sun-cured tobacco.

§ 726.762 Person authorized to issue cards. The county committee shall designate one person to sign marketing cards for farms in the county as issuing officer. The issuing officer may, subject to the approval of the county committee, designate not more than three persons to sign his name in issuing marketing cards: Provided, That each such person shall place his initials immediately beneath the name of the issuing officer as written by him on the card.

§ 726.763 Rights of producers in marketing cards. Each producer having a share in the tobacco available for marketing from a farm shall be entitled to the use of the marketing card for marketing his proportionate share.

§ 726.764 Successors in interest. Any person who succeeds in whole or in part to the share of a producer in the tobacco available for marketing from a farm shall, to the extent of such succession, have the same rights as the producer to the use of the marketing card for the farm.

§ 726.765 Invalid cards. A marketing card shall be invalid if:

(a) It is not issued or delivered in the form and manner prescribed;

(b) Entries are omitted or incorrect;

(c) It is lost, destroyed, stolen, or becomes illegible;

(d) Any erasure or alteration has been made, and not properly initialed.

In the event any marketing card becomes invalid (other than by loss, destruction, or theft, or by omission, alteration or incorrect entry which cannot be corrected by a field assistant), the farm operator, or the person having the card in his possession, shall return it to the county office at which it was issued.

If an entry is not made on a marketing card as required, either through omission or incorrect entry, and the proper entry is made and initialed by a field assistant, then such card shall become valid.

§ 726.766 Report of misuse of marketing card. Any information which causes a field assistant, a member of a State, county, or community committee, or an employee of a State or county committee, to believe that any tobacco which actually was produced on one farm has been or is being marketed under the marketing card issued for another farm shall be reported immediately by such person to the State committee.

MARKETING OR OTHER DISPOSITION OF TOBACCO AND PENALTIES

§ 726.767 Extent to which marketings from a farm are subject to penalty. (a) Marketings of tobacco from a farm having no "carry-over" tobacco available for marketing shall be subject to penalty by the percent excess determined as follows: divide the acreage of tobacco harvested in excess of the farm acreage allotment and not disposed of under § 726.768 of the total acreage of tobacco harvested from the farm.

(b) Marketings of tobacco from a farm having "carry-over" tobacco available for marketing shall be subject to penalty by the percent excess determined as follows:

(1) Determine the number of "carry-over" acres by dividing the number of pounds of "carry-over" tobacco from the prior year by the normal yield for the farm for that year.

(2) Determine the number of "within quota carry-over" acres by multiplying the "carry-over" acres (subparagraph (1) of this paragraph) by the "percent within quota" (i. e., 100 percent minus the "percent excess") for the year in which the "carry-over" tobacco was produced.

(3) Determine the "total acres" of tobacco by adding the "carry-over" acres (subparagraph (1) of this paragraph) and the acreage of tobacco harvested in the current year.

(4) Determine the "excess acres" by subtracting from the "total acres" (subparagraph (3) of this paragraph) the sum of the 1947 allotment and the "within quota carry-over" acres (subparagraph (2) of this paragraph).

(5) Determine the percentage subject to penalty by dividing the "total acres" into the "excess acres" (subparagraph (4) of this paragraph).

(6) The burden of any penalty with respect to "carry-over" tobacco shall be borne by those persons having an interest in such tobacco.

(c) For the purpose of determining the penalty due on each marketing by a producer of tobacco subject to penalty, the converted rate of penalty per pound shall be determined by multiplying the applicable rate of penalty by the percent excess obtained under paragraphs (a) or (b) of this section. The memorandum of sale issued to identify each such marketing shall show the amount of penalty due.

§ 726.768 Disposition of excess tobacco. The farm operator may elect to give satisfactory proof of disposition of excess tobacco prior to the marketing of any tobacco from the farm by any of the following methods:

(a) By a declaration of intention to market all tobacco available for marketing and the payment at the office of the county committee by check or draft or, if required by the county committee, by certified check, cashier's check or postal money order drawn payable to the Treasurer of the United States, in an amount equal to the penalty which would be due upon the marketing of all tobacco available for marketing. Any additional amount of penalty due after all marketings of tobacco from the farm have been made shall be paid by the operator not later than 20 days after receipt of notice of such additional penalty. Any amount collected in excess of the penalty due shall be refunded.

(b) By storage of the excess tobacco, the tobacco so stored to be representative of the entire 1947 crop produced on the farm, and posting of a bond approved by the county committee and the State committee in the penal sum of twice the amount of penalty which will become due upon the marketing of the excess tobacco.

(c) By furnishing to the county committee satisfactory proof that excess tobacco representative of the entire crop will not be marketed.

§ 726.769 Identification of marketings. Each marketing of tobacco from a farm shall be identified by an executed memorandum of sale from the marketing card (Tobacco 20 or Tobacco 21) issued for the farm on which the tobacco was produced. In addition, in the case of nonwarehouse sales each marketing shall be identified by an executed bill of nonwarehouse sale (reverse side of memorandum of sale) except that such form is not required to be executed by warehousemen who are authorized on Tobacco 23 to issue memoranda of sale.

(a) Memorandum of sale. If a memorandum of sale is not executed to identify a warehouse sale of producer's tobacco by the end of the sale day on which the tobacco was marketed, the marketing shall be a suspended sale, and, unless a memorandum identifying the tobacco so marketed is executed within four weeks after such sale day, the marketing shall be identified by Tobacco 28, Sale Without Marketing Card, as a marketing of excess tobacco. The memorandum of sale or Tobacco 28 shall be executed only by a field assistant with the following exceptions.

(1) A warehouseman, or his authorized representative, who has been designated on Tobacco 23, may issue a memorandum of sale to identify a warehouse sale if a field assistant is not available at the warehouse when the marketing card is presented. Each memorandum of sale issued by a warehouseman to cover a warehouse sale shall be presented promptly by him to the field assistant for verification with the warehouse records.

(2) A dealer, or his authorized representative, operating a regular receiving point for tobacco who keeps records showing the information specified in § 726.778 and who has been authorized on Authorization to Issue Memoranda of Sale (Tobacco 23) may issue memoranda of sale covering tobacco delivered directly to such receiving point and marketed to such dealer.

The authorization on Tobacco 23 to issue memoranda of sale may be withdrawn by the State committee from any warehouseman or dealer if such action is determined to be necessary in order to properly enforce the provisions of the regulations in §§ 726.755 to 726.786, inclusive. The authorization shall terminate upon receipt of written notice setting forth the State committee's reason therefor.

Each excess memorandum of sale issued by a field assistant shall be verified by the warehouseman or dealer (or his representative) to determine whether the amount of penalty shown to be due has been correctly computed and such warehouseman or dealer shall not be relieved of any liability with respect to the amount of penalty due because of any error which may occur in executing the memorandum of sale.

(b) Bill of nonwarehouse sale. Each nonwarehouse sale shall be identified by a bill of nonwarehouse sale completely executed by the buyer and the farm operator, except that if such tobacco is purchased by or for a warehouseman who is authorized on Tobacco 23 to issue memoranda of sale, he or his representative who is also authorized shall issue a memorandum of sale identifying each such purchase, record the purchase in Tobacco 25, Dealer's Record, and attach thereto the county copy of the memorandum of sale.

Each bill of nonwarehouse sale covering any marketing shall be presented to a field assistant for the issuance of a memorandum of sale and for recording in Tobacco 25.

§ 726.770 Identification of tobacco. Any warehouseman upon whose floor both Virginia fire-cured tobacco and Virginia sun-cured tobacco are offered for sale at public auction shall display the Virginia fire-cured tobacco separately and shall make and keep records that will insure a separate accounting of all Virginia fire-cured tobacco sold at auction over the warehouse floor.

§ 726.771 Rate of penalty. The penalty per pound upon marketings of excess tobacco subject to marketing quotas shall be ten (10) cents per pound in the case of fire-cured tobacco and nine (9) cents per pound in the case of dark air-cured tobacco.

With respect to tobacco marketed from farms having excess tobacco available for marketing the penalty shall be paid upon that percentage of each lot of tobacco marketed which the tobacco available for marketing in excess of the farm quota is of the total amount of tobacco available for marketing from the farm.

§ 726.772 Persons to pay penalty. The person to pay the penalty due on any marketing of tobacco subject to penalty shall be determined as follows:

(a) Warehouse sale. The penalty due on marketings by a producer through a warehouse shall be paid by the warehouseman who may deduct an amount equivalent to the penalty from the price paid to the producer.

(b) Nonwarehouse sale. The penalty due on tobacco purchased directly from a producer other than at public auction through a warehouse (nonwarehouse sale) shall be paid by the purchaser of the tobacco who may deduct an amount equivalent to the penalty from the price paid to the producer.

(c) Marketings through an agent. The penalty due on marketings by a producer through an agent who is not a warehouseman shall be paid by the agent who may deduct an amount equivalent to the penalty from the price paid to the producer.

(d) Marketings outside United States. The penalty due on marketings by a producer directly to any person outside the United States shall be paid by the producer.

§ 726.773 Marketings deemed to be excess tobacco. Any marketing of tobacco under any one of the following conditions shall be deemed to be a marketing of excess tobacco.

(a) Warehouse sale. Any warehouse sale of tobacco by a producer which is not identified by a valid memorandum of sale within four weeks following the date of marketing shall be identified by a Tobacco 28, and shall be deemed to be a marketing of excess tobacco. The penalty thereon shall be paid by the warehouseman who may deduct an amount equivalent to the penalty from the amount due the producer.

(b) Nonwarehouse sale. Any nonwarehouse sale which (1) is not identified by a valid memorandum of sale and (2) is not recorded in Tobacco 25 within one week following the date of purchase, or (3) if purchased prior to the opening of the local auction markets, is not recorded in Tobacco 25 within one week following the first sale day of the local auction markets, shall be deemed to be a marketing of excess tobacco. The penalty thereon shall be paid by the purchaser of such tobacco.

(c) Leaf account tobacco. The part or all of any marketing by a warehouseman which such warehouseman represents to be a leaf account resale but which when added to prior leaf account resales, as reported under the regulations in §§ 726.755 to 726.786, inclusive, is in excess of prior leaf account purchases shall be deemed to be a marketing of excess tobacco unless and until such warehouseman furnishes proof acceptable to the Director, Tobacco Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, showing that such tobacco is not a marketing of excess tobacco. The penalty found to be due thereon shall be paid by the warehouseman.

(d) Dealer's tobacco. The part or all of any marketing of tobacco by a dealer which such dealer represents to be a resale but which when added to prior resales by such dealer is in excess of the total of his prior purchases as reported on Tobacco 25 shall be deemed to be a marketing of excess tobacco unless and until such dealer furnishes proof acceptable to the Director, Tobacco Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, showing that such marketing is not a marketing of excess tobacco. The penalty thereon shall be paid by the dealer.

(e) Marketings not reported. Any resale of tobacco which under the regulations in §§ 726.755 to 726.786, inclusive, is required to be reported by a warehouseman or dealer but which is not so reported within the time and in the manner required by the regulations in §§ 726.755 to 726.786, inclusive, shall be deemed to be a marketing of excess tobacco unless and until such warehouseman or dealer furnishes a report of such resale which is acceptable to the Director, Tobacco Branch, Production and Marketing Administration. The penalty thereon shall be paid by the warehouseman or dealer who fails to make the report as required.

(f) Producer marketings. If any producer falsely identifies or fails to account for the disposition of any tobacco produced on a farm, an amount of tobacco equal to the normal yield of the number of acres harvested in 1947 in excess of the farm acreage allotment shall be deemed to have been a marketing of excess tobacco from such farm. The penalty thereon shall be paid by the producer.

§ 726.774 Payment of penalty. Penalties shall become due at the time the tobacco is marketed and shall be paid by remitting the amount thereof to the State committee not later than the end of the calendar week following the week in which the tobacco became subject to penalty. A draft, money order, or check drawn payable to the Treasurer of the United States may be used to pay any penalty, but any such draft or check shall be received subject to payment at par.

If the penalty due on any warehouse sale of tobacco by a producer as determined under the regulations in §§ 726.755 to 726.786, inclusive, is in excess of the net proceeds of such sale (gross amount for all lots included in the sale less usual warehouse charges), the amount of the net proceeds accompanied by a copy of the warehouse bill covering such sale may be remitted as the full penalty due. Usual warehouse charges shall not include (a) advances to producers, (b) charges for hauling, or (c) any other charges not usually incurred by producers in marketing tobacco through an auction warehouse.

§ 726.776 Request for return of penalty. Any producer of tobacco, after the marketing of all tobacco available for marketing from the farm, and any other person who bore the burden of the payment of any penalty may request the return of the amount of such penalty which is in excess of the amount required under the regulations in §§ 726.755 to 726.786, inclusive, to be paid. Such request shall be filed with the county committee within two (2) years after the payment of the penalty.

RECORDS AND REPORTS

§ 726.776 Producer's records and reports—(a) Report on marketing card. The operator of each farm on which tobacco is produced in 1947 shall return to the office of the county committee each marketing card issued for the farm whenever marketings from the farm are completed and in no event later than thirty days after the close of the tobacco auction markets for the locality in which the farm is located. Failure to return the marketing card within the time specified (after formal notification) shall constitute failure to account for disposition of tobacco marketed from the farm in the event that a satisfactory account of such disposition is not furnished otherwise and the allotment next established for such farm shall be reduced.

(b) Additional reports by producers. In addition to any other reports which may be required under the regulations in §§ 726.755 to 726.786, inclusive, the operator of each farm or any other person having an interest in the tobacco grown on the farm (even though the harvested acreage does not exceed the acreage allotment and even though no allotment was established for the farm) shall upon written request by registered mail from the State committee and within 10 days after the deposit of such request in the United States mails, addressed to such person at his last known address, furnish the Secretary a written report of the disposition made of all tobacco produced on the farm by sending the same to the State committee showing, as to the farm at the time of filing said report, (1) the number of acres of tobacco harvested, (2) the total production of tobacco, (3) the amount of tobacco on hand and its location, and (4) as to each lot of tobacco marketed, the name and address of the warehouseman, dealer, or other person to or through whom such tobacco was marketed and the number of pounds marketed, the gross price, and the date of the marketing. Failure to file the report as requested or the filing of a report which is found by the State committee to be incomplete or incorrect shall constitute failure of the producer to account for disposition of tobacco produced on the farm and the allotment next established for such farm shall be reduced.

§ 726.777 Warehouseman's records and reports—(a) Record of marketing. Each warehouseman shall keep such records as will enable him to furnish the Secretary the following information with respect to each sale or resale of tobacco made at his warehouse:

(1) Name of seller (and, in the case of a sale for a producer, the name of the operator of the farm on which the tobacco was produced).

(2) Name of purchaser.

(3) Date of sale.

(4) Number of pounds sold.

(5) Gross sale price.

(6) Amount of any penalty and the amount of any deduction on account of penalty from the price paid the producer.

(ii) Purchases and resales for the warehouse leaf account.

(iii) Resales of floor sweepings.

(iv) Resales of pick-ups.

Any warehouseman who grades tobacco for farmers shall maintain a separate account showing the approximate amount of scrap tobacco obtained from the grading of tobacco from each farm.

In the case of resales for dealers the name of the dealer making each resale shall be shown on the warehouse records so that the individual lots of tobacco sold by the dealer can be identified.

(b) Identification of sale on check register. The serial number of the memorandum of sale issued to identify each marketing of tobacco from a farm or the number of the warehouse bill(s) covering each such marketing shall be recorded on the check register or check stub for the check written with respect to such sale of tobacco.

(c) Memorandum of sale and bill of nonwarehouse sale. A record in the form of a valid memorandum of sale or a sale without marketing card shall be obtained by a warehouseman to cover each marketing of tobacco from a farm through the warehouse and each nonwarehouse sale of tobacco purchased by the warehouseman. For a nonwarehouse sale of tobacco purchased by or for a warehouseman who is not authorized on Tobacco 23 to issue memoranda of sale, no memorandum of sale shall be issued unless the bill of nonwarehouse sale on the reverse side of the memorandum is executed. Any warehousemar who obtains possession of any scrap tobacco in the course of grading tobacco from any farm shall obtain a memorandum of sale to cover the amount of such scrap.

(d) Suspended sale record. Any warehouse bills covering farm tobacco for which memoranda of sale have not been issued at the end of the sale day shall be presented to a field assistant who shall stamp such bills "Suspended", write thereon the serial number of the suspended sale, and record the bills on Tobacco 29, Field Assistant's Report: Provided, That if a field assistant is not available, the warehouseman may stamp such bills "Suspended" and deliver them to a field assistant when one is available.

(e) Warehouse entries on dealer's record. Each warehouseman shall enter on Tobacco 25 the total purchases and resales made by each dealer or other warehouseman during each sale day at the warehouse. If any tobacco resold by the dealer is tobacco bought by him from a crop produced prior to 1947 the entry on Tobacco 25 shall clearly show such fact.

The county copy of each memorandum of sale issued to identify each purchase under subparagraph (1) of this paragraph shall accompany the report on which such purchase is recorded.

(g) Season report of warehouse business. Each warehouseman shall furnish the State committee not later than thirty (30) days following the last sale day of the marketing season a report on Tobacco 26, Auction Warehouse Report, showing for each dealer or buyer (1) the total pounds and gross price of tobacco purchased and resold on the warehouse floor during the 1947–48 marketing year and (2) the total pounds and gross price of tobacco purchased and resold by such warehouseman during the 1947–48 marketing year.

(h) Report of penalties. Each warehouseman shall make reports on Tobacco 27, Report of Penalties, showing the information required with respect to each sale subject to penalty. (a) Report of dealer's name, address, and registration number. Each dealer shall properly execute and the field assistant shall detach and forward to the State committee "Receipt for Dealer's Record" contained in Tobacco 25 which is issued to the dealer.

(b) Record and report of purchases and resales. Each dealer shall keep a record and make reports on Tobacco 25, Dealer's Record, showing all purchases and resales of tobacco made by the dealer and, in the event of resale of tobacco bought from a crop produced prior to 1947 the fact that such tobacco was bought by him and carried over from a crop produced prior to 1947.

(c) Report of penalties. Each dealer shall make a report on Tobacco 27, Report of Penalties, showing the information with respect to all purchases subject to penalty made by him during each calendar week. The penalties listed on each such report shall be remitted with the report.

(d) Memorandum of sale and bill of nonwarehouse sale. A record in the form of a valid memorandum of sale shall be obtained by a dealer to cover each purchase of tobacco directly from a producer other than at auction through a warehouse (nonwarehouse sale). No memorandum of sale shall be issued identifying such purchase unless the bill of nonwarehouse sale, on the reverse side of the memorandum of sale, has been executed.

All reports shall be forwarded to the State committee not later than the end of the week following the calendar week covered by the reports.

§ 726.779 Dealers exempt from regular records and reports. Any dealer who does not purchase or otherwise acquire tobacco except at a warehouse sale and who does not resell, in the form in which tobacco ordinarily is sold by farmers, more than ten percent of the tobacco purchased by him, shall not be subject to the provisions of § 726.778; but each such dealer shall make such reports to the Secretary as the Director, Tobacco Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, may find necessary to enforce the regulations in §§ 726.735 to 726.786, inclusive.

§ 726.780 Records and reports of truckers and persons redrying, prizing, or stemming tobacco. (a) Every person engaged in the business of trucking tobacco for producers shall keep such records as will enable him to furnish the Secretary a report with respect to each lot of tobacco received by him showing (1) the name and address of the farm operator, (2) the date of receipt of the § 726.782 Failure to keep records or make reports. Any warehouseman, dealer, processor, or common carrier of tobacco, or person engaged in the business of redrying, prizing or stemming tobacco for producers, who fails to make any report or keep any record as required under the regulations in §§ 726.755 to 726.786, inclusive, or who makes any false report or record, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be subject to a fine of not more than $500; and any tobacco warehouseman or dealer who fails to remedy such violation by making a complete and accurate report or keeping a complete and accurate record as required under these regulations within fifteen days after notice to him of such violation shall be subject to an additional fine of $100 for each ten thousand pounds of tobacco, or fraction thereof, bought or sold by him after the date of such violation: Provided, That such fine shall not exceed $5 000; and notice of such violation shall be served upon the tobacco warehouseman or dealer by mailing the same to him by registered mail or by posting the same at an established place of business operated by him, or both. Notice of any violation by a tobacco warehouseman or dealer shall be given by the Director, Tobacco Branch.

§ 726.783 Examination of records and reports. For the purpose of ascertaining the correctness of any report made or record kept, or of obtaining information required to be furnished in any report but not so furnished, any warehouseman, dealer, processor, common carrier or person engaged in the business of redrying, prizing, or stemming tobacco for producers shall make available for examination upon written request by the State committee or Director, Tobacco Branch, such books, papers, records, accounts, correspondence, contracts, documents, and memoranda as the State committee or Director, Tobacco Branch, has reason to believe are relevant and are within the control of such person.

§ 7.512 Introductory. The income tax convention between the United States and the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, signed April 16, 1945, and supplementary protocol, signed at Washington on June 6, 1946, both of which were proclaimed by the President of the United States on July 30, 1946, and effective (for the purposes of United States income and excess profits taxes) for taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 1945 (hereinafter referred to as the convention), provide as follows:

ARTICLE I

(1) The taxes which are the subject of the present Convention are:

(a) In the United States of America: The Federal income taxes, including surtaxes and excess profits taxes (hereinafter referred to as United States tax).

(b) In the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland: The income tax (including surtax), the excess profits tax and the national defense contribution (hereinafter referred to as United Kingdom tax).

(2) The present Convention shall also apply to any other taxes of a substantially similar character imposed by either Contracting Party subsequently to the date of signature of the present Convention or by the government of any territory to which the present Convention is extended under Article XXII.

ARTICLE II

(1) In the present Convention, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) The term "United States" means the United States of America, and when used in a geographical sense means the States, the Territories of Alaska and of Hawaii, and the District of Columbia.

(b) The term "United Kingdom" means Great Britain and Northern Ireland, excluding the Channel Islands and the Isle of Man.

(c) The terms "territory of one of the Contracting Parties" and "territory of the other Contracting Party" means the United States or the United Kingdom as the context requires.

(d) The term "United States corporation" means a corporation, association or other like entity created or organized in or under the laws of the United States.

(e) The term "United Kingdom corporation" means any kind of juridical person created under the laws of the United Kingdom.

(f) The terms "corporation of one Contracting Party" and "corporation of the other Contracting Party" mean a United States corporation or a United Kingdom corporation as the context requires.

(g) The term "resident of the United Kingdom" means any person (other than a citizen of the United States or a United States corporation) who is resident in the United Kingdom for the purposes of United Kingdom tax and not resident in the United States for the purposes of United States tax. A corporation is to be regraded as resident in the United Kingdom if its business is managed and controlled in the United Kingdom.

(h) The term "resident of the United States" means any individual who is resident in the United States for the purposes of United States tax and not resident in the United Kingdom for the purposes of United Kingdom tax, and any United States corporation and any partnership created or organized in or under the laws of the United States, being a corporation or partnership which is not resident in the United Kingdom for the purposes of United Kingdom tax.

(i) The term "United Kingdom enterprise" means an industrial or commercial enterprise or undertaking carried on by a resident of the United Kingdom.

(j) The term "United States enterprise" means an industrial or commercial enterprise or undertaking carried on by a resident of the United States.

(k) The terms "enterprise of one of the Contracting Parties" and "enterprise of the other Contracting Party" mean a United States enterprise or a United Kingdom enterprise, as the context requires.

(l) The term "permanent establishment" when used with respect to an enterprise of one of the Contracting Parties means a branch, management, factory or other fixed place of business, but does not include an agency unless the agent has, and habitually exercises, a general authority to negotiate and conclude contracts on behalf of such enterprise or has a stock of merchandise from which he regularly fills orders on its behalf. An enterprise of one of the Contracting Parties shall not be deemed to have a permanent establishment in the territory of the other Contracting Party merely because it carries on business dealings in the territory of such other Contracting Party through a bona fide commission agent, broker or custodian acting in the ordinary course of his business as such. The fact that an enterprise of one of the Contracting Parties maintains in the territory of the other Contracting Party a fixed place of business exclusively for the purchase of goods or merchandise shall not of itself constitute such fixed place of business a permanent establishment of such enterprise. The fact that a corporation of one Contracting Party has a subsidiary corporation which is a corporation of the other Contracting Party or which is engaged in trade or business in the territory of such other Contracting Party (whether through a permanent establishment or otherwise) shall not of itself constitute that subsidiary corporation a permanent establishment of its parent corporation.

(2) For the purposes of Articles VI, VII, VIII, IX and XIV a resident of the United Kingdom shall not be deemed to be engaged in trade or business in the United States in any taxable year unless such resident has a permanent establishment situated therein such taxable year. The same principle shall be applied, mutatis mutandis, by the United Kingdom in the case of a resident of the United States.

(3) In the application of the provisions of the present Convention by one of the Contracting Parties any term not otherwise defined shall, unless the context otherwise requires, have the meaning which it has under the laws of that Contracting Party relating to the taxes which are the subject of the present Convention.

ARTICLE III

(1) A United Kingdom enterprise shall not be subject to United States tax in respect of its industrial or commercial profits unless it is engaged in trade or business in the United States through a permanent establishment situated therein. If it is so engaged, United States tax may be imposed upon the income of such enterprise from sources within the United States.

(2) A United States enterprise shall not be subject to United Kingdom tax in respect of its industrial or commercial profits unless it is engaged in trade or business in the United Kingdom through a permanent establishment situated therein. If it is so engaged, United Kingdom tax may be imposed upon the entire income of such enterprise from sources within the United Kingdom: Provided, That nothing in this paragraph shall affect any provisions of the law of the United Kingdom regarding the imposition of United Kingdom excess profits tax and national defence contribution in the case of inter-connected companies.

(3) Where an enterprise of one of the Contracting Parties is engaged in trade or business in the territory of the other Contracting Party through a permanent establishment situated therein, there shall be attributed to such permanent establishment the industrial or commercial profits which it might be expected to derive if it were an independent enterprise engaged in the same or similar activities under the same or similar conditions and dealing at arm's length with the enterprise of which it is a permanent establishment, and the profits so attributed shall, subject to the law of such other Contracting Party, be deemed to be income from sources within the territory of such other Contracting Party.

(4) In determining the industrial or commercial profits from sources within the territory of one of the Contracting Parties of an enterprise of the other Contracting Party, no profits shall be deemed to arise from the mere purchase of goods or merchandise within the territory of the former Contracting Party by such enterprise.

ARTICLE IV

Where an enterprise of one of the Contracting Parties, by reason of its participation in the management, control or capital of an enterprise of the other Contracting Party, makes with or imposes on the latter, in their commercial or financial relations, conditions different from those which would be made with an independent enterprise, any profits which would but for those conditions have accrued to one of the enterprises but by reason of those conditions have not so accrued, may be included in the profits of that enterprise and taxed accordingly.

ARTICLE V

(1) Notwithstanding the provisions of Articles III and IV of the present Convention, profits which an individual (other than a citizen of the United States) resident in the United Kingdom or a United Kingdom corporation derives from operating ships documented or aircraft registered under the laws of the United Kingdom, shall be exempt from United States tax.

(2) Notwithstanding the provisions of Articles III and IV of the present Convention, profits which a citizen of the United States not resident in the United Kingdom or a United States corporation derives from operating ships documented or aircraft registered under the laws of the United States, shall be exempt from United Kingdom tax.

(3) This Article shall be deemed to have superseded, on and after the first day of January 1945, as to United States tax, and on and after the 6th day of April, 1945, as to United Kingdom tax, the arrangements relating to reciprocal exemption of shipping profits from income tax effected between the Government of the United States and the Government of the United Kingdom by exchange of Notes dated August 11, 1924, November 18, 1924, November 26, 1924, January 15, 1925, February 13, 1925, and March 16, 1925, which shall accordingly cease to have effect.

ARTICLE VI

(1) The rate of United States tax on dividends derived from a United States corporation by a resident of the United Kingdom who is subject to United Kingdom tax on such dividends and not engaged in trade or business in the United States shall not exceed 15 percent: Provided, That such rate of tax shall not exceed five percent if such resident is a corporation controlling, directly or indirectly, at least 95 percent of the entire voting power in the corporation paying the dividend, and not more than 25 percent of the gross income of such paying corporation is derived from interest and dividends, other than interest and dividends received from its own subsidiary corporations.' Such reduction of the rate to five percent shall not apply if the relationship of the two corporations has been arranged or is maintained primarily with the intention of securing such reduced rate.

(2) Dividends derived from sources within the United Kingdom by an individual who is (a) a resident of the United States, (b) subject to United States tax with respect to such dividends, and (c) not engaged in trade or business in the United Kingdom, shall be exempt from United Kingdom surtax.

(3) Either of the Contracting Parties may terminate this Article by giving written notice of termination to the other Contracting Party, through diplomatic channels, on or before the thirtieth day of June in any year after the year 1945, and in such event paragraph (1) hereof shall cease to be effective as to United States tax on and after the first day of January, and paragraph (2) hereof shall cease to be effective as to United Kingdom tax on and after the 6th day of April, in the year next following that in which such notice is given.

ARTICLE VII

(1) Interest (on bonds, securities, notes, debentures, or on any other form of indebtedness) derived from sources within the United States by a resident of the United Kingdom who is subject to United Kingdom tax on such interest and not engaged in trade or business in the United States, shall be exempt from United States tax; but such exemption shall not apply to such interest paid by a United States corporation to a corporation resident in the United Kingdom controlling, directly or indirectly, more than 50 percent of the entire voting power in the paying corporation.

(2) Interest (on bonds, securities, notes, debentures, or on any other form of indebtedness) derived from sources within the United Kingdom by a resident of the United States who is subject to United States tax on such interest and not engaged in trade or business in the United Kingdom, shall be exempt from United Kingdom tax; but such exemption shall not apply to such interest paid by a corporation resident in the United Kingdom to a United States corporation controlling, directly or indirectly, more than 50 percent of the entire voting power in the paying corporation.

ARTICLE VIII

(1) Royalties and other amounts paid as consideration for the use of, or for the privilege of using, copyrights, patents, designs, secret processes and formulae, trademarks, and other like property, and derived from sources within the United States by a resident of the United Kingdom who is subject to United Kingdom tax on such royalties or other amounts and not engaged in trade or business in the United States, shall be exempt from United States tax.

(2) Royalties and other amounts paid as consideration for the use of, or for the privilege of using, copyrights, patents, designs, secret processes and formulae, trade-marks, and other like property, and derived from sources within the United Kingdom by a resident of the United States who is subject to United States tax on such royalties or other amounts and not engaged in trade or business in the United Kingdom, shall be exempt from United Kingdom tax.

(3) For the purposes of this Article the term "royalties" shall be deemed to include rentals in respect of motion picture films.

ARTICLE IX

(1) The rate of United States tax on royalties in respect of the operation of mines or quarries or of other extraction of natural resources, and on rentals from real property or from an interest in such property, derived from sources within the United States by a resident of the United Kingdom who is subject to United Kingdom tax with respect to such royalties or rentals and not engaged in trade or business in the United States, shall not exceed 15 percent: Provided, That any such resident may elect for any taxable year to be subject to United States tax as if such resident were engaged in trade or business in the United States.

(2) Royalties in respect of the operation of mines or quarries or of other extraction of natural resources, and rentals from real property, or from an interest in such property, derived from sources within the United Kingdom by an individual who is (a) a resident of the United States, (b) subject to United States tax with respect to such royalties and rentals, and (c) not engaged in trade or business in the United Kingdom, shall be exempt from United Kingdom surtax.

ARTICLE X

(1) Any salary, wage, similar remuneration or pension, paid by the Government of the United States to an individual (other than a British subject who is not also a citizen of the United States) in respect of services rendered to the United States in the discharge of governmental functions, shall be exempt from United Kingdom tax.

(2) Any salary, wage, similar remuneration or pension, paid by the Government of the United Kingdom to an individual (other than a citizen of the United States who is not also a British subject) in respect of services rendered to the United Kingdom in the discharge of governmental functions, shall be exempt from United States tax.

(3) The provisions of this Article shall not apply to payments in respect of services rendered in connection with any trade or business carried on by either of the Contracting Parties for purposes of profit.

ARTICLE XI

(1) An individual who is a resident of the United Kingdom shall be exempt from United States tax upon compensation for personal (including professional) services performed during the taxable year within the United States if (a) he is present within the United States for a period or periods not exceeding in the aggregate 183 days during such taxable year, and (b) such services are performed for or on behalf of a person resident in the United Kingdom.

(2) An individual who is a resident of the United States shall be exempt from United Kingdom tax upon profits, emoluments or other remuneration in respect of personal (including professional) services performed within the United Kingdom in any year of assessment if (a) he is present within the United Kingdom for a period or periods not exceeding in the aggregate 183 days during that year, and (b) such services are performed for or on behalf of a person resident in the United States.

(3)[1] The provisions of this Article shall not apply to the compensation, profits, emoluments or other remuneration of public entertainers such as stage, motion picture or radio artists, musicians and athletes.

[1] Paragraph (3) of Article XI was deleted by the Protocol approved June 6, 1946.

ARTICLE XII

(1) Any pension (other than a pension to which Article X applies), and any life annuity, derived from sources within the United States by an individual who is a resident of the United Kingdom shall be exempt from United States tax.

(2) Any pension (other than a pension to which Article X applies), and any life annuity, derived from sources within the United Kingdom by an individual who is a resident of the United States shall be exempt from United Kingdom tax.

(3) The term "life annuity" means a stated sum payable periodically at stated times, during life or during a specified or ascertainable period of time, under an obligation to make the payments in consideration of money paid.

ARTICLE XIII

(1) Subject to section 131 of the United States Internal Revenue Code as in effect on the first day of January, 1945, United Kingdom tax shall be allowed as a credit against United States tax. For this purpose, the recipient of a dividend paid by a corporation which is a resident of the United Kingdom shall be deemed to have paid the United Kingdom income tax appropriate to such dividend if such recipient elects to include in his gross income for the purposes of United States tax the amount of such United Kingdom income tax.

(2) Subject to such provisions (which shall not affect the general principle hereof) as may be enacted in the United Kingdom, United States tax payable in respect of income from sources within the United States shall be allowed as a credit against any United Kingdom tax payable in respect of that income. Where such income is an ordinary dividend paid by a United States corporation, such credit shall take into account (in addition to any United States income tax deducted from or imposed on such dividend) the United States income tax imposed on such corporation in respect of its profits, and where it is a dividend paid on participating preference shares and representing both a dividend at the fixed rate to which the shares are entitled and an additional participation in profits, such additional profits shall likewise be taken into account in so far as the dividend exceeds such fixed rate.

(3) For the purposes of this Article, compensation, profits, emoluments and other remuneration for personal (including professional) services shall be deemed to be income from sources within the territory of the Contracting Party where such services are performed.

ARTICLE XIV

A resident of the United Kingdom not engaged in trade or business in the United States shall be exempt from United States tax on gains from the sale or exchange of capital assets.

ARTICLE XV

Dividends and interest paid on or after the first day of January 1945 by a United Kingdom corporation shall be exempt from United States tax except where the recipient is a citizen of or a resident of the United States or a United States corporation.

ARTICLE XVI

A United Kingdom corporation shall be exempt from United States tax on its accumulated or undistributed earnings, profits, income or surplus, if individuals who are residents of the United Kingdom control, directly or indirectly, throughout the last half of the taxable year, more than 50 percent of the entire voting power in such corporation.

ARTICLE XVII

(1) The United States income tax liability for any taxable year beginning prior to January 1, 1936 of any individual (other than a citizen of the United States) resident in the United Kingdom, or of any United Kingdom corporation, remaining unpaid on the date of signature of the present Convention, may be adjusted on a basis satisfactory to the United States Commissioner of Internal Revenue: Provided, That the amount to be paid in settlement of such liability shall not exceed the amount of the liability which would have been determined if:

(a) The United States Revenue Act of 1936 (except in the case of a United Kingdom corporation in which more than 50 percent of the entire voting power was controlled, directly or indirectly, throughout the latter half of the taxable year, by citizens or residents of the United States), and

(b) Articles XV and XVI of the present Convention, had been in effect for such year.

If the taxpayer was not, within the meaning of such Revenue Act, engaged in trade or business in the United States and had no office or place of business therein during the taxable year, the amount of interest and penalties shall not exceed 50 percent of the amount of the tax with respect to which such interest and penalties have been computed.

(2) The United States income tax unpaid on the date of signature of the present Convention for any taxable year beginning after the thirty-first day of December 1935 and prior to the first day of January 1945 in the case of an individual (other than a citizen of the United States) resident of the United Kingdom, or in the case of any United Kingdom corporation shall be determined as if the provisions of Articles XV and XVI of the present Convention had been in effect for such taxable year.

(3) The provisions of paragraph (1) of this Article shall not apply:

(a) Unless the taxpayer files with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue on or before the thirty-first day of December 1947 a request that such tax liability be so adjusted and furnishes such information as the Commissioner may require; or

(b) In any case in which the Commissioner is satisfied that any deficiency in tax is due to fraud with intent to evade the tax.

ARTICLE XVIII

A professor or teacher from the territory of one of the Contracting Parties who visits the territory of the other Contracting Party for the purpose of teaching, for a period not exceeding two years, at a university, college, school or other educational institution in the territory of such other Contracting Party shall be exempted by such other Contracting Party from tax on his remuneration for such teaching for such period.

ARTICLE XIX

A student or business apprentice from the territory of one of the Contracting Parties who is receiving full-time education or training in the territory of the other Contracting Party shall be exempted by such other Contracting Party from tax on payments made to him by persons within the territory of the former Contracting Party for the purposes of his maintenance, education or training.

ARTICLE XX

(1) The taxation authorities of the Contracting Parties shall exchange such information (being information available under the respective taxation laws of the Contracting Parties) as is necessary for carrying out the provisions of the present Convention or for the prevention of fraud or the administration of statutory provisions against legal avoidance in relation to the taxes which are the subject of the present Convention. Any information so exchanged shall be treated as secret and shall not be disclosed to any person other than those concerned with the assessment and collection of the taxes which are the subject of the present Convention. No information shall be exchanged which would disclose any trade secret or trade process.

(2) As used in this Article, the term "taxation authorities" means, in the case of the United States, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue or his authorized representative; in the case of the United Kingdom, the Commissioners of Inland Revenue or their authorized representatives; and, in the case of any territory to which the present Convention is extended under Article XXII, the competent authority for the administration in such territory of the taxes to which the present Convention applies.

ARTICLE XXI

(1) The nationals of one of the Contracting Parties shall not, while resident in the territory of the other Contracting Party, be subjected therein to other or more burdensome taxes than are the nationals of such other Contracting Party resident in its territory.

(2) The term "nationals" as used in this Article means:

(a) In relation to the United Kingdom, all British subjects and British protected persons, from the United Kingdom or any territory with respect to which the present Convention is applicable by reason of extension made by the United Kingdom under Article XXII; and

(b) In relation to the United States, United States citizens, and all persons under the protection of the United States, from the United States or any territory to which the present Convention is applicable by reason of extension made by the United States under Article XXII; and includes all legal persons, partnerships and associations deriving their status as such from, or created or organized under, the laws in force in any territory of the Contracting Parties to which the present Convention applies.

(3) In this Article the word "taxes" means taxes of every kind or description, whether national, Federal, state, provincial or municipal.

ARTICLE XXII

(1) Either of the Contracting Parties may at the time of exchange of instruments of ratification or thereafter while the present Convention continues in force, by a written notification of extension given to the other Contracting Party through diplomatic channels, declare its desire that the operation of the present Convention shall extend to all or any of its colonies, overseas territories, protectorates, or territories in respect of which it exercises a mandate, which impose taxes substantially similar in character to those which are the subject of the present Convention. The present Convention shall apply to the territory or territories named in such notification on the date or dates specified in the notification (not being less than sixty days from the date of the notification) or, if no date is specified in respect of any such territory, on the sixtieth day after the date of such notification, unless, prior to the date on which the Convention would otherwise become applicable to a particular territory, the Contracting Party to whom notification is given shall have informed the other Contracting Party in writing through diplomatic channels that it does not accept such notification as to that territory. In the absence of such extension, the present Convention shall not apply to any such territory.

(2) At any time after the expiration of one year from the entry into force of an extension under paragraph (1) of this Article, either of the Contracting Parties may, by written notice of termination given to the other Contracting Party through diplomatic channels, terminate the application of the present Convention to any territory to which it has been extended under paragraph (1), and in such event the present Convention shall cease to apply, six months after the date of such notice, to the territory or territories named therein, but without affecting its continued application to the United States, the United Kingdom or to any other territory to which it has been extended under paragraph (1) hereof.

(3) In the application of the present Convention in relation to any territory to which it is extended by notification by the United States or the United Kingdom references to the "United States" or, as the case may be, the "United Kingdom" shall be construed as references to that territory.

(4) The termination in respect of the United States or the United Kingdom of the present Convention under Article XXIV or of Article VI shall, unless otherwise expressly agreed by both Contracting Parties, terminate the application of the present Convention or, as the case may be, that Article to any territory to which the Convention has been extended by the United States or the United Kingdom.

(5) The provisions of the preceding paragraphs of this Article shall apply to the Channel Islands and the Isle of Man as if they were colonies of the United Kingdom.

ARTICLE XXIII

(1) The present Convention shall be ratified and the instruments of ratification shall be exchanged at Washington as soon as possible.

(2) Upon exchange of ratifications, the present Convention shall have effect

(a) As respects United States tax, for the taxable years beginning on or after the first day of January 1945;

(b) (i) As respects United Kingdom income tax, for the year of assessment beginning on the 6th day of April 1945 and subsequent years; (ii) as respects United Kingdom surtax, for the year of assessment beginning on the 6th day of April 1944 and subsequent years; and (iii) as respects United Kingdom excess profits tax and national defence contribution, for any chargeable accounting period beginning on or after the first day of April 1945 and for the unexpired portion of any chargeable accounting period current at that date.

ARTICLE XXIV

(1) The present Convention shall continue in effect indefinitely but either of the Contracting Parties may, on or before the 30th day of June in any year after the year 1946, give to the other Contracting Party, through diplomatic channels, notice of termination and, in such event, the present Convention shall cease to be effective

(a) As respects United States tax, for the taxable years beginning on or after the first day of January in the year next following that in which such notice is given;

(b) (i) As respects United Kingdom income tax, for any year of assessment beginning on or after the 6th day of April in the year next following that in which such notice is given; (ii) as respects United Kingdom surtax, for any year of assessment beginning on or after the 6th day of April in the year in which such notice is given; and (iii) as respects United Kingdom excess profits tax and national defense contribution, for any chargeable accounting period beginning on or after the first day of April in the year next following that in which such notice is given and for the unexpired portion of any chargeable accounting period current at that date.

(2) The termination of the present Convention or of any Article thereof shall not have the effect of reviving any treaty or arrangement abrogated by the present Convention or by treaties previously concluded between the Contracting Parties.

In witness whereof the above-mentioned Plenipotentiaries have signed the present Convention and have affixed thereto their seals.

Done at Washington, in duplicate, on the 16th day of April, 1945.

For the Government of the United States of America:

of the United States of America.

* * * * *

SEC. 22. GROSS INCOME

* * * * *

(b) Exclusions from Gross Income. The following items shall not be included in gross income and shall be exempt from taxation under this chapter:

(7) Income exempt under treaty. Income of any kind, to the extent required by any treaty obligation of the United States:

* * * * *

SEC. 62. RULES AND REGULATIONS

The Commissioner, with the approval of the Secretary, shall prescribe and publish all needful rules and regulations for the enforcement of this chapter.

Pursuant to section 62 of the Internal Revenue Code, and other provisions of the internal revenue laws, the following regulations, which are designated as §§ 7.514 to 7.532, are hereby prescribed and all regulations inconsistent herewith are modified accordingly.

§ 7.514 Scope of the convention. The primary purposes of the convention, to be accomplished on a reciprocal basis, are to avoid double taxation upon major items of income derived from sources in one country by persons resident in the other country, and to exchange fiscal information complementary to other provisions of the convention, including those relating to avoidance of double taxation.

The specific classes of income from sources within the United States exempt under the convention from United States tax for taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 1945, are:

(a) Industrial and commercial profits of a United Kingdom enterprise having no permanent establishment in the United States (Article III);

(b) Income derived by a nonresident alien who is a resident of the United Kingdom, or by a United Kingdom corporation, from the operation of ships documented or aircraft registered, under the laws of the United Kingdom (Article V);

(c) Interest and royalties (including film rentals) derived by a nonresident alien who is a resident of the United Kingdom or by a foreign corporation managed and controlled in the United Kingdom if such alien or corporation (1) is subject to United Kingdom tax upon such interest or royalties, and (2) has no permanent establishment in the United States (but such exemption does not apply to interest paid to such foreign corporation controlling the corporation paying such interest) (Articles VII and VIII);

(d) Compensation and pensions paid by the United Kingdom to individuals (other than a citizen of the United States who is not also a British subject) for services rendered to the United Kingdom in the discharge of its governmental functions (Article X);

(e) Compensation for personal services derived by a nonresident alien who is a resident of the United Kingdom if (1) such alien is present in the United States for a period or periods not exceeding 183 days during the taxable year, and (2) such services are performed for, or on behalf of, a person resident in the United Kingdom (Article XI);

(f) Pensions (other than pensions paid by the Government of the United States) and life annuities derived by nonresident alien individuals residing in the United Kingdom (Article XII);

(g) Gains from the sale or exchange of capital assets by a nonresident alien who is a resident of the United Kingdom or by a foreign corporation managed and controlled in the United Kingdom, if such alien or corporation has no permanent establishment in the United States (Article XIV);

(h) Dividends and interest paid on or after January 1, 1945, by a corporation organized under the laws of the United Kingdom to a nonresident alien or foreign corporation (Article XV);

(i) Remuneration derived from teaching in the United States for a period of not more than two years by a professor or teacher who is from the territory of the United Kingdom, but who is temporarily present in the United States (Article XVIII);

(j) Remittances from sources within the United Kingdom received in the United States by a nonresident alien individual who is from the territory of the United Kingdom but who is temporarily present in the United States for the purpose of education, or training, such remittances being for the purpose of his maintenance, education, or training (Article XIX).

The convention also reduces to 15 percent the rate of tax otherwise imposed upon dividends, natural resource royalties and rentals from real property, derived by a nonresident alien who is resident in the United Kingdom or by a foreign corporation managed and controlled in the United Kingdom if such alien or corporation meets the tests of liability to United Kingdom tax and absence of permanent establishment in the United States set out in paragraph (c) of this section with respect to exemption in the case of interest and royalties.

As to exemption from withholding of the tax at the source in the case of interest, royalties, pensions and life annuities and reduction in the rate of tax from 30 percent to 15 percent in the case of dividends, natural resource royalties, and rentals arising from real property, see Treasury Decision 5532 (26 CFR 7.500 to 7.511).

The convention does not affect the liability to United States income taxation of subjects of the United Kingdom who are residents of the United States except that such individuals are entitled to the benefits of Article X (relating to United Kingdom Government salaries and the like), of Article XIII (1) (relating to credit for United Kingdom income tax), and of Article XXI (relating to equality of taxation). Except as provided in Article X with respect to a citizen of the United States who is also a British subject and in Article XIII relating to the credit for income tax, the convention does not affect taxation by the United States of a citizen of the United States or of a domestic corporation, even though such citizen is resident in the United Kingdom and such corporation is managed and controlled in the United Kingdom. The convention has general application to foreign corporations managed and controlled in the United Kingdom even though such corporations are not organized under the laws of the United Kingdom, but, in the case of corporations organized under the laws of the United Kingdom but managed and controlled outside the United Kingdom, the provisions of Articles V, XV and XVI are applicable.

§ 7.515 Definitions. As used in §§ 7.512 to 7.532, inclusive, unless the context otherwise requires, the terms defined in the convention shall have the meanings so assigned to them. Any term used in §§ 7.512 to 7.532, inclusive, which is not defined in the convention, but which is defined in the Internal Revenue Code shall be given the definition contained therein unless the context otherwise requires.

As used in §§ 7.512 to 7.532, inclusive:

(a) The term "permanent establishment" means a branch, management, factory, mine, oil well, farm, timberland, plantation, workshop, warehouse, office, or other fixed place of business. The fact that a foreign corporation managed and controlled in the United Kingdom has a domestic subsidiary corporation, or a foreign subsidiary corporation having a branch in the United States, does not of itself constitute either subsidiary corporation a permanent establishment of the parent United Kingdom enterprise. The fact that a United Kingdom enterprise has business dealings in the United States through a bona fide commission agent, broker, or custodian, acting in the usual course of his business as such, or maintains in the United States an office or other fixed place of business used exclusively for the purchase of goods or merchandise, does not mean that such United Kingdom enterprise has a permanent establishment in the United States. If, however, a United Kingdom enterprise carries on business in the United States through an agent who has, and habitually exercises, a general authority to negotiate and conclude contracts on behalf of such enterprise or if it has an agent who maintains within the United States a stock of merchandise from which he regularly fills orders on behalf of his principal, then such enterprise shall be deemed to have a permanent establishment in the United States. However, an agent having power to contract on behalf of his principal but only at fixed prices and under conditions determined by the principal does not constitute a permanent establishment of such principal. The mere fact that an agent (assuming he has no general authority to contract on behalf of his employer or principal) maintains samples or occasionally fills orders from incidental stocks of goods maintained in the United States will not constitute a permanent establishment within the United States. The mere fact that salesmen, employees of a United Kingdom enterprise, promote the sale of their employer's products in the United States or that such enterprise transacts business in the United States by means of mail-order activities, does not mean such enterprise has a permanent establishment therein. The term "permanent establishment" as used in the convention implies the active conduct therein of a business enterprise. The mere ownership, for example, of timberlands or a warehouse in the United States by a United Kingdom enterprise does not mean that such enterprise has a permanent establishment therein. As to the effect of the maintenance of a permanent establishment within the United States upon exemption from United States tax in the case of interest and royalties and reduction in the rate of United States tax in the case of dividends, natural resource royalties, and rentals arising from real property, see § 7.519.

(b) The term "enterprise" means any commercial or industrial undertaking whether conducted by an individual, partnership, corporation, or other entity. It includes such activities as manufacturing, merchandising, mining, processing, and banking. It does not include the rendition of personal services. Hence, a nonresident alien who is a resident of the United Kingdom and who renders personal services is not, merely by reason of such services, engaged in an enterprise within the meaning of the convention and his liability to United States tax is not affected by Article III of the convention.

(c) The term "United Kingdom enterprise" means an enterprise carried on by any person (including an individual and foreign corporation, whether or not a corporation organized under the laws of the United Kingdom, which is managed and controlled in the United Kingdom but not including a United States citizen or domestic corporation) who is a resident of the United Kingdom, regardless of whether such enterprise is carried on within or without the United Kingdom.

(d) The term "resident of the United Kingdom" means any nonresident alien (including an individual, fiduciary and partnership) resident in the United Kingdom for the purposes of United Kingdom income tax, and any foreign corporation managed and controlled from within the United Kingdom but not engaged in trade or business within the United States.

(e) The term "industrial and commercial profits", means profits arising from industrial, commercial, mercantile, manufacturing, and like activities of a United Kingdom enterprise as defined in this section. Such term does not include rentals, royalties, interest, dividends, fees, compensation for personal services, nor gains derived from the sale or exchange of capital assets. Such enumerated items of income are not governed by the provisions of Article III of the convention but are subject to the rules elsewhere set forth in the convention and in §§ 7.512 to 7.532, inclusive.

§ 7.516 Scope of convention with respect to determination of "industrial or commercial profits"—(a) General. Article III of the convention adopts the principle that an enterprise of one of the contracting parties shall not be taxable in the territory of the other contracting party upon its industrial or commercial profits unless it has a permanent establishment in the territory of the latter party. Hence, a United Kingdom enterprise is subject to United States tax upon its industrial and commercial profits to the extent of such profits from sources within the United States only if it has a permanent establishment within the United States. From the standpoint of Federal income taxation, the article has application only to a United Kingdom enterprise and to the industrial and commercial income thereof from sources within the United States. It has no application, for example, to compensation for labor or personal services performed in the United States nor to income derived from real property located in the United States, including rentals and royalties therefrom, nor to gains from the sale or disposition of such property, nor to interest, dividends, royalties, other fixed or determinable annual or periodical income and gains derived from the sale or exchange of capital assets.

(b) No United States permanent establishment. A nonresident alien individual who is a resident of the United Kingdom or a foreign corporation managed and controlled in the United Kingdom, having no permanent establishment in the United States is not, for taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 1945, subject to United States income tax upon industrial and commercial profits from sources within the United States. For example, if such United Kingdom enterprise sells, in 1946, merchandise, such as leather goods, porcelain, textiles, or liquors, through a bona fide commission agent or broker in the United States acting in the ordinary course of his business as such agent or broker, the resulting profits are, under the terms of Article III of the convention, exempt from United States income tax. Likewise no permanent establishment exists if such enterprise, through its sales agents in the United States, secures orders for its products, the sales being made in the United Kingdom.

(c) United States permanent establishment. A nonresident alien (including a nonresident alien individual, fiduciary and partnership) who is a resident of the United Kingdom or a foreign corporation managed and controlled in the United Kingdom, having a permanent establishment in the United States, is subject to tax upon industrial and commercial profits from sources within the United States to the same extent as are nonresident aliens and foreign corporations engaged in trade or business therein. In the determination of the income taxable to such alien or foreign corporation all industrial and commercial profits from sources within the United States shall be deemed to be allocable to the permanent establishment in the United States. Hence, for example, if a United Kingdom enterprise having a permanent establishment in the United States sells in the United States, through a commission agent therein goods produced in the United Kingdom, the resulting profits derived from United States sources from such transactions are allocable to such permanent establishment even though such transactions were carried on independently of such establishment. In determining industrial and commercial profits no account shall be taken of the mere purchase of merchandise within the United States by the United Kingdom enterprise. The industrial or commercial profits of the permanent establishment shall be determined as if the establishment were an independent enterprise engaged in the same or similar activities and dealing at arm's length with the enterprise of which it is a permanent establishment.

§ 7.517 Control of a domestic enterprise by a United Kingdom enterprise. Article IV of the convention provides, in effect, that if a United Kingdom enterprise by reason of its control of a domestic enterprise imposes on such latter enterprise conditions different from those which would result from normal business relations between independent enterprises, the accounts between the enterprises may be adjusted so as to ascertain the true net income of each enterprise. The purpose is to place the controlled domestic enterprise on a tax parity with an uncontrolled domestic enterprise by determining, according to the standard of an uncontrolled enterprise, the true net income from the property and business of the controlled enterprise. The basic objective of the article is that if the accounting records do not truly reflect the net income from the property and business of such domestic enterprise the Commissioner of Internal Revenue may intervene and, by making such distributions, apportionments, or allocations as he may deem necessary of gross income or deductions of any item or element affecting net income as between such domestic enterprise and the United Kingdom enterprise by which it is controlled or directed, determine the true net income of the domestic enterprise. The provisions of § 29.45–1 of this chapter (Regulations 111), shall, insofar as applicable, be followed in the determination of the net income of the domestic business.

§ 7.518 Income from operation of ships and aircraft. The income derived from the operation of ships documented, or aircraft registered, under the laws of the United Kingdom by a nonresident alien who is a resident of the United Kingdom or by a corporation, association, or other like entity created under the laws of the United Kingdom, is, for taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 1945, exempt from United States income tax under the provisions of Article V of the convention. It is immaterial for the purpose of the exemption whether such corporation is managed and controlled in the United Kingdom.

§ 7.519 Exemption from, or reduction in rate of, United States tax in the case of dividends, interest, royalties, natural resource royalties, and real property rentals—(a) Dividends, natural resource royalties, and rentals from real property—(1) General. The tax imposed by the Internal Revenue Code in the case of dividends, natural resource royalties, and rentals arising from real property (including leasehold and other interest in such property), received in any taxable year beginning on or after January 1, 1945, from sources within the United States by (i) a nonresident alien (including a nonresident alien individual, fiduciary, and partnership) who is a resident of the United Kingdom, or (ii) a foreign corporation (whether or not created under the laws of the United Kingdom) which is managed and controlled in the United Kingdom, is limited to 15 percent under the provisions of Article VI (1) (relating to dividends) and Article IX (1) (relating to natural resource royalties and rentals from real property) of the convention if such alien or corporation:

(a) Is subject to United Kingdom tax on such dividends, natural resource royalties and rentals, and

(b) At no time during the taxable year in which such dividends, natural resource royalties and rentals were so derived, was engaged in trade or business within the United States.

For the purposes of Articles VI, VII, VIII, IX and XIV of the convention, the nonresident alien or foreign corporation is not deemed to be engaged in trade or business within the United States unless such alien or foreign corporation has a permanent establishment situated therein at some time in the taxable year in which the income is derived. See Article II (2) of the convention. Thus, if a nonresident alien who is a resident of the United Kingdom, performs personal services within the United States during the calendar year 1946, has no permanent establishment within the United States at any time during such year, and is subject to United Kingdom tax upon dividends derived by him from United States sources in that year, he is entitled to the reduced rate of tax with respect to such dividends, as provided in Article VI (1) of the convention, even though by reason of his having rendered personal services within the United States he is engaged in trade or business therein in that year within the meaning of section 211 (b) of the Internal Revenue Code. If, for example, A, a nonresident alien who is a resident of the United Kingdom, derives in 1946, $5,000 compensation for such personal services and his only other income from sources within the United States consists of dividends, the dividends are subject to tax at the rate not to exceed 15 percent and his earned income is subject to normal tax and surtax without taking the dividends into account in determining the tax on such earned income.

In any case, however, in which a nonresident alien or a foreign corporation derives from sources within the United States in any taxable year beginning on or after January 1, 1945, royalties from the operation of mines, quarries, or other extraction of natural resources or rentals from real property situated within the United States and is entitled to the reduced rate of 15 percent prescribed in Article IX of the convention, such alien or foreign corporation may for such taxable year elect instead to be subject to Federal income tax as if such alien or corporation were engaged in trade or business within the United States by reason of having a permanent establishment therein. Such election shall be made by so signifying on the return for such year. The election so signified shall be irrevocable for the taxable year for which such election is made. In such a case a return may be filed by the nonresident alien or foreign corporation even though the sole income of such alien or corporation from sources within the United States is fixed or determinable annual or periodical income upon which the tax has been fully satisfied at the source and there exists no necessity for the filing of the return except for the purposes of securing the benefits of Article IX of the convention. See § 29.217–2 of this chapter (Regulations 111).

(2) Dividends paid by a United States subsidiary corporation. Under the proviso of Article VI (1) of the convention, dividends paid by a domestic corporation to its foreign parent corporation are subject to tax at the rate of only 5 percent if (i) such foreign corporation controls, directly or indirectly, at the time the dividend is paid 95 percent or more of the voting power in such domestic corporation, (ii) not more than 25 percent of the gross income of the domestic corporation paying the dividend consists of dividends and interest (other than dividends and interest paid to such domestic corporation by its own subsidiary corporations, if any), and (iii) the relationship between such domestic corporation and such foreign corporation has not been arranged or maintained primarily with the intention of securing such reduced rate of 5 percent.

Thus, for example, the X Corporation is a domestic corporation, 97 percent of the entire voting stock of which is controlled by the Y Company, Ltd., a foreign corporation managed and controlled in the United Kingdom, not having a permanent establishment in the United States at any time during the calendar year 1946, and subject to United Kingdom tax with respect to any dividends received by it or credited to its account in the United States. The X Corporation makes its income tax returns on the calendar year basis and throughout each of the years 1943, 1944, and 1945 derived not more than 25 percent of its gross income from interest and dividends from corporations not controlled by it. The relationship between the X Corporation and the Y Company, Ltd., is a relationship arranged and maintained without reference to the reduced rate of tax on dividends provided in the proviso in Article VI (1) of the convention. A dividend was paid by the X Corporation to the Y Company, Ltd., on July 1, 1946. The reduced rate of tax of 5 percent is applicable to such dividend.

(b) Interest and royalties—(1) General. Interest (other than interest paid by a subsidiary corporation to its United Kingdom parent corporation, as explained in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph), whether on bonds, securities, notes, debentures or any other form of indebtedness (including interest on obligations of the United States and on obligations of instrumentalities of the United States) and royalties for the privilege of using copyrights, patents, designs, secret processes and formulae, trade-marks, and other like property (including film rentals) received in any taxable year beginning on or after January 1, 1945, from sources within the United States by (i) a nonresident alien (including a nonresident alien individual, fiduciary, and partnership) who is a resident of the United Kingdom, or (ii) a foreign corporation (whether or not organized under the laws of the United Kingdom) which is managed and controlled in the United Kingdom, are exempt from United States tax under the provisions of Articles VII and VIII of the convention if such alien, or corporation:

(a) Is subject to United Kingdom tax on such interest or royalty, and

(b) At no time during the taxable year in which such interest or royalty was so derived, had a permanent establishment situated within the United States.

Such interest and royalties are, therefore, not subject to the withholding provisions of the Internal Revenue Code.

(2) Interest paid by subsidiary corporation to its United Kingdom parent corporation. Article VII (1) of the convention provides in part that the exemption from United States tax of interest paid to residents of the United Kingdom shall not apply to interest paid by a domestic corporation to a foreign corporation managed and controlled in the United Kingdom if such foreign corporation controls more than 50 percent of the voting power of all classes of stock of such domestic corporation.

(c) Beneficiaries of an estate or trust. A nonresident alien who is a resident of the United Kingdom and who is a beneficiary of a domestic estate or trust, shall be entitled to the exemption, or reduction in the rate of tax, as the case may be, provided in Articles VI, VII, VIII, IX and XIV of the convention with respect to dividends, interest, royalties, natural resource royalties, rentals from real property and capital gains to the extent such item or items are included in his distributive share of income of such estate or trust if he is taxable in the United Kingdom on such income and is not engaged in trade or business in the United States through a permanent establishment. In such case such beneficiary must, in order to be entitled to the exemption or reduction in the rate of tax, execute Form 1001–UK or Form 1001A–UK (modified to show dividends where applicable) and file such form with the fiduciary of such estate or trust in the United States.

In any case in which dividends, interest, royalties, rents or the like are derived from United States sources by a United Kingdom estate or trust any beneficiary of such estate or trust who is not a resident of the United Kingdom is not entitled to any exemption under the convention with respect to such income included in his distributive share of the income of the estate or trust.

§ 7.520 Government wages, salaries, pensions, and similar remunerations. Under Article X of the convention any salary, wage, similar remuneration, or pension, paid in taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 1945, by the Government of the United Kingdom for services rendered such Government (whether within or without the United States) in the discharge of its governmental functions by any individual who is not a citizen of the United States, is exempt from Federal income tax. For the purposes of the exemption an individual is treated as not a citizen of the United States if he or she has the dual status of being a citizen of the United States as well as being a subject of the United Kingdom. Thus, if A, a United States citizen, marries a British subject and assumes the status of a British subject by reason of such marriage without relinquishing her United States citizenship and performs personal services in the United States for the Government of the United Kingdom, the compensation for such services is excluded from gross income. As to the taxation, generally, of compensation of alien employees of foreign governments see section 116 (h) of the Internal Revenue Code § 29.116–2 of this chapter (Regulations 111). The exemption granted by Article X of the convention does not apply to compensation for services rendered incident to the carrying on of any trade or business by the United Kingdom.

§ 7.521 Compensation for labor or personal services. Article XI provides, upon a reciprocal basis, that a nonresident alien who is a resident of the United Kingdom is, for taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 1945, exempt from Federal income tax upon compensation (regardless of amount of such compensation) for personal (including professional) services performed during the taxable year within the United States if for such taxable year:

(a) Such alien is temporarily present in the United States for a period or periods not exceeding 183 days during such taxable year, and

(b) Such services are performed for or on behalf of a person resident in the United Kingdom.

As to the source of compensation for labor or personal services see section 119 (a) (3), Internal Revenue Code.

§ 7.522 Pensions and life annuities. Under the provisions of Article XII of the convention, pensions (other than pensions paid by the United States) and life annuities derived from sources within the United States by a nonresident alien individual who is a resident of the United Kingdom are exempt from Federal income tax for taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 1945. The term "life annuities" means a stated sum payable periodically at stated times during life or during a specified or ascertainable period of time under an obligation to make payments in consideration of payments made for such obligation.

§ 7.523 Capital gains. Under Article XIV of the convention, when read in association with Article II (2) of the convention, gains from the sale or exchange of capital assets by a nonresident alien individual who is a resident of the United Kingdom or by a foreign corporation managed and controlled in the United Kingdom are, for taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 1945, exempt from Federal income tax unless such alien or corporation has a permanent establishment in the United States. As to what constitutes capital assets, see section 117, Internal Revenue Code. As to what constitutes a permanent establishment see § 7.515. If A, a nonresident alien individual who is a resident of the United Kingdom, performs personal services within the United States during the calendar year 1946 for a domestic employer, he is engaged in trade or business within the United States in such taxable year. Section 211 (b), Internal Revenue Code. He carries on in that year no other business activity within the United States other than certain securities transactions upon a domestic stock exchange and maintained no office or other fixed place of business within the United States at any time during such year. A is not subject to Federal income tax upon his capital gains, if any, realized from his securities transactions. Likewise, a foreign corporation managed and controlled in the United Kingdom selling its products manufactured in the United Kingdom through a resident commission agent or broker in the United States and having certain securities transactions within the United States as its only other business activity therein is exempt from United States tax upon those capital gains, if any, arising from the securities transactions within the United States.

§ 7.524 Dividends and interest paid by a United Kingdom corporation. A dividend paid by a foreign corporation constitutes in whole or in part income from sources within the United States and hence is subject to tax in the hands of a nonresident alien or foreign corporation, if 50 percent or more of the gross income of the foreign corporation paying such dividend is derived from sources within the United States during the period prescribed by the statute. Section 119 (a) (2) (B), Internal Revenue Code, and § 29.119–3 (b) of this chapter (Regulations 111). Interest paid by a resident foreign corporation constitutes in its entirety income from sources within the United States, and hence is subject to tax in the hands of a nonresident alien individual or foreign corporation, if 20 percent or more of the gross income of the foreign corporation paying such interest is derived from sources within the United States during the period prescribed by the statute. Section 119 (a) (1) (B), Internal Revenue Code, and § 29.119–2 (b) of this chapter (Regulations 111).

Under the provisions of Article XV of the convention, dividends and interest paid by a corporation created under the laws of the United Kingdom to any nonresident alien or to any foreign corporation, whether or not such alien is a resident of the United Kingdom and whether or not such foreign corporation is organized under the laws of the United Kingdom, are, for taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 1945, not subject to Federal income tax regardless of whether the corporation paying such dividends or interest is a resident foreign (as to the United States) corporation and regardless of the percentage of its gross income derived from sources within the United States.

§ 7.525 United Kingdom corporations; exemption from Federal taxation with respect to accumulated profits or undistributed income. Section 102 of the Internal Revenue Code imposes (in addition to other taxes imposed by Chapter 1 of such Code) a graduated income tax or surtax upon any domestic or foreign corporation formed or availed of to avoid the imposition of the individual surtax upon its shareholders or the shareholders of any other corporation through the medium of permitting earnings or profits to accumulate instead of dividing or distributing them. Such tax, however, does not apply in the case of personal holding companies as defined in section 501 of the Internal Revenue Code nor to foreign personal holding companies as defined in Supplement P (section 331) of such Code. Section 500 of the Internal Revenue Code imposes (in addition to the taxes imposed by Chapter 1 of such code) a graduated income tax or surtax upon corporations classified as personal holding companies, regardless of whether or not they are formed or availed of to accumulate earnings or profits for the purpose of avoiding surtax upon shareholders.

Under the provisions of Article XVI of the convention corporations organized under the laws of the United Kingdom are, for taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 1945, subject to neither the tax imposed by section 102 of the Internal Revenue Code nor the tax imposed by section 500 of such code if more than 50 percent of the entire voting power in such corporation is controlled directly or indirectly throughout the last half of the taxable year by nonresident alien individuals who are residents of the United Kingdom. To come within the scope of the exemption, the prescribed proportion of the stock of the United Kingdom corporation concerned must be so owned at all times throughout the last half of the taxable year in which the taxable status of the corporation is involved. In determining the ownership of the voting stock of the United Kingdom corporation, the provisions of §§ 29.503 (a)–1 to 29.503 (a)–7, inclusive, and § 29.503 (b)–1 of this chapter (Regulations 111), shall, in so far as not inconsistent with the convention, be applicable in the administration of the provisions of the convention.

§ 7.526 Visiting professors or teachers. Under Article XVIII of the convention, an alien individual who is from the territory of the United Kingdom, but who is temporarily present within the United States for the purposes of teaching, lecturing, or instructing, at any university, college, school, or other educational institution situated within the United States, is, for a period not exceeding two years from the date of his arrival in the United States, exempt for taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 1945, from Federal income tax on remuneration received for such services. It shall be deemed that such alien coming to the United States for the purposes indicated has, for a period of not more than two years immediately succeeding the date of his arrival within the United States for such purposes, the tax status of a nonresident alien in the absence of proof of his intention to remain indefinitely in the United States.

§ 7.527 Remittances. Under Article XIX of the convention nonresident alien individuals who are from the territory of the United Kingdom but who are temporarily present in the United States for the purposes of study or for acquiring business experience or training are exempt, for taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 1945, from Federal income tax upon amounts representing remittances from sources within the United Kingdom for the purposes of their maintenance, education, and training.

§ 7.528 Credit against United States tax liability for income tax paid or deemed to have been paid to the United Kingdom. For the purpose of avoidance of double taxation, Article XIII of the convention provides that there shall be allowed on the part of the United States, in accordance with section 131 of the International Revenue Code as in effect on the first day of January, 1945, for taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 1945, against the United States income and excess profits tax liability a credit for United Kingdom taxes.

In determining the credit under section 131 of the Internal Revenue Code, in any case in which a taxpayer receives a dividend from a foreign corporation managed and controlled in the United Kingdom it shall be deemed that such taxpayer has paid to the United Kingdom, the United Kingdom income tax at the rate appropriate to such dividend, if such taxpayer elects to include in his gross income an amount equivalent to such United Kingdom income tax in addition to the amount of the dividend otherwise included in gross income.

Thus, if such foreign corporation declares during the taxable year 1945 a gross dividend of which the taxpayer's share is $1,000, and the standard rate of United Kingdom income tax in 1945 is 50 percent and such corporation is not entitled to any "relief" from the payment of the standard rate of tax because of any Dominion income tax paid by it, there is deducted at the source of such corporation incident to the payment of the dividend of $1,000 the sum of $500, leaving a net amount of $500 actually received by the taxpayer. If the taxpayer elects to include the entire amount of $1,000 in his gross income, the amount of $500, representing the United Kingdom income tax deemed to have been paid, is allowable as a credit under section 131 of the Internal Revenue Code, subject to the limitations provided in that section. If, however, the foreign corporation is entitled to "relief" for Dominion income tax paid by it so that the amount of tax deducted from the gross dividend is the net United Kingdom income tax (representing the standard tax reduced by the relief for Dominion income tax) the amount of such net United Kingdom tax is the amount allowable as a credit against the United States income tax under the provisions of section 131 of the Internal Revenue Code, subject to the limitations provided in that section provided the taxpayer elects to include in his gross income, in addition to the amount of the dividend received by him, the net United Kingdom tax appropriate to the dividend. See §§ 29.131–1 to 29.131–8 inclusive, of this chapter (Regulations 111).

The net United Kingdom tax is also the basis of the credit in the case of a dividend paid by such corporation subsequent to 1945 even though the tax required to be deducted from such dividend must be determined without taking into account any reduction by reason of "relief" from double taxation to which the corporation paying such dividend may be entitled. Thus, for example, a foreign corporation managed and controlled in the United Kingdom derives all of its income from sources within a British Dominion which imposes an income tax at an effective rate of 20 percent. On July 1, 1946, it pays a dividend, the gross amount of which in the case of A, a United States citizen shareholder resident in the United States, is $1,000. The amount of tax required to be withheld by the corporation is $450 or a rate of 45 percent applied to the gross amount of the dividend and A receives a net dividend of $550. However, the corporation in the payment of its United Kingdom income tax received a credit against the rate of 45 percent for the 20 percent tax paid to the Dominion. Hence the net United Kingdom rate is 25 percent which, applied to the gross dividend of $1,000, equals $250 which constitutes the United Kingdom income tax appropriate to the dividend. In such case, if A elects to take a credit for the United Kingdom tax appropriate to the dividend, he must include in gross income the amount of $550 plus $250, or $800, the sum of $250 being the basis of the resulting credit under the provisions of section 131, Internal Revenue Code.

Assume that a domestic corporation owns stock in a foreign corporation managed and controlled in the United Kingdom (hereinafter referred to as the first United Kingdom corporation), that the first United Kingdom corporation has as its sole income dividends received from a second United Kingdom corporation and that such second United Kingdom corporation derives all its income from sources within the X British Colony which imposes upon such second United Kingdom corporation tax at the rate of 20 percent of its income. Both the first and second United Kingdom corporations are subject to tax imposed by the United Kingdom. However, in the imposition of such tax upon the second United Kingdom corporation, there is allowed under United Kingdom law against the United Kingdom standard tax of 45 percent a credit of 20 percent imposed by the X Colony and hence such corporation pays United Kingdom tax at the rate of 25 percent. The second United Kingdom corporation is deemed under United Kingdom law to have paid the 25 percent United Kingdom tax with respect to the dividends paid by it and, in turn, the first United Kingdom corporation is deemed to have paid United Kingdom tax of 25 percent with respect to such dividends. When, therefore, dividends are received by the domestic corporation from the first United Kingdom corporation, such domestic corporation will for the purposes of the credit under section 131 be deemed to have paid United Kingdom tax of 25 percent. Such domestic corporation may elect to include in its gross income the amount of United Kingdom tax thus deemed to have been paid and to claim credit for such tax under the provisions of section 131 of the Internal Revenue Code.

§ 7.529 Adjustment of tax liability of nonresident aliens who are residents of the United Kingdom and of United Kingdom corporations. Article XVII (1) of the convention confers upon the Commissioner of Internal Revenue authority to adjust the tax liability for taxable years beginning prior to January 1, 1936, of any nonresident alien individual who is a resident of the United Kingdom and of any corporation organized under the laws of the United Kingdom (whether or not such corporation is managed and controlled in the United Kingdom) in any case in which such tax liability remained unpaid on April 16, 1945 (the date of signature of the convention). Such provisions, however, will not apply unless:

(a) The taxpayer files with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue on or before December 31, 1947, a request that such tax liability be so adjusted and a sworn statement showing for each year involved and for such other years as the Commissioner of Internal Revenue may require, (1) by items and classes of income the amounts of dividends, interest, rents, salaries, wages, premiums, annuities, compensations, remunerations, emoluments, or other fixed or determinable annual or periodical income, gains, profits, and income derived from sources within the United States; (2) the business transactions, if any, carried on in the United States by or in behalf of the taxpayer during each of such years; and (3) such further information as the Commissioner of Internal Revenue may require in the particular case; and

(b) The Commissioner of Internal Revenue is satisfied that the additional income tax involved did not arise by reason of fraud with intent to evade the tax on the part of the taxpayer concerned.

In any case in which the Commissioner of Internal Revenue deems it appropriate to exercise the authority thus conferred, the resulting tax liability for any such year or years may not exceed the amount of the liability which would be determined had the following been given effect for such year or years:

(1) The Revenue Act of 1936 (but this does not apply in the case of a United Kingdom corporation in which more than 50 percent of the entire voting power was controlled, directly or indirectly, through the latter half of the taxable year for which the liability is being determined by citizens or residents of the United States);

(2) Article XV of the convention, exempting from United States tax dividends and interest paid by a United Kingdom corporation to nonresident aliens or foreign corporations; and

(3) Article XVI of the convention, exempting United Kingdom corporations from the tax imposed by the United States with respect to accumulated or undistributed earnings, profits, income, or surplus.

In any case in which the Commissioner of Internal Revenue has exercised his authority to apply the provisions of Article XVII (1) of the convention, if the taxpayer was not engaged in trade or business within the United States and had no office or place of business therein during the taxable year involved, the aggregate amount of interest and penalties may not exceed 50 percent of the amount of the tax with respect to which such interest and penalties have been computed.

Article XVII (2) of the convention provides that the Federal income tax liability for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1935, and prior to January 1, 1945, which remains unpaid on April 16, 1945, the date of signature of the convention, in the case of any nonresident alien individual, a resident of the United Kingdom, or of any United Kingdom corporation, shall be determined under the United States internal revenue law properly applicable thereto, except that Articles XV (relating to exemption from United States tax of dividends and interests paid by a United Kingdom corporation) and XVI (relating to exemption of a United Kingdom corporation from United States tax with respect to accumulated earnings or profits) of the convention shall be treated as being in effect for such years. (See §§ 7.524 and 7.525.)

§ 7.530 Reciprocal administrative assistance. By Article XX of the convention, the United States and the United Kingdom adopt the principle of exchange of such information as is necessary to the administration of the provisions of the convention or for the prevention of fraud or for the detection of practices which are aimed at reduction of the revenues of either Contracting Party but not including information which would disclose any trade secret or trade process. Pursuant to such principle, every United States withholding agent shall make and file with the collector, in duplicate, an information return on Form 1042D, in addition to the withholding return, Form 1042, for the calendar year 1946 and each subsequent calendar year, with respect to: (a) Dividends from which a tax of 15 percent was withheld from persons whose addresses are in the United Kingdom (5 percent in the case of dividends falling within the scope of the proviso of Article VI (1) of the convention); (b) real property rentals and natural resource royalties from which a tax of 15 percent was withheld from persons whose addresses are in the United Kingdom; (c) royalties and like amounts and interest from which no tax was withheld from persons whose addresses are in the United Kingdom; and (d) all other fixed or determinable annual or periodical income paid to persons whose addresses are in the United Kingdom.

The information and correspondence relative to exchange of information may be transmitted directly by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue to the Commissioners of Inland Revenue.

§ 7.531 Information to be furnished in due course. In accordance with the provisions of Article XX of the convention the Commissioner of Internal Revenue will forward to the Commissioners of Inland Revenue as soon as practicable after the close of the calendar year 1946, and of each calendar year thereafter during which the convention is in effect, the names and addresses of all persons whose addresses are within the United Kingdom and who derived from sources within the United States dividends, interest, rents, royalties, salaries, wages, pensions, annuities, or other fixed or determinable annual or periodical profits and income, showing the amounts of such items of income in the case of each addressee. For these purposes the transmission to the Commissioners of Inland Revenue of information return Form 1042D as provided in § 7.530 for the calendar year 1946, and subsequent calendar years, shall constitute compliance with the provisions of Article XX of the convention and of §§ 7.512 to 7.532 inclusive.

§ 7.532 Information in specific cases. Under the provisions of Article XX of the convention and upon request of the Commissioners of Inland Revenue, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue shall furnish to the Commissioners of Inland Revenue any information (other than information that would disclose any trade secret or trade process) available to or obtainable by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue relative to the tax liability of any person under the revenue laws of the United Kingdom in any case in which such information is necessary to the administration of the provisions of the convention or for the prevention of fraud or the administration of statutory provisions against legal avoidance.

3. These amendments are designed to terminate the transportation in tank trucks of tax-free alcohol and tax-free distilled spirits authorized by regulations issued during the national emergency due to the shortage of transportation facilities, but considered a jeopardy to the revenue during peace time; to strengthen the requirements for the transportation in tank trucks of denatured alcohol; and to authorize the transportation in tank trucks of butyl alcohol, acetone, ether and fusel oil produced by industrial alcohol plants.

EQUIPMENT

DENATURING PLANTS

§ 182.94 Denatured alcohol storage tanks. The proprietor of the denaturing plant shall provide substantially constructed denatured alcohol storage tanks for the storage of all alcohol denatured by him, unless permission is granted by the district supervisor to use mixing tanks for the storage of denatured alcohol or the denatured alcohol is drawn into packages or other portable containers for immediate shipment or storage in the denatured alcohol storeroom, or transferred to tank cars or tank trucks for immediate shipment, or transferred by pipe line to contiguous premises operated by the denaturer. Where denatured alcohol storage tanks are provided, they shall be constructed and secured in conformity with the provisions of § 182.74, and must be equipped with a suitable measuring device whereby the actual contents will be correctly indicated; Provided, That wooden storage tanks may be used for formulas for which metal storage tanks are unsuitable. Each such tank shall have plainly and legibly painted thereon the words "Denatured Alcohol Storage Tank," followed by its serial number and capacity in wine gallons. The denatured alcohol storage tanks must be located in the denaturing plant: Provided further, That the proprietor may be permitted to store denatured alcohol in tanks constructed in conformity with these provisions not necessarily located in a room or building, provided they are permanently fixed and of such size that they may not be readily removed. Each such tank shall have plainly and legibly painted thereon the words "Specially Denatured Alcohol Storage Tank," followed by its serial number and capacity in wine gallons. The tanks shall be equipped for locking in such a manner as to prevent access to the denatured alcohol. (Secs. 2829, 3105, 3124, 3176, I. R. C.)

SPECIALLY DENATURED ALCOHOL BONDED DEALERS' PREMISES

§ 182.102 Tanks. If specially denatured alcohol is received in tank cars or tank trucks, the proprietor must provide suitable storage tanks for the storage of such alcohol. Each such tank must be constructed in the manner prescribed in § 182.99 and all openings affording access to the contents shall be equipped for locking. Each such tank must have plainly and legibly painted thereon the words "Specially Denatured Alcohol Storage Tank," followed by its serial number and capacity in wine gallons, and be equipped with a suitable measuring device, whereby the actual contents will be correctly indicated. (Secs. 2829, 3105, 3124, 3176, I. R. C.)

QUALIFYING DOCUMENTS

CARRIERS

§ 182.175 Application, Form 144. Every person desiring to transport tax-free alcohol or specially denatured alcohol must file Form 144, "Application for Permit to Transport Tax-free or Specially Denatured Alcohol," in triplicate, for permit so to do. The carrier will specify the mode of transportation, such as railroad, express company, steamship, barge line, truck, etc., and the supervisory districts in which tax-free or specially denatured alcohol will be transported. Where steamship or barge lines or motor carriers operate between certain points and over certain courses or routes, such points and courses or routes will be specified in the application. Where the mode of transportation is by tank truck, the carrier will give the serial number of each tank truck and its capacity. In cases where transportation is in more than one supervisory district, the application shall be filed with the district supervisor in whose district the principal office or place of business of the applicant is located. The provisions of §§ 182.105, 182.106, 182.115, 182.117, and 182.118 are hereby extended, insofar as applicable, to carriers.

(a) Persons entitled to permit. Basic permits to transport tax-free or specially denatured alcohol shall be issued only to reputable carriers who are actively and regularly engaged generally in the legitimate business of transportation, and who possess adequate facilities to insure safe delivery at destination of any tax-free or specially denatured alcohol transported by them. (Secs. 3105, 3114 (a), 3124, 3176, I. R. C.)

§ 182.179 Conditions of approval. No application shall be approved unless and until it is established by the applicant to the satisfaction of the district supervisor that he is a reputable carrier and is actively and regularly engaged generally in the legitimate business of transportation and that he possesses adequate facilities to insure safe delivery at destination of any tax-free alcohol or specially denatured alcohol which may be transported by him. No application for an original or renewal permit for the transportation in tank trucks of specially denatured alcohol shall be approved unless and until it is determined by the district supervisor, after inspection, that each tank truck meets the requirements of the regulations in this part. (Secs. 3105, 3124, 3176, I. R. C.)

§ 182.182 Bond, Form 49.—(a) Tax-free alcohol and specially denatured alcohol in containers other than tank trucks. Every person filing an application for a basic permit to transport tax-free alcohol or specially denatured alcohol, upon filing his application, Form 144, and before issuance of basic permit pursuant thereto, and before transporting any tax-free alcohol or specially denatured alcohol, shall execute a bond on Form 49, "Bond to Transport Specially Denatured or Tax-free Alcohol," in triplicate, in conformity with the provisions of §§ 182.184 to 182.205, inclusive, and file the same with the district supervisor: Provided, That a bond will not be required if the applicant is a railroad or steamship company, or an express company operating thereon, or a motor carrier who has qualified with the Interstate Commerce Commission as a "self-insurer."

(b) Specially denatured alcohol in tank trucks.—(1) Transportation by motor carriers. Motor carriers, as defined in the regulations in this part, in order to transport specially denatured alcohol by tank trucks, must procure permits so to do, in accordance with the regulations in this part and file bond, Form 49, in the penal sum specified in § 182.183. Where such permit is obtained and bond is filed, the permit will also authorize transportation of tax-free alcohol or specially denatured alcohol in barrels or drums without additional bond requirement.

(2) Transportation by consignors or consignees. A consignor or consignee, in order to transport specially denatured alcohol in tank trucks controlled and operated by such consignor or consignee, must file application on Form 144 and procure permit, Form 145, authorizing such transportation and file consent of surety, Form 1533, on his bond Form 1432-A, 1435, 1475 or 1480, extending the terms thereof to be liable for the tax, together with penalties and interest on all specially denatured alcohol withdrawn, transported, used, or sold in violation of laws or regulations now or hereafter in force. If the maximum of the present bond is not sufficient when computed as set forth in § 182.183, a new bond in a sufficient penal sum must be furnished to cover the additional liability. These requirements shall not apply where specially denatured alcohol is withdrawn by the United States or any governmental agency thereof and is transported in tank trucks operated by employees of the United States.

(3) Present permits and bonds. Basic permits and bonds now held by motor carriers, and by consignors and consignees, which authorize the transportation of tax-free alcohol and specially denatured alcohol, may, on application and the filing of consents of surety, be modified to authorize tank truck shipments of specially denatured alcohol and to contain an undertaking to be liable for the tax, or an amount equal to the tax as provided in subparagraph (2) of paragraph (b) of this section. The consent of surety (or, if preferred, a new bond) must be modified so that the principal and surety will be responsible to the extent specified in § 182.183. (Secs. 3105, 3114 (a), 3124, 3176, I. R. C.)

§ 182.183 Penal sum. The penal sum of the bond must be computed at the rate of not less than $1,000 for each vehicle (other than a tank truck) to be used by the permittee, nor more than $10,000 for all such vehicles so used. The penal sum of the bond for the transportation of specially denatured alcohol in tank trucks shall be in the penal sum of $50,000 for each such tank truck, and not more than $200,000 for the total of all trucks used. (Secs. 3105, 3114 (a), 3124, 3176, I. R. C.)

BASIC PERMITS

§ 182.229 Limitations under permit.

(g) Permit to transport tax-free and specially denatured alcohol, Form 145. The permit will specify the supervisory districts in which the carrier will be permitted to transport tax-free or specially denatured alcohol. If the carrier is a steamship or barge line or motor carrier operating between certain points and over certain courses or routes, such points and courses or routes will be specified in the permit. If the carrier is other than a railroad, steamship, express company, or motor carrier qualified with the Interstate Commerce Commission as a "self-insurer," or has filed bond in less than the maximum penal sum, specified in § 182.183, the permit shall specify the number of vehicles to be used by the permittee in transporting tax-free or specially denatured alcohol in vehicles other than tank trucks and in case of tank trucks the permit shall specify the number of tank trucks to be used in the transportation of specially denatured alcohol and the serial number and capacity of each. (Secs. 3105, 3114, 3124, 3176, I. R. C.)

OPERATION OF INDUSTRIAL ALCOHOL DENATURING PLANTS

DENATURING MATERIALS

§ 182.706 Sample for chemist. The storekeeper-gauger shall take a 1-pint sample of each lot of each denaturant received at the denaturing plant, and forward or deliver the sample to the authorized chemist. Where a lot of any denaturant is received in a tank car, tank truck or in packages and is placed in two or more storage tanks, or is received in a number of packages and retained therein pending analysis and approval of the denaturant, the storekeeper-gauger will take a proportionate sample from each tank or package, as the case may be, and thoroughly mingle the samples together.

From this mixture the officer will take a 1-pint sample and forward or deliver it to the authorized chemist. The storekeeper-gauger shall then lock the tanks with a Government lock or securely close and seal the packages and none of the contents of the tanks or packages may be used until the sample has been officially tested and approved and a report of such test is received by the storekeeper-gauger in charge of the denaturing plant. All samples submitted for analysis must be placed in heavy glass bottles or other suitable containers, to be provided by the denaturer, and must be securely closed and sealed with a wax seal furnished for this purpose or a paper seal signed by the storekeeper-gauger taking the sample.

(a) Labels on samples. Each sample shall have a label, Form 1469, "Label for Denaturing Material," affixed thereto showing the name of the denaturer, plant number, serial number of the tank or the number and kind of the package from which the sample was taken, the kind and quantity of the denaturant represented by the sample, the date taken, and the name of the officer taking the sample. (Secs. 3070, 3102, 3105, 3124, 3176, I. R. C.)

APPROVED CONTAINERS

§ 182.728 Railroad tank cars or tank trucks. Denatured alcohol may be shipped in railroad tank cars only where the premises of both the denaturer and the consignee are equipped with suitable railroad siding facilities. Denatured alcohol may be transported by tank trucks only where suitable storage tanks are provided on the consignees' premises. The manhole covers, outlet valves and all other openings on all railroad tank cars or tank trucks used for shipping denatured alcohol shall be equipped with facilities for sealing so that the contents cannot be removed without showing evidence of tampering. Railroad or other appropriate seals, dissimilar in marking from cap seals used by the Bureau of Internal Revenue, for securing manhole covers, outlet valves and all other openings in tank cars or tank trucks containing denatured alcohol shall be furnished and affixed by the carrier or the proprietor: Provided, That serially numbered cap seals for use on tank trucks for the transportation of specially denatured alcohol shipped from denaturing plants shall be furnished by the Government and affixed by the storekeeper-gauger. Immediately after filling, the tank car or tank truck shall be sealed in such a manner as will secure all openings affording access to the contents of the tank.

(a) Shipments of completely denatured alcohol—(1) To denaturers and their agents. Completely denatured alcohol may be shipped in tank cars or tank trucks to other denaturing plants, as authorized in § 182.743. Completely denatured alcohol may also be shipped in tank cars or tank trucks by the denaturer to a person or concern acting as his agent, where the title does not pass from the denaturer, for transfer to packages for sale to others, and such packages shall be furnished by the denaturer. When completely denatured alcohol is thus shipped, the packages filled by the agent must be marked the same as if filled in the denaturing plant of the denaturer (except that the registry number of such plant will be omitted), and must also bear the embossed symbol and serial number, as required in § 182.727. Completely denatured alcohol may also be shipped in tank cars or tank trucks by the denaturer to himself at other premises for disposition in the same manner as in the case of completely denatured alcohol disposed of directly from the denaturing plant of the producer, or it may be so shipped by the denaturer to other producers of completely denatured alcohol at points not on the denaturing plant premises of such other producers, where the product will be filled into properly marked and embossed packages of the person to whom the shipment is made.

(2) To users. Upon approval of the district supervisor, completely denatured alcohol may be shipped in tank cars or tank trucks to manufacturers for their own exclusive use and not for resale: Provided, That the completely denatured alcohol is run directly from the tank car or tank truck into suitable storage tanks on the manufacturer's premises. Manufacturers desiring to procure completely denatured alcohol in tank cars or tank trucks shall file application therefor with the district supervisor of their district. If the completely denatured alcohol is to be procured from a denaturer located in the same district, the application shall be filed in triplicate, and if the completely denatured alcohol is to be procured from another district, the application shall be filed in quadruplicate. The application shall give the name and address of the denaturer from whom it is desired to procure the completely denatured alcohol, and shall specify the quantity to be received, the reasons for desiring to receive the completely denatured alcohol in tank cars or tank trucks and whether the applicant's premises are equipped with railroad siding facilities. Where it is desired to receive completely denatured alcohol in tank cars or tank trucks regularly, the application may be made for that purpose. If the district supervisor approves the application he will note his approval on all copies thereof, retain one copy, return one copy to the applicant, and forward one copy to the denaturer, and, where shipment is to be made from another district, one copy to the district supervisor of such district. (Secs. 2808, 3070, 3105, 3108 (a), 3109, 3124, 3176, I. R. C.)

§ 182.731 Tank trucks. Tank trucks may be used for transporting completely denatured alcohol or specially denatured alcohol subject to the provisions of the regulations in this part. Every tank truck used to transport denatured alcohol must conform to the following requirement: The tank shall be securely and permanently attached to the frame or chassis of the truck or trailer and shall be securely constructed. Interior bulkheads or stiffeners must have proper drainage cut-outs. Manhole covers, outlet valves, vents or pressure relief valves, and all other openings shall be equipped for sealing so as to prevent unauthorized access to the contents of the tank. Outlets of each compartment must be so arranged that delivery of any compartment will not afford access to the contents of any other compartment. Partial delivery, by meter or otherwise, will not be permitted. There shall be but one consignor per load and not less than the entire contents of any one compartment shall be delivered to any one consignee. Calibrated charts, prepared or certified by competent and recognized authorities or engineers, showing the capacity of each compartment in wine gallons for each inch of depth shall be carried in each truck. Each tank truck shall also be equipped with a route board, at least 10 by 12 inches, constructed of substantial material and permanently attached thereto by roundheaded or carriage bolts, nutted and riveted, battered or welded. Provision will also be made for protection, against the weather, of the permit and label by the use of celluloid or equally substantial material. A copy of the basic permit under which transportation is authorized (as required by § 182.230) and the prescribed label will be affixed to such route board. Tanks shall be so constructed that they will completely drain the contents of each compartment, even when the ground is not perfectly level. Suitable ladders and cat walks, permanently attached, must be provided in order to permit ready examination of manholes and other openings. Provision shall be made for the proper grounding of tank trucks when filling or emptying. Prior to filling, the storekeeper-gauger, or the proprietor where no storekeeper-gauger is assigned, shall determine whether the tank truck is authorized to be used, by comparing the serial number and the capacity of the tank as marked thereon, with the copy of the basic permit, and will inspect all openings to the tank truck to determine whether they may be effectively sealed. If the tank truck does not meet such requirements, its use for the transportation of denatured alcohol will not be permitted. After filling, the storekeeper-gauger or the proprietor, as the case may be, shall seal the tank truck in such a manner as will secure all openings affording access to the contents of the tank. (Secs. 3070, 3105, 3108 (a), 3109, 3124, 3176, I. R. C.)

MARKS AND BRANDS

§ 182.738 Tank cars and tank trucks—(a) Tank cars. Every railroad tank car used to transport denatured alcohol must have permanently and legibly marked or painted thereon its number, capacity in wine gallons, and the name or symbols of the owner. If the tank car consists of two or more compartments, each compartment must be identified by a letter of the alphabet, such as "A," "B," etc., and the capacity in wine gallons of the compartment must be marked thereon. The denaturer shall securely attach to the route board of each such tank car a label showing the name, registry number, and location (city or town and State) of the denaturing plant, and the name, address, and permit number (if any) of the person to whom the denatured alcohol is shipped, followed by the date of shipment.

(b) Tank trucks. Every tank truck used to transport denatured alcohol must have permanently and legibly marked or painted thereon its number, capacity in wine gallons, and the name of the owner in letters at least four inches in height. If the tank truck consists of two or more compartments, each compartment must be identified by a letter of the alphabet, such as "A," "B," etc., and the capacity in wine gallons of each compartment must be marked thereon. The consignor shall securely attach to the route board of each tank truck, a label showing the name, registry number, and location (city or town and State) of the shipping plant or premises; the name, address and permit number (if any) of the person to whom the denatured alcohol is shipped, followed by the date of shipment; the quantity in wine gallons; and the formula number of denatured alcohol contained in each compartment. Such labels shall be destroyed upon emptying the tank truck. (Sec. 2808, 3105, 3124, 3176, I. R. C.)

TRANSFER OF DENATURED ALCOHOL BETWEEN DENATURING PLANTS

§ 182.750 Receipt of denatured alcohol; general. Upon receipt of the Forms 1467 and 1473, the storekeeper-gauger in charge of the receiving denaturing plant will make a memorandum record of the shipment and deliver the forms to the proprietor. When the denatured alcohol is received at the denaturing plant, the proprietor and the storekeeper-gauger will examine the shipment and where packages bear evidence of having sustained losses in transit, or railroad tank cars or tank trucks bear evidence of having sustained a loss, the losses will be determined and a report of such losses and of the examination of the shipment will be made to the district supervisor. (Secs. 3105, 3124, 3176, I. R. C.)

§ 182.752 Method of deposit. • • •

(b) Denatured alcohol received in tank cars or tank trucks. Denatured alcohol received in tank cars or tank trucks shall be weighed or measured and transferred immediately to storage tanks. If it is desired to receive denatured alcohol in railroad tank cars, proper railroad siding facilities must be provided at the denaturing plant. When denatured alcohol is received in tank cars or tank trucks, the seals must not be broken or any denatured alcohol removed, except in the presence of the storekeeper-gauger assigned to the receiving denaturing plant. (Secs. 3105, 3124, 3176, I. R. C.)

WITHDRAWAL OF DENATURED ALCOHOL

§ 182.754 Specially denatured alcohol. Specially denatured alcohol may be procured under appropriate permit by manufacturers using specially denatured alcohol, dealers in specially denatured alcohol, and the United States or governmental agency thereof. Prospective permittees or manufacturers may procure samples of specially denatured alcohol, as provided in § 182.826. Specially denatured alcohol must be removed from denaturing plants in approved containers, including tank cars and tank trucks provided the consignee's premises are equipped with suitable storage tanks. The exact contents of each package must be determined and the package marked in accordance with the regulations in this part. The details of such packages shall be entered on the appropriate forms as hereinafter provided. Specially denatured alcohol removed from denaturing plants must be transported in accordance with § 182.677. The denaturer shall present the permit, Form 1477, 1485, 1486, or 1512, authorizing shipment, to the storekeeper-gauger prior to withdrawal. (Secs. 3070, 3105, 3108 (a), 3109, 3114 (a), 3124, 3176, I. R. C.)

RECORDS AND REPORTS OF PROPRIETOR

§ 182.785 Form 1453–A. When specially denatured alcohol is shipped to the United States or a governmental agency thereof, the proprietor will prepare one copy of Form 1453–A, except in the case of tank truck shipments when two copies will be prepared, and deliver them to the storekeeper-gauger who will check the forms with the records and permit, and, if found to agree therewith, he will initial all copies of the form and in the case of tank truck shipments, enclose one copy in a sealed envelope addressed to the Government officer to whom the specially denatured alcohol is consigned, and give the same to the driver of the tank truck for delivery to such officer. Upon receipt of the specially denatured alcohol, the receiving Government officer will execute the certificate of receipt on the form, after noting thereon any deficiency in the quantity received, and forward it to the district supervisor specified at the bottom of the form. The other copy of Form 1453–A will be forwarded by the storekeeper-gauger at the time of shipment to the district supervisor of the district in which the consignor's premises are located. The data required by § 182.786 to be entered on Form 1473 covering tank truck shipments will be entered on Form 1453–A for such transactions. The provisions of § 182.786 (d) will be followed by district supervisors in verifying such shipments of specially denatured alcohol. (Secs. 3070, 3105, 3124, 3176, I. R. C.)

§ 182.786 Form 1473. When specially denatured alcohol is shipped from the denaturing plant, the proprietor will prepare Form 1473 reporting the shipment. One copy of the form will be made for intradistrict shipments, and two copies for interdistrict shipments. An additional copy of the form will be prepared in the case of tank truck shipments. Where the proof of the alcohol used in producing specially denatured alcohol is other than 190 degrees of proof, the proof must be shown on Form 1473. Where shipments are made in tank cars, tank trucks, or consist of barrels or drums in carload lots, the name of the carrier and number of the car or tank truck, together with the routing (in the case of railroad tank cars or box cars), shall be entered on the form. The consignor shall not change the routing without giving prompt notice of such action to the district supervisor of his district, and if shipment is made to another district, to the district supervisor of such district. In addition, the serial numbers of the seals used, and in the case of tank trucks, the State license number, the driver's full name, and the driver's permit number and State issuing the same, shall be recorded on all copies of Form 1473.

(a) Disposition of forms. At the time of shipment, the proprietor will deliver all copies of Form 1473 to the storekeeper-gauger, who will check the forms with the records and permits (in the case of specially denatured alcohol), and if found to agree therewith, he will initial the forms. In the case of tank truck shipments, he will enclose one copy in a sealed envelope addressed to the consignee, and give the same to the driver of the tank truck for delivery to the consignee. On receipt at the consignee's premises, the storekeeper-gauger or the consignee will receipt for the shipment, verify the information on the form and note thereon any discrepancies relative to the shipment. The Form 1473 will be forwarded by the storekeeper-gauger or the consignee immediately to the district supervisor of the district in which the consignor is located. In addition, on the day shipments are made, the storekeeper-gauger will forward one copy of the form to the district supervisor of the district in which the consignor is located, and, if shipments are made to another district, one copy to the district supervisor of such district. The same procedure will be followed where shipments in tank trucks are made of completely denatured alcohol, except Forms 1473 will be modified to read "completely" instead of "specially" denatured alcohol.

(b) Intradistrict shipments. Where shipment is made to a consignee located in the same district as the denaturing plant, the district supervisor will check Form 1473 with the monthly reports of the consignor and the consignee, and, if receipt of the shipment is duly reported by the consignee and the form agrees with the consignor's monthly report, the district supervisor will initial Part II of the form.

(c) Interdistrict shipments. Where shipment is made to another district, the district supervisor of the consignee's district will check Form 1473 with the consignee's monthly report, and, if receipt of the shipment is duly reported, he will execute Part III of the form and forward it to the district supervisor of the district in which the alcohol was shipped, who will check the receipted form with the consignor's monthly report, and, if found to agree therewith, he will initial Part II of the form.

(d) Nonreceipt of shipment. When specially denatured alcohol is not received within a reasonable time after shipment, or where any material or unexplained difference exists between the kind and quantity shipped and that received, or where there is reasonable ground to suspect that the specially denatured alcohol has been or will be used for purposes other than those authorized by the consignee's permit and by the law and regulations, the district supervisor shall investigate each case and take appropriate action in respect thereto. In addition, the district supervisor will check daily, on receipt, the Form 1473 covering tank truck shipments, and make any inquiry which he deems necessary with respect to any discrepancy. In the event of failure to receive a form from the storekeeper-gauger at the consignee's premises or from the consignee, as the case may be, within the time normally required for the truck to make the shipment and the form to be sent by mail, the district supervisor will make appropriate investigation. (Secs. 3070, 3105, 3124, 3176, I. R. C.)

SALE AND USE OF COMPLETELY DENATURED ALCOHOL

PROPRIETARY ANTI-FREEZE SOLUTIONS

§ 182.798 Manufacture of proprietary anti-freeze solutions. Proprietary anti-freeze solutions may be made with completely denatured alcohol for sale under trade names: Provided, That materials such as dye, rust inhibtor, petroleum distillates, etc., satisfactory to the Commissioner are added to the completely denatured alcohol in sufficient quantities to materially change to the composition and character of the completely denatured alcohol. Such solutions are not classified as completely denatured alcohol and may not be marked, branded, or sold as completely denatured alcohol. Completely denatured alcohol may not be obtained in tank cars or tank trucks for use in manufacturing proprietary anti-freeze solutions except by producers of denatured alcohol. (Secs. 3070, 3105, 3109, 3111, 3124, 3176, I. R. C.)

§ 182.802 Prohibited containers. Proprietary anti-freeze solutions may not be shipped in tank cars, tank trucks, tank wagons, or packages exceeding 55 wine gallons in capacity, except when shipped in tank cars or tank trucks by manufacturers to themselves at another location for packaging thereat in accordance with these regulations. (Secs. 3070, 3105, 3124, 3176, I. R. C.)

OPERATIONS BY DEALERS IN SPECIALLY DENATURED ALCOHOL

RECEIPT OF SPECIALLY DENATURED ALCOHOL

§ 182.811 Railroad tank cars or tank trucks. If the bonded dealer receives specially denatured alcohol in railroad tank cars, railroad siding facilities for the receipt of such tank cars must be provided at the bonded dealer's premises. The denatured alcohol received in tank cars or tank trucks must be immediately deposited in storage tanks constructed in conformity with the provisions of § 182.102. When so deposited, the formula of the denatured alcohol shall be plainly marked on the storage tank. (Secs. 3070, 3105, 3124, 3176, I. R. C.)

FILLING OF PACKAGES BY BONDED DEALERS

§ 182.812 When permissible. Bonded dealers who receive specially denatured alcohol in tank cars or tank trucks and transfer the same to storage tanks in their storerooms, as provided in § 182.811, may fill packages of such specially denatured alcohol. Bonded dealers may also fill packages of specially denatured alcohol from denaturers' original packages where such original packages have been so damaged in transit as to necessitate repackaging, or where, upon receipt of approved Form 1477, Form 1485, Form 1486, or Form 1512, it is necessary to fill smaller packages for sale to authorized permittees in quantities less than the contents of the denaturer's original package, and specially denatured alcohol of the formula desired is not available in storage tanks for the filling of such packages. (Secs. 2808, 2866, 3070, 3105, 3124, 3176, I. R. C.)

§ 182.813 Sale. Specially denatured alcohol may be sold by bonded dealers holding basic permit, Form 1476, to manufacturers using specially denatured alcohol, and to other bonded dealers in specially denatured alcohol, pursuant to withdrawal permit, Form 1485 or Form 1477, as the case may be. Bonded dealers may also furnish samples of specially denatured alcohol to manufacturers, other bonded dealers, and to prospective permittees pursuant to sample permit, Form 1512: Provided, That in the case of samples, where the quantity involved in any case does not exceed 8 fluid ounces, permit, Form 1512, will not be required. Sales of specially denatured alcohol may also be made to the United States or governmental agencies thereof pursuant to permit, Form 1468. The provisions of § 182.754, respecting sales of specially denatured alcohol by denaturers, are hereby made applicable to sales of specially denatured alcohol by bonded dealers. Specially denatured alcohol sold by bonded dealers must be transported in accordance with § 182.677. Record and report of such transactions shall be reported on Form 1478, as provided in § 182.822. Tank trucks used for the transportation of specially denatured alcohol by bonded dealers, after filling, shall be sealed by appropriate seals, serially numbered, furnished and affixed by the shipper. The seal shall be dissimilar in marking from the cap seals used by the Bureau of Internal Revenue. The serial numbers of seals used and the data with respect to the carrier set forth in § 182.786 will be recorded by the dealer on Form 1473. One copy of the form will be forwarded by the dealer to the district supervisor of the district in which the dealer is located. One copy of the form will be forwarded to, and verified by, the consignee, and forwarded by him to the district supervisor of the district in which the consignor is located. (Secs. 3070, 3105, 3109, 3114 (a), 3124, 3176, I. R. C.)

LOSSES OF SPECIALLY DENATURED ALCOHOL

§ 182.816 Losses in transit. Losses in transit to bonded dealer's premises must be ascertained at the time the specially denatured alcohol is received by the bonded dealer. Accordingly, when packages, tank cars or tank trucks are received which show evidence of having sustained a loss in transit the bonded dealer should determine the extent of the loss at that time. The quantity ascertained to have been lost will be reported on Form 1478 on the line on which receipt of the shipment is reported, and in the column provided therefor. Where the quantity lost from any package, tank car or tank truck exceeds 1 per cent of the quantity originally contained therein, claim for allowance of the entire quantity lost from the package, tank car or tank truck will be made by the bonded dealer. If the loss does not exceed 1 per cent, so calculated, claim for allowance will not be required, provided there are no circumstances indicating that the specially denatured alcohol lost or any part thereof, was unlawfully used or removed. (Secs. 3105, 3113, 3124, 3176, I. R. C.)

CARRIERS

§ 182.908 Restricted use of containers—(a) Tank wagons or tank trucks. Tank wagons or tank trucks shall not be used for the transportation of undenatured ethyl alcohol.

(b) Railroad tank cars. Shipment of alcohol or denatured alcohol by railroad tank cars may be made only when the premises of the consignor and consignee are equipped with satisfactory railroad siding facilities and the consignee is otherwise authorized to receive such shipment. (Secs. 3105, 3111, 3114 (a), 3124, 3176, I. R. C.)

IMPORTATION OF ALCOHOL FOR INDUSTRIAL PURPOSES

§ 182.994 Customs gauge and release. Prior to release from customs custody, the alcohol will be gauged by a customs officer who will enter the details of the gauge on all copies of the Form 1440. When shipments are made in tank cars, the details of the gauge of each tank car will be reported separately thereon in accordance with the column headings on Form 1440. The customs officer will also show on each copy of Form 1440 the country of exportation of the alcohol. In addition, he will ascertain and state on each copy of the Form 1440 the rate of customs duty paid on the alcohol and the rate of customs duty which would have been applicable had such spirits been imported for beverage purposes. The customs officer will forward two copies of Form 1440 to the storekeeper-gauger at the industrial alcohol plant, bonded warehouse, or denaturing plant designated in the application, and retain one copy for customs purposes. The storekeeper-gauger at the plant or warehouse will, on receipt of the two copies of Form 1440, verify the shipment, note on both copies any discrepancies, forward one copy to the district supervisor of the district in which the plant or warehouse is located, and deliver the remaining copy to the proprietor of the plant or warehouse. (Secs. 3105, 3124, 3125 (a), 3176, I. R. C.)

§ 182.995 (a) Tank cars to be sealed. Where shipments of alcohol from customs custody to the industrial alcohol plant, bonded warehouse, or denaturing plant are made in tank cars, all openings affording access to the tanks will be sealed by the customs officer with customs seals.

(b) Packages. Where shipments of alcohol from customs custody are made in packages, the customs officer will gauge and release the alcohol pursuant to appropriate permit, Form 1436 or Form 1463, and application, Form 1440, in triplicate, in the same manner as alcohol shipped in tank cars, except that the sealing of the car in which transported will not be required. (Secs. 3105, 3124, 3125 (a), 3176 I. R. C.)

§ 182.997 Gauging. Upon receipt of the alcohol at the industrial alcohol plant, bonded warehouse, or denaturing plant from customs custody, it will be gauged in accordance with §§ 182.325 to 182.469 and §§ 182.683 to 182.790, inclusive, and the Gauging Manual: Provided, That where the bonded premises consist of storage tanks only, the spirits may be gauged upon receipt at such premises by any one of the following four methods, preference to be given in the order named:

(1) Weighed in scale tanks.

(2) Gauged by volume in accurately calibrated storage tanks.

(3) Weighed on railroad car scales located on bonded premises by weighing tank cars before and after filling and emptying, as the case may be.

(4) Gauged by volume in accurately calibrated tank cars. (Secs. 3105, 3124, 3125 (a), 3176, I. R. C.)

WITHDRAWAL OF IMPORTED ALCOHOL TAX FREE FOR USE OF THE UNITED STATES

§ 182.1006 Bill of lading and customs seals. Where the alcohol is transported by common carrier, the person to whom the alcohol was delivered for shipment shall furnish a copy of the bill of lading covering transportation of the alcohol from the port of entry to final destination to the governmental agency of the United States to whom the alcohol is consigned. If the alcohol is shipped in tank cars, all openings affording access to the tanks will be sealed by the customs officer with customs seals. (Secs. 3105, 3124, 3125 (b), 3176, I. R. C.)

AUTHORITY: §§ 776.0 to 776.11, inclusive, issued under 52 Stat. 1060; 29 U. S. C. 201 et seq.

§ 776.0 Introductory statement. (a) Since the enactment of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938, the views of the Administrator as to who are within the general coverage of the wage and hours provisions of the act have been expressed in interpretations issued from time to time in various forms. These interpretations were always issued with the understanding that they were only advisory, so far as the rights and liabilities of employers and employees were concerned, because the courts alone had the authority to make legally binding interpretations. However, the Portal-to-Portal Act of 1947[1] contemplates that interpretations of the Administrator will now, under certain circumstances, be controlling in determining such rights and liabilities in the courts. This has made it necessary, for the protection of employees and employers who may seek to rely on the Administrator's interpretations, that interpretations previously issued concerning coverage under the wage and hours provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act be re-examined in order to determine whether they now correctly interpret the law in the light of developments subsequent to their issuance, and that the Administrator's position be clarified for the future. This part, as of the date of its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER, supersedes and replaces such prior interpretations. Its purpose is to make available in one place general interpretations of the Administrator which will provide "a practical guide to employers and employees as to how the office representing the public interest in enforcement of the law will seek to apply it."[2] The interpretations contained in this part indicate, with respect to the general coverage of the wage and hours provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act, the construction of the law which the Administrator believes to be correct and which will guide him in the performance of his administrative duties under the Act unless and until he is otherwise directed by authoritative decisions of the courts or concludes, upon re-examination of an interpretation, that it is incorrect.

(b) Effective on the date of publication of this part in the FEDERAL REGISTER, all prior general and specific interpretations contained in interpretative bulletins, releases, opinion letters and other statements issued with respect to the interpretation of the general coverage of the wage and hours provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 are rescinded and withdrawn. An interpretation so rescinded and withdrawn shall not hereafter constitute an interpretation of the Administrator unless and until it is reissued as such. However, the action of the Administrator in rescinding or withdrawing any such prior interpretation or his omission to discuss a particular problem in this part or in interpretations supplementing it does not constitute an administrative interpretation or practice or enforcement policy.

§ 776.1 General scope of statutory provisions. (a) Under sections 6 and 7 the wage and hours provisions are applicable to employees "engaged in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce." "Commerce" is defined as trade, commerce, transportation, transmission, or communication among the several States, or from any State to any place outside thereof—or roughly, "interstate commerce." In the preliminary declaration of policy in section 2, Congress recited that it sought to remedy certain evils, namely, "labor conditions detrimental to the maintenance of the minimum standard of living necessary for health, efficiency, and general well-being of workers," which Congress found "(1) causes commerce and the channels and instrumentalities of commerce to be used to perpetuate such labor conditions among the workers of the several States; (2) burdens commerce and the free flow of goods in commerce; (3) constitutes an unfair method of competition in commerce; (4) leads to labor disputes burdening and obstructing commerce and the free flow of goods in commerce; and (5) interferes with the orderly and fair marketing of goods in commerce." From this declared policy of Congress it is evident that, apart from certain specific exemptions enumerated later in the statute, Congress intended a very wide application of its regulatory power over interstate commerce; and the Administrator, in interpreting the statute for the purpose of performing his administrative duties, should properly lean toward a broad interpretation of the key words, "engaged in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce."

(b) Congress might have extended the act to purely local commerce within the District of Columbia, or within a Territory or possession, in virtue of the national legislative power over such political units. Congress did not do so, however. The employees must be "engaged in commerce, or in the production of goods for commerce." "Commerce" is defined in section 3 (b) as meaning "trade, commerce, transportation, transmission, or communication among the several States, or from any State to any place outside thereof." In section 3 (c) "State" is defined as meaning "any State of the United States, or the District of Columbia, or any Territory or possession of the United States."

(c) Therefore, employees within the District of Columbia, and the Territories and possessions (Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, the Canal Zone, Guam, Guano Islands, Samoa, Virgin Islands) are dealt with on the same basis as employees working in any of the 48 States.

§ 776.2 Employee basis of coverage. It is noted that the coverage as described in sections 6 and 7 does not deal in a blanket way with industries as a whole. Thus, in section 6, it is provided that every employer shall pay the statutory minimum wage to "each of his employees who is engaged in commerce or in the production of goods for comerce." It thus becomes primarily an individual matter as to the nature of the employment of the particular employee. Some employers in a given industry may not be subject to the act at all; other employers in the industry may be subject to the act in respect to some of their employees, and not others; still other employers in the industry may be subject to the act in respect to all their employees.

§ 776.3 Place of work. Since the act contains no prescription as to the place where the employee must work, it is evident that employees otherwise coming within the terms of the act are entitled to its benefits whether they perform their work at home, in the factory, or elsewhere.

§ 776.4 Coverage not dependent on method of compensation. The act is not limited to employees working on an hourly wage. The present requirement of section 6 as to minimum wages is that the employee must be paid at the rate of not less than 40 cents an hour. This does not mean that employees cannot be paid on a piece-work basis; it merely means that whatever the basis on which the workers are paid, whether it be monthly, weekly, or on a piece-work basis, they must receive at least the equivalent of the minimum hourly rate. Rules and regulations prescribed by the Administrator (Part 516 of this chapter) provide for the keeping of records in such form as to enable compensation on a piece-work basis to be translated into terms of an hourly rate.

§ 776.5 Exemptions. This part does not deal with the various exemptions provided in the statute. Some of these exemptions are self-executing; others call for definitions or other action by the Administrator.

§ 776.6 Engagement in commerce. The first category of workers included, those "engaged in (interstate) commerce," applies, typically but not exclusively, to employees in the telephone, telegraph, radio, and transportation industries, since these industries serve as the actual instrumentalities and channels of interstate commerce. Employees who are an essential part of the stream of interstate commerce are also included in the phrase "engaged in commerce"; for example, employees of a warehouse whose activities are connected with the interstate receipt or distribution of goods. Employees engaged in producing fuel, power, or other goods or facilities for use or consumption entirely within the State by essential instrumentalities of interstate commerce, when such use or consumption directly aids or facilitates the interstate activities performed by means of such instrumentalities, may likewise be deemed "engaged in commerce." They would, in any event, be producing goods "for commerce" as explained in § 776.7 (c). Thus, for example, the act is considered applicable to employees engaged in producing electric energy, steam, fuel, or water for use within the State by railway terminals or depots, telephone exchanges, radio broadcasting stations, etc. The activities of such employees directly facilitate, aid, and contribute to interstate transportation, transmission and communication.

§ 776.7 Engagement in production of goods for commerce. (a) The second category of workers included, those engaged "in the production of goods for (interstate) commerce," applies typically but not exclusively, to that large group of employees engaged in manufacturing, processing, or distributing plants, a part of whose goods moves in commerce out of the State in which the plant is located. This is not limited merely to employees who are engaged in actual physical work on the product itself, because by express definition in section 3 (j) an employee is deemed to have been engaged "in the production of goods, if such employee was employed in producing, manufacturing, mining, handling, transporting, or in any other manner working on such goods, or in any process or occupation necessary to the production thereof, in any State." Therefore the benefits of the statute are extended to such employees as maintenance and repair workers, watchmen, clerks, stenographers, messengers, all of whom, if not actually engaged in the production of goods, must be considered as engaged in processes or occupations "necessary to the production" by the producer of goods for commerce. Enterprises cannot operate without such employees. If they were not doing work "necessary to the production" of the goods they would not be on the payroll. Significantly, it is provided in section 15 (b) that "proof that any employee was employed in any place of employment where goods shipped or sold in commerce were produced, within 90 days prior to the removal of the goods from such place of employment, shall be prima facie evidence that such employee was engaged in the production of such goods." Hence, all the employees, in a place of employment where goods shipped or sold in interstate commerce were produced, are included in the coverage, unless the employer maintains the burden of establishing, as to particular employees, that their functions are so definitely segregated that they do not contribute to the production of the goods for interstate commerce as these terms are broadly defined in the act.

(b) Employees are engaged in the production of goods "for commerce" where the employer intends or hopes or has reason to believe that the goods or any unsegregated part of them will move in interstate commerce. The fact that the goods do move in interstate commerce is strong evidence that the employer intended, hoped, or had reason to believe that the goods would move in interstate commerce.

(c) The Fair Labor Standards Act, however, in its application to employees engaged in the production of goods for interstate commerce, is not limited to employees engaged in the production (as defined in the act) of goods for shipment across State lines. The courts have indicated that goods are produced "for commerce," even though they do not subsequently leave the State, if they are produced in order to supply the needs of interstate commerce, or to serve as an essential part of such commerce, or to aid or facilitate the carrying on of interstate commerce by essential instrumentalities or facilities of commerce such as interstate railroads, highways, telegraph or telephone systems, pipe lines, airports, harbors, and the like. For example, employees must be considered engaged in the production of goods for interstate commerce when engaged within a State in such activities as producing ice, electric energy, railroad ties, crushed rock, bituminous aggregate, ready-mixed concrete, telephone and telegraph poles, or other similar items for use or consumption wholly within the same State by interstate railroads, telegraph or telephone companies, etc., in carrying on interstate transportation or communication; or for use or consumption within that State in the maintenance, repair, or reconstruction of essential instrumentalities of interstate trade, commerce, transportation, transmission or communication.

(d) Whether employees are engaged "in the production of goods for (interstate) commerce" depends upon circumstances as they exist at the time the goods are being produced, not upon some subsequent event. Thus, if a lumber manufacturer produces lumber to fill the order of a local contractor in the expectation that the lumber will be used to build a schoolhouse within the State, the manufacturer will not become retroactively subject to the act in respect to those goods, because the contractor subsequently goes bankrupt and the lumber is sold to a purchaser who moves the lumber to another State. On the other hand, if the lumber manufacturer produced the lumber to fill an out-of-State order, the rights of the employees under sections 6 and 7 of the act are not affected by the subsequent fact that a fire destroys the finished lumber before it is shipped out of the State.

(e) Employees engaged in the production of goods that move out of the State of production are engaged "in the production of goods for commerce" even though the employer does not himself ship the goods across State lines. It is immaterial that the producer passes title to the purchaser within the State of production. If the goods are purchased by an out-of-State purchaser, f. o. b. the factory, and are taken by the purchaser out of the State, the employees in the factory are engaged in the production of goods for interstate commerce. The same is true if the producer sells his products within the State of production to a wholesaler or retailer who, in turn, sells them in interstate commerce.

(f) There are other situations in which employees of an employer who does not ship his goods directly in interstate commerce may yet be engaged in the production of goods for commerce. This will be true where one producer sells goods to a second producer within the State who, in turn, sells goods in interstate commerce, the first producer's goods being a part or ingredient of the second producer's goods. In this connection, attention is called to section 3 (j) which defines the term "goods" to include "any part or ingredient" of goods. Thus, if a manufacturer of buttons sells his products within the State to a manufacturer of shirts, the shirts being shipped in interstate commerce, the employees of the button manufacturer are engaged in the production of goods for commerce; and, if a lumber manufacturer sells his lumber locally to a furniture manufacturer who sells furniture in interstate commerce, the employees of the lumber manufacturer would likewise come within the scope of the act.

(g) Even where the goods which one producer sells to another producer are not technically parts or ingredients of the goods which the second producer sells in interstate commerce, the employees of the first producer may be within the scope of the act. Thus, where the manufacturer of containers sells the containers within the State to another manufacturer or to a shipper who packs goods into the containers and sells the goods in the containers in interstate commerce, the employees of the container manufacturer would be engaged in the production of goods for commerce. A contrary interpretation has been suggested, based upon the definition of the term "goods" in section 3 (i), which provides that the term "goods" does not include goods after their delivery into the "actual physical possession of the ultimate consumer thereof other than a producer, manufacturer, or processor thereof." From this definition it has been suggested that the manufacturer or shipper who uses the containers to ship his own goods out of the State is the ultimate consumer of the containers and that, consequently, the employees of the container manufacturer are not engaged in the production of goods for commerce as the term "goods" is used in the act. It is our opinion that the manufacturer or shipper above is not the ultimate consumer of the containers. At times, the purchaser who consumes the contents of the containers is the ultimate consumer of the containers. For example, the ultimate consumer of a shoe box is not the manufacturer of the shoes, but the man who buys and wears the shoes. At other times, the ultimate consumer is the dealer who destroys the containers. Thus, if goods are shipped in boxes and the wholesaler or retailer in the State of destination removes the goods and destroys the boxes, such wholesaler or retailer would be the ultimate consumer of the boxes.

(h) Irrespective of the question as to who is the ultimate consumer, however, it is our opinion that the employees of the container manufacturer are subject to the act. The fact that products lose their character as "goods" when they come into the actual physical possession of the ultimate consumer does not affect the coverage of the act as far as the employees producing the products are concerned. The facts at the time that the products are being produced determine whether an employee is engaged in the production of goods for commerce, and at the time of the production of the containers they were clearly "goods" within the meaning of the statute since they were not, at that point of time, in the actual physical possession of the ultimate consumer. All that the term "goods" quoted above is intended to accomplish is to protect ultimate consumers, other than producers, manufacturers, or processors of the goods in question from the "hot goods" provision of section 15 (a) (1). This seems clear from the language of the statute. Thus section 15 (a) (1) makes it unlawful for any person "to transport * * * (or) * * * ship * * * in commerce * * * and goods" produced in violation of the labor standards set up by the act. By defining "goods" in section 3 (i) so as to exclude goods "after their delivery into the actual physical possession of the ultimate consumer thereof other than a producer, manufacturer, or processor thereof," the Congress made it clear that it did not intend to hold the ultimate consumer as a violator of section 15 (a) (1) if he should transport "hot goods" across a State line. Thus, if a person purchases a pair of shoes from a retail store[1] and carries the shoes across a State line, the purchaser is not, in our opinion, guilty of a violation of section 15 (a) (1) if the shoes were produced in violation of the wage or hours provisions of the statute. But Congress clearly did not intend to permit an employer to avoid the minimum wage and maximum hours standards of the act by making delivery within the State into the actual physical possession of the ultimate consumer who transports or ships the goods outside the State. Thus, it is our opinion that employees engaged in building a boat for delivery to the purchaser at the boatyard are within the coverage of the act if the employer, at the time the boat is being built, intends, hopes, or has reason to believe that the purchaser will sail it outside the State.

(i) A case somewhat similar to those that have been considered above should be noted. A garment manufacturer sends his goods to an independent contractor within the State to have the materials sewn and returned to him for further processing. After the materials have been sewn by the employees of the independent contractor they are returned to the garment manufacturer and subsequently move in interstate commerce. It seems clear that the employees of the independent contractor are engaged in the production of goods for commerce. There is nothing in the definition of the word "produced" in section 3 (j) that would lend any credence to the argument that the division of the production functions between the employees of the garment manufacturer and the employees of the independent contractor who do the work of sewing the garments in any way militates against the employees of the independent contractor being engaged in the production of goods for commerce. On the contrary, section 3 (j) expressly provides that "an employee shall be deemed to have been engaged in the production of goods if such employee was employed in producing * * * such goods, or in any process or occupation necessary to the production thereof."

[1] Note that the retail or service establishment exemption in section 13 (a) (2) does not protect the retail store from a violation of the "hot goods" provision if it sells in interstate commerce goods produced in violation of sections 6 or 7.

§ 776.8 Collection and dissemination of information; production of written materials. Attention is again called to section 3 (i) which defines goods to include "articles or subjects of commerce of any character." It seems clear that the term "goods" includes publications, pamphlets, or any other written materials. Accordingly, employees engaged in the collection and dissemination of information which is transmitted to other States in the form of publications, pamphlets, or any other written materials are engaged in the production of goods for commerce even though the actual work of printing may be done by an independent printing establishment. Typically this would apply to employees of organizations such as trade associations and research and compilation services. It should be noted, too, that such employees may also be "engaged in commerce" inasmuch as the continued use of the mails and the channels and instrumentalities of interstate commerce in collecting and disseminating information would bring the employees' work within the category of work in interstate commerce.

§ 776.9 Performance of both covered and noncovered work. (a) Where an employee is engaged in the production of any goods for interstate commerce, the act makes no distinction as to the percentage of his employer's goods or of the goods upon which he works that move in interstate commerce. The entire legislative history of the act leads to the conclusion that Congress intended to exclude from the channels of interstate commerce all goods produced under labor conditions detrimental to the health, efficiency, and general well-being of workers. The President's message advocating the passage of wage and hours legislation stated that "goods produced under conditions which do not meet rudimentary standards of decency should be regarded as contraband and ought not to be allowed to pollute the channels of interstate trade." The Congress expressly found in section 2 (a) (1) that the production of goods under labor conditions detrimental to health, efficiency, and general well-being of workers "causes commerce and the channels and instrumentalities of commerce to be used to spread and perpetuate such labor conditions among the workers of the several States." The reference in section 15 (a) (1) to "any goods" is convincing proof of this intent of Congress to make no distinction as to the percentage of goods which move in interstate commerce. That section makes it unlawful for any person "(1) to transport, offer for transportation, ship, deliver, or sell in commerce, or to ship, deliver, or sell with knowledge that shipment or delivery or sale thereof in commerce is intended, any goods in the production of which any employee was employed in violation of section 6 or section 7."

(b) Thus, there is no justification for determining the applicability of the act to a particular employee on the basis of the percentage of the goods he produces, or of his employer's goods, which move in interstate commerce. However, this does not necessarily mean that an employee who at some particular time may engage in work which brings him within the coverage of the act is, by reason of that fact, thereafter indefinitely entitled to the benefits of the statute. In determining the applicability of the act, the workweek is to be taken as the standard. Thus, if in any workweek an employee produces goods for commerce and also produces goods for local consumption or performs work otherwise outside the coverage of the act, the employee is entitled to both the wage and hours benefits of the act for all the time worked during that week. The proportion of the employee's time spent in each type of work is not material. An employee spending any part of a workweek producing goods for commerce will be considered on exactly the same basis as an employee engaged exclusively in producing goods for commerce during the workweek and the total number of hours which the employee works during the workweek at both types of work must be compensated for in accordance with the minimum wage and maximum hours standards of the act.

(c) It is thus recognized that an employee may be subject to the act one week and not the next. It is likewise true that some employees of an employer may be subject to the act and others not. But the burden of effecting segregation between workweeks and between different employees is upon the employer (see § 776.7 (a)) and, as to any particular employee not accorded the benefits of the act during any workweek, it would be necessary, for example, to show that he did not prepare or handle materials used in the production of goods for interstate commerce, nor clean machinery used in such production, nor aid in any way in the production of any goods for commerce, nor engage in interstate commerce. Our experience thus far has indicated that much so-called "segregation" does not satisfy these tests and that many so-called "segregated employees" were in fact engaged in the production of goods for commerce.

§ 776.10 Local producers using out-of-state raw materials. There are manufacturers or processors who produce goods for consumption wholly within the State of manufacture or processing, but receive their raw materials from outside the State. Typical of this group is a baker who receives his flour from outside the State and sells his bread for consumption within the State. Employees of employers engaged in the production of goods for local consumption cannot be considered as "engaged in (interstate) commerce" merely because they are working on or processing goods brought from outside the State that have come to rest within the State and have ceased to be articles moving in interstate commerce. However, employees of such employers may be covered on other grounds. Thus, employees ordering or purchasing the raw materials from other States or handling or unpacking them upon receipt from other states, are "engaged in commerce" and therefore entitled to the benefits of the act. See also the situations described in §§ 776.6, 776.7 (c), and 776.11. As stated in § 776.2, the coverage of the act is primarily an individual matter as to the nature of the employment of the particular employee.

§ 776.11 Production of materials used in production of other goods for commerce. There are cases where employees producing goods for use entirely within the State of production can be said to be engaged in a "process or occupation necessary to the production" of other goods which move out of the State of production, and are, therefore, subject to the act. This would be true of the employees of a tool and die concern which sells all its products within the State for use by a producer of goods for commerce. The legislative history and subsequent court decisions indicate that the act was intended to apply, for example, to employees who make or create tools, dies, patterns, designs, blueprints, machinery or parts, all of which are sold within the State to a local purchaser who uses the tools, dies, patterns, designs, blueprints, machinery or parts in th production of goods which move in interstate commerce. Coverage likewise extends to employees engaged in repairing, reconstructing or installing within the States machine parts for machinery used ir the production of goods for interstate commerce. Similarly, the act applies to employees engaged in producing fuel, power, water, or other goods, which are used or consumed entirely within the State in the production of goods for interstate commerce. In accordance with this principle, the act is applicable typically to employees engaged in producing power or water, all of which is locally consumed, but some of which is sold to local manufacturers and consumed by them within the State in the production of other goods for interstate commerce.

TITLE 32—NATIONAL DEFENSE

Chapter VII—Sugar Rationing Administration, Department of Agriculture

SUGAR

A rationale for this amendment has been issued simultaneously herewith and has been filed with the Division of the Federal Register.

Third Revised Ration Order 3 is amended in the following respects:

1. Section 13.1 (a) is amended by revoking subparagraphs (5) and (6) and redesignating subparagraphs (7), (8), (9), and (10) as subparagraphs (5), (6), (7), and (8) respectively, and adding a new subparagraph (9) to read as follows:

(9) The United States Atomic Energy Commission, Los Alamos, New Mexico Project.

2. Section 13.2 (a) (3) is amended to read as follows:

(3) On or after July 1, 1943, by any of the other designated agencies, by a naval vessel or naval activity of the United Nations, by the Navy, Army and Air Force Institutes (of Great Britain), or by the India Supply Mission.

3. Section 13.5 (c) is amended by revoking subparagraph (2) and redesignating subparagraphs (3) and (4) as subparagraphs (2) and (3) respectively.

This amendment shall become effective July 1, 1947.

[SEAL] N. E. DODD.
Acting Secretary of Agriculture.

Rationale Accompanying Amendment No. 61 to Third Revised Ration Order 3

In view of the liquidation of the activities the Maritime Commission has been carrying on as a designated agency under the provisions of the rationing regulations, this amendment removes the Maritime Commission from the list of designated agencies.

This amendment also adds to the present list of designated agencies The Atomic Energy Commission, Los Alamos, New Mexico Project. Hitherto it has obtained sugar-containing products for the subsistence of its personnel from the Army, which is a designated agency. Owing to the fact that the Army will cease to be connected with this project after June 30, 1947, and due to its isolated condition, it is deemed desirable to name the project a "designated agency" in order to facilitate its obtaining of sugar-containing products for the personnel employed there.

Information as to the status of any particular tract will be furnished on request, by the District Land Office at Las Cruces, New Mexico, where applications for any land subject to disposal shall be filed.

This order shall not otherwise become effective to change the status of such lands until 10:00 a. m. on September 2, 1947. At that time the lands shall, subject to valid existing rights and the provisions of existing withdrawals, become subject to application, petition, location, or selection as follows:

S. C. sec. 682a), as amended, by qualified veterans of World War II, for whose service recognition is granted by the act of September 27, 1944 (58 Stat. 747, 43 U. S. C. secs. 279–283), subject to the requirements of applicable law, and (2) application under any applicable public-land law, based on prior existing valid settlement rights and preference rights conferred by existing laws or equitable claims subject to allowance and confirmation. Applications by such veterans shall be subject to claims of the classes described in subdivision (2).

(b) Twenty-day advance period for simultaneous preference-right filings. For a period of 20 days from August 12, 1947, to September 2, 1947, inclusive, such veterans and persons claiming preference rights superior to those of such veterans, may present their applications, and all such applications, together with those presented at 10:00 a. m. on September 2, 1947, shall be treated as simultaneously filed.

(c) Date for non-preference right filings authorized by the public-land laws. Commencing at 10:00 a. m. on December 2, 1947, any of the lands remaining unappropriated shall become subject to such application, petition, location, or selection by the public generally as may be authorized by the public-land laws.

Veterans shall accompany their applications with certified copies of their certificates of discharge, or other satisfactory evidence of their military or naval service. Persons asserting preference rights, through settlement or otherwise, and those having equitable claims, shall accompany their applications by duly corroborated affidavits in support thereof, setting forth in detail all facts relevant to their claims.

Applications shall be acted upon in accordance with the regulations contained in § 295.8 of Title 43 of the Code of Federal Regulations (Circular No. 324, May 22, 1914, 43 L. The term "rated capacity" shall be held to mean the capacity filed with State authorities as basis for license.

(3) The term "grain" means barley, buckwheat, corn, grain sorghums, oats, rye, spelt and wheat; also soybeans and flaxseed.

(4) For the purpose of this section, where a shipper owns, leases, operates or manages more than one grain loading facility served by one common carrier at a given station all such facilities shall be considered as a unit and the term "elevator" shall be construed accordingly.

(b) Cars not to be furnished or supplied for grain loading. No common carrier by railroad subject to the Interstate Commerce Act shall supply or furnish any car to any consignor or shipper of grain for loading and transportation unless such consignor or shipper has first:

(1) Advised the carrier's agent daily of the total quantity of grain on hand available for tender for rail shipment the following day, and

(2) Made a written order on the carrier's agent (See note below) for cars wanted for grain loading showing the (i) date of order, (ii) number of cars wanted, (iii) whether car is for bulk or sacked grain, (iv) destinations, (v) date wanted to load, (vi) quantity of each kind of grain on hand and conveniently located for prompt loading tendered for rail shipment, and (vi) name of shipper.

NOTE: Orders from shippers served by more than one railroad shall be placed jointly when cars are required from more than one carrier. Copies of all orders, whether single or joint, shall be sent as information to each of the other roads serving the industry. Such combined orders shall not exceed the total grain conveniently located for prompt loading tendered for shipment.

(c) Distribution. After a consignor or shipper has complied with paragraph (b) of this section, each common carrier by railroad subject to the Interstate Commerce Act shall supply a car or cars to such consignor or shipper but such carrier or carriers shall distribute its cars available for grain loading in accordance with the following standards:

(1) (i) Number of cars ordered.

(ii) Quantity of grain on hand for immediate shipment as shown in paragraph (b) (1) of this section (Expressed in car loads).

(iii) Number of cars which can actually be loaded per day.

Whichever of the above standards requires the least number of cars shall govern, and shall establish the ratio among the distributors to the cars available.

(2) In case one or more elevators at a station are blocked, the available cars shall be distributed as follows: the first car to first elevator blocked and thereafter during such time as elevators remain blocked, cars shall be distributed consecutively to blocked elevators in the order in which they became blocked until the blocked condition in all elevators is relieved. After each blocked elevator has been furnished one car, any cars remaining will be furnished all shippers at such station in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (c) of this section.

(d) Application. (1) The provisions of this section shall apply to intrastate as well as interstate commerce.

(2) This section shall apply only at country loading points located in the United States.

(e) Effective date. This section shall become effective at 12:01 a. m., July 7, 1947.

(f) Expiration date. This order shall expire at 11:59 p. m., December 31, 1947, unless otherwise modified, changed, suspended, or annulled by order of this Commission. (40 Stat. 101, sec. 402, 41 Stat. 476, sec. 4, 54 Stat. 901; 49 U. S. C. 1 (10)–(17))

It is further ordered, that this order shall vacate and supersede Second Revised Service Order No. 244, as amended on the effective date hereof; that a copy of this order and direction shall be served upon all state regulatory bodies regulating common carriers by railroad, and upon the Association of American

Railroads, Car Service Division, as agent of the railroads subscribing to the car service and per diem agreement under the terms of that agreement; and that notice of this order be given to the general public by depositing a copy in the office of the Secretary of the Commission at Washington, D. C., and by filing it with the Director, Division of the Federal Register.

[1] These rules and regulations have been filed with the Division of the Federal Register.

The market administrator proposes the following amended rules and regulations to be made effective at the same date as an amended Order No. 4 is made effective. All references to "provisions of Order No. 4 are related to the proposed order which is a part of the Secretary's decision with respect to proposed amendments to the order regulating the handling of milk in the Greater Boston, Massachusetts, marketing area which was issued June 30, 1947, and published in the FEDERAL REGISTER July 4, 1947.

§ 904.101 Scope. This subpart consists of rules and regulations made by the market administrator pursuant to § 904.2 (c) (2) of "Order No. 4, as Amended, Issued by the Secretary of Agriculture, Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Greater Boston, Massachusetts, Marketing Area," hereinafter referred to as "the order."

§ 904.102 Receipts from producer-handlers and from segregated dairy farmers—(a) Receipts from producer-handlers. (1) Milk received in packaged form from a producer-handler shall be considered as a receipt from a handler.

(2) Milk received from a producer-handler for the purpose of being processed or packaged for him shall be considered as a receipt from a handler. However, any excess of receipts in bulk from a producer-handler over the quantity of processed or packaged milk returned to him during the month shall be considered as a receipt from a dairy farmer.

(b) Receipts from segregated dairy farmers. Milk received from dairy farmers and handled in conformity with subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph shall be considered as receipts from segregated dairy farmers. The burden of proof rests on the handler who receives the milk from dairy farmers to establish such handling.

(1) In the process of being received at the handler's plant, the milk shall be kept entirely separate from the milk of producers and from any other fluid milk products which are shipped to or disposed of in the marketing area.

(2) The milk shall not be shipped to or disposed of in the marketing area in any form of fluid milk products, and shall not be intermingled with any other fluid milk products which are shipped to or disposed of in the marketing area.

§ 904.103 Classification of milk and other fluid milk products—(a) Application of this section. The provisions of this section shall apply only to fluid milk products which are not required to be classified as Class I milk pursuant to § 904.3 (c) (2) and (3).

(b) Fluid milk products disposed of to consumers. Fluid milk products disposed of by a handler or dealer to consumers shall be classified as follows:

(1) Milk, flavored milk, cultured or flavored skim milk, and buttermilk shall be classified as Class I milk, except as provided in subparagraphs (3) and (4) of this paragraph.

(2) Cream and skim milk shall be classified as Class II milk.

(3) Sour milk and milk otherwise unsuitable for human consumption as milk, which is disposed of to a livestock farmer and used by him for animal feed, shall be classified as Class II milk.

(4) Flavored milk, cultured or flavored skim milk, and buttermilk, which is disposed of to a livestock farmer and used by him for animal feed, shall be classified as Class II milk.

(c) Fluid milk products manufactured into other milk products. Fluid milk products manufactured by a handler or dealer into any of the following milk products shall be classified as Class II milk, unless the resulting milk product is subsequently reconverted into fluid milk products for which Class II utilization is not established.

Acidophilus milk.
Butter.
Buttermilk powder.
Casein.
Cheese and cheese paste.
Condensed milk.
Condensed skim milk.
Eggnog (unless found to be flavored milk).
Evaporated milk.
Evaporated skim milk.
Ice cream, ice cream mix, and similar frozen desserts.
Milk powder.
Nonfat dry milk solids (skim powder).
Whey and whey products.
Yarhout (Bulgarian milk).

(d) Miscellaneous uses. Fluid milk products used or disposed of by a handler or dealer in accordance with this paragraph shall be classified as follows:

(1) Milk dumped or discarded shall be classified as Class I milk, unless established as sour milk or milk otherwise unsuitable for human consumption as milk.

(2) Fluid milk products dumped or discarded, except milk suitable for human consumption as milk, shall be classified as Class II milk.

(3) Fluid milk products destroyed or spilled under extraordinary circumstances shall be classified as Class II milk.

(4) Plant shrinkage in excess of 2 percent of the volume of fluid milk products handled shall be classified as Class I milk.

(e) Inventories. Fluid milk products on hand at any plant at the close of the month may be classified tentatively as Class II milk, subject to final classification in the following month.

§ 904.104 Plant shrinkage—(a) Application of this section. The provisions of this section shall apply in determining the quantity of plant shrinkage to be classified as Class II milk pursuant to § 904.3 (a) (2) (ii).

(b) Requirement to establish plant shrinkage. (1) Plant shrinkage may be considered as established only if both the volume of fluid milk products handled during the month and the total of specific uses of fluid milk products during the month are established.

(2) If plant shrinkage is not established, the total quantity of fluid milk products not specifically accounted for shall be classified as Class I milk.

(c) Computation of volume handled and of total of specific uses. (1) The volume of fluid milk products handled by a handler during the month shall consist of the total receipts of fluid milk products at the handler's regulated plants, plus the opening inventory, and minus the closing inventory, at such plants.

(2) Each handler's total of specific uses of fluid milk products during the month shall consist of the total quantity of fluid milk products the specific disposition of which is established at the handler's regulated plants, minus the quantity of syrup or other flavoring material disposed of in flavored milk or flavored skim milk.

(d) Determination and classification of plant shrinkage. (1) Plant shrinkage shall be determined by deducting the total of specific uses from the volume handled. The remainder, if it can reasonably be considered to represent the loss or shrinkage in fluid milk products normally incurred by the handler in the receiving, processing, packaging, and distribution of the milk and milk products handled by him, shall be considered his plant shrinkage.

(2) The classification of plant shrinkage shall be determined by computing 2 percent of the volume handled, and comparing the result with the plant shrinkage. Plant shrinkage not in excess of such result shall be classified as Class II milk. Plant shrinkage in excess of such result shall be classified as Class I milk.

§ 904.105 Butterfat subject to the butter and cheese adjustment—(a) Application of this section. The provisions of this section shall apply in determining the quantity of butterfat subject to the butter and cheese adjustment provided in § 904.7 (d). As used in this section, the term "Cheddar-type cheese" shall mean Cheddar cheese, American Cheddar cheese, Colby cheese, washed curd cheese, or part skim Cheddar cheese; and the term "salted butter" shall mean butter which contains not less than 1.5 percent of salt by weight.

(b) General provisions for determining quantity subject to the adjustment. (1) The butter and cheese adjustment shall not apply to the butterfat in receipts of milk from dairy farmers who are not producers, receipts of butterfat in farm-separated cream, and receipts of butterfat in other fluid milk products derived from nonpool milk, regardless of the form in which the butterfat is received or used at any plant.

(2) The butter and cheese adjustment shall not apply to butterfat processed into salted butter or Cheddar-type cheese at any plant other than a plant of the first handler of the butterfat or of a second person to which the butterfat is moved.

(3) In general, the butter and cheese adjustment shall apply only to butterfat processed into salted butter or Cheddar-type cheese during any of the months of April through July. In the case of movements of butterfat to the plant of a second person however, the date of shipment to such person, rather than the date of processing, shall govern. Accordingly, the adjustment shall not apply to butterfat shipped to a second person during March, but shall apply to butterfat so shipped during July if the butterfat is otherwise eligible for the adjustment.

(4) The butter and cheese adjustment shall not apply to butterfat which is disposed of by the first handler or the second person in a form other than salted butter or Cheddar-type cheese after being processed into those products. However, if the salted butter or Cheddar-type cheese is held in inventory by the first handler or the second person at the close of any month, the butterfat in such butter or cheese may be tentatively considered as eligible for the adjustment, subject to proof of the form in which the butterfat was subsequently disposed of by the first handler or the second person.

(5) The butter and cheese adjustment may apply to the butterfat in route returns which is processed into salted butter or Cheddar-type cheese, except as provided in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph.

(c) Assignment of identified butterfat to source. When the source of butterfat processed into salted butter or Cheddar-type cheese at any plant is established by the processor's records, the butterfat shall be assigned to that source.

(d) Assignment of unidentified butterfat to source. When the source of butterfat processed into salted butter or Cheddar-type cheese at any plant is not established by the processor's records, the butterfat so used shall be assigned in the following manner:

(1) Butterfat processed into salted butter shall first be assigned to the butterfat in receipts of farm-separated cream at the plant, unless the records establish other uses of the cream.

(2) Butterfat processed into salted butter or Cheddar-type cheese at a plant at which the receipts of butterfat in fluid milk products are derived partly from pool milk and partly from nonpool milk shall be assigned proportionately to butterfat derived from pool milk and from nonpool milk, except as provided in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph.

(3) After butterfat processed into salted butter or Cheddar-type cheese has been assigned to butterfat derived from nonpool milk as provided in subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph, any remaining quantity of butterfat so processed shall first be assigned to the processing handler's receipts from producers, and then to his receipts from other handlers.

(4) Butterfat shipped to the plant of another person for processing into salted butter or Cheddar-type cheese shall be assigned to the butterfat in the shipping plant's receipts from pool sources and from nonpool sources in the manner set forth in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph. The butterfat assigned to pool sources shall be considered eligible for the butter and cheese adjustment, but not in excess of the quantity of butterfat available at the shipping plant from the handler's receipts from producers.

§ 904.106 Due dates for reports of receipts and disposition—(a) Application of this section. The provisions of this section shall apply with respect to the due dates for the filing of reports by nonpool handlers relating to their total receipts and utilization of fluid milk products, and to the filing of reports by all handlers relating to their purchases of outside cream, pursuant to paragraphs (b) and (c) of § 904.6.

(b) Reports of buyer-handlers and producer-handlers. (1) Each buyer-handler and producer-handler whose daily average disposition of milk during the month is at least 300 quarts per day shall report on or before the 8th day after the end of the month.

(2) Except as provided in subparagraphs (3) of this paragraph, each buyer-handler or producer-handler whose daily average disposition of milk during each month is less than 300 quarts per day shall report semiannually. The handler shall report on or before July 8 with respect to his receipts and disposition of fluid milk products in the preceding six months' period ended June 30, and shall report on or before January 8 for the preceding six months' period ended December 31.

(3) Any buyer-handler or producer-handler whose daily average disposition of milk is less than 300 quarts per day but who receives outside milk during any month shall report within 8 days after the end of such month, and shall thereafter file separate reports for each subsequent month of the semiannual period involved. Separate reports for each prior month of the semiannual period shall be due on the same date as the report for the month in which the outside milk is received.

(c) Reports of handlers who operate unregulated distributing plants. Each handler who operates an unregulated distributing plant during the month shall report within 8 days after the end of such month.

(d) Reports of subhandlers. Each nonpool handler who disposes of Class I milk directly to consumers in the marketing area, but who does not operate a plant, shall report at the same time as a buyer-handler or producer-handler is required to report.

(e) Reports of handlers who purchase outside cream. Each handler who purchases bottling quality cream from nonpool handlers shall report on the 16th day of each month with respect to his purchases of such cream in the preceding 15 days, and shall report on the first day of the following month with respect to his purchases of such cream from the 16th day to the last day of the previous month.

§ 904.107 Prescribed detail for reports of receipts and disposition—(a) Application of this section. The provisions of this section shall apply with respect to the detail and form for the filing of reports by all handlers relating to their total receipts and utilization of fluid milk products, pursuant to paragraphs (a) and (b) of § 904.6.

(b) Requirements applicable to pool handlers. Each pool handler shall report the following information:

(1) The respective quantities of milk received at each plant from producers whose farms are located not more than 40 miles, more than 40 miles but not more than 80 miles, and more than 80 miles from the State House in Boston; and the number of producers in each group;

(2) The total receipts at each plant other than the plant of a qualified operating association, from producers who are members of each cooperative association qualified pursuant to § 904.10 from producers who are nonmembers; and the number of producers in each group;

(3) The shipments of fluid milk products from each country pool plant;

(4) The information necessary to calculate the amount of the butter and cheese adjustment provided for in § 904.7 (d); and

(5) The total receipts at each pool plant from segregated dairy farmers and the use classification of such receipts pursuant to § 904.3.

(c) Requirements applicable to nonpool handlers. Each nonpool handler shall report the following information:

(1) The receipts of fluid milk products at each plant from other handlers and dealers;

(2) The receipts of milk from his own production, and from other dairy farmers, including receipts from segregated dairy farmers;

(3) The total quantity of Class I milk disposed of to consumers without intermediate movement to another plant, showing the respective quantities so disposed of in the marketing area and outside the marketing area;

(4) The total quantity of Class I milk disposed of to individual handlers and dealers, showing the respective quantities so disposed of in the marketing area and outside the marketing area; and

(5) The total quantity of fluid milk products disposed of as Class II milk, and information as to the quantities so disposed of to individual handlers and dealers.

§ 904.108 Averaging of producers' semimonthly butterfat tests. In making payments for milk to each producer, pursuant to § 904.9, each handler may determine the average butterfat content of the milk by using the simple average of the butterfat tests of semimonthly composite samples of the milk, unless the difference between the semimonthly tests is more than two points (.2%), or the quantity of milk delivered by the producer in either semimonthly period is as much as three times as large as his deliveries in the other semimonthly period.

§ 904.109 Deductions from payments to producers—(a) Authorization for deductions. In making payments to producers as required by §§ 904.9 (a) and 904.9 (b) (1), the burden shall rest upon the handler making deductions from such payments to prove that each deduction is properly authorized, and properly chargeable to the producer.

(b) Deductions for cooperative associations. The handler shall be relieved of the obligation to make the cooperative association deduction provided for in § 904.10 (e) to the extent that the market administrator, after such investigation or verification as he deems necessary determines and so notifies the handler.

§ 904.110 Weights of fluid milk products—(a) Application of this section. The provisions of this section shall apply in determining the respective quantities of fluid milk products received or used by each handler or dealer.

(b) Basis for determination of quantity. The determination of the quantity of fluid milk products received or used by each handler or dealer shall be on the basis of the weight, in pounds, of the fluid milk products.

(c) Standard weights. In the absence of specific weights, the weight of fluid milk products received or disposed of in a quart or 40-quart container shall be determined according to the following table, and the weight of such products in any other container shall be determined by multiplying the equivalent number of quarts by the respective standard weight per quart container.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

PHILADELPHIA RECORD CO., PHILADELPHIA, PA.

NOTICE CONCERNING PROPOSED TRANSFER OF CONTROL [1]

The Commission hereby gives notice that on June 27, 1947 there was filed with it an application (BTC-556) for its consent under section 310 (b) of the Communications Act to the proposed transfer of control of Philadelphia Record Company, licensee of AM station WCAU and WCAU-FM, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, from J. David Stern to Bulletin Company, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

The proposal to transfer control arises out of a contract of February 1, 1947 between the proposed transferors (J. David Stern, individually and as agent for other stockholders of Courier-Post Company, which company in turn controls Philadelphia Record Company) and transferee, Bulletin Company, pursuant to which transferors agree to sell all the outstanding stock of Courier-Post Company for $4,500,000. Partial payment of $1,250,000 has been made by Bulletin Company and the balance of the purchase price is to be paid and the stock transferred within 20 days after written consent of the Federal Communications Commission. Further down payments are provided upon certain contingencies. The principal assets of Courier-Post Company presently consist of the "Morning Post" and the "Evening Courier" at Camden, New Jersey and approximately 92% of the stock of Philadelphia Record Company. Said newspapers are presently under lease and purchase option agreement, subject to certain conditions in said instruments. Philadelphia Record Company owns no newspaper assets, the same having been sold. The present business of Philadelphia Record Company consists solely of operation of stations WCAU and WCAU-FM. Courier-Post Company and Philadelphia Record Company are substantially indebted upon certain mortgage obligations.

The arrangements provided for in the proposed transfer application of WCAU and WCAU-FM are related to certain other applications simultaneously filed with and now pending before the Federal Communications Commission, i. e., Application (file BAL-621) pursuant to which Philadelphia Record Company proposes to assign WCAU-FM to William Penn Broadcasting Company; application (file BAL-619) pursuant to which WPEN-FM and WPEN-TV would be assigned by William Penn Broadcasting Company to Philadelphia Record Company; and an application (BTC-557) pursuant to which control of William Penn Broadcasting Company would be transferred by Bulletin Company to Sun Ray Drug Company. Further details concerning arrangements between the parties may be obtained from the applications and associated papers which are on file at the office of the Federal Communications Commission, Washington D. C.

On June 27, 1947 the Commission was advised that starting June 30, 1947 publication concerning these matters would be given in local newspapers of general circulation at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania in conformity with § 1.321. In accordance with the procedure set out in said section no action will be had upon the applications for a period of 60 days from June 30, 1947, within which time other persons desiring to apply for the facilities involved may do so upon the same terms and conditions.

NOTICE CONCERNING PROPOSED ASSIGNMENT OF LICENSE [1]

The Commission hereby gives notice that on June 27, 1947 there were filed with it applications (BAL-619 and BAL-621) for its consent under section 310 (b) of the Communications Act to the proposed assignment of license of WCAU-FM, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, from Philadelphia Record Company to William Penn Broadcasting Company, and for assignment of the license for WPEN-FM and permit for WPEN-TV from William Penn Broadcasting Company to Philadelphia Record Company.

The proposal to assign WCAU-FM to William Penn Broadcasting Company and the license for WPEN-FM and permit for WPEN-TV to Philadelphia Record Company arises out of an agreement of June 7, 1947 between William Penn Broadcasting Company and Philadelphia Record Company which contemplates that if the Commission should consent to the acquisition of control of WCAU-FM by Bulletin Company (which now controls William Penn Broadcasting Company) see BTC-556 concerning which notice is given simultaneously herewith as well as the exchange of licenses and permits for WCAU-FM, WPEN-FM and WPEN-TV as provided, William Penn Broadcasting Company will transfer to Philadelphia Record Company existing licenses and permits for WPEN-FM and WPEN-TV and assets of said stations described in the contract in return for which Philadelphia Record Company will transfer to William Penn Broadcasting Company licenses and permits for WCAU-FM and assets described in the contract, after which call letters of WPEN-FM and WPEN-TV would be changed to WCAU-FM and WCAU-TV and call letters of WCAU-FM would be changed to WPEN-FM. The price to be paid by the respective assignees for the assets of the stations involved would be the fair market value fixed by appraisal as of the closing date, subject to adjustments provided in the agreement. Further details concerning arrangements between the parties may be obtained from the applications and associated papers which are on file at the offices of the Federal Communications Commission, Washington, D. C.

On June 27, 1947 the Commission was advised that starting June 30, 1947 publication concerning these matters would be given in local newspapers of general circulation at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania in conformity with § 1.321. In accordance with the procedure set out in said section no action will be had upon the applications for a period of 60 days from June 30, 1947, within which time other persons desiring to apply for the facilities involved may do so upon the same terms and conditions.

WILLIAM PENN BROADCASTING CO., PHILADELPHIA, PA.

PUBLIC NOTICE CONCERNING THE PROPOSED TRANSFER OF CONTROL [1]

The Commission hereby gives notice that on June 27, 1947 there was filed with it an application (BTC-557) for its consent under section 310 (b) of the Communications Act to the proposed transfer of control of William Penn Broadcasting Company (AM Station WPEN and associated FM station), Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, from Bulletin Company to Sun Ray Drug Company, 1227 North Broad Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

The proposal to transfer control arises out of a contract of June 7, 1947 between the Bulletin Company and Sun Ray Drug Company under which the former would sell to the latter all the outstanding 500 shares of no par value common voting stock of the licensee company for a consideration of $800,000. Of this amount $40,000 has been paid and the balance will be paid in full on transfer of the stock, upon closing, which is to be within 20 days of Commission consent. If the current assets exceed current liabilities at closing, such amount should be added to the purchase price; if such liabilities exceed such assets the excess shall be deducted from the purchase price. Seller agrees to allow buyer a credit on the purchase price not to exceed $25,000, which would be reduced by the cost of acquisition and installation of FM facilities. Reference is hereby made to the pendency of other related applications (i. e., for transfer of control of Philadelphia Record Company to Bulletin Company, BTC-556; and for exchange of licenses and station properties between Philadelphia Record Company and William Penn Broadcasting Company, (BAL-619 and BAL-621)) upon the granting of which this application is contingent. Further details concerning the application as well as with reference to the other related applications may be found with the applications and associated papers which are on file at the offices of the Commission, Washington, D. C.

On June 27, 1947 the Commission was advised that public notice concerning the application would be inserted in a newspaper of general circulation at Philadelphia beginning June 30, 1947, in conformity with § 1.321.

In accordance with the procedure set out in said section, no action will be had upon the application for a period of 60 days from June 30, 1947 within which time other persons desiring to apply for the facilities involved may do so upon the same terms and conditions as set forth in the above described contract.

It is hereby ordered, That said supplemental application-declaration be, and the same hereby is, granted and permitted to become effective forthwith, subject to the terms and conditions prescribed in Rule U-24 and subject to the further conditions that:

(1) The proposed sale of common stock of Cleveland shall not be consummated until the results of competitive bidding pursuant to Rule U-50 have been made a matter of record herein and a further order shall have been entered with respect thereto, which order may contain such further terms and conditions as may then be deemed appropriate, for which purpose jurisdiction is hereby reserved.

(2) North American shall make available to the prospective bidders at any time prior to the submission of bids full details with respect to any stabilizing operations which it may have conducted including the time of purchases and the number of shares acquired.

(3) Any shares of Cleveland common stock acquired by North American in its proposed stabilizing operations shall be subject to the provisions of the Commission's order dated April 14, 1942 in the same manner as Cleveland common stock now held by North American.

North American having reported to the Commission that in connection with its sale of 1,714,525 shares of Cleveland common stock heretofore permitted by the Commission's order dated March 11, 1947, its estimate of expenses was exceeded in the amount of $16,250 due primarily to printing costs, overtime pay and amounts paid to temporary employees; and it appearing to the Commission that such expenses as so increased above such original estimates are not unreasonable and that no adverse findings are required with respect thereto;

It is hereby ordered, Pursuant to said Rule U-23 and the applicable provisions of the act, and subject to the terms and conditions prescribed in Rule U-24, that this joint application-declaration be, and the same hereby is, granted and permitted to become effective forthwith.

Chapter IX—Production and Marketing Administration (Marketing Agreements and Orders)

[Bartlett Pear Order 1]

PART 936—FRESH BARTLETT PEARS, PLUMS, AND ELBERTA PEACHES GROWN IN CALIFORNIA

REGULATION BY SIZES

§ 936.326 Bartlett Pear Order 1—(a) Findings. (1) Pursuant to the marketing agreement, as amended, and Order No. 36, as amended (7 CFR, Cum. Supp., 936.1 et seq.), regulating the handling of fresh Bartlett pears, plums, and Elberta peaches grown in the State of California, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended, and upon the basis of the recommendations of the Bartlett Pear Commodity Committee, established under the aforesaid amended marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of shipments of Bartlett pears, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(2) It is hereby further found that compliance with the notice, public rule making procedure, and 30-day effective date requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act (Pub. Law 404, 79th Cong.; 60 Stat. 237) is impracticable and contrary to the public interest in that the time intervening between the date when information upon which this section is based became available and the time when this section must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended, is insufficient for such compliance.

(b) Order. (1) During the period beginning at 12:01 a. m., P. s. t., July 14, 1947, and ending at 12:01 a. m., P. s. t., December 1, 1947, no shipper shall ship any box or container of Bartlett pears containing pears of a size smaller than the size known commercially as size 195 that will pack a standard pack, as specified in the United States Standards for summer and fall pears (12 F. R. 3800). The aforesaid size 195 is defined more specifically in subparagraph (4) of this paragraph.

(2) During the period set forth in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph:

(i) The total quantity of Bartlett pears which a shipper may ship during any day, from any shipping point, shall meet the following additional conditions:

(a) Of said total quantity, at least ninety-five (95) percent, by number of boxes, shall be of a size not smaller than the size known commercially as size 180 that will pack a standard pack, specified as aforesaid; and the aforesaid size 180 is defined more specifically in subparagraph (3) of this paragraph; and

(b) The remainder of such tota. quantity shall be of the aforesaid size 195.

(ii) If any shipper, during any two (2) consecutive days, ships from any such shipping point less than the maximum allowable portion of such Bartlett pears of the aforesaid size 195, the amount of such undershipment of such pears may be shipped only during the next succeeding calendar day, in addition to such Bartlett pears of such size that the respective shipper could have shipped on such succeeding calendar day if there had been no undershipment during the two (2) preceding days.

(3) As used in this section, the aforesaid size 180 is defined more specifically as the size that will pack a standard pack, specified as aforesaid, in the standard pear box numbered 20, as specified in section 828.3 of the Agricultural Code of California, with five tiers per box with six rows per tier and six pears in each row; and the twenty (20) smallest pears shall weigh not less than five pounds.

(4) As used in this section, the aforesaid size 195 is defined more specifically as the size that will pack a standard pack, specified as aforesaid, in the aforesaid standard pear box, with five tiers per box with six rows per tier, and each of three of such rows shall contain six pears, and the remaining three rows shall contain seven pears each per row; and the twenty-two (22) smallest pears shall weigh not less than five pounds.

(5) Each shipper, prior to making each shipment of Bartlett pears, shall, during the period set forth in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, have the pears included in each such shipment inspected by a duly authorized representative of the Federal-State Inspection Service, heretofore designated by the Bartlett Pear Commodity Committee and hereby approved; and each such shipper shall submit promptly, or cause to be submitted promptly, to the Bartlett Pear Commodity Committee, Federal-State shipping point inspection certificates stating the sizes of the Bartlett pears contained in each such lot or shipment: Provided, however, That, in case the following conditions exist in connection with any such shipment:

(i) A request for inspection as made to the Federal-State Inspection Service not later than 5:00 p. m. of the day before the fruit will be available for inspection;

(ii) The fruit is available for inspection between the hours of 7:00 a. m. and 8:00 p. m. of the day specified in the request for such inspection; and

(iii) The Federal-State Inspection Service furnishes the shipper with a signed statement that it is not practicable, under such conditions, for the Federal-State Inspection Service to make the inspection within the necessary time;

the shipper, by submitting or causing to be submitted such signed statement to the Bartlett Pear Commodity Committee, may make the particular shipment without such inspection, but such shipper shall still be held responsible for conforming with all grade and size regulations applicable to such shipment.

(6) As used in this section, the terms "shipper," "ship," "shipped," and "shipping point" shall have the same meaning as when used in the amended marketing agreement and order. (48 Stat. 31, as amended, 7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.; 7 CFR, Cum. Supp., 936.1 et seq.)

Notice of the proposed designation of the International Falls Municipal Airport as a temporary airport of entry for aliens was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER dated June 4, 1947 (12 F. R. 3631), pursuant to section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (60 Stat. 238; 5 U. S. C., Sup. 1003). The designation shall be considered as having become effective on June 1, 1947, the delayed effective date requirements of section 4 (c) of the Administrative Procedure Act being dispensed with for the reasons that (1) it is in the public interest that the immigration facilities be made available as soon as possible, and (2) the designation for customs purposes has been made effective on June 1, 1947 (12 F. (4) Transportation of aliens and other persons evacuated from military areas. The lowest class of transportation by the facility used will be furnished aliens or other persons evacuated from military areas pursuant to the provisions of Executive Order No. 9066 (7 F. R. 1407), except that where transportation is by rail carriers and the journey involves spending two nights or more on the train, sleeping-car accommodations will be furnished as prescribed in subdivisions (i) and (ii) of this subparagraph for the entire distance from point of origin to destination only for all children under 14 years of age and females who may be included in a movement.

(i) Fourteen persons or less: When the total number of children under 14 years of age and females included in a particular movement is 14 or less, sleeping-car accommodations will be furnished in tourist sleeping cars of the regular section type, if available, otherwise in Pullman Company three-tier tourist sleeping cars, if available; otherwise in standard sleeping cars of the regular section type. Each person assigned to space in a Pullman Company three-tier tourist sleeping car will be furnished an individual tier berth, and persons assigned to space in sleeping cars of the regular section type will be furnished berth accommodations on the following basis:

(a) A mother with her child or children under 14 years of age or a woman in charge of a child or children under 14 years of age, as prescribed for a wife and child or children in paragraph (a) (2) (vi). (See also (d) and (e) of this subdivision.)

commodations) provided for in this subdivision contemplate furnishing the most economical accommodations available on the train (and connecting trains en route) and authorized. The higher cost berths and accommodations will be utilized only to the extent that those of lower cost are not available.

(ii) Fifteen persons or more: (a) Kind of accommodations to be furnished. When the total number of children under 14 years of age and females included in a particular movement is 15 or more, they will be furnished accommodations in a tourist sleeping car or non-air-conditioned standard sleeping car substituted therefor, of the regular section type; Provided, That whenever a special sleeping car of the foregoing kind and type cannot be made available by the carriers, they will be furnished accommodations in the kind and type of special sleeping car which can be made available at the time the movement takes place.

The order of precedence in which special sleeping cars will be furnished by the carriers, according to availability, and the order of precedence in which such cars will be utilized when it is necessary for the carriers to furnish more than one kind of sleeping car for a particular movement, is prescribed in the current Joint Military Passenger Agreement (War Department Commercial Traffic Bulletin No. 6 of current year).

(b) Physically disabled patients not traveling in a mileage status—(1) Kind of accommodations. It will be the policy to furnish accommodations for physically disabled patients, and any authorized attendants while accompanying such patients, in air-conditioned sleeping cars or air-conditioned parlor cars whenever possible under the conditions set forth in this paragraph, in cases where United States Army hospital cars are not used. The term "physically disabled patients" as used in this paragraph includes evacuees under Executive Order No. 9066 (7 FR 1407), but it does not include dependents in view of decision of the Comptroller of the Treasury (27 Comp. Dec. 1042) that no extra traveling expenses occasioned by disability will be paid by the Government in the case of dependents. No air-conditioned accommodations will be requested for attendants while not actually accompanying physically disabled patients but in such circumstance they will be furnished any authorized accommodations to which they be entitled for normal travel under the provisions of this section.

(i) Except as set forth in subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph, physically disabled patients in movements of less than 15 persons (patients, including attendants) will be furnished one lower berth each or one upper berth each, whichever may be determined by the responsible medical officer. For persons (patients) restricted to tourist accommodations whenever available, under the provisions of this section the berths will be requested in sleeping cars, air-conditioned tourist where operated, otherwise air-conditioned standard where operated for the distance that such tourist is not operated. Where no air-conditioned sleeping cars of either kind are operated for any portion of the distance, the berths will be requested for such distance in non-air-conditions standard where operated. For persons (patients) entitled to standard accommodations, under the provisions of this section, the berths will be requested in air-conditioned standard sleeping cars where operated and in non-air-conditioned standard where operated for any portion of the distance that such air-conditioned cars are not operated. The foregoing shall not be construed to require a change of cars other than at the terminus of the car occupied. Whenever the condition of a physically disabled patient warrants the use of a seat and daylight sleeping-car or parlor-car schedules are available and adequate, as determined by the responsible medical officer, each such patient will be furnished a seat in such sleeping car or parlor car, observing the same rules with respect to air-conditioned cars as apply above to furnishing a berth. Attendants will be provided for such physically disabled patients whenever the responsible medical officer determines that such is necessary. Regardless of grade or status, attendants will be furnished accommodations in the same car with the patients, a seat in the case of seat service, or the berth accommodations to which they are entitled under the provisions of this section, in the case of berth service.

(ii) Whenever a physically disabled patient in movements of less than 15 persons (patients, including attendants) may be expected to be noisy, ill-mannered, unpresentable, or otherwise objectionable to the public, or is in such physical condition as to require exclusive accommodations, the responsible medical officer will furnish the transportation officer issuing the transportation request a certificate, in duplicate, stating that the condition of the patient(s) requires exclusive accommodations. Attendants will be provided at all times for such physically disabled patients. Accommodations will be furnished for such physically disabled patients and their attendants in drawing rooms in air-conditioned parlor cars or in roomettes, bedrooms, compartments, or drawing rooms in air-conditioned sleeping cars, where such air-conditioned cars are operated; otherwise such room accommodations will be furnished in nonair-conditioned parlor or sleeping cars, where operated. The responsible medical officer, in coordination with the transportation officer, will determine in each case the number of attendants required, the class of accommodations required (that is, roomettes, bedrooms, compartments, or drawing rooms, whichever is the most economical available and meets the needs), and the total number of persons (physically disabled patients and attendants), not less than two, to occupy each double bedroom, compartment, or drawing room. Superior room accommodations will not be requested in any case where lower class room accommodations are adequate and available.

(c) Insane patients not traveling in a mileage status—(1) Kind of accommodations. It will be the policy to furnish accommodations for insane patients, and attendants while accompanying such patients, in air-conditioned sleeping cars or air-conditioned parlor cars whenever possible under the conditions set forth in this paragraph, in cases where United States Army hospital cars are not used. The term "insane patients" as used in this paragraph means patients who are insane or who are undergoing observation for insanity or mental disorders. The term includes evacuees under Executive Order No. 9066 (7 F. R. 1407), but it does not include dependents (27 Comp. Dec. 1042). No air-conditioned accommodations will be requested for attendants while not actually accompanying insane patients but in such circumstance they will be furnished any authorized accommodations to which they may be entitled for normal travel under the provisions of this section.

(d) Attendants with remains. Attendants accompanying remains will be furnished the authorized accommodations to which entitled, except that transportation requests for parlor-car or sleeping-car accommodations will not be furnished for officer attendants, or other attendants entitled to the same mileage allowances, traveling in a mileage status.

(e) Utilization of special sleeping cars or parlor cars. Special sleeping cars or parlor cars will be utilized only when the expense does not exceed the cost of berths and seats authorized to be furnished. See the current Joint Military Passenger Agreement (War Department Commercial Traffic Bulletin No. 6 of current year).

(f) Receipt for accommodations furnished. Travelers will be informed of the pertinent requirements of AR 55-110. Whenever the face of the transportation request is indorsed by the transportation officer, "Tourist whenever available," the traveler will be instructed to indorse over his signature in the space provided on the back of the request a statement as to the points between which tourist accommodations are furnished. In case tourist accommodations become available en route and the transportation request cannot be indorsed on account of its having been lifted by the agent or by the first conductor (there having been a change of conductors), then the traveler will promptly forward the statement to the disbursing officer designated to pay the carrier's bill. The statement will also cite the serial number of the transportation request. Travelers will be instructed to advise the foregoing disbursing officer promptly whenever the accommodations used are less than those called for by sleeping-car or parlor-car tickets or transfer tickets.

(g) Accommodations at variance with transportation request. Procurement from a carrier on a transportation request of excess space of a lower class than that called for by the request is prohibited, even though no additional cost to the Government is involved; for example, two lower tourist berths in lieu of a double berth in a standard sleeping car or seats in a parlor car in lieu of berths. TITLE 26—INTERNAL REVENUE

Chapter I—Bureau of Internal Revenue, Department of the Treasury

[T. D. 5570]

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

On April 24, 1947, notice of proposed rule-making regarding the tax-free withdrawal of cigars from customs bonded warehouses, class 6, was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (12 F. R. 2635). No objection to the rules proposed having been received, the following amendments to Treasury Decision 5438 (26 CFR, Part 142) are hereby adopted. These amendments are designed to eliminate provisions relative to the tax-free withdrawal from such bonded warehouses of cigars for use of the military or naval forces of the United States in United States Territories, which tax-free withdrawals were permissible only until the date on which the President proclaimed that hostilities in the present war have terminated. The President having proclaimed the termination of hostilities, the provisions of Treasury Decision 5438 for withdrawal tax-free from customs bonded warehouses, of cigars for use of the military or naval forces of the United States in United States Territories were rendered obsolete and, accordingly, they are eliminated by the amendments hereby made. The amendments are also designed to adopt procedure consonant with customs procedure and establish the greatest practicable degree of coordination of the Internal Revenue and Customs Bureaus, in respect of the withdrawals of cigars without payment of internal revenue tax from the customs warehouses indicated.

Duties paid on tobacco used in the manufacture of cigars withdrawn under this subpart may not be recovered. A PROCLAMATION

. . . . . .

. . . I, Harry S. Truman, President of the United States of America, do hereby proclaim the cessation of hostilities of World War II, effective twelve o'clock noon, December 31, 1946.

§ 142.22 Shipment restricted. The withdrawal of cigars under this subpart, without payment of tax, may be made only for export to foreign countries or possessions of the United States where the United States internal revenue laws are not in effect.

§ 142.23 Bond. Before or at the time of filing his first application, a manufacturer who desires to withdraw cigars from his warehouse without payment of tax under this subpart, shall furnish to the collector a bond, in duplicate, in such form as the Commissioner shall prescribe, with surety satisfactory to the collector. The penal sum of the bond shall be sufficient to cover the estimated amount of tax which shall at any time constitute a charge against the bond, and in no case less than $5,000.00. When the bond, in duplicate, is received by the collector, he shall, if the bond meets with his approval, make endorsement to that effect on both the original and duplicate of the bond and forward the duplicate to the Commissioner. The liability under such bond shall be a continuing one, and will be subject to increase or decrease as withdrawals are made and completed. When the limit of liability under such bond has been reached, further withdrawals may not be made thereunder. Instead, a new bond, in duplicate, must be filed by the manufacturer, under which subsequent withdrawals shall be made.

§ 142.24 Packing, marking, or branding. Cigars withdrawn under this subpart may be put up in packages of any sizes desired. Each package of cigars shall have securely affixed in place of the internal revenue stamp a label, which label shall be readily distinguishable from an internal revenue stamp and on which shall be printed the following legend:

Free of tax. For use only outside the jurisdiction of the internal revenue laws of the United States.

§ 142.25 Shipping containers. Each shipping container in which cigars are to be withdrawn under this subpart shall be plainly numbered by the manufacturer, the number to be a consecutive one of a series beginning with No. 1, and begin again with No. 1 on July 1 of each subsequent year.

Shipping containers shall not be closed and fastened until their contents have been inspected and verified by a customs officer at the warehouse, as hereinafter prescribed.

§ 142.26 Application for withdrawal. An application on Internal Revenue Form 550, appropriately modified, shall be executed and filed by the manufacturer with the collector for each shipment intended to be withdrawn under this subpart. Such application shall be filed in triplicate for each parcel post shipment, and in quadruplicate for each shipment otherwise than by parcel post. Each application shall bear a serial number, such number to be a consecutive one of a series beginning with No. 1 to cover the first shipment, and commencing again with No. 1 on July 1 of each year thereafter. Copies of each application shall bear the same serial number as the original. Each application shall be completely and legibly modified and filled in. The cigars described in the application shall not be withdrawn from the warehouse until after inspection and verification by the customs officer as hereinafter required.

Upon receipt of each application, properly executed, the collector shall, if the tax liability on the particular shipment does not increase the outstanding liability in excess of the penal sum of the bond under which the withdrawal is to be made, immediately after signing the original and each copy of the application, forward the original and the two or three copies of the application to the customs officer in charge of the warehouse from which the shipment is to be withdrawn, in order that the customs officer can make proper inspection and verification of the cigars described in the application.

§ 142.27 Inspection and verification of shipment. It shall be the duty of the customs officer in charge of the warehouse from which the shipment of cigars is to be withdrawn under this subpart, to inspect the shipment and determine definitely that the shipment contains the exact class and quantity of cigars specified in the application, and that the boxes or packages of such cigars meet the requirements of this subpart. The packing of the shipping containers shall be under the supervision of the customs officer who will see that the number required by this subpart is properly inscribed on each shipping container.

Cigars withdrawn under this subpart may be stored within the jurisdiction of the internal revenue laws of the United States only under Government control and supervision, or with the approval of the Commissioner. Cigars withdrawn and otherwise held in such jurisdiction are subject to seizure by and forfeiture to the United States.

§ 142.28 Report of inspecting officer. After inspection and verification of the shipment have been completed and the shipping containers have been made ready for withdrawal and the customs officer has filled in and signed his report on the original and each copy of the application, the shipment shall be released for withdrawal by the manufacturer. One copy of the application is to be retained for customs purposes, one copy forwarded immediately to the collector and the original and the remaining copy delivered to the manufacturer to go forward with the shipment and be disposed of as hereinafter prescribed.

§ 142.29 Delay in withdrawal of shipment; cancelation of shipment. In case a shipment is not withdrawn from the warehouse within ten days after inspection and verification as provided in this subpart, the manufacturer must advise the collector as to the probable date of withdrawal. If the order for the shipment has been canceled, the manufacturer should so advise the collector and request premission to return the shipment to stock in the warehouse under the supervision of the customs officer in charge of the warehouse.

§ 142.30 Change in consignee. If, after inspection and verification, but before withdrawal of the shipment, the manufacturer for good and sufficient reasons desires to change the consignee or the address of the original consignee shown by the application, the manufacturer shall forward to the collector for correction and endorsement the original and copy of the application delivered to him by the inspecting officer with a letter setting forth his reasons for the change. The collector, after making correction and endorsement of the change, shall forward the original and copy of the application to the customs officer in charge of the warehouse with a letter instructing the customs officer to make similar change in the copy of the application which he retained after inspection and verification of the shipment, and to deliver the original and copy of the application to the manufacturer.

§ 142.31 Withdrawal of shipment and disposition of original of application, Form 550—(a) General. After the shipment has been released for withdrawal, the manufacturer shall enter on the original and copy of the application the actual date of withdrawal of the shipment from the warehouse, after which the shipment may go forward to the consignee. The original and copy of the application shall then be disposed of by the manufacturer as hereinafter prescribed.

(b) Shipment other than by parcel post. (1) If the warehouse is located at the port of exportation, the manufacturer shall file with the collector of customs at the port, at least six hours prior to lading of the shipment, the original and one copy of the application on Form 550 returned to him by the customs officer who inspected the shipment at the warehouse.

(2) If the warehouse is located elsewhere than at the port of exportation, the manufacturer shall forward the original and one copy of the application on Form 550 to the collector of customs at the port or to the agent of the manufacturer at the port so that these forms may reach or be filed with the collector of customs at least six hours prior to lading of the shipment. Where the original and one copy of the Form 550 are forwarded by the manufacturer to his agent at the port, the agent may fill in the name of the carrier or exporting vessel and give the location of the pier where the shipment will be laden.

(3) In case of exportation to a foreign contiguous territory by rail through a border port the manufacturer will forward the original and one copy of the application on Form 550 to the collector of customs at the border port through which the shipment will be routed for exportation.

(4) After the shipment has been inspected and laden on the exporting vessel or carrier or where the shipment has been inspected at the border port of exit with respect to shipment to a foreign contiguous territory the customs inspector who supervised the inspection and lading of the shipment will execute the Certificate of Inspection and Lading on the reverse side of both the original and copy of the Form 550 and return these forms to his collector of customs. After the vessel or carrier has cleared from the port of exportation or exit, the collector of customs will execute the Certificate of Exportation on both the original and copy of the Form 550, retain the copy for his file and forward the completed original to the collector of internal revenue of the district from which the shipment originated as indicated on the back of the form.

(c) Shipment by parcel post. If the shipment is to be made by parcel post, the manufacturer shall execute on each shipping container or parcel a waiver of his right to withdraw the container or parcel from the mails, and then at the time of mailing present the original Form 550 covering the shipment to the postmaster or his agent for execution of the certificate of mailing provided on the back of the form. The original Form 550 so executed shall be filed promptly thereafter by the manufacturer with the collector.

§ 142.32 Return of shipment to warehouse. If, after withdrawal, the manufacturer desires to return a shipment to the warehouse, he must make application to the Commissioner for permission to do so. The manufacturer must identify the shipment, and show where it has been since it left the factory, where held and in whose custody it is at the time of making application, and the reasons for returning the shipment. After receipt of such application, the Commissioner will issue appropriate instructions. The return of cigars to the warehouse will operate only to relieve the manufacturer of liability to internal revenue tax. Cigars so returned may not thereafter be withdrawn with benefit of refund of duties on the tobacco of which the cigars were made. Section 558, Tariff Act of 1930, as amended (19 U. S. C. 1558).

§ 142.33 Tax liability. The responsibility for the delivery to the consignee of cigars withdrawn under this subpart shall rest upon the manufacturer making the withdrawal, who will be liable for the internal revenue tax on any cigars withdrawn or delivered otherwise than in accordance with this subpart.

§ 142.34 Credit for shipment. Upon receipt of the original of the application on Form 550 with the "Certificate of Inspection and Lading" and the "Certificate of Exportation" executed by the appropriate customs officers or the "Certificate of Mailing by Parcel Post" executed by the appropriate postal officer with no shortage reported, the collector shall enter the proper credit in the account, Form 94, which he shall keep with the bond under which the shipment was made. In case a shortage is reported, the collector shall enter credit for the cigars actually delivered and require the manufacturer to pay the amount of tax due on the shortage.

§ 142.35 Penalties. Various sections of the Internal Revenue Code impose severe penalties for the unlawful withdrawal of cigars from the place of manufacture and for the possession, use, or delivery within the United States (including its territories) of manufactured cigars upon which the tax has not been paid. These sections apply to cigars withdrawn without the payment of tax under this subpart, and, accordingly, any person withdrawing, possessing, using, or delivering any such cigars otherwise than as authorized by this subpart may be subject to the penalties prescribed by these sections of the Code.

This Treasury decision shall be effective on the 31st day after the date of its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

JOSEPH D. NUNAN, Jr.,
Commissioner of Internal Revenue.
FRANK DOW,
Acting Commissioner of Customs.

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

1. On May 6, 1947, notice of proposed rule-making regarding the keeping of records by wholesale liquor dealers was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (12 F. R. 3020).

2. After consideration of all such relevant matter as was presented by interested persons regarding the proposal, the following amendments to §§ 194.27 (a), 194.75 (a) and (b), 194.76, and 194.78 (a) of Regulations 20, approved June 6, 1940 (26 CFR, Cum. Supp., Part 194), are hereby adopted.

3. These amendments are designed to supplement existing regulations by providing more definite instructions regarding the keeping of records involving the receipt and disposal of distilled spirits through transactions in warehouse receipts.

4. Regulations 20, approved June 6, 1940 (26 CFR, Cum. Supp., Part 194), as amended, are hereby amended as follows:

§ 194.27 Warehouse receipts covering spirits. (a) Since the sale of warehouse receipts for spirits is equivalent to the sale of spirits, a person engaged in the business of selling, or offering for sale, warehouse receipts for spirits stored in Government bonded warehouses, or elsewhere, incurs liability to special tax as a dealer in liquors, unless exempted by the provisions of §§ 194.62 to 194.73, inclusive.

* * * * *

§ 194.75 Records to be kept by wholesale liquor dealers. (a) Every wholesale dealer in liquors who sells distilled spirits (by warehouse receipt or otherwise) shall keep Record 52, "Wholesale Liquor Dealer's Record," and render monthly transcripts, Forms 52A and 52B, "Wholesale Liquor Dealer's Monthly Report," and Form 338, "Wholesale Liquor Dealer's Monthly Report (Summary of Forms 52A and 52B)." Separate Records 52 shall be maintained and separate Forms 338 shall be rendered for first, the recording of transactions in warehouse receipts and second, the recording of receipts and removal of spirits. The Record 52 and Form 338 covering transactions in warehouse receipts shall be so identified.

(1) The receipt and disposal of nonnegotiable warehouse receipts issued by a warehouseman to the owner of spirits as evidence of the custody of the spirits need not be entered in the Record 52. The receipt and disposal of other warehouse receipts or the surrender thereof to a warehouseman to effect changes in identification of the spirits represented thereby (by change of package or bottling) must be recorded in Record 52.

(b) Daily entries shall be made on Record 52 of all distilled spirits received and disposed of (by warehouse receipt or otherwise), as indicated by the headings of the various columns, and in accordance with the instructions printed thereon and contained in pertinent regulations, not later than the close of business of the day on which the transactions occur: Provided, That if the keeping of such separate record is approved by the district supervisor, a wholesale liquor dealer may keep a separate record of the disposal of distilled spirits, showing the data required to be entered on Record 52, but the daily entries of the disposal of distilled spirits shall be made on Record 52 not later than the close of business of the following business day.

Such separate record may be kept in book form (including loose-leaf books) or may consist of commercial papers, such as invoices or bills. Such books, invoices, and bills shall be preserved for a period of four years and in such manner that the required information may be readily ascertained therefrom, and, during such period, shall be available during business hours for inspection and the taking of abstracts therefrom by revenue officers. If a record in book form is kept, entries shall be made on such separate approved record not later than the close of business of the day on which the transactions occur. TITLE 32—NATIONAL DEFENSE

[Rev. Gen RO 18,[1] Amdt. 7]

PART 705—ADMINISTRATION

DISTRIBUTION OF BASES TO CERTAIN FORMER MEMBERS OF THE ARMED FORCES

A rationale for this amendment has been issued simultaneously herewith and has been filed with the Division of the Federal Register.

Revised General Ration Order 18 is amended in the following respects:

1. Section 1.6 (a) (1) is amended to read as follows:

(1) Sugar or evidences obtained with respect to that base is transferred (tolled) to another person for industrial use except as authorized by section 6.3 of this order;

2. Section 2.3 (a) is amended to read as follows:

(a) The provisions of section 1.6 apply with respect to any adjustment granted under the provisions of section 2.1. Thus, a veteran may not transfer any sugar or evidences for use by others obtained on that part of the base received as an adjustment under section 2.1 except as authorized by section 6.3 of this order. He may continue to transfer sugar or evidences obtained on the base he had before getting the adjustment under section 2.1 in accordance with the provisions of section 8.8 of Third Revised Ration Order 3.

3. Section 3.6 (a) is amended to read as follows:

(a) The provisions of section 1.6 apply with respect to any base or adjustment in base granted under the provisions of this article. Thus, a veteran may not transfer any sugar or evidences for use by others obtained on that part of the base received as an adjustment under this article except as authorized by section 6.3 of this order. He may continue to transfer sugar or evidences obtained on the base he had before getting an adjustment under this article if he had not obtained that base under this order. Such transfer, however, may be made only in accordance with the provisions of section 8.8 of Third Revised Ration Order 3.

4. A new section 6.3 is added to read as follows:

SEC. 6.3 A veteran may transfer sugar or ration evidences for industrial use. (a) A veteran registered as an industrial user may deliver sugar without the surrender of ration evidences, subject to the provisions of Article XX of Third Revised Ration Order 3, or he may transfer ration evidences without obtaining sugar, to any person for making a product if such product will be delivered by the transferee to the transferor for use in producing a product which the transferor is authorized to make under the provisions of this order and the transferor will so use it. However, prior to the delivery of sugar or evidences the transferor and the transferee must give the notice required under paragraph (b) of this section.

(b) Before any deliveries may be made under this section both the transferor and the transferee must notify, in writing, the Sugar Branch Office with which the transferor is registered. The notice must be given at least two weeks in advance of any delivery of sugar or ration evidences under this section and must state:

(1) The amount of sugar or ration evidences to be transferred;

(2) The names and addresses of the transferor and the transferee;

(3) The use to be made of the sugar delivered (or the sugar acquired with the ration evidences transferred);

(4) That the product will be transferred by the transferee to the transferor for use in producing a product which the transferor is authorized to make.

However, the Sugar Branch Office with which the transferor is registered may authorize deliveries to be made in a period of less than two weeks after the notice is given if it is satisfied that the transferor and the transferee will comply with the provisions of this section.

(c) The transferee may use sugar delivered or ration evidences obtained in accordance with this section even if he is not a registered industrial user. If he is a registered industrial user he may use the sugar or ration evidences in addition to any use permitted him under this order, Third Revised Ration Order 3, or General Ration Order 19.

(d) The transferee may use any sugar delivered (or sugar obtained with ration evidences transferred) to him under this section only to make the product specified in the notice and only to make a product which will be transferred to the transferor for use in producing a product which the transferor is authorized to make under this order. The transferor must use this product only to make a product which he is authorized to make under this order. Any sugar used by the transferee under this section is considered to have been used by the transferor as well as the transferee.

(e) If, however, the means of production of the transferor have been temporarily so disrupted that production of the finished product which the transferor is authorized to make is impossible, he may apply, in writing, to the Sugar Branch Office with which he is registered for permission to deliver sugar or ration evidences under this section to any person for making a finished product which the transferor is authorized to make under this order if the product will be delivered by the transferee to the transferor for distribution by the transferor. The application must be signed by the transferor and the transferee and must contain the information required by (1), (2) and (3) of paragraph (b). In addition, the application must state that the product to be made is one which the transferor is authorized to make under this order, that such product will be delivered by the transferee to the transferor for distribution by the transferor, and the reasons why and the way in which the means of production of the transferor have been temporarily so disrupted that production of the finished product by the transferor is impossible. Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (d), the transferee may use any sugar delivered (or sugar acquired with ration evidences transferred) to him under this paragraph only to make the products stated in the application and only to the extent that the transferor might use the sugar or ration evidences for that purpose and only if the product will be delivered by the transferee to the transferor for distribution by the transferor.

(f) The transferee must make and keep at his principal business office, records showing by months the amounts of sugar received by him under this section and the amount used for each product produced with such sugar.

(g) Sugar or ration evidences may not be transferred under this section to make a product for which a provisional allowance may be obtained.

5. Section 7.1 (a) (1) is amended to read as follows:

(1) Transfer (toll) any sugar or evidences for use by others obtained on the base received under this order or obtained on that part of the base received as an adjustment under this order except as authorized by section 6.3 of this order.

6. Section 8.1 (c) is amended to read as follows:

(c) The terms "institutional user" and "institutional user establishment" have the meaning which they have as defined in Third Revised Ration Order 3.

This amendment shall become effective July 14, 1947.

NOTE: The record-keeping requirements of this order have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

Issued this 8th day of July 1947.

[SEAL] N. E. DODD,
Acting Secretary of Agriculture.

Rationale Accompanying Amendment No. 7 to Revised General Ration Order 18 and Amendment No. 2 to General Ration Order 19

The amendments to Revised General Ration Order 18 and to General Ration Order 19 permit a person, registered as an industrial user under these orders, to deliver sugar or ration evidences to another person for making a product if such product will be delivered by the transferee to the transferor for use in producing a product which the transferor is authorized to make under the provisions of this order and the transferor will so use it. However, prior to the delivery of sugar or evidences the transferor and the transferee must give the notice required under paragraph (b) of this section.

These amendments also contain a provision which will permit industrial users registered under these orders to apply for permission to transfer sugar or ration evidences to another person if the means of production of the industrial user have been temporarily so disrupted that production of the finished product by the transferor is impossible. Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (d), the transferee may use any sugar delivered (or sugar acquired with ration evidences transferred) to him under this paragraph only to make the products stated in the application and only to the extent that the transferor might use the sugar or ration evidences for that purpose and only if the product will be delivered by the transferee to the transferor for distribution by the transferor, and the reasons why and the way in which the means of production of the transferor have been temporarily so disrupted that production of the finished product by the transferor is impossible. Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (d), the transferee may use any sugar delivered (or sugar acquired with ration evidences transferred) to him under this paragraph only to make the products stated in the application and only to the extent that the transferor might use the sugar or ration evidences for that purpose and only if the product will be delivered by the transferee to the transferor for distribution by the transferor, and the reasons why and the way in which the means of production of the transferor have been temporarily so disrupted that production of the finished product by the transferor is impossible. Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (d), the transferee may use any sugar delivered (or sugar acquired with ration evidences transferred) to him under this paragraph only to make the products stated in the application and only to the extent that the transferor might use the sugar or ration evidences for that purpose and only if the product will be delivered by the transferee to the transferor for distribution by the transferor.

(f) The transferee must make and keep at his principal business office, records showing by months the amounts of sugar received by him under this section and the amount used for each product produced with such sugar.

(g) Sugar or ration evidences may not be transferred under this section to make a product for which a provisional allowance may be obtained.

2. Section 3.1 (a) (1) is amended to read as follows:

(1) Transfer (toll) any sugar or evidences obtained on the base received under this order to another person for industrial use except as authorized by section 1.8 of this order;

3. Section 3.1 (a) (6) is deleted.

4. Section 6.1 (d) is amended to read as follows:

(d) The terms "institutional user" and "institutional user establishment" have the meaning which they have as defined in Third Revised Ration Order 3.

This amendment shall become effective July 14, 1947.

NOTE: The reporting and record-keeping requirements of this amendment have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

Issued this 8th day of July 1947.

[SEAL] N. E. DODD,
Acting Secretary of Agriculture.

Rationale Accompanying Amendment No. 7 to Revised General Ration Order 18 and Amendment No. 2 to General Ration Order 19

The amendments to Revised General Ration Order 18 and to General Ration Order 19 permit a person, registered as an industrial user under these orders, to deliver sugar or ration evidences to another person for making a product if such product will be delivered by the transferee to the transferor for use in producing a product which the transferor is authorized to make under the provisions of these orders. However, before any deliveries of sugar or evidences are made for this purpose, the transferor and the transferee must file a notice with the Sugar Branch Office with which the transferor is registered for permission to transfer sugar or evidences for industrial use. The notice must be filed at least two weeks in advance of any delivery of sugar or evidences. By permitting persons registered as industrial users under these orders to transfer sugar or evidences to another person to make an intermediate product which the industrial user will then use in producing the product for which he obtained his allotment, the operations of the industrial user will be greatly facilitated and he will be able to operate more efficiently with the equipment and machinery which he is able to obtain. For example, a candy manufacturer may wish to deliver sugar or evidences to another person who will make chocolate coating for him.

These amendments also contain a provision which will permit industrial users registered under these orders to apply for permission to transfer sugar or ration evidences to another person if the means of production of the industrial user have been temporarily so disrupted that production of the finished product which he is authorized to make is impossible and if such product will be delivered back to the industrial user for distribution by him.

As long as the products are delivered back to the industrial user, customary distribution of his product will be maintained.

However, prior to the delivery of sugar or evidences the transferor and the transferee must give the notice required under paragraph (b) of this section.

(b) Before any deliveries may be made under this section both the transferor and the transferee must notify, in writing, the Branch Office with which the transferor is registered. The notice must be given at least two weeks in advance of any delivery of sugar or ration evidences under this section and must state:

(1) The amount of sugar or ration evidences to be transferred;

(2) The names and addresses of the transferor and the transferee;

(3) The use to be made of the sugar delivered (or the sugar acquired with the ration evidences transferred);

(4) That the product will be transferred by the transferee to the transferor for use in producing a product which the transferor is authorized to make.

However, the Branch Office with which the transferor is registered may authorize deliveries to be made in a period of less than two weeks after the notice is given if it is satisfied that the transferor and the transferee will comply with the provisions of this section.

(c) The transferee may use sugar delivered or ration evidences obtained in accordance with this section even if he is not a registered industrial user. If he is a registered industrial user he may use the sugar or ration evidences in addition to any use permitted him under this order, Third Revised Ration Order 3 or Revised General Ration Order 18.

(d) The transferee may use any sugar delivered (or sugar obtained with ration evidences transferred) to him under this section only to make the product specified in the notice and only to make a product which will be transferred to the transferor for use in producing a product which the transferor is authorized to make under this order. The transferor must use this product only to make a product which he is authorized to make under this order. Any sugar used by the transferee under this section is considered to have been used by the transferor as well as the transferee.

(e) If, however, the means of production of the transferor have been temporarily so disrupted that production of the finished product which the transferor is authorized to make is impossible, he may apply, in writing, to the Sugar Branch Office with which he is registered for permission to deliver sugar or ration evidences under this section to any person for making a finished product which the transferor is authorized to make under this order if the product will be delivered by the transferee to the transferor for distribution by the transferor. The application must be signed by the transferor and the transferee and must contain the information required by subparagraphs (1), (2) and (3) of paragraph (b). In addition, the application must state that the product to be made is one which the transferor is authorized to make under this order, that such product will be delivered by the transferee to the transferor for distribution by the transferor, and the reasons why and the way in which the means of production of the transferor have been temporarily so disrupted that production of the finished product by the transferor is impossible. Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (d), the transferee may use any sugar delivered (or sugar acquired with ration evidences transferred) to him under this paragraph only to make the products stated in the application and only to the extent that the transferor might use the sugar or ration evidences for that purpose and only if the product will be delivered by the transferee to the transferor for distribution by the transferor.

(f) The transferee must make and keep at his principal business office records showing by months the amounts of sugar received by him under this section and the amount used for each product produced with such sugar.

(g) Sugar or ration evidences may not be transferred under this section to make a product for which a provisional allowance may be obtained.

2. Section 3.1 (a) (1) is amended to read as follows:

(1) Transfer (toll) any sugar or evidences obtained on the base received under this order to another person for industrial use except as authorized by section 1.8 of this order;

3. Section 3.1 (a) (6) is deleted.

4. Section 6.1 (d) is amended to read as follows:

(d) The terms "institutional user" and "institutional user establishment" have the meaning which they have as defined in Third Revised Ration Order 3.

This amendment shall become effective July 14, 1947.

SUGAR

A rationale for this amendment has been issued simultaneously herewith and has been filed with the Division of the Federal Register.

Section 2.1 (c) and section 2.1 (d) are redesignated section 2.1 (d) and section 2.1 (e) respectively, and a new section 2.1 (c) is added to read as follows:

(c) Change of registration. An industrial user who has more than one industrial user establishment and who has registered them separately (on OPA Form R-1200) may, if he so desires, re-

register his establishments together and they will then be treated as a unit for all purposes of this order. An industrial user who has more than one industrial user establishment and who has registered them together (on OPA Form R–1200) as a unit may, if he so desires, reregister his establishments separately. Upon doing so, each establishment must be treated and operated separately for all the purposes of this order (including computation of allotments and base period use), just as though the establishments were owned by different persons, and the industrial user is considered as a different industrial user as to each such establishment. An industrial user who desires to change his form of registration must apply in writing to the Sugar Branch Office serving the area in which his principal office is located. He may change his form of registration under the provisions of this section only once.

This amendment shall become effective July 14, 1947.

[SEAL] N. E. DODD,[1]
Acting Secretary of Agriculture.

Rationale Accompanying Amendment No. 62 to Third Revised Ration Order 3

Under the present regulations an industrial user who now has his industrial user establishments registered separately cannot reregister them together as a unit. Similarly, an industrial user who now has his industrial user establishments registered together as a unit cannot reregister his establishments separately. Thus, an industrial user is required to retain the form of registration he presently has. Therefore, if his industrial user establishments are registered separately, they must be treated and operated separately for all the purposes of Third Revised Ration Order 3, and if they are registered together as a unit, they must be treated as a unit for all purposes of the order.

The form of registration, separate or combined, may have direct bearing upon certain actions an industrial user may take under the rationing regulations and the actions he can take to meet changed operating conditions. For example, an industrial user who has two or more establishments registered together as a unit is permitted to use interchangeably the allotments he is granted for the establishments which compose the unit. However, an industrial user who has two or more establishments registered separately is not permitted to use the allotments interchangeably which he is granted for his separate establishments. Thus, where an industrial user acquires a plant and owned other plants which are registered separately, the newly acquired plant must also be registered separately. Although there may be a decreased demand for sugar-containing products in the areas where his older plants are located, he cannot use the allotments granted for his older plants in his newly acquired plant where there is a greater demand. This may result in lack of return on his investment in the newly acquired plant and increased transportation costs for shipping finished products manufactured in such plant, into the area of greater demand. By permitting the industrial user to reregister his establishments together as a unit, he can adjust his operations to meet this condition.

Under the provisions of the regulations population increase adjustments may not be granted to persons receiving either a base or an adjusted base as "War Producers" under the provisions of section 17.7 of Third Revised Ration Order 3. When the base for any class of product is adjusted under section 17.7 no population increase may then be allowed the industrial user on either the base or adjustment of base for that class of product, and if he has obtained such a population increase adjustment, he loses it for that class of product for which he receives a base or an adjusted base as a "War Producer." Thus, an industrial user who has two or more establishments registered together and who receives a base or adjusted base as a "War Producer" for a class of product, loses any population increase he may have for that class of product he manufactures in any of his establishments which are registered together as a unit. If, on the other hand, his establishments were registered separately, he would only lose the population increase he has for that class of product manufactured in the separately registered establishment for which the "War Producer" base or adjusted base was granted. In order to alleviate the hardship industrial users are suffering by reason of losing population increases when they receive adjustments as "War Producers," this amendment will permit an industrial user to change his form of registration from combined to separate if he finds that separate registration will be more advantageous to his operation.

Thus, this amendment will permit greater flexibility of operation to industrial users who desire to change the form of their registration to meet changed operating conditions. However, under the provisions of this amendment an industrial user may change the form of his registration only once.

AUTHORITY: §§ 160.1 to 160.21, inclusive, issued under sec. 15, 48 Stat. 1275 sec. 5, 49 Stat. 1978, 43 U. S. C. sec. 315m

§ 160.1 Statutory authority. Section 15 of the act of June 28, 1934 (48 Stat. 1275), as amended, authorizes the Secretary of the Interior, to lease for grazing purposes, vacant, unappropriated and unreserved public lands outside of established grazing districts in the continental United States.

§ 160.2 Definitions. (a) "Secretary" means Secretary of the Interior.

(b) "Director" means Director, Bureau of Land Management.

(c) "Regional Administrator" means the Regional Administrator, Bureau of Land Management. Where there is no Regional Administrator, it means the Director, Bureau of Land Management.

(d) "Manager" means Manager of the District Land Office. Where there is no District Land Office, it means the Regional Administrator.

(e) "The act" means section 15 of the act of June 28, 1934 (48 Stat. 1275), as amended by section 5 of the act of June 26, 1936 (49 Stat. 1978, 43 U. S. C. 315m).

§ 160.3 Classes of applicants; preference rights. In general, the act, as amended, provides for the issuance of grazing leases to three classes of applicants, as follows:

(a) Leases where no preference right applicant is involved.

(b) Preference right leases to applicants who are owners, homesteaders, lessees, or other lawful occupants of contiguous lands to the extent necessary to permit the proper use of such contiguous lands.

(c) Preference-right leases to applicants who are the owners, homesteaders, lessees, or other lawful occupants of lands contiguous to or cornering on an isolated or disconnected tract embracing 760 acres or less,[1] for the whole of such tract, upon the terms and conditions prescribed by the Secretary, provided the preference right is asserted during a period of 90 days after such tract is offered for lease.[2]

§ 160.4 Filing of applications; copies necessary. An application for lease should be submitted on Form 4–721[3] and filed in the district land office for the district in which the lands applied for are situated, except that in the states in which there are no district land offices, the application should be filed with the Regional Administrator for the Region in which the lands are situated. The application must be filed in triplicate, except where it embraces lands within the jurisdiction of more than one district land office, in which event it must be furnished in quadruplicate and may be filed in either office. The application need not be under oath but must be signed by the applicant.[4]

§ 160.5 Qualifications of applicants. Any person who is a citizen of the United States or who has declared his intention to become a citizen and whose declaration is still valid, or any group or association composed of such persons, or any corporation organized under the laws of the United States, or of any State or Territory thereof authorized to conduct business in the State in which the lands involved are situated, may file an application for a lease.

§ 160.6 No right conferred by application, prior to lease. The filing of an application will not segregate the land applied for from application by other persons for a grazing lease or from other disposition under the public-land laws. As the issuance of a lease is discretionary, the filing of an application for a lease will not in any way create any right in the applicant to a lease, or to the use of the lands applied for, pending the issuance of a lease. Any such unauthorized use constitutes a trespass.

§ 160.7 Filing fees. Every applicant for a lease must pay to the Manager, at the time of filing an application, a fee of $5 if his lease application is for 1,000 acres or less, and an additional $5 for each additional 1,000 acres or fractional part thereof, which fee will be carried as unearned pending action on the application. If the application is rejected, the fee will be returned. If a lease, based on the application, is offered the applicant, and he refuses to accept the same, the fee will be retained as a service charge.

§ 160.8 Protests. Protests against the approval of an application for a lease should be in duplicate, contain a complete disclosure of all facts upon which the protest is based, and describe the lands involved in such protest, and should be accompanied by evidence of service of a copy of the protest on the applicant. If the protestant desires to lease all or part of the land embraced in the application against which the protest is filed, the protest should also be accompanied by an application for a grazing lease.

§ 160.9 Filing of petitions for renewals. A lessee who desires to renew a lease should file in triplicate approximately 90 days prior to the expiration of the lease a petition for renewal of the lease on Form 4–725.[5] The petition may include a request for the consolidation of other outstanding grazing leases held by the lessee. No filing fee will be required in connection with a petition for renewal. The filing of a petition for renewal does not confer on the lessee any preference right to a renewal. The timely filing of a petition will, however, authorize the exclusive grazing use of the lands by the lessee in accordance with the terms of the prior lease pending final action on the petition.

§ 160.10 Leases of withdrawn or reserved lands. Leases may be issued for public lands withdrawn for resurvey, or withdrawn and reserved in aid of legislation, or for power sites, classification or other public purposes,[6] if the use of the land for grazing is not inconsistent with the purposes of the withdrawal. Lands included in stock driveway and public water reserve withdrawals may be leased in accordance with the regulations, 43 CFR 295.7 (c). Any lease issued covering withdrawn lands must contain the stipulations which have been prescribed by the Director of the Bureau of Land Management for the protection and use of the land for the purpose for which it was withdrawn or reserved.

§ 160.11 Offer and issuance of lease; disposition of protests and conflicting applications. The Manager, after consideration of the field report as to the area, term, and rental to be included in the proposed lease, shall forward it, in quadruplicate, on Form 4–722a,[3] to the applicant for execution. After execution, the applicant will return the proposed lease forms, together with the amount of rental due under § 160.14 to the district land office. If all is found to be regular, a lease will be issued by the Manager after final action has been taken by the Manager on any protests or conflicting applications which may have been filed.

Where it is determined that more than one applicant should receive a lease and a division of the lands is necessary, the conflicting applicants will be afforded an opportunity to agree to the division of such lands at the time of field investigation. If an acceptable adjustment cannot be made by the parties in interest, the matter will be determined by the Manager in the light of all available information, including the field report.

After the proposed lease forms have been transmitted to an applicant, and if such lease is executed by him, any application filed subsequent to such transmittal will be rejected as to any lands included in that proposed lease.

§ 160.12 Reduction in leased area. The leased area may be reduced if it is excessive for the number of stock owned by the lessee, or if it is determined that such area is required for the protection of camping places, sources of water supply to communities, stock driveways, roads and trails, town sites, mining claims, or for feeding grounds near villages for the use of draft animals or near the slaughtering or shipping points for use of stock to be marketed. In that event, a proportionate reduction will be made in the annual rental charges.

§ 160.13 Leased lands subject to classification and disposition; compensation to lessee for improvements and damages.

[1] Where the lands applied for include the even-numbered sections within the limits of a railroad grant, even though in the aggregate such lands exceed 760 acres, each such section will be considered as an isolated or disconnected tract within the meaning of this provision.

[2] By Departmental Notice of July 31, 1937, all vacant, unreserved and unappropriated public lands, exclusive of Alaska, not included in an established grazing district, were then offered for lease under section 15; all lands not then subject to lease under section 15 because of their appropriation or reservation, were offered for lease as of the date any such lands first became subject to lease.

[3] Not filed with the Division of the Federal Register.

[4] Title 16, U. S. C. sec. 80, makes it a crime for any person knowingly or willfully to submit or cause to be submitted to any agency of the United States any false or fraudulent statement as to any matter within its jurisdiction.

[5] Certain lands withdrawn for reclamation purposes are, pursuant to the cooperative agreement of February 28, 1945, between the Bureau of Reclamation and the Bureau of Land Management, leased in accordance with the principles of section 15 leases, under authority of subsection (l) of section 4, act of December 5, 1924 (43 Stat. 703, 43 U. S. C., sec. 501).

Lands embraced in a grazing lease are subject to classification and disposition under the provisions of section 7 of the act of June 28, 1934 (48 Stat. 1272), as amended June 26, 1936 (49 Stat. 1976, 43 U. S. C. sec. 315f): Provided, That before any application for such classification and disposition is allowed, evidence is furnished that the applicant has agreed to compensate the lessee for any grazing improvements placed on the lands under the authority of the lease, and for any injury caused to the lessee's grazing operations by reason of the loss of the leased lands from his leasehold. All such agreements, to be effective, must be approved by the Regional Administrator. If the interested parties are unable to reach an agreement as to the amount of such compensation, the amount shall be fixed by the Regional Administrator. The failure of the applicant to pay the lessee in accordance with the agreement shall be just cause for cancellation of any rights or interests in the lands acquired by the applicant by reason of the allowance of his application.

Where part of the lands embraced in a grazing lease are disposed of as provided by this section, the subsequent annual rental charges will be reduced proportionately to reflect the loss of the lands from the leasehold.

Any agency of the Federal Government which needs lands embraced in a grazing lease for a governmental use other than one described in § 160.12, and requests a permit, withdrawal, reservation, lease or patent, shall be considered an applicant within the meaning of this section.

§ 160.14 Rental. Each lessee shall pay to the district land office specified in the lease, in accordance with the terms of the lease, such annual rental as may be determined to be a fair compensation for the grazing use of the leased land. In no lease, however, will the rental charge be fixed at less than $1 per annum. The rental may be adjusted at the end of the third year and at the end of each three-year period thereafter.

§ 160.15 Term of lease. A lease may be issued for a period of not more than 10 years. Renewals may be for periods of not more than 10 years, upon such terms and conditions as may then be prescribed.

§ 160.16 Construction and removal of improvements. After the issuance of a lease, the lessee may fence the lands or any part thereof, develop water by wells, tanks, water holes, or otherwise, and make or erect other improvements for grazing and stock-raising purposes so long as such improvements do not impair the value of the lands. The lessee will be required to comply with the provisions of the laws of the State in which the leased lands are located with respect to the cost and maintenance of partition fences.

Upon the expiration of a lease or its earlier termination, the Regional Administrator may, in his discretion and upon a written petition filed by the lessee within 30 days from date of such expiration or termination, direct the Manager to require a proposed subsequent lessee, prior to the execution of a new lease, to agree to compensate the lessee for any grazing improvements of a permanent nature that may have been placed upon the leased lands under authority of section 15 leases. The amount of such compensation shall be determined in accordance with the procedure set forth in § 160.13. The failure of the subsequent lessee to pay the lessee in accordance with such agreement shall be just cause for cancellation of the subsequent lessee's lease.

The lessee will be allowed three months from the date of expiration or termination of the lease within which to remove such improvements as are not disposed of in the manner set forth above; if not removed or otherwise disposed of within the said period, such improvements shall become the property of the United States.

§ 160.17 Cancellation of lease. If the lessee shall fail to comply with any of the provisions of these regulations or of the lease, and such default shall continue for 60 days after service of written notice thereof, the lease may be terminated and canceled by the Manager.

§ 160.18 Inspection of leased premises. The land described in the lease shall be subject to inspection at all reasonable times by duly authorized representatives of the Department of the Interior, and other Federal agents, as well as game wardens, shall be permitted access to the lands in connection with necessary Government business.

§ 160.19 Assignment of lease; subleases of leased land. Proposed assignments of a lease, and proposed subleases of the leased lands, in whole or in part, must be filed in the district land office and may be approved by the Manager. The assignments and subleases must contain all of the terms and conditions agreed upon by the parties thereto; must be accompanied by the same showing by the assignee or sublessee as is required of applicants for a lease; and must be supported by a showing that the assignee or sublessee agrees to be bound by the provisions of the lease. No assignment or sublease will be recognized unless and until approved.

§ 160.20 Leases pledged as security for loans. (a) A lease may be pledged as security for a loan of $500 or more from a lending agency when the loan is made for the purpose of furthering the lessee's livestock operations. Before a loan is made, the lending agency may ascertain from the District Land Office the status of the grazing lease and other pertinent information concerning the lease.

(b) Upon request of the borrower-lessee, where such extension will be in accordince with applicable law and not contrary to the public interest, the lease will be extended for a period of ten years from the date of the loan subject to such terms and conditions as are then provided by these regulations.

(c) In case the property of the lessee which was the basis for the granting of a preference right, is acquired by the lending agency through foreclosure or otherwise, such agency or its tenants on the property, if qualified, or any person who purchases the property from such agency, if qualified, on application, shall be recognized in lieu of the lessee. If in making a sale the lending agency takes back a mortgage on the property, the agency shall be entitled to the same consideration as in the case of the original loan.

(d) Where a lending agency files in the District Land Office notice that it has made a loan and has accepted a grazing lease as security therefor, in conformity with the provisions of this section, such agency will be advised of any action taken affecting the lease.

§ 160.21 Appeals. An appeal may be taken from any decision of the Manager to the Director, and from any decision of the Director to the Secretary, pursuant to the Rules of Practice (43 CFR, Part 221).

(a) All sales of vending stands and other equipment used in the program shall be made in accordance with applicable State laws, regulations, and standards governing the sale of State-owned equipment. In the absence or inapplicability of State laws, regulations, and standards the plan materials shall provide that the State Agency will secure bids from individuals or dealers in sufficient number to insure receiving the highest possible returns for the articles sold.

(b) When old or obsolete vending stand or other equipment is exchanged as part payment for new equipment, the trade-in allowance accepted by the State Agency for the equipment so exchanged shall be in accordance with applicable State laws, regulations, and standards. In the absence or inapplicability of such State laws, regulations, and standards, the trade-in allowance accepted by the State Agency will be comparable to the allowance customarily made for articles of like character in like condition.

(c) Upon the disposition or use of the vending stand or other equipment for other than program purposes, any proceeds of such disposition or the fair value of vending stand or other equipment which is used for other than program purposes shall be credited to the Federal account in proportion to the Federal participation in the original expenditure for such vending stand or other equipment.

§ 601.20 Maintenance of accounts. The plan materials shall provide for the maintenance by the State Agency of such accounts and supporting documents as (a) will permit an accurate and expeditious determination to be made at any time both of the status of the Federal funds granted for the purposes of the act and of the operation of the program and (b) will provide for each individual operating location at least the minimum of data as indicated in the Accounts Guide released to accompany the regulations in this part.

§ 601.21 Maintenance of inventories. The plan materials shall provide that the State Agency shall maintain complete inventories of all vending stands, other equipment, stock, materials and supplies acquired for or used in the program. The plan materials shall, in addition, provide that all vending stands and other equipment used in the program will be suitably marked so as to indicate clearly the nature and extent of the State Agency's interest therein and that such other action will be taken by the State Agency as may be necessary under the laws of the State to establish, protect and maintain such interest.

§ 601.22 Reports. The plan materials shall provide that fiscal, statistical and operating reports with respect to the program shall be furnished at such time and with such frequency as the Director shall determine to be necessary upon forms prescribed therefor.

§ 601.23 Payments to States. Payments to the States for the purposes of the act will be made in the manner set forth in and under the conditions prescribed by §§ 600.35, 600.36, and 600.37 of the regulations issued pursuant to the Vocational Rehabilitation Act relating to estimates, certification and the effect of certification. The estimates submitted in accordance therewith shall contain such additional information with respect to the Federal funds requested for the purposes of the act as the Director may deem necessary.

§ 601.24 Limitation on payments to States. With respect to the Federal funds granted for reimbursement under the act for the acquisition of vending stands and other equipment for the program, the Director may limit, for particular periods, the amount of Federal funds granted to a State.

§ 601.25 Suspension of reimbursement authorization. The Director shall, if he finds that a State Agency has failed to comply substantially with the provisions of the plan materials approved hereunder, withhold authorization for any further reimbursement from Federal funds for the acquisition of vending stands and other equipment for the program until such time as there is no longer any such failure to comply.

§ 601.26 District of Columbia. All operations within the District of Columbia pursuant to the act will be administered by the District of Columbia Rehabilitation Service and all applicable provisions of the regulations in this part, including the formulation and submission for approval of plan materials, will govern such operations.

§ 601.27 Continued operations of programs under plans submitted previous to the issuance of regulations in this par Insofar as they are not inconsistent with the act or the regulations in this part, plan materials submitted pursuant to Public Law 549, 79th Congress (60 Stat. 679), approved July 26, 1946, or to the regulations issued by the Federal Security Administrator under the date of July 26, 1946, pursuant to that act, shall be of the same force and effect and shall be subject to the same terms and conditions as though submitted under the regulations in this part.

2. Limit of acreage for which entry may be made or water secured. The limit of area of public land per entry, representing the acreage which, in the opinion of the Secretary of the Interior, may be reasonably required for the support of a family upon such lands, is fixed in the amounts shown upon the farm unit plats for the respective farm units listed above. No one can at the same time hold and obtain water rights on a Federal Reclamation Project for both a farm unit of public land and a tract of privately-owned land unless the installments on the water right, either for the farm unit or for the private lands, not exceeding 160 acres, have been paid in full. The maximum area for which water may be secured for lands in private ownership shall be 160 acres of irrigable land for each landowner.

3. Payment for land required. The public lands covered by this notice were formerly a part of the Wind River or Shoshone Indian Reservation, and in accordance with the act of March 3, 1905 (33 Stat. 1016), as amended by the act of March 4, 1921 (41 Stat. 1404), the entryman must pay, in addition to the Reclamation charges, one dollar and fifty cents ($1.50) per acre for said land in the District Land Office at Cheyenne, Wyoming, of which fifty cents ($0.50) per acre will be payable on the date of entry, and twenty-five cents ($0.25) per acre per year for each of the four years thereafter. Failure to make deferred payments when due will render the entry subject to cancellation.

4. Application for public lands. An application for a farm unit listed in this notice must be filed with the Project Engineer, Bureau of Reclamation, Riverton, Wyoming, if the applicant desires to qualify under the terms of this notice. No advantage will accrue to an applicant presenting his application in person. All applications received prior to 2:00 p. m., October 8, 1947, will be treated as simultaneously filed. Applications for a farm unit received after 2:00 p. m., October 8, 1947, will be considered only as provided in subparagraph (f) (5) of this notice.

(a) Preference rights of veterans of World War II. Pursuant to the provisions of the act of Congress of September 27, 1944 (58 Stat. 747) as amended by the acts of June 25, 1946 (Pub. Law 440—79th Cong.) and May 31, 1947 (Pub. Law 82—80th Cong.) a preference right of application for a period of ninety days will be given to any person, including a person under 21 years of age, who has served in the military or naval forces of the United States for a period of at least 90 days at any time on or after September 16, 1940, and prior to the termination of the present war and who is honorably discharged and who makes homestead entry subsequent to such discharge. Such preference right extends to the spouse or in case of death or marriage to the guardian of the minor orphan children of (1) any person who has died as a result of wounds received or disability incurred in line of duty while serving in the military or naval forces of the United States at any time on or after September 16, 1940, and prior to the termination of the present war or (2) any person who, prior to his or her death, had the qualifications set forth in the first sentence of this sub-paragraph and would have been entitled to a preference right of application had he or she lived.

(1) An honorable discharge within the meaning of the act of September 27, 1944 (58 Stat. 747), shall mean (a) the separation of the veteran from the service by means of an honorable discharge or a discharge under honorable conditions; (b) the transfer of the veteran from active duty to a reserve or retired status prior to the termination of the war or (c) the ending of the period of the veteran's war service by reason of termination of the war, even though the veteran remains in the military or naval service.

(2) All applicants are required to answer fully Question 1, on the Farm Application Blank, and, if claiming veterans' preference, must attach thereto a photostatic, certified or authenticated copy of an official document of his respective branch of military or naval service which clearly indicates an honorable discharge as described in subsection (1) of this paragraph (a).

(3) Applicants entitled to veterans' preference must satisfy all requirements of entrymen set forth in this notice. They will be rated as prescribed in subparagraph (e) and, if found eligible, will be listed on a preference register in the order of their ratings.

(4) For the purpose of this notice the ninety-day preference right of application for veterans of World War II shall begin with the day lands described herein are opened for entry, July 10, 1947, and continue until the close of the simultaneous filing period, 2:00 p. m., October 8, 1947. Applicants for farm units who do not claim or establish such veterans' preference will not be rated until it is evident that sufficient qualified applicants, who have veterans' preference rights and who have filed application not later than 2:00 p. m., October 8, 1947, are not available to enter all the farm units listed in this notice. Non-preference applicants, if and when rated, will be listed on a non-preference register in the order of their rating. When the preference register has been fully cleared by awards of farm units or withdrawal of applicants or both, awards will be made to applicants on the non-preference register in the manner described in subparagraph (f) (5).

(b) How to file an application for a farm unit. Farm application blanks on which to make application for a farm unit under this notice may be secured from the Project Engineer, Bureau of Reclamation, Riverton, Wyoming; the Regional Director, Bureau of Reclamation, Billings, Montana, or the Commissioner, Bureau of Reclamation, Washington, D. C. The first paragraph of the application blank has spaces for the description of farm units for which the applicant wishes to be considered in the event he qualifies for the award of a unit. These blanks need not be filled in until the applicant is called for personal interview as prescribed in subparagraph (f). However, he must set forth his preference prior to the interview. During the period set for personal interview, but before the actual interview, the Board will permit the applicant to fill in or change the description of the units which he elects after the applicant has had opportunity to make personal inspection of the farm units. If the Board deems it advisable, it may require the applicant to list, on a suitable form, all the units for which he wishes to be considered in the order of preference and sign a statement to the effect that he does not desire to be considered for any unit not listed. No advantage will accrue to an applicant who inspects the units elected prior to filing application, although each successful applicant must personally inspect the unit awarded prior to filing homestead entry with the District Land Office of the Bureau of Land Management. The choice of the applicant will be given full consideration. Except for the description of farm units in the first paragraph, all other questions on the farm application blank must be fully answered. Irrespective of any preference established under subparagraph (a), there must be strict compliance with the provisions of subparagraph (e).

(c) Applicants must be qualified. No entry shall be accepted or allowed by the Register of the District Land Office until the applicant therefor has satisfied the Examining Board appointed as set forth in subparagraph (d) below, that he is possessed of qualifications of industry, experience, character, and capital, as set forth in subparagraph (e). These qualifications are in addition to those required under the homestead laws. A statement of the qualifications required by the homestead laws may be secured from the District Land Office at Cheyenne, Wyoming, or from the Bureau of Land Management, Washington, D. C.

(d) Examining Board. An Examining Board of three members has been approved by the Commissioner of the Bureau of Reclamation to establish qualifications and consider the fitness of each applicant to undertake the development and operation of a farm. If found necessary, the Commissioner reserves the right to appoint additional or alternate members not to exceed a total of five. The Project Engineer, who is a member of this Board representing the United States, will act as secretary. The statements made by applicants in their farm applications, as corroborated by the persons named as references therein, shall be used by the Board as the basis for determining the relative standing of applicants under subparagraph (e) below. Careful investigations will be made to verify the statements and representations made by applicants both on the farm application blanks and in the course of personal interviews, to the end that no misunderstandings may prevail either regarding the applicant's fitness or his appreciation of the problem before him. Any falsification or fraudulent representation made or discovered at any time will cause an application to be rejected. The Board is authorized to make rules incident to carrying out the provisions of this public notice with respect to rating and selection of applicants, and to establish the time for personal interviews. The Board will rate applicants according to standards described in subparagraph (e) below, and award public land units to successful applicants as set forth in subparagraph (f).

(e) Determination of relative standing of applicants. To determine whether an applicant for a farm unit is qualified under the provisions of subsection C of section 4 of the act of December 5, 1924 (43 Stat. 702), he will be rated and examined. The relative standings of the applicants will be based upon percentage rating with the following maximum weights given to the four prescribed qualifications:

	Percent
I. Character	10
II. Industry	20
III. Capital	35
IV. Farm experience	35

Applicants for a farm unit will be rated for each of the above four qualifications according to the following schedules and no applicants will be considered eligible who fall below the minimum named in any one of the headings of these schedules:

	Percent
I. Character:
(a) Fair	4 (minimum)
(b) Good	5 to 7
(c) Excellent	8 to 10
II. Industry:
(a) Fair	5 (minimum)
(b) Good	6 to 10
(c) Excellent	11 to 20
III. Capital:
(a) $1,000 to $1,499	20 (minimum) to 24
(b) $1,500 to $1,999	25 to 29
(c) $2,000 to $2,499	30 to 34
(d) $2,500 or above	35 (maximum)
(e) One to four percent may be added to items (a), (b), or (c) for guaranteed credit of from $1,000 to $4,000: Provided, That the total percentage allowed for capital shall not exceed 35 percent. The credit must be suitable for the establishment of an economically sound farming operation.

NOTE: The minimum capital requirement of $1,000 set forth in (a) above must be assets owned by the applicant and credit may not be substituted therefor.

	Percent
IV. Farm experience:
(a) 2 years of farm work as a farmer's son after the age of 12 years or as a farm hand or farm operator after the age of 15 years	20
(b) Each additional year's work as farm hand, farmer's son or farm operator	5
(c) Each year of agricultural training in college, or technical experience in field of agriculture, if deemed by the Board to be equivalent to farm experience	2½

NOTE: Item (a) is the minimum required for all applicants. The total percent allowed for items (a), (b), and (c), shall not exceed 35 percent. Farm experience must be of such a nature as in the judgment of the board will qualify the applicant to undertake the development and operation of an irrigated farm by modern methods.

V. Although no rating is provided for the physical condition of the applicant, he must be in such physical condition as to permit satisfactory farm operation. If physically handicapped or afflicted with ailments making the condition questionable, a detailed statement by an examining physician should accompany the application. The Examining Board will determine from the individual's application blank and from a personal interview, should he be one of those applicants selected as set forth in subparagraph f (4) below, whether the applicant is physically able to operate a farm and shall disqualify him if facts are such as to warrant such disqualification.

(f) Showing of applicants and selection thereof. In conformity with the following method, farm units listed in this public notice will be awarded by the Board as follows:

(1) Each applicant qualifying for veterans' preference under the act of September 27, 1944 (58 Stat. 747), as amended, who satisfies the minimum requirements set forth in subparagraph (e) shall be given a preliminary rating based upon the showing made by his farm application blank. He will be listed on a preference register in the order of his rating. Applicants who do not fulfill the minimum requirements will be so notified by registered mail with return receipt demanded.

(2) As soon as possible after October 8, 1947, the Examining Board shall select from the preference register referred to in subparagraph (f) (1) above, 136 applicants, in the order of their rating. If the preliminary rating of any remaining applicant is the same as the last selected applicant, the Board will add the names of such additional applicants with the same rating to the list of 136 to participate in the drawing set forth in subparagraph (f) (3) below. Immediately following the selection of this group of 136 or more persons, all other applicants remaining on the preference register shall be notified by registered mail, with return receipt demanded, of their standing. Each such applicant shall also be notified that since the number of qualified applicants exceeds the number of available farms, his application must be suspended and held for further consideration as provided in this notice.

(3) The Board, in a suitable and impartial manner, shall then conduct a drawing of the names of all applicants selected as set forth in subparagraph (f) (2) above; entering their names on a priority list in the order drawn.

(4) The Board shall then call the first 68 applicants for personal interviews, advising each applicant of his standing on the priority list as established by the drawing. He shall be advised of the probability that he will be certified as an entryman with priority of award in the order drawn if the interview is satisfactory. Ordinarily the applicant will be certified as an entryman after the interview unless he fails to substantiate his showing on the farm application blank or he fails to elect one of the farm units remaining available after higher priority awards have been made. If the interview is satisfactory and the applicant is next on the list to receive a farm unit, the first unit on his preference list established as provided in subparagraph (b) of this paragraph which is available will be awarded to him. If applicants higher on the priority list remain to be interviewed, definite allocation of a farm unit will be held in abeyance until all such prior award applicants have been allocated farm units. If any applicant is disqualified as set forth in paragraph 4 (e), his name shall be removed from the priority list and the preference register and other applicants on the priority list moved up in the order of their drawing. If any applicant is reduced below the lowest rating of the 136 or more applicants selected to participate in the drawing, his name shall be removed from the priority list and his position on the preference register adjusted in accordance with his revised rating. Additional applicants beyond the first 68, in the order of drawing, shall immediately be called for interview. To avoid the necessity of an applicant making a long journey without a reasonable assurance that he will receive a farm unit, no more applicants shall be called for interview than there are units available. If the available farm units are all allocated before the names of all applicants on the priority list as provided in subparagraph (f) (3) are exhausted, each remaining applicant shall be notified by registered mail, with return receipt demanded, that all farm units to be opened have been allocated and that his application must be held for rejection. He will, however, retain his place on the priority list for further consideration should any units become available through failure of the entryman to complete his transaction, as provided in paragraph (h) below.

(5) Should the applicants on the priority list be exhausted before the available farm units are allotted, the selection process shall be repeatd with the next highest rated group as outlined in subparagraphs (f) (2), (3) and (4), immediately above. Should any farm units remain available when the preference register is exhausted, applications of persons who do not have veterans' preference and whose applications were filed prior to 2:00 p. m., October 8, 1947, will be considered as outlined in subparagraphs (f) (2), (3) and (4) immediately above. Should any farm units remain available after all applications filed before 2:00 p. m., October 8, 1947, have been considered, applications received after 2:00 p. m., October 8, 1947, will be considered in the order filed.

(6) Each action of the Board with respect to any individual applicant as provided in this subparagraph (f) is subject to appeal to the Director of Region VI, Bureau of Reclamation, Billings, Montana. Such appeals must be filed in the office of the Project Engineer, Riverton, Wyoming, within 15 days of receipt of notice of any action of the Board with respect to his application. The Project Engineer will forward such appeals promptly to the Regional Director.

(g) Notification of applicants. (1) The decision of the Board as to the selection of successful applicants and the award of farm units shall be reduced to writing and a copy forwarded to the successful applicant, with return receipt requested. With such notice, the Board shall enclose statement of the minimum water charges due on the farm awarded, and water-rental applications, and where appropriate, petition for the inclusion of such farm unit within the Midvale Irrigation District. Payment of the minimum water charges and such properly executed water-rental application, together with executed petition for the inclusion of lands within the Midvale Irrigation District, where required, must be in the office of the Bureau of Reclamation, Riverton, Wyoming, within 15 days of receipt of the notice of award. Upon receipt by the Project Engineer of the payment of minimum water charges, together with the executed water-rental application and petition for the inclusion of the lands within the Midvale Irrigation District, where required, within the period specified, the Secretary of the Examining Board will furnish each such applicant a certificate stating that his qualifications to enter public lands, as required by Subsection C of section 4 of the act of December 5, 1924 (43 Stat. 702) have been passed upon and approved by that Board. Such certificate may be delivered personally or by registered mail, but in either case a proper acknowledgment of receipt must be secured. Such certificate must be attached by the applicant to his homestead application when he files such application at the District Land Office at Cheyenne, Wyoming. Such homestead application shall be filed within 30 days from the date of the receipt by the applicant of said certificate. Upon return of receipt indicating applicant has received above certificate, the Secretary of the Examining Board will indicate upon a copy thereof the time upon which the 30-day period for filing homestead application expires and forward same to the District Land Office.

(2) After all farm units have been entered, all applicants whose applications have not been previously rejected will be notified that the farm units listed in Public Notice No. 26, have been entered and all pending applications therefor are held for rejection.

(h) Failure of selected applicant to complete transaction. Failure of the selected applicant to pay the water charge or to make homestead application, or to execute and file any required water-rental application or petition for inclusion of lands within the Midvale Irrigation District, within the time herein or hereafter specified, shall disqualify the applicant and entitle the Board to cancel the award of his farm unit and to award the same farm unit to another applicant selected in the manner prescribed in subparagraph (f).

(i) Warning against unlawful settlement. No person shall be permitted to gain or exercise any right under any settlement or occupation of any of the public lands covered by this notice except under the terms and conditions prescribed by this notice; Provided, however, That this shall not affect any valid existing right obtained by settlement or entry while the land was subject thereto.

(j) Oil and gas leases. Certain of the farm units are covered in whole or in part by oil and gas leases executed through the Bureau of Land Management under the act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437), as amended. Detailed information concerning these leases may be secured at the Bureau of Land Management, Washington, D. C., or at the District Land Office, Cheyenne, Wyoming.

(k) Reservation of rights-of-way for County, State and Federal highways and access roads. Rights-of-way are reserved for County, State, and Federal highways and access roads to the farm units shown on said plats along section lines and other lines shown on the farm plats, said rights-of-way being in general 30 feet in width on each side of said lines for county roads, 20 feet each side of said lines for access roads, and either 40 feet or 50 feet each side of said lines for State and Federal highways.

(l) Reservation of rights-of-way for telephone and electric transmission lines. Rights-of-way are reserved for Government-owned telephone and electric transmission lines as now constructed, and the Secretary reserves the right to locate such other Government-owned facilities over and across the farm units above described, as hereafter in his opinion may be necessary for the proper construction, operation, or maintenance of said project.

(m) Waiver of mineral rights. All homestead entries for any of the above-described farm units will be subject to the laws of the United States governing mineral land, and all homestead applicants under this notice must waive the right to the mineral content of the land, if required to do so by the Land Office; otherwise, the homestead application will be rejected or the homestead entry cancelled.

5. Application for delivery of water to private lands. Blanks on which to make water-rental application for private lands described in paragraph 1 may be secured from the Project Engineer, Bureau of Reclamation, Riverton, Wyoming; the Regional Director, Bureau of Reclamation, Billings, Montana, or the Commissioner, Bureau of Reclamation, Washington, D. C. Each such application shall be filed on or after October 3, 1947, in the office of the Project Engineer, Bureau of Reclamation, Riverton, Wyoming. Where the lands covered by such application are not already included within the Midvale Irrigation District, each such application shall be accompanied by an executed petition to have such land included in the District or by evidence that such petition has already been filed with the Irrigation District Board.

6. Contract with Midvale Irrigation District. The lands described above in paragraph 1 are within the exterior boundaries of the Midvale Irrigation District, organized under the laws of the State of Wyoming with offices located at Riverton, Wyoming. The United States and the Midvale Irrigation District entered into a contract dated February 12, 1931 (Ilr-629) and amended December 4, 1933, and December 13, 1943. Under this contract the District agreed to make levies to pay the United States required water rental charges covering the cost of operating and maintaining the irrigation works serving the District lands, and agreed to repay the United States the cost of constructing such works. Copy of this contract may be examined in the office of the Project Engineer, Bureau of Reclamation, Riverton, Wyoming, or in the office of the Commissioner of the Bureau of Reclamation, Washington, D. C. To facilitate the furnishing of water to the lands described in paragraph 1, it will be necessary to include all such lands in the Midvale Irrigation District. To this end, it will be required that each water rental application hereunder be accompanied by a petition for the inclusion of lands covered by such application in the Midvale Irrigation District, unless such petition has already been filed or unless such lands are already included in the District.

7. Water rental charges. The first payment of water rental charges will be made when the water rental application is filed at the office of the Project Engineer, Bureau of Reclamation, Riverton, Wyoming. Thereafter, water rental charges for lands within the Midvale Irrigation District will be paid pursuant to levy made by the Irrigation District Commissioners.

(1) The minimum water charge for 1948, and thereafter until further notice, shall be one dollar and fifty cents ($1.50) per acre for each irrigable acre of land. Payment of this charge will entitle the entryman or landowner to a farm delivery of 2 acre-feet of water per irrigable acre for each irrigation season.

(2) Additional water will be furnished during the 1948 irrigation season and thereafter until further notice at the rate of fifty cents ($0.50) per acre-foot for the third acre-foot per irrigable acre and seventy-five cents ($0.75) per acre-foot for each additional acre-foot per irrigable acre thereafter. Charges for the additional water are to be paid on or before December 1, of the year in which used. No water shall be delivered to the water user in subsequent years until all such charges have been paid in full.

(3) In the event any applicant does not receive notice of the award of a farm unit until after July 1, 1948, or July 1, of any subsequent year, the entryman's payment of charges under this paragraph shall be applied to payment of water charges for the succeeding year.

(4) The foregoing charges are subject to all provisions of the Federal Reclamation Law relative to collections and penalties for delinquencies. The charges will be paid at the office of the Bureau of Reclamation, Riverton, Wyoming.

8. Construction charges. The lands described in paragraph 1 will be subject to the payment of construction charges for the purpose of repaying the United States the cost of constructing the irrigation works serving these lands. Payment of these charges will be in accordance with the terms of the contracts with the Midvale Irrigation District referred to in paragraph 6. These charges will be levied by the Midvale Irrigation District in forty (40) annual installments. The first of these installments is payable in the third year following the year the lands are included in the Midvale Irrigation District. If public lands are already included in the District, the first installment is payable in the third year following the year of entry. The total of the construction costs which the District has agreed to repay is $5,000,000, exclusive of interest and penalties.

9. Settler assistance in land development. The Bureau of Reclamation, as an incident to the completion of the project, will assist entrymen, in appropriate cases, on a reimbursable basis, in development of farm units, including clearing and rough leveling the land and roughing in of farm irrigation and surface drainage systems beyond the farm turnout.

PENNSYLVANIA EDISON CO. ET AL.

ORDER GRANTING EXTENSION OF TIME

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the City of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, on the 7th day of July 1947.

In the matter of Pennsylvania Edison Company, Pennsylvania Electric Company, Associated Electric Company, File No. 70-1250; Pennsylvania Edison Company, Associated Electric Company, File No. 59-85.

The Commission by order dated June 19, 1946 having approved a joint application filed pursuant to section 11 (e) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 by Associated Electric Company and its public utility subsidiary companies, Pennsylvania Electric Company and Pennsylvania Edison Company, for, among other things, the approval of a plan of liquidation of Pennsylvania Edison Company and for the acquisition by Pennsylvania Electric Company of the utility assets of Pennsylvania Edison Company, subject to the following condition, among others:

That Pennsylvania Electric Company divest itself of all direct and indirect interest in and control over any and all gas properties of Pennsylvania Edison Company to be acquired by Pennsylvania Electric Company in connection with the proposed transactions in any appropriate manner not in contravention of the applicable provisions of the act and the rules and regulations thereunder within one year from the acquisition of such properties or within such longer period (not to exceed one additional year) as may be permitted for good cause pursuant to section 11 (c) of the act, and Pennsylvania Electric Company having requested that the time within which it may complete compliance with the provisions of said order be extended for a period of an additional year, and having stated, in connection with such request, that the acquisition by it of the assets of Pennsylvania Edison Company was consummated on July 2, 1946, and that, since that date, it received certain offers for the gas properties which were not accepted because, in its opinion, none of such offers constituted a fair price for the properties, and that new negotiations with persons who have indicated an interest in the properties are presently pending, and

The Commission having considered the matter and deeming it appropriate and in the public interest that the extension of time be granted for a period of six months without prejudice, however, to any further request for such additional extension of time as may be deemed appropriate but not in excess of an additional six months:

It is ordered, That said order of June 19, 1946, be, and hereby is, modified to the extent necessary to extend to January 2, 1948, the time within which Pennsylvania Electric Company shall divest itself of all direct and indirect interest in and control over any and all gas properties formerly owned by Pennsylvania Edison Company and acquired by Pennsylvania Electric Company.

INTERSTATE POWER CO.

NOTICE REGARDING FILING

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the City of Philadelphia, Pa., on the 2d day of July A. D. 1947.

Notice is hereby given that a declaration has been filed with this Commission pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 by Interstate Power Company ("Interstate"), a registered holding company, and a subsidiary of Ogden Corporation, a registered holding company. Declarant designates sections 6 and 7 of the act and Rule U-23 promulgated thereunder as applicable to the proposed transactions.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than July 14, 1947, and 5:30 p. m., e. d. s. t., request the Commission in writing that a hearing be held on such matter, stating the nature of his interest, the reasons for such request and the issues, if any, of fact or law raised by said declaration proposed to be controverted, or may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. At any time thereafter such declaration, as filed or as amended, may be permitted to become effective as provided in Rule U-23 of the rules and regulations promulgated pursuant to said act, or the Commission may exempt such transaction as provided in Rules U-20 (a) and U-100 thereof. Any such request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 18th and Locust Streets, Philadelphia 3, Pennsylvania.

All interested persons are referred to said declaration which is on file in the office of this Commission for a statement of the transactions therein proposed, which are summarized below:

A plan for the reorganization of Interstate was approved under section 11 (e) of the act by the Commission on January 24, 1947 (Holding Company Act Release Nos. 7143 and 7159) and by the District Court of the United States for the District of Delaware on April 24, 1947, but said plan has not, as yet, been consummated. By orders entered on November 14, 1946, and March 6, 1947, (Holding Company Act Release Nos. 7001 and 7329) the Commission approved the issuance and sale by Interstate of an aggregate of $1,400,000 of short-term collateral promissory notes to The Chase National Bank of the City of New York ("Chase") and Manufacturers Trust Company, New York ("Manufacturers"), the proceeds of which were used to finance Interstate's construction program and to restore current working funds which had been reduced below normal requirements in order to finance such new construction. The presently proposed transactions, which are designed to provide further funds for Interstate's construction program, follow:

1. The issue and sale, on or before August 1, 1947, of two Collateral Promissory notes, each in the principal amount of $550,000, bearing interest at the rate of 2% per annum and maturing on December 1, 1947, one of said notes to be sold to Chase, and the other to Manufacturers.

2. The issue and pledge as collateral security for the aforesaid notes of $1,100,000 principal amount of Interstate's First Mortgage Gold Bonds, 5% Series, due January 1, 1957.

3. The issue and sale, on or before October 15, 1947, of two Collateral Promissory Notes, each in the principal amount of $250,000, bearing interest at a rate not exceeding 2% per annum and maturing on December 1, 1947; one of said notes to be sold to Chase, and the other to Manufacturers.

4. If the aforesaid plan of reorganization of Interstate is not consummated prior to the issuance of said $500,000 principal amount of notes, the issue and pledge, as collateral security for said notes, of $500,000 principal amount of Interstate's First Mortgage Bonds, 5% Series, due 1957.

5. If the aforesaid reorganization plan is consummated prior to the maturity date, December 1, 1947, of the aforesaid aggregate $1,600,000 principal amount of notes, the issue and sale of two promissory notes, each in the principal amount of $800,000 and maturity no more than one year from the date of issue and bearing interest at a rate not exceeding 2% per annum, one of said notes to be sold to Chase, and the other to Manufacturers. Said notes are either to be unsecured, or if unsecured loans cannot be obtained, to be secured by the pledge, at the earliest date practicable after issuance of said notes, consistent with the provisions of Interstate's proposed Indenture and First Supplemental Indenture, to be dated as of June 1, 1947, of an equal aggregate principal amount of First Mortgage Bonds, ------% Series, due 1977, to be issued under said Indenture. Said issue and sale of notes will be for the purpose of permitting the repayment of the aforesaid aggregate $1,600,000 principal amount of Collateral promissory notes, which are to be issued for the purpose of financing Interstate's construction program.

Interstate represents that by reason of credits which it will have in its account with the Corporate Trustee under the indenture securing its First Mortgage Gold Bonds, 5% Series, due January 1, 1957, based on property additions, it will be entitled to the authentication and delivery by said trustee, prior to July 15, 1947, of $1,100,000 principal amount of additional 5% Bonds, and will be entitled, by reason of similar credits, to the authentication and delivery by said trustee, prior to October 15, 1947, of an additional $500,000 principal amount of said bonds. Interstate further represents that since property additions, as defined in the proposed Indenture and First Supplemental Indenture to be dated as of June 1, 1947, made subsequent to December 31, 1946, will be fundable, Interstate will be entitled under the provisions of said indenture, on the basis of property additions made subsequent to December 31, 1946, to the authentication and delivery by the Corporate Trustee under said indenture of $1,600,000 principal amount of First Mortgage Bonds, --% Series, due 1977, at the time of the consummation of the reorganization plan, in case it is necessary to issue said bonds as collateral security as outlined in paragraph 5 above.

The filing further states that it is contemplated that the collateral promissory notes in the aggregate principal amount of $1,400,000 heretofore issued and sold to the aforesaid banks will be retired with part of the proceeds of the sale of the new securities to be issued upon consummation of Interstate's reorganization plan. The presently proposed notes in the aggregate principal amount of $1,600,000 will continue to remain outstanding after the consummation of the reorganization plan, until such time as Interstate considers it feasible to arrange for permanent refinancing of said notes.

The declarant requests that the Commission's order be issued herein on or before July 15, 1947, and become effective forthwith in view of its urgent need of the funds to be obtained from the aforesaid proposed financing.

By the Commission.

Secretary.

GAS SERVICE CO.

NOTICE OF FILING AND ORDER FOR HEARING

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the City of Philadelphia, Pa., on the 7th day of July A. D. 1947.

Notice is hereby given that The Gas Service Company ("Gas Service"), a subsidiary of Cities Service Company, a registered holding company, has filed an application with this Commission pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act"). Applicant has designated sections 9 (a) and 10 of the act as applicable to the proposed transactions.

All interested persons are referred to said application, which is on file in the offices of this Commission, for a full statement of the transactions therein proposed which are summarized below:

Gas Service proposes to purchase from Wallace Gilroy and Helene D. Gilroy all of the issued and outstanding capital stock of Interstate Gas Company ("Interstate"), consisting of 500 shares of common stock without par value and 1,200 shares of 6% Non-Cumulative Preferred Stock of the par value of $100 per share, for a cash consideration of $1,200,000. Such purchase price is subject to certain adjustments with respect to the payment of dividends by Interstate subsequent to February 28, 1947 and the amount of proceeds received by Interstate upon divestment of its ownership of all of the issued and outstanding capital stock of its subsidiary, Interstate Pipe Line Company, which divestment is to precede the purchase by Gas Service of the stock of Interstate.

The application states that the purchase of the capital stock of Interstate by Gas Service is solely for the purpose of acquiring the physical property and assets of Interstate, that, upon the acquisition of such stock, Gas Service will cause all such property and assets to be conveyed to it, that Gas Service will assume all liabilities of Interstate, including Mortgage Bonds of Interstate in the principal amount of $341,000, and that Interstate will be dissolved. The application indicates that the Public Service Commission of Missouri and the State Corporation Commission of Kansas are the only other regulatory authorities having jurisdiction with respect to the proposed transactions.

It appearing to the Commission that it is appropriate in the public interest and in the interest of investors and consumers that a hearing be held with respect to the matters set forth in said application, and that said application shall not be granted except pursuant to further order of this Commission:

It is ordered, That a hearing on said application under the applicable provisions of the act and the rules and regulations thereunder be held at 10:00 a. m., e. d. s. t., on the 24th day of July 1947, at the offices of the Securities and Exchange Commission, 18th and Locust Streets, Philadelphia 3, Pennsylvania. On such day, the hearing room clerk in Room 318 will advise as to the room in which such hearing will be held. Any person who desires to be heard or otherwise wishes to participate in this proceeding shall file with the Secretary of the Commission on or before July 23, 1947, a written request relevant thereto as provided by Rule XVII of the Commission's rules of practice.

It is further ordered, That William W. Swift, or any other officer or officers of this Commission designated by it for that purpose, shall preside at such hearing. The officer so designated to preside at such hearing is hereby authorized to exercise all powers granted to the Commission under section 18 (c) of the act and to a hearing officer under the Commission's rules of practice.

The Public Utilities Division of the Commission having advised the Commission that it has made a preliminary study of said application and that, upon the basis thereof, the following matters and questions are presented for consideration, without prejudice, however, to the presentation of additional matters and questions upon further examination:

1. Whether the proposed acquisition of securities of Interstate by Gas Service will tend toward the economical and efficient development of an integrated public utility system.

2. Whether the proposed transactions are detrimental to the carrying out of the provisions of section 11 (b) of the act.

3. Whether the consideration to be paid by Gas Service for the stock of Interstate is reasonable and bears a fair relation to the sums invested in and the earning capacity of Interstate.

4. Whether the fees and expenses to be paid by Gas Service in connection with the proposed transactions are reasonable and appropriate.

5. Whether the accounting entries to be made by Gas Service in connection with the proposed transactions are proper and in accordance with sound accounting principles.

6. Whether appropriate approval has been obtained from all other regulatory bodies having jurisdiction with respect to the proposed transactions.

7. What terms and conditions, if any, with respect to the proposed transactions should be prescribed in the public interest or for the protection of investors or consumers.

It is further ordered, That particular attention be directed at said hearing to the foregoing matters and questions.

It is further ordered, That the Secretary of the Commission shall serve copies of this order by registered mail on Gas Service, the Public Service Commission of Missouri, the State Corporation Commission of Kansas and the Federal Power Commission; and that notice of said hearing shall be given to all other persons by publication of this order in the FEDERAL REGISTER and by general release distributed to the press.

By the Commission.

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

Sections 5.301-01, 5.307-04, 5.307-05, 5.307-06 of Chapter I, Title 6, Code of Federal Regulations, are hereby amended so that said amended sections will read as follows:

§ 5.301-01 Receipt of declaration by disposal agency. After real property is declared surplus by the owning agency, reported to the WAA, and classified by it, two copies of the declaration (WAA Form 1005 or Form SPB-5), with accompanying schedules, will be forwarded by the WAA to the FCA, either to the central office or in care of one of the Federal land banks. If the copies of the declaration are sent to the central office, it will reproduce such information as it deems necessary for its use and forward both copies of the declaration to the district supervisor. Date of assignment will be the date the declaration is received by the FCA.

In cases where the declaration (WAA Form 1005 or Form SPB-5) does not properly reflect the cost data or physical status of properties, the district supervisor should request the Regional Office of the War Assets Administration for a correction. If a correction is justified, the Regional Office will issue a corrected Form 1219 (formerly WAA Form 2019), adjusting the cost data and such information as pertained originally to the property on which the correction was based. If the change requested requires a corrected declaration from the owning agency, the Regional Office will request a corrected WAA Form 1005 from the owning agency. The advice on Form 1219 will form the basis of advice to the Accounting Division and the authority to adjust the surplus property inventory accounts.

§ 5.307-04 Advertising order. The disposal agency shall arrange with the newspapers selected for the publication of the notice of sale on Government Advertising Order, Standard Form No. 1143.

§ 5.307-05 Payment of public voucher for advertising. The following forms set forth the requirements to be met as a condition to payment of the voucher:

Standard Form No. 1142, Statement of Advertising Rates—Original.
Standard Form No. 1144, Public Voucher for Advertising—Original.

Standard Form No. 1142 is provided for use by the publisher in filing with the department or office a sworn statement of his advertising rates which must be the commercial rates charged to private individuals with the usual discounts. After this sworn statement is once filed with the district office and space is again purchased from the same newspaper, it will not be necessary for the publisher to again file his sworn statement of advertising rates unless there has been a change in the rates charged subsequent to the filing of the last statement. The district office should determine that Standard Form No. 1144 has been properly completed by the publisher and that a clipping from the publication is pasted thereon. The voucher, Standard Form No. 1144, is printed on the reverse side of the Advertising Order, Standard Form No. 1142. The district vice president of the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation should execute the certifications on the voucher following that of the payee. The bank should retain in its files, as evidence of its payment as agent of the Corporation, a copy of the notice originally submitted to the publisher, the advertising order, and the voucher, to which should be attached a clipping of the notice published.

§ 5.307–06 Authority for payment of public voucher. Authority is furnished the vice president of the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation to sign Standard Form No. 1143 in contracting for newspaper space under order of the Secretary of Agriculture dated September 7, 1945. Copies of this order may be used as required in furnishing the publisher with evidence of the authority of the officer in contracting for newspaper space. Ordinarily, the information to be furnished on the advertising order showing the date of authority to advertise should be sufficient evidence to the publisher of the authority of the officer contracting for newspaper space. Ordinarily, in purchasing advertising space from a particular newspaper, arrangements should be made for the four publications of the notice at the time of submitting the advertising order. This would obviate the necessity of furnishing the same newspaper with additional advertising orders and provide for the payment of one voucher covering the total cost of the four publications required.

The foregoing amendments have been approved by the Secretary of Agriculture.

TITLE 7—AGRICULTURE

Chapter I—Production and Marketing Administration (Standards, Inspections, Marketing Practices)

Subchapter D—Warehouse Regulations

PART 101—COTTON WAREHOUSES

DUTIES OF LICENSED WAREHOUSEMEN

Section 101.29 of the regulations (7 CFR and 1944 Supp. 101.1 et seq.) issued pursuant to the United States Warehouse Act is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 101.29 Warehouse charges. A licensed warehouseman shall not make any unreasonable, exorbitant, or discriminatory charge for services rendered. Before a license to conduct a warehouse is granted under the act, the warehouseman shall file with the Department a copy of his rules, if any, and a schedule of the charges to be made by him if licensed. Effective at the beginning of any cotton season, a licensed warehouseman may change his rate of charges for storage and other services, and the new rates may apply to all cotton then in storage as well as cotton received thereafter. At or before the beginning of each season every licensed warehouseman shall file with the Department a copy of his rules, if any, and of his schedule of charges for the ensuing season. Should a licensed warehouseman wish to make changes in his rates to become effective at any time other than at the beginning of a season, he shall file with the Department an amended schedule showing the contemplated changes, accompanied by a statement setting forth the reasons therefor. No increase in the storage rate shown in such an amended schedule shall apply to cotton in storage at the time the changes become effective. A licensed warehouseman may demand payment of all accrued charges at the close of each cotton season. If, upon demand, the owner of the cotton refuses to pay such charges at the end of a season, the warehouseman may take such action to enforce collection of his charges as is permitted by the laws of the State in which the warehouse is located. Each licensed warehouseman shall keep a copy of his current rules and schedule of charges exposed conspicuously in the place prescribed by § 101.6 and at such other place accessible to the public as the Secretary or his designated representative may from time to time designate. For the purposes of this section the cotton season shall commence, with respect to each warehouse, at such time not later than September 15 of each year, as the operator of the warehouse shall select, and he shall notify the Department in writing not less than five days next preceding the date selected.

The principal purposes of this amendment is to change the cotton season contemplated by the regulation from an arbitrary fixed yearly period commencing on August 1 of each year to a flexible period commencing, at the option of each warehouseman, at any time not later than September 15 of each year. The change is being made at the request of the warehousemen themselves, largely because rapid fluctuations in the wages of labor make it impossible for them, on August 1 of any year, to foretell what their labor costs will be at the time cotton is likely to be presented to them for storage. Some of them have labor contracts that expire, for instance, on or before July 31 and others between August 1 and September 1. It is also to the public interest that the rates established for storage shall reflect, as accurately as possible, the cost of service at the time when a particular season, as it affects each individual warehouseman, arrives. The effect of the change is to relieve existing restrictions. In order to make the change effective this season, action must be taken immediately since cotton picking has already commenced in some areas. For these reasons, notice and public procedure thereon, as provided for in section 4 (a) of the Administrative Procedure Act (act of Congress approved June 11, 1946, 60 Stat. 238), are impracticable and contrary to the public interest and there is good cause for finding that compliance with the publication requirements of section 4 (c) of said act is unnecessary.

This amendment shall become effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

PART 728—WHEAT

NATIONAL, STATE, COUNTY, AND FARM ACREAGE ALLOTMENTS FOR 1948 CROP OF WHEAT, AND WHEAT MARKETING QUOTAS FOR 1948–49 MARKETING YEAR

Whereas, the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended, provides for the proclamation of certain data concerning the supply and consumption requirements requisite to the establishment of a national acreage allotment and marketing quota for wheat, and

Whereas, said act further provides that, in carrying out the purposes of the act, it shall be the duty of the Secretary to give due regard to the maintenance of a continuous and stable supply of agricultural commodities from domestic production adequate to meet consumer demand at prices fair to both producers consumers, and

Whereas, said act further provides that quotas shall be terminated if it is determined that such action is necessary in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act or to meet a national emergency or increase in export demand, and

Whereas, an investigation has been made which reveals that it is necessary, in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act, to dispense with marketing quotas for wheat for the marketing year beginning July 1, 1948, and with national, State, county, and farm acreage allotments for wheat for the 1948 crop, and

Whereas, public notice has been given that the Secretary was preparing to issue the proclamation with respect to the 1948 crop of wheat (12 F. R. 3975), and no written views have been received pursuant to such notice:

Now, therefore, it is hereby determined and proclaimed that:

§ 728.901 1948 acreage allotments for wheat. In order to maintain a continuous and stable supply of wheat from the domestic production of wheat adequate to meet consumer demand at prices fair to both producers and consumers, and otherwise to effectuate the declared policy of the act, no national, State, county, or farm acreage allotments for wheat for the 1948 crop will be established under provisions of Title III of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended.

§ 728.905 National marketing quota for wheat for 1948–49 marketing year. Wheat marketing quotas will not be in effect for the marketing year beginning July 1, 1948.

PART 403—PROMOTION OF RIFLE PRACTICE

RIFLE AND PISTOL COMPETITIONS IN SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES

Paragraph (c) of § 403.5 is amended as follows: A new sentence is added at the end of subparagraph (1) (iii); subparagraph (3) is revised; in subparagraph (4) amend the headnote, revise subparagraphs (4) (ii) and (4) (iii) (d) to read as follows:

§ 403.5 Rifle and pistol competitions in schools and colleges. • • •

(c) Annual indoor rifle matches—(1) Indoor rifle matches. • • •

(3) Army area intercollegiate and interscholastic matches. From January 1 to March 15 annually, institutions in each group listed in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph will fire matches with the other institutions of their group in the same army area under such regulations as the army commander may prescribe, the object being to rate the relative marksmanship of the institutions. The institutions should be encouraged to enter as many competitors and teams as may be practicable. The marking targets, announcing scores, awarding prizes, etc. will be arranged and prescribed by the army commander. During this period, institutions will be encouraged to fire separate intercollegiate matches within the army area under such conditions as they may agree upon. The membership of teams which enter the national ROTC intercollegiate and interscolastic championship matches referred to in subparagraph (4) of this paragraph is limited to students who are regularly enrolled in the ROTC of the institutions, and to students pursuing the ROTC course under the provisions of Part 602, § 602.17, of this title and AR 145–10.

Chapter I—Civil Aeronautics Board

PART 24—MECHANIC CERTIFICATES

LIMITED MECHANIC CERTIFICATE WITH PROPELLER OR AIRCRAFT APPLIANCE RATING; EXTENSION OF EFFECTIVE PERIOD

Adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D. C., on the 30th day of June 1947.

Special Civil Air Regulation Serial Number 340 expires June 30, 1947. It was intended that the provisions of this regulation would be included in the revision of Part 24, Mechanic Certificates, prior to June 30, 1947. It has not been possible to complete the revision of Part 24 within this period.

The purpose of this regulation is to continue the issuance and effectiveness of limited mechanic certificates until revision of the Civil Air Regulations has been made to supersede this regulation. This Special Civil Air Regulation extends Special Civil Air Regulation Serial Number 340 for an additional 6-month period. Termination of Special Civil Air Regulation Serial Number 340, as amended, prior to the intended revision of the Civil Air Regulations would impose an undue burden on propeller and aircraft appliance manufacturers and repair stations.

Effective June 30, 1947, Special Civil Air Regulation Serial Number 340, as amended, is amended by striking the words "June 30, 1947" and inserting in lieu thereof the words "December 31, 1947."

PART 61—SCHEDULED AIR CARRIER RULES

AMENDMENT PROVIDING THAT QUALIFIED PERSONNEL OTHER THAN THAT OF THE AIR CARRIER OPERATING THE AIRCRAFT MAY SIGN CLEARANCE FORMS, LOAD AIRCRAFT, AND SIGN LOAD MANIFEST FORMS

Adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D. C., on the 3d day of July 1947.

The purpose of this amendment is:

1. To permit the authorized aircraft dispatcher of the air carrier operating the aircraft to delegate the authority to sign the clearance form for a particular flight and,

2. To permit the air carrier to authorize qualified personnel other than that of the air carrier operating the aircraft to supervise the loading of the aircraft and to sign the load manifest form.

Section 61.7103 of the Civil Air Regulations presently requires that the clearance and load manifest forms be signed by personnel of the carrier and that the loading of the aircraft must be done by qualified personnel of the carrier. In some instances, the carriers would benefit by the economic advantages which may be obtained from the consolidation of service facilities. The delegation of authority merely to sign clearances by the authorized aircraft dispatcher will in no way compromise safety, because such dispatcher remains responsible for the dispatch and continued supervision of the flight. In the case of the loading of the aircraft and the signing of the load manifest form, the responsibility for proper accomplishment of these functions remains with the air carrier operating the aircraft.

Effective July 15, 1947, Part 61 of the Civil Air Regulations is amended as follows:

1. By amending § 61.7102 to read as follows:

§ 61.7102 Clearance and load manifest forms. The clearance and load manifest forms used shall be approved by the Administrator. The original copies of such forms shall be given to the first pilot and duplicate copies kept in the station file for at least 30 days.

2. By adding two new sections to read as follows:

§ 61.71020 Preparation of clearance form. A clearance form shall be prepared for each flight between specified clearance points. The information for such clearance shall be prepared by the authorized aircraft dispatcher of the air carrier operating the aircraft. This form shall be signed by the first pilot and by the authorized aircraft dispatcher only when both believe the flight may be made with safety. The authority to sign such clearance may be delegated for a particular flight by the authorized aircraft dispatcher, but the authority to dispatch cannot be delegated and such dispatcher remains responsible for the dispatch and continued supervision of the flight.

§ 61.71021 Preparation of load manifest form. A manifest form showing the loading of the aircraft shall be prepared and signed for each flight by qualified personnel of the air carrier charged with the duty of supervising the loading of the aircraft and the preparation of the load manifest forms, or by qualified persons authorized by the air carrier. The aircraft when loaded shall not exceed the center of gravity limits or maximum allowable weight limits set forth in the aircraft certificate for the particular aircraft.

3. By repealing § 61.7103.

(52 Stat. 984, 1007; 49 U. S. C. 425, 551)

TITLE 17—COMMODITY AND SECURITIES EXCHANGES

Chapter II—Securities and Exchange Commission

PART 239—FORMS PRESCRIBED UNDER THE SECURITIES ACT OF 1933

ADOPTION OF FORM S–7 FOR REGISTRATION OF SECURITIES ISSUED BY THE INTERNATIONAL BANK FOR RECONSTRUCTION AND DEVELOPMENT

The Securities and Exchange Commission, acting pursuant to the Securities Act of 1933, particularly sections 7, 10 and 19 (a) thereof, and deeming such action necessary and appropriate in the public interest and for the protection of investors and necessary to carry out the provisions of the act, hereby adopts § 239.21 (Form S–7) for registration under the act of securities of international banking organizations of which the United States is a member pursuant to treaty or statute.

§ 239.21 (Form S–7)[1]. This form is used for registration under the act of securities of international banking organizations of which the United States is a member pursuant to treaty or statute.

Since at the present time there is only one issuer which will use § 239.21 (Form S–7) and in view of the fact that such issuer desires to use the form immediately, the Commission finds that the preliminary notice and public procedure provided for in section 4 (a) and (b) of the Administrative Procedure Act are unnecessary and declares the form effective immediately pursuant to section 4 (c) of the act.

The foregoing action shall become effective July 9, 1947.

SUBPART A—CLAIMING SICKNESS BENEFITS

§ 335.101 Statutory provisions.

Subject to the provisions of section 4 of this act, * * * a "day of sickness", with respect to any employee, means a calendar day * * * with respect to which * * * in accordance with such regulations as the Board may prescribe, a statement of sickness is filed within such reasonable period, not in excess of ten days, as the Board may prescribe * * * (section 1 (k) of the act).

The term "statement of sickness" means a statement with respect to days of sickness of an employee * * * executed in such manner and form by an individual duly authorized pursuant to section 12 (l) to execute such statements, and filed as the Board may prescribe by regulations (section 1 (l) (1) of the act).

Claims for benefits * * * shall be made in accordance with such regulations as the Board shall prescribe * * * (section 5 (a) of the act).

The Board shall provide a form or forms for statements of sickness and a procedure for the execution and filing thereof. Such forms and procedure shall be designed with a view to having such statements provide substantial evidence of the days of sickness of the employee and, in the case of maternity sickness, the expected date of birth and the actual date of birth of the child. Such statements may be executed by any doctor (authorized to practice in the State or foreign jurisdiction in which he practices his profession) or any officer or supervisory employee of a hospital, clinic, group health association, or other similar organization, who is qualified under such regulations as the Board may prescribe to execute such statements. The Board shall issue regulations for the qualification of such persons to execute such statements. When so executed by any such person, or, in the discretion of the Board, by others designated by the Board individually or by groups, they may be accepted as initial proof of days of sickness sufficient to certify for payment a claim for benefits * * * (section 12 (l) of the act).

* * * The term "registration period" means also, with respect to any employee, the period which begins with the first day with respect to which a statement of sickness is filed in his behalf in accordance with such regulations as the Board may prescribe, or the first such day after the end of a registration period which will have begun with a day with respect to which a statement of sickness was filed in his behalf, and ends with the thirteenth day thereafter (section 1 (h) of the act).

§ 335.102 Manner of claiming sickness benefits. To claim sickness benefits an employee shall (a) on the form provided by the Board for making application for sickness benefits, furnish the information required by such form, and mail the form, properly executed, to an office of the Board, together with a statement of sickness executed in accordance with the provisions of § 335.103 and (b) on forms sent him by the Board for making claims for sickness benefits, furnish the information required by such forms, and mail the forms, properly executed, to an office of the Board, together with any supplemental doctor's statements which may be required by the Board in connection therewith, executed in accordance with the provisions of § 335.103. If satisfied that an employee is so sick or injured that he cannot sign forms, the Board may accept forms executed by someone else in his behalf.

§ 335.103 Execution of statement of sickness and supplemental doctor's statement. A statement of sickness, and any supplemental doctor's statement which may be required by the Board, shall be executed by an individual who (a) is a doctor of medicine licensed to practice medicine in the State or foreign jurisdiction in which the form is executed; or (b) is the superintendent or other supervisory official of a hospital, clinic, group health association, or other similar organization, in which all examination and treatment are conducted under the supervision of licensed doctors of medicine and in which medical records are maintained for each patient. Such individual shall execute the statement of sickness, and any supplemental doctor's statement which may be required, on the forms provided by the board, and shall furnish the information required by such forms.

§ 335.104 Filing statement of sickness and claim for sickness benefits—(a) Time for filing statement of sickness. No day shall be considered a day of sickness with respect to an employee unless a statement of sickness with respect to such day is filed in his behalf at an office of the Board not later than the ninth day after such day.

(b) Time for filing claim for sickness benefits. No day shall be considered a day of sickness with respect to an employee unless (1) a claim for sickness benefits with respect to a registration period including such day is filed by or in behalf of the employee at an office of the Board, together with any supplemental doctor's statement which may be required by the Board in connection therewith, within ten days after whichever is the later of (i) the last day of the registration period shown on the claim form or (ii) the day such claim form was mailed to the employee; or (2) failure to file such form or forms within the time prescribed in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph was caused by some circumstance or condition directly affecting the employee and not attributable to any lack of diligence on his part, and such form or forms were filed within a reasonable time thereafter.

(c) Requirements in event of failure to file claim. No day subsequent to any registration period with respect to which an employee has failed to file a claim form within the time prescribed in paragraph (b) of this section shall be considered a day of sickness with respect to the employee unless the employee files a new application for sickness benefits and a new statement of sickness within the time prescribed in paragraph (a) of this section, and complies with the other requirements of this part, with respect to such day: Provided, however, That such new application for sickness benefits and statement of sickness shall not be required with respect to any such day if, within a reasonable time of such day, the employee notifies the Board that he wishes to claim such day as a day of sickness, and if the Board is satisfied that the employee was unable to work from the beginning of the registration period, with respect to which he failed to file a claim form within the prescribed time, up to and including such day.

(d) When form considered filed. A form shall be considered filed within the time prescribed with regard to it in paragraph (a) or (b) (1) of this section if (1) the form was received at an office of the Board within the prescribed time; (2) the form was mailed to an office of the Board within the time specified in the instructions on the form, and was received there; (3) because of some circumstance or condition directly affecting the employee and not attributable to any lack of diligence on his part, the form was not mailed to an office of the Board within the time specified in the instructions on the form, but (i) within that time a communication was mailed to an office of the Board by him or in his behalf and the form was received at such office within a reasonable time thereafter, or (ii) within the time prescribed with regard to the form in paragraph (a) or (b) (1) of this section a representative of the Board made a record of the intention expressed by or in behalf of the employee to apply for or claim sickness benefits, and the form was received at an office of the Board within a reasonable time thereafter; (4) the employee registered for the day in question under § 325.12, but his claim for such day as a day of unemployment was denied on the ground that he was not able to work on such day, and the form was received at an office of the Board within a reasonable time; or (5) a female employee filed a statement of maternity sickness with a view to obtaining maternity benefits for the day in question, and the form was received at an office of the Board within a reasonable time.

(e) Days for which no statement of sickness deemed filed. No statement of sickness shall be deemed to have been filed with respect to any day which, if a statement of sickness were filed with respect to it, would be the first day of a registration period in a benefit year in which (1) the employee is not a qualified employee under section 3 of the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act, or (2) benefits have already been payable to the employee for 10 days of sickness other than days of sickness in a maternity period.

§ 335.105 Registration period. For the purposes of this subpart, the term "registration period" means, with respect to any employee, the period of fourteen consecutive days beginning with the first day with respect to which a statement of sickness is filed in his behalf; and thereafter each period of fourteen consecutive days beginning with the first day, with respect to which a statement of sickness is filed in his behalf, occurring after the end of his last preceding registration period begun with a day with respect to which a statement of sickness was filed in his behalf.

SUBPART B—CLAIMING MATERNITY BENEFITS

* * * the term "statement of maternity sickness" means a statement with respect to a maternity period of a female employee, * * * executed in such manner and form by an individual duly authorized pursuant to section 12 (l) to execute such statements, and filed as the Board may prescribe by regulations (section 1 (l) (1) of the act).

See sections 1 (k), 5 (a) and 12 (l) of the act, quoted in § 335.101.

If the statement of maternity sickness filed by an employee does not provide evidence of the actual date of birth of her child, the employee shall also mail to an office of the Board a supplement to such statement of maternity sickness, executed in accordance with the provisions of § 335.203 and providing such evidence.

§ 335.203 Execution of statement of maternity sickness and supplement. A statement of maternity sickness, and any supplement thereto which may be required, shall be executed by an individual who is qualified, under § 335.103, to execute a statement of sickness. (c) Time for filing claim for maternity benefits. No day shall be considered a day of sickness in a maternity period with respect to a female employee unless (1) a claim for maternity benefits with respect to a registration period including such day is filed by or in behalf of the employee at an office of the Board, within ten days after whichever is the later of (i) the last day of the registration period shown on the claim form or (ii) the day such claim form was mailed to the employee; or (2) failure to file such form within the time prescribed in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph was caused by some circumstance or condition directly affecting the employee and not attributable to any lack of diligence on her part, and such form was filed within a reasonable time thereafter.

(d) Requirements in event of failure to file claim for maternity benefits. No day subsequent to any registration period with respect to which a female employee has failed to file a claim for maternity benefits within the time prescribed in paragraph (c) of this section shall be considered a day of sickness in a maternity period with respect to such employee unless such employee (1) notifies the Board within a reasonable time of such day that she wishes to claim such day and (2) files the form sent her by the Board within the time prescribed in paragraph (c) of this section.

(e) When form considered filed. A form shall be considered filed within the time prescribed with regard to it in paragraphs (a), (b) (1), or (c) (1) of this section if (1) the form was received at an office of the Board within the prescribed time; (2) the form was mailed to an office of the Board within the time specified in the instructions on the form, and was received there; (3) because of some circumstance or condition directly affecting the employee and not attributable to any lack of diligence on her part, the form was not mailed to an office of the board within the time specified in the instructions on the form, but (i) within that time a communication was mailed to an office of the Board by her or in her behalf and the form was received at such office within a reasonable time thereafter, or (ii) within the time prescribed with regard to the form in paragraph (a), (b) (1), or (c) (1) of this section a representative of the Board made a record of the intention expressed by or in behalf of the employee to apply for or claim maternity benefits, and the form was received at an office of the Board within a reasonable time thereafter; (4) the employee registered for the day in question under § 325.12, but her claim for such day as a day of unemployment was denied on the ground that she was not available for work or was not able to work on such day, and the form was received at an office of the Board within a reasonable time; or (5) the employee claimed sickness benefits for the day in question under subpart A of this part, and the form was received at an office of the Board within a reasonable time.

§ 335.205 Registration period—(a) First day. For the purposes of the regulations in this subpart, the first day of a registration period, with respect to any female employee, is the first day which is included in her maternity period and in a benefit year in which she is a qualified employee, and thereafter the first day in her maternity period occurring after the end of her last preceding registration period begun with a day in her maternity period.

Chapter IX—Office of Materials Distribution, Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Department of Commerce

PART 4600—RUBBER, SYNTHETIC RUBBER AND PRODUCTS THEREOF

[Rubber Order R–1, as Amended July 14, 1947]

Findings under sec. 4 (a) of Public Law 404, Seventy-ninth Congress. In connection with the issuance of the following amendments, the Office of Materials Distribution, pursuant to section 4 (a) of the Administrative Procedure Act (Pub. Law 404, 79th Cong., 60 Stat. 237), finds that compliance with the notice, public rule-making procedure and effective date requirements of the said act is impractical and contrary to the public interest, and any delay in the effective date of the following amendments will jeopardize the orderly allocation of natural and synthetic rubber and the production of synthetic rubber, contrary to the policy of Public Law 24, 80th Congress, and to the public interest. Therefore, the Office of Materials Distribution, pursuant to Public Law 24, 80th Congress, hereby takes the following action:

Rubber Order R–1, as amended May 2, 1947, is hereby amended to read as follows:

The fulfillment of requirements for the defense of the United States has created a shortage in the supply of natural rubber and other materials entering into the production of rubber products for defense, for private account and for export, and the following order is deemed necessary and appropriate in the public interest and to promote the national defense.

Purpose of this order. Rubber Order R–1 embraces the Office of Materials Distribution regulations covering acceptance of delivery of certain raw materials, restrictions on consumption, delivery, inventories, and importation.

Appendix I, which is printed at the foot of this order, lists the products in the manufacture of which natural rubber and natural rubber latex may be used and provides special restrictions for the use of these raw materials in the manufacture of specified products.

Appendix II, which is printed separately, establishes manufacturing regulations for certain products, principally tires and tubes, set out in lists applicable to the particular product.

Quarterly consumption of natural rubber and natural rubber latex will be permitted in the manufacture of Appendix I products under the provisions of the applicable code, but only to the extent that material is available.

Explanation of Columns 3, 4 and 5 and of the symbols used. Column 3 shows the quantity expressed in percentage or as the minimum required, of natural rubber which may be used in the manufacture of the product indicated. Column 4 shows the quantity expressed in percentage or as the minimum required, of natural rubber latex which may be used in the manufacture of the product indicated and for which the manufacturer has been authorized to consume on Form OMD–4562 or Form OMD–4575. Column 5 shows special restrictions or provisions applicable to the manufacture of the product. For example, in those products such as pneumatic tires, or tire tubes (Codes No. 1 and 3), where either or both column 3 or 4 is blank, a reference will be found in column 5 to the appropriate list in Appendix II in which the manufacturing regulations for the product are specified.

"X" in column 3 indicates that natural rubber may be used in the minimum quantity required by the manufacturer, subject to any special restrictions or provisions applicable to the particular product.

"X" in column 4 indicates that natural rubber latex may be used in the minimum quantity required by the manufacturer who has received authorization to consume on Form OMD–4562, subject to any special restrictions or provisions applicable to the particular product.

Percentage figures in column 3 or 4 indicate the maximum percentage to total volume of compound, unless otherwise specified.

Asterisk (*) in column 4 indicates that natural rubber latex may be consumed only by persons who have been authorized to do so from the OMD on Form OMD–4575 and in accordance with the special restrictions or provisions contained in Code 22L.

"RHC" appearing in column 5 indicates rubber hydrocarbon. This is the sum of natural rubber, natural rubber latex, synthetic rubber, the rubber hydrocarbon value of reclaimed rubber or hard rubber dust, and the rubber hydrocarbon value of master-batches or compounds of natural rubber or natural rubber latex. The rubber hydrocarbon value of reclaimed rubber or hard rubber dust shall be calculated from the rubber value of reclaimed rubber or hard rubber dust as certified by the manufacturer of the reclaimed rubber or hard rubber dust and shall be determined by the "difference" or "indirect" method. Natural rubber includes the rubber hydrocarbon value of natural rubber or natural rubber latex master-batches or compounds as certified by the manufacturer of master-batches or compounds which include natural rubber or natural rubber latex.

[Reg. 2,[1] Order 11]

ELIMINATION OF VETERANS PRIORITY CERTIFICATES AT AUCTION SALES

Section 8302.8 of this part provides that a veteran desiring to exercise his priority under § 8302.5 of this part shall apply for a certificate which he shall present when acquiring property thereunder from a disposal agency.

A disposal agency has advised the War Assets Administration that it desires to hold an auction sale for veterans of surplus property located in San Francisco but that the requirement of a certificate from each veteran as set forth in § 8302.8 of this part is impracticable and uneconomical for an auction sale and that such a requirement at auction sales defeats the objective of the Surplus Property Act to enable veterans to purchase surplus property for the purpose of establishing and maintaining their own small business, professional, or agricultural enterprise.

The War Assets Administrator finds that an exemption should be granted from the requirements of § 8302.8 of this part on the ground that it is impracticable and uneconomical to require veterans to present certificates as therein provided at auction sales for veterans.

Accordingly, it is hereby ordered that:

§ 8302.61 Elimination of veterans priority certificates at auction sales. For the purpose of facilitating an auction sale of surplus property located in San Francisco for veterans, an exemption is hereby granted from the requirements of § 8302.8 of this part, and disposal agencies are hereby authorized to utilize such methods as they may deem most practicable for determining the eligibility of veterans to purchase surplus property located in San Francisco at auction sales under the Surplus Property Act, as amended.

PART 12—AMATEUR RADIO SERVICE

PART 13—COMMERCIAL RADIO OPERATORS

RENEWAL OF LICENSES

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission, held at its office in Washington, D. C., on the 30th day of June 1947;

Whereas § 12.27 of the Commission's rules governing amateur radio service and § 13.28 of the Commission's rules governing commercial radio operators require a showing of service or use as a condition precedent to the renewal, respectively, of an amateur or commercial operator license; and

It appearing that the Commission by its Order No. 77–G, dated December 17, 1946, suspended until June 30, 1947 § 12.27 of its rules governing amateur radio service and § 13.28 of its rules governing commercial radio operators, insofar as those sections require a showing of service or use as a condition precedent to the renewal, respectively, of an amateur or commercial operator license; and

It further appearing that it would be advisable to extend for an additional period not to exceed one year the suspension of the showing of service or use requirement in order to provide a cushion for the full return to normal peacetime procedures;

It is ordered, That § 12.27 of the Commission's rules governing amateur radio service and § 13.28 of its rules governing commercial radio operators be, and they hereby are, suspended until further order of the Commission, but in no event beyond June 30, 1948.

It is further found and ordered, That, whereas authority for this order is contained in sections 303 (l) and (r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, and the effect of the order is to extend for an additional period after June 30, 1947 the relief from certain restrictions as now afforded by Commission Order No. 77–G, and is noncontroversial, and it is in the public interest that this order be made effective not later than July 1, 1947, notice and public procedure required by section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act are, hereby, found unnecessary, and this order should be, and is hereby, made effective July 1, 1947.

PART 13—COMMERCIAL RADIO OPERATORS

RENEWAL OF LICENSES

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission, held at its offices in Washington, D. C., on the 30th day of June 1947;

Whereas, the Commission by its Order No. 128–B, adopted December 17, 1946 provided that under certain conditions applications filed or mailed not later than June 30, 1947 for the renewal of certain commercial radio operator licenses, which were valid on December 7, 1941 and had expired, might be acted upon by the Commission notwithstanding the provisions of § 13.11 of the Commission's rules governing commercial radio operators; and

It appearing, that, the provisions of Commission Order No. 128–B should be continued for an additional period not to exceed six months in order to provide for the renewal of numerous commercial radio operator licenses which expired while the holders thereof were serving in the armed forces, or the United States Maritime Service, or who were employed outside the continental limits of the United States in connection with the war effort; and

It appearing, that, the Commission by its Order No. 77–H, adopted today, effective July 1, 1947, has suspended until June 30, 1948 § 13.28 of the Commission's rules insofar as that section requires a showing of service or use as a condition precedent to the renewal of a commercial operator license;

It is ordered, That any application filed or mailed not later than December 31, 1947, for the renewal of a commercial radio operator license (other than a Temporary Emergency Radiotelegraph Second Class Operator License or a Temporary Limited Radiotelegraph Second Class Operator License) which was valid on or after December 7, 1941, and has expired by its own terms without having been cancelled or suspended, may, until further order of the Commission, be acted upon, notwithstanding the provisions of § 13.11, if a statement is filed as a part of the renewal application showing that (1) the applicant has been honorably discharged or separated from the armed forces of the United States since December 7, 1941; or (2) the applicant has voluntarily left the United States Maritime Service since December 7, 1941; or (3) the applicant has been employed in connection with the war effort outside the continental United States and has been unable to file timely application for renewal of license because of such employment outside the continental United States;

It is further found and ordered, That, whereas authority for this order is contained in sections 303 (l) and (r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, and the effect of the order is to extend for an additional period after June 30, 1947 the relief from certain restrictions as now afforded by Commission Order No. 128–B, and is non-controversial, and it is in the public interest that this order be made effective not later than July 1, 1947, notice and public procedure required by section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act are, hereby, found unnecessary, and this order should be, and is hereby, made effective July 1, 1947.

PART 41—TELEGRAPH AND TELEPHONE FRANKS

FREE SERVICE TO OFFICIAL PARTICIPANTS IN 1947 WORLD TELECOMMUNICATIONS CONFERENCES

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission held at its offices in Washington, D. C., on the 28th day of June 1947;

The Commission, having under consideration its order of May 14, 1947, regarding the matter of amendment of Part 41 of its rules and regulations with respect to free service to official participants in the World Telecommunications Conferences in Atlantic City, New Jersey, in 1947;

It appearing, that such free communications services as may be provided in this connection may appropriately be accorded with respect to services inbound to the United States as well as those outbound from the United States;

It is ordered, That pursuant to Public Law 48, 80th Congress, 1st Session, and section 4 (i) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, § 41.41 of the Commission's rules and regulations, is amended forthwith to read as follows:

§ 41.41 Free service permitted. For the duration of the world telecommunications conferences to be held in Atlantic City, New Jersey, in 1947, United States communication common carriers may render, to official participants in such conferences, free communications services to and from the United States from and to the respective foreign countries which the official participants represent at the conferences, provided the foreign connecting carriers involved in each case handle free the portion of such communication service rendered by them. The term "official participants" means persons whose names appear on the list of official participants maintained by the official secretariat of the world telecommunications conferences.

It is further ordered, That the amended § 41.41 of these rules and regulations, adopted by the Commission on June 28, 1947, be effective immediately. Since the world telecommunications conferences, referred to above, are in progress, the Commission finds that, with respect to said amended § 41.41, the notice and public procedure thereon provided for in the Administrative Procedure Act are impracticable.

TITLE 49—TRANSPORTATION AND RAILROADS

Chapter I—Interstate Commerce Commission

Subchapter A—General Rules and Regulations

[No. 29543]

PART 136 — INSTALLATION, INSPECTION, MAINTENANCE AND REPAIR OF SYSTEMS, DEVICES AND APPLIANCES

APPLIANCES, METHODS, AND SYSTEMS INTENDED TO PROMOTE SAFETY OF RAILROAD OPERATION

1. Respondents required to install (a) automatic or manual block signal systems on such portions of their lines over which any passenger train is operated at a speed of 60 or more miles per hour or any freight train is operated at a speed of 50 or more miles per hour, and (b) automatic train stop or train control systems or automatic cab signal systems on such portions of their lines over which any train is operated at a speed of 80 or more miles per hour.

2. Commission's order of April 13, 1939, amended to include a revised definition of "medium speed" and a definition of "low (restricted) speed".

Report of the Commission—Issues. This is an investigation instituted by the Commission on its own motion to determine (1) whether it is necessary in the public interest to require any respondent to install block signal system, interlocking, automatic train stop, train control and/or cab signal devices, and/or other similar appliances, methods, and systems intended to promote the safety of railroad operation upon the whole or any part of its railroad on which any train is operated at a speed of 50 or more miles per hour, and (2) whether the Rules, Standards and Instructions prescribed by the Commission's order of April 13, 1939, pursuant to the provisions of section 26 (now section 25) of the Interstate Commerce Act should be amended to include a revised definition of the term "medium speed" and a definition of the term "low (restricted) speed". All Class I and all switching and terminal railroads subject to the Interstate Commerce Act were made respondents.

At a prehearing conference it was agreed that each respondent that authorized the operation of a passenger train at a speed of 60 or more miles per hour, or a freight train at a speed of 50 or more miles per hour, should furnish in exhibit form, in advance of hearing, certain basic data which will hereinafter be referred to in detail. The proceeding was thereafter set for hearing to receive in evidence such basic data and any other evidence dealing with the issues from a national standpoint; that is, what, if any, additional appliances, methods, or systems to promote safety of railroad operation should be required to be installed by all respondents on lines on which a train is operated at a speed of 50 or more miles per hour, and what, if any, uniform definitions of the terms "medium speed" and "low (restricted) speed" should be prescribed. The notice of hearing specifically provided that if, following such hearing, an order of general application should be entered, any respondent, upon request made within 60 days of the entry of such order, would be given a further hearing to show that it should be excepted from the order or the order modified with respect to it.

Basic data. At the hearing the basic data referred to above were made a part of the record. The data show for each respondent that operates trains at the speeds referred to:

1. Miles of road operated;

2. Miles of track over which the maximum authorized speeds are less than 60 miles per hour for passenger trains;

3. Miles of track over which the maximum authorized speeds are less than 50 miles per hour for freight trains;

4. Miles of track over which the maximum authorized speeds are 60 or more miles per hour for passenger trains, divided to show separately the miles operated by

(a) Automatic block signal systems,

(b) Manual block signal systems,

(c) Time-table and train orders only,

and further divided to show under each of these methods of operation the miles operated over which there are maximum authorized speeds from 60 to 69 miles inclusive, 70 to 79 miles inclusive, 80 to 89 miles inclusive, and 90 or more miles per hour, and the automatic block signal and manual block signal mileages in each of these speed groups to be further divided to show the miles operated (1) by signal indications only, and (2) by signal indications supplemented by time-table and train orders;

5. Miles of track over which maximum authorized speeds are 50 or more miles per hour for freight trains, divided to show separately the miles operated by each of the three methods referred to above; and further divided to show under each of these three methods of operation the miles operated over which there are maximum authorized speeds from 50 to 59 miles inclusive, and 60 or more miles per hour, and the automatic block signal and manual block signal mileages in each of these speed groups further divided to show the miles operated (1) by signal indications only, and (2) by signal indications supplemented by time-table and train orders;

6. Miles of track equipped with

(a) Automatic train stop or train control,

(b) Automatic cab signal systems,

(c) Centralized traffic control,

(d) Radio and other train communication systems;

7. Information with respect to derailments and collisions on its line between January 1, 1944, and June 30, 1946, both inclusive.

Methods of operation.—Before discussing the evidence, the various methods under which the movement of trains is controlled will be briefly described. Generally speaking, trains are operated either by time-table and train orders, block signal systems, or time-table and train orders supplemented by block signal systems.

Under the time-table and train order system, the oldest of these methods, trains are operated in accordance with schedules published in operating timetables supplemented, when necessary, by train orders issued by train dispatchers and delivered to members of train crews, either before departure of the trains or while they are en route. Generally this system provides an interval of time between trains moving in the same direction, passing points for trains in the same direction, and, in single track operation, meeting points for trains moving in opposite directions. This system is mostly used on lines on which the traffic density is light and there are few conflicts in train movements.

Under a block signal system trains are operated by signal indications. Such a system comprises a single segment of railroad, called a block, or a series of consecutive blocks, and signals with various indications. Under a manual block system, signals are generally displayed at the entrance of each block, operated manually upon information received by the block operator by telephone or telegraph. Under an automatic block system there is generally a signal at the entrance of each block operated automatically by the train or by certain hazardous conditions within the block by means of continuous electric track circuits. The automatic signals may be, however, in the cabs of the locomotives instead of along the wayside, or may be both in the cabs and along the wayside. The distinctive feature of a block signal system is that it provides a method by which an interval of space can be provided between trains in the same direction, which a time-table and train order system does not do. When operation is by time-table and train orders supplemented by either a manual or automatic block signal system, the latter provides an additional and independent check on the movement of trains.

An automatic block signal system, where the signals are displayed in the locomotives, either with or without wayside signals, is referred to as a cab signal system to distinguish it from an automatic block signal system where wayside signals only are used. The cab signals are in the operating compartment of the engine and are actuated to display indications consistent with those displayed by the wayside signals or the indications that would be displayed by the wayside signals if such signals were at the location of the locomotive. An air whistle on the locomotive sounds automatically when the cab signal changes to a more restrictive indication and continues to sound until an acknowledging device is manually operated. The distinctive feature of a cab signal system is that it reflects immediately in the cab any changed condition affecting the movement of the train, while in the absence of cab signals such changed condition would not be known to the engineman until the wayside signal at the entrance of the next block was observed. Cab signals are more easily seen by the engineman than wayside signals, particularly in stormy weather, in fogs, and on curves.

In addition to the above-described general methods of operation, there are automatic train stop or train control systems and centralized traffic control systems on portions of some railroads. An automatic train stop or train control system is one so arranged that should an engineman fail to observe a restrictive signal, it will automatically cause either one or the other, or both, of the following results: First, application of the brakes until the train has been brought to a stop, and, second, application of the brakes, when the speed of the train exceeds a prescribed rate, until the speed has been reduced to a predetermined prescribed rate. Such a system may be either an intermittent system, where it is brought into operation only at fixed points, or continuous, where by means of continuous electric track circuits its operation is initiated immediately upon any changed conditions affecting train movements. In an intermittent system a forestalling device is usually provided, the manual operation of which by the engineman shortly before passing a fixed point will prevent the application of the brakes at the time his train passes such fixed point. Immediately upon passing the fixed point at which the automatic application of the brakes was forestalled, the automatic train stop apparatus is restored to normal. In a continuous system the automatic stop of the train may be prevented by the manual operation by the engineman of an acknowledging device within a predetermined time, usually a few seconds after a warning signal. Generally in automatic speed control systems which are of the continuous type, the automatic application of the brakes may be prevented by manual operation thereof within a similar short predetermined time.

Centralized traffic control is a system of operation, usually on single track lines, by means of which the movement of trains no a section of track is directed solely by signals controlled from a central station. It requires a wayside signal system and continuous electric track circuits and gives the control station constant information as to the movement and location of trains operated under the control of that station, thereby facilitating the establishment of meeting and passing points. Operation is similar to that under an automatic block signal system, in that the movement of trains is governed by the wayside signals, but dissimilar, in that the wayside signals are controlled by an operator at the control station under some circumstances and automatically by the train or certain hazardous conditions under other circumstances.

Several railroads have installed train communication systems on portions of their lines, mostly in railroad yards and terminals, by means of which telephone communication may be had between wayside stations and trains, or between the engine and a car in the same train, or between the engine or a car in one train and the engineer or a car in another train, or a combination of these services. Some of these systems are of the inductive type. Others employ space radio principles, and still others are a combination of the two. Such systems are use for communication purposes only and not as a means by which trains are operated.

Miles operated. A revised summary of the basic data, heretofore referred to, introduced by defendants, shows that all Class I line-haul carriers operate passenger trains over 236,553.6 miles of track and freight trains over 242,740.6 miles of track. An analysis of the basic data shows numerous errors in the revised summary, particularly in the duplication by some carriers of passenger-train mileages under different speed groups. After correction of the discovered errors our analysis of the basic data shows the following mileages operated by Class I line-haul carriers:

No switching or terminal line reported authorized freight-train speeds of 50 or more miles per hour and only two reported authorized passenger-train speeds of 60 or more miles per hour, and they reported such operation over only 79.3 miles of track in the 60–69 mile per hour group.

With few exceptions the 75,717.6 miles of track over which freight trains are operated at speeds of 50 or more miles per hour are included in the 109,877.6 miles of track over which passenger trains are operated at speeds of 60 or more miles per hour and, accordingly, our discussion will deal mainly with the passenger train mileage and operation.

The record shows that automatic train stop or train control is in use on 14,121.4 miles of track; automatic cab signals on 8,107.1 miles; centralized traffic control on 8,257.2 miles; and radio or other train communication systems on 2,079.5 miles. The following table shows the miles of track over which passenger trains are operated at speeds of 60 or more miles per hour where automatic train stop or train control, automatic cab signals, centralized traffic control and radio or other train communication systems are in use

[2] Does not include 127.9 miles equipped for centralized traffic control and train control, or 700.2 miles equipped for centralized traffic control and cab signals.
[3] Does not include 366.7 miles equipped for centralized traffic control and radio.
[4] 172.4 miles operation by time-table and train order only; remainder automatic block.
[5] 63.1 miles operation by time-table and train order only; remainder automatic block.

All of the track mileage on which automatic train stop or train control, automatic cab signals, and centralized traffic control is in use is included in the mileage shown in Table I under "Automatic Block."

As shown in Table I, passenger trains are operated at speeds of 60 or more miles per hour over 19,550.2 miles of track under time-table and train orders only. This represents about 18 percent of the total mileage of track over which passenger trains are operated at such speeds. No form of block signal protection is used on these 19,550.2 miles of track, and safety of operation is dependent entirely on strict observance by the train crews of time-tables and consistent and understandable train orders properly delivered.

Table I also shows that where passenger trains are operated at the higher speeds there are many miles of track over which safety of operation is dependent upon signal indication only or time-table and train orders only. For example, there are 33,015.1 miles of track over which passenger trains are operated at speeds of 80 or more miles per hour. As shown by Table II, automatic train stop or train control, or automatic cab signals are used on 6,608.5 miles of such track, leaving 26,406.6 miles of track over which passenger trains are operated at speeds of 80 or more miles per hour and the safety of operation is dependent upon the correct observance of wayside signals and/or time-tables and train orders properly issued and delivered. If we considered the figures in Tables I and II for miles of track over which passenger trains are operated at 70 or more miles an hour, we find a total of 67,200.3 miles, on 14,047.3 of which automatic train stop or train control or automatic cab signals are used, leaving 53,153 miles with only wayside signals and/or time-table and train order protection.

Derailments and collisions. The evidence of record with respect to accidents shows for each respondent that authorizes passenger trains to operate at 60 or more miles per hour or freight trains at 50 or more miles per hour each derailment and each collision that occurred on its line between January 1, 1944, and June 30, 1946, that was reported to the Commission by telegraph, as required by the Commission's order of December 8, 1928, and with respect to each such derailment or collision the date and place of occurrence, whether a passenger or freight train was involved, whether other vehicles, such as track motor cars or highway vehicles were involved, the number of persons killed, the number injured, whether main track operation was automatic block, manual block, time-table and train orders only, automatic train stop or train control, automatic cab signals, centralized traffic control, or otherwise, the maximum authorized speed of the train involved, the average density of trains in March and October 1945, and March 1946, the cost of death and injury claims (pending claims to be estimated), and property damage.

During the 30-month period there were 356 main-line derailments, exclusive of 30 caused by highway grade crossing accidents. A variety of causes are given for the derailments. In general they were due to abnormal conditions along the right-of-way, irregularities in track structure, equipment, engines and lading, failure to comply with speed restrictions, and broken rails. Of these causes the only one of importance in this proceeding is that of broken rails. Sixty-four of the derailments were attributed to broken rails, of which 23 occurred in automatic block signal territory. An automatic block signal system gives warning of a broken rail if the break is so located and sufficient to break the electric track circuit. The fact that the automatic block signal systems did not give warning of broken rails in these 23 instances indicates that the breaks were so located or that there was not sufficient separation of the parts to break the track circuits, or that the breaks occurred under the derailed trains. While the record does not show the number of instances during the same period in which automatic block signals gave warning of broken rails or other unsafe track conditions, it is well known that they have given such warning in numerous instances in which derailments could have occurred in the absence of such warning. The cost in death and injury claims (partly estimated) and property damage of the 356 derailments was $14,252,427, an average of approximately $40,000 each. If it be assumed that only one-half of the 41 derailments caused by broken rails in manual block and time-table and train order territories could have been averted if automatic block signal systems had been in effect, which seems to be a conservative assumption, the cost of derailments would have been reduced approximately $820,000.

During the 30-month period there were 506 main-line collisions on Class I line-haul railroads, exclusive of 40 highway grade crossing collisions, of which 190 were passenger-train and 316 freight-train collisions.[1] Of the 190 passenger-train collisions, 108 occurred where the maximum authorized speeds are less than 60 miles per hour, and 82 where they are 60 or more miles per hour. Of the 316 freight-train collisions, 249 were where the maximum authorized speeds are less than 50 miles per hour and 67 where they are 50 or more miles per hour. Of the 82 passenger-train collisions in the higher speed territory, 57 were in automatic block territory, of which 6 were where there is automatic train stop or train control, and 7 where there are automatic cab signals; 5 in manual block territory, and 20 in time-table and train order territory. Of the 67 freight-train collisions in the higher speed territory, 46 occurred in automatic block territory, of which 5 were in territory where there is automatic train stop or train control and 8 in territory in which there are automatic cab signals; 8 in manual block territory, and 13 in time-table and train order territory. The 82 passenger-train collisions resulted in 209 persons killed and 2,281 injured, and the death and injury claims (partly estimated) and property damage amounted to $7,134,906, an average of $87,000 per accident. The 67 freight-train collisions resulted in 16 persons killed and 115 injured, and the death and injury claims (partly estimated) and property damage amounted to $1,768,123, an average of $26,390 per accident.

The total of 33 collisions in time-table and train order territory averaged one for each 610 miles of track operated by that method; the 13 in manual block territory, one for each 647 miles; the 77 in automatic block territory, one for each 852 miles; the 11 in train stop or train control territory, one for each 1052 miles; the 15 in cab signal territory, one for each 324 miles; and the 103 in automatic block, train stop or train control, and cab signal territories combined, one for each 797 miles. The ratio of accidents per mile of track under each method of operation is obtained by dividing the passenger track mileage as shown in Tables I and II by the number of accidents. From the above it appears that, except as to cab signal territory, the higher the degree of protection the lesser the number of collisions per mile of track operated.

Our Bureau of Safety investigated 156 of the main-line collisions that occurred on Class I line-haul carriers between January 1, 1944, and June 30, 1946, exclusive of 14 with highway vehicles at highway grade crossings. Of these, 84 were passenger-train and 72 freight-train collisions. Of the former, 36 were where the maximum authorized speed was less than 60 miles per hour and 48 where it was 60 or more miles per hour. Of the 72 freight-train collisions, 23 were where the maximum authorized speed was less than 50 miles per hour, and 49 where it was 50 or more miles per hour. Of the 48 passenger-train collisions in the higher speed territory, 32 were in automatic block signal territory, of which 4 were where there was automatic stop or train control, and 3 where there were automatic cab signals; 2 in manual block signal territory, and 14 in time-table and train order territory. Of the 49 freight-train accidents in the higher speed territory, 31 were in automatic block signal territory, of which 3 were where there was automatic train stop or train control, and 3 where there were automatic cab signals; 3 in manual block signal territory, and 15 in time-table and train order territory.

The average daily train density where the accidents occurred on the dates on which they occurred were as follows:

Method of operation	Number of collisions		Average daily train density
	Passenger train	Freight train	Where passenger-train accidents occurred	Where freight-train accidents occurred
Cab signals	3	3	161	153.4
Train stop or train control	4	3	76.1	87.7
Other automatic block	25	26	47	55.4
Total automatic block	32	31	61.8	68
Manual block	2	3	12.1	30.9
Time-table and train orders only	14	15	23.6	19.4

It will be noted that generally not only does the ratio of accidents per mile of road decrease as the degree of protection increases, but that this decreased ratio is accompanied by a material increase in train density, and it is well known that the possibility of accident increases rapidly as train density increases.

It seems clear from what has been shown that it is relatively very unsafe to operate passenger trains at 60 or more miles per hour or freight trains at 50 or more miles per hour by time-table and train orders only. The number of collisions and the ratio of collisions per mile of road are relatively high and the train density relatively low in such territory. It also seems clear, when train density as well as the ratio of accidents per mile of road is considered, that operation with automatic train stop or train control or automatic cab signals is safer than when these devices are not used. It further appears that operation by automatic block signals is safer than operation by manual block signals, notwithstanding that approximately 93 percent of the manual block mileage is operated by signals supplemented by time-table and train orders, whereas approximately 39 percent of the automatic block mileage is operated by signals only. The manual block rules of respondents are not uniform, which may account for the relatively less safe operation shown in manual block territory than in automatic block territory.

Cost of signal systems and train control. Six representative railroads[1] submitted estimates of the present cost of installing certain types of protection on their lines. For automatic block signals these estimates ranged from $4,200 to $8,000 per mile of track for single track lines and from $3,000 to $5,850 per mile of track for multiple track lines; for automatic block signals with intermittent inductive train control from $400 to $700 per mile of track in addition to the cost of the automatic block signals, plus $2,000 to $2,300 per locomotive; for automatic block signals with continuous cab signals, the only estimate, that of the Pennsylvania, $5,000 per mile of track for single track lines and $4,000 per mile of track for multiple track lines in addition to the cost of the automatic block signals, plus $2,260 per locomotive; for automatic block signals on multiple tracks with continuous automatic speed control, the only estimate, that of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, $3,000 per mile in addition to the cost of the automatic block signals, plus $5,000 per locomotive; and centralized traffic control $11,000 or $12,000 per mile of track for single track lines and $8,750 per mile of track for multiple track lines. The wide variations in some of the estimates of cost are undoubtedly due to the differences in the character of installations covered thereby. The averages of the estimates for automatic block signals approximate $6,000 per mile of road for single track lines and $4,000 per mile of track for multiple track lines and correspond closely to the estimates of the Pennsylvania and Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe.

Position of parties. It is the position of respondents that sound regulation in the matter of signaling cannot be accomplished by an order of nation-wide application because of differing traffic, geographical, weather, and other conditions on the various railroads, but can only be accomplished by dealing with the various railroads individually, and that, while this record affords a basis for the entry of show cause orders with respect to some respondents, it affords no basis for the entry of a final order of general application.

The only witnesses at the hearing, other than those for respondents, who expressed views with respect to the issues, were those appearing for the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen of America, The Order of Railroad Telegraphers, and American Train Dispatchers Association. It is the view of these witnesses, each of whom has had many years railroad experience, that it is essential for safe operation of any train at a speed of 50 or more miles per hour that block signal systems be used, and that at the higher speeds,[2] automatic train stop or train control, or automatic cab signals, in addition to block signals are essential for safe operation. It is their belief that, as the influence of speed transcends all other considerations as the controlling factor in determining the need for block signal systems and other devices, our order should be of general application, and that exceptions to such order should be made only when the traffic on particular lines was shown to be so sparse as to preclude the need for such additional protection.

Conclusions. The tendency in recent years has been greatly to increase the speeds of trains, and these increases generally have been accompanied by increases in the number of trains. Unquestionably, the higher speeds and the greater number of trains have increased the accident hazards and necessitate more and better protection for the traveling public and the train employees. While this need for better protection is more apparent in areas of high train density, it is generally required throughout the country. We are of the opinion that as a general rule when freight trains are operated at speeds of 50 or more miles per hour, or passenger trains at speeds of 60 or more miles per hour, operation by time-tables and train orders alone, with no means of maintaining a space interval between the trains and safety dependent wholly on strict observance by the train crews of time-tables and consistent and understandable train orders properly delivered, does not afford adequate protection. As heretofore shown, there are 19,550.2 miles of track on which passenger trains are so operated at speeds of 60 or more miles per hour, on 4,132.2 miles of which the speeds are 70 or more miles per hour. In our opinion adequate safety requires that operations at such speeds should be under an automatic or manual block signal system, preferably supplemented by time-tables and train orders.

We are further of the opinion that trains operated at speeds of 80 or more miles per hour should have protection in addition to that afforded by a manual block signal system or an automatic block signal system with wayside signals, and that such additional protection should be either continuous cab signals, automatic train stop or train control, or both cab signals and automatic train stop or train control. We are not unmindful of the fact that speeds of trains alone do not furnish an adequate yardstick for determining what additional protection is necessary on all railroads with their varying geographical, weather, operating, and other conditions. It may be that under some circumstances the additional protection referred to above will not be sufficient, and it also may be that under other circumstances the requirements for such additional protection should be modified. As previously stated, any respondent will, upon request made within 60 days after the entry of an order of general application, be given a hearing to show that it should be excepted from the order or the order modified with respect to it.

As shown by Tables I and II, the additional protection outlined above would require the installation of automatic train stop or train control or automatic cab signals on 25,215.5 miles of passenger track now operated by automatic block signals and without such additional protective devices, on 398 miles of passenger track now operated by manual block signals, and on 1,542.8 miles of passenger track now operated by time-tables and train orders only, a total of 27,156.3 miles, and the installation of manual or automatic block systems on 18,586.5 miles of passenger track. In addition, there would be affected a relatively small additional mileage over which passenger trains are not operated at speeds of 60 or more miles per hour but freight trains are operated at speeds of 50 or more miles per hour under the time-table and train order system, on which mileage manual or automatic block signal systems would have to be installed. While the cost to respondents for such installations would not be insignificant, any respondent subject to the order which we enter may make such order inapplicable to it by making appropriate reductions in the speeds of its trains.

Medium speed and low (restricted) speed. Under the rules, standards and instructions prescribed by the Commission's order of April 13, 1939, medium speed is defined as "A speed not exceeding one-half authorized speed." They contain no definition of low or restricted speed. Respondents operating 127,213 miles of road define medium speed in their operating rules as not exceeding 30 miles per hour. It is defined by other respondents as not exceeding either 35, 40, or 45 miles per hour, which definitions are applicable on 9,832 miles of road. Respondents operating 65,756 miles of road have no definition of medium speed.

A proper medium speed has an important bearing on the safety of railroad operation. Operating rules generally require that when an approach or caution signal is displayed the speed of the train must be reduced to medium speed in order that it may be under control if the next signal is more restricted. Medium speed must be sufficiently low to permit stopping the train if the next signal should call for a stop. It seems manifest that, with the increased speeds of trains in recent years, safe operation requires a medium speed that will not exceed a specific number of miles per hour. We believe it should be defined as one-half authorized speed but not to exceed 30 miles per hour, which is the definition now in effect on most miles of road.

Under certain potentially dangerous conditions it is necessary that trains be so operated that they may be stopped very quickly. For example, when two trains are permitted to enter the same block at the same time. Movement at a very restricted speed is necessary if accidents are to be avoided. Respondents operating 48,722 miles of road have no definition of low or restricted speed. The definition most commonly in use by other respondents is "Proceed prepared to stop short of train, obstruction, or anything that may require the speed of a train to be reduced". Definitions reading either exactly or substantially as above apply on 114,769 miles of road. Similar definitions, but with a further proviso that the speed shall not exceed a specified number of miles per hour, apply over the lines of still other respondents. The specific number of miles per hour is 10 on 6,149 miles of road; 15 on 18,312 miles; and 20 on 8,017 miles.

It seems obvious that a uniform definition of low (restricted) speed that will enable an engineman to stop short of any train or of an obstruction or other dangerous track condition will enhance the safety of operation. In our opinion such a uniform definition should be "a speed that will permit stopping short of another train or an obstruction, but not exceeding 15 miles per hour."

Findings. We find that in order to promote safety of railroad operation it is necessary in the public interest to require each respondent to:

1. Install on that part or parts of its lines over which any passenger train is operated at a speed of 60 or more miles per hour, or any freight train is operated at a speed of 50 or more miles per hour an automatic block signal system which shall conform to the rules, standards and instructions prescribed by the order of the Commission of April 13, 1939, as herein amended, or a manual block system which shall conform to the following conditions:

A passenger train will not be admitted to the block when occupied by another train, except under flag protection; no train will be admitted to the block when occupied by an opposing train or by a passenger train, except under flag protection; and a train other than a passenger train will not be permitted to follow a train other than a passenger train into the block except when authorized by a train order, permissive signal or prescribed form, and when such movement is so authorized the following train must proceed prepared to stop short of a train or obstruction but not to exceed 15 miles per hour.

2. Install on that part or parts of its lines over which any passenger or freight train is operated at a speed of 80 or more miles per hour an automatic train stop or train control system or automatic continuously controlled cab signal system which shall conform to the rules, standards and instructions prescribed by the order of the Commission of April 13, 1939, as herein amended.

We further find that the definition of "medium speed" in the rules, standards and instructions prescribed by the order of the Commission of April 13, 1939, should be amended to read as follows:

[2] Stated by one witness at 50 and more miles per hour and by another as 75 or 80 and more miles per hour, and on brief as 70 and more miles per hour.

Medium speed. A speed not exceeding one-half authorized speed, but not exceeding 30 miles per hour.

We further find that the rules, standards and instructions prescribed by the order of the Commission of April 13, 1939, should be amended to include the following definition:

Low (restricted) speed. A speed that will permit stopping short of another train or an obstruction, but not exceeding 15 miles per hour.

An appropriate order will be entered.

Fast transportation is desirable, but the safety of passengers and employees must come first. This report holds that where passenger trains operate at 60 or more miles per hour and freight trains at 50 or more miles per hour, adequate safety requires the installation of either automatic or manual block signals; and that where the speed is 80 or more miles per hour such block signals must be supplemented either by continuously-controlled cab signals or by an automatic train stop or train control system. The railroads have the choice of either installing the latest safety equipment or of lowering the speed of their trains. The report recognizes that under certain circumstances the requirements for such additional protection may have to be modified with respect to particular roads, and they are given 60 days from the entry of the accompanying order in which to petition therefor.

The requirements here laid down are rather drastic, and it may be that the effective date of the order will have to be postponed with respect to a number of the carriers affected. When the time comes for passing upon petitions with that objective, it seems to me consideration will have to be given, not only to the volume of traffic, but to the accident record and the financial condition of the respective petitioners.

Supp., Part 136), pursuant to the provisions of section 26 (now section 25) of the Interstate Commerce Act (49 U. S. C. 26) should be amended to include a revised definition of the term "medium speed" and a definition of the term "low (restricted) speed".

It further appearing, that all Class I and all switching and terminal railroads subject to the Interstate Commerce Act were made respondents to such investigation, and

PROPOSED RULE MAKING

TREASURY DEPARTMENT

Bureau of Internal Revenue

[26 CFR, Part 113]

EXEMPTION CERTIFICATE FOR EXEMPT SALES AND TRANSFERS OF CAPITAL STOCK

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

Notice is hereby given, pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act, approved June 11, 1946, that the regulations set forth in tentative form below are proposed to be prescribed by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury. Prior to the final adoption of such regulations, consideration will be given to any data, views, or arguments pertaining thereto which are submitted in writing in duplicate to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington 25, D. C., within the period of 30 days from the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The proposed regulations are to be issued under the authority contained in section 3791 of the Internal Revenue Code (53 Stat. 467; 26 U. S. C. 3791).

PART 113—DOCUMENTARY STAMP TAXES

Amending sections 113.35 and 113.35½ of Regulations 71, relating to specific exemptions provided in section 1802 (b) and (c) of the Internal Revenue Code.

Regulations 71 are amended as follows:

PARAGRAPH 1. Section 113.35 is amended to read as follows:

§ 113.35 Specific exemptions provided in section 1802 (b)—(a) Stock deposited as collateral security. The tax does not apply to an agreement evidencing a deposit or certificates of stock as collateral security for money loaned thereon, which certificates are not actually sold, nor upon the delivery or transfer for such purpose of certificates so deposited. The exemption applies also to transfers of stock to a nominee of the lender and from such nominee back to the lender, if the stock is at all times held as collateral security for the loan; and to the return of the stock to the borrower by the lender or his nominee upon payment of the loan. The exemption does not apply, however, to deposits of stock as collateral security made otherwise than in connection with a money loan.

The person making an exempt transfer under this subsection shall furnish and attach to the certificate an exemption certificate in substantially the form prescribed in paragraph (h) of this section.

(b) Return of stock loaned. The tax does not apply to the return of stock loaned; but the person returning such stock shall furnish and attach to the certificate an exemption certificate in substantially the form prescribed in paragraph (h) of this section. (But see § 113.33 (b).)

(c) Transfer from customer to broker. The mere delivery of a certificate of stock by a customer to his broker solely for the purpose of enabling such broker to sell the stock for the customer, where the broker has no ownership or interest therein, is exempt from stamp tax and does not require an exemption certificate. If, in the same circumstances, the stock is transferred to the name of the broker, or to the name of the broker's registered nominee, the transfer is also exempt from tax, provided the broker, at the time of such transfer, furnishes and attaches to the certificate an exemption certificate in substantially the form prescribed in paragraph (h) of this section.

For provisions relating to the registration of nominees, see § 113.153.

A transfer to the name of a selling agent other than a broker as, for example, a bank, whether the sale be made by the agent direct or through a broker for the agent's account, is subject to tax, since the exemption applies only to deliveries and transfers to brokers. (But see paragraph (f) of this section.) However, liability is not incurred by the mere delivery of a certificate of stock to an agent who obtains no legal title or other interest in the stock.

(d) Transfer from broker to customer. The mere delivery of a certificate of stock by a purchasing broker to his customer, if tax was paid upon the sale of the stock to such broker who has no ownership or interest therein, is not subject to stamp tax and does not require an exemption certificate.

It the stock is transferred to the purchasing broker or his nominee who holds the stock for the same purpose as if held by the broker, and tax on such transfer is paid, transfer may thereafter be made to the name of the purchaser without payment of tax. If the tax was paid upon transfer to the purchasing broker, transfer may be made to the name of his nominee and from such nominee to the name of the purchaser, without payment of tax. However, no exemption under this paragraph will apply unless the broker at the time of the exempt transfer attaches to the stock certificate an exemption certificate in substantially the form indicated by paragraph (h) of this section.

For provisions relating to the registration of nominees, see § 113.153.

Delivery to, or transfer to the name of, the customer may not be made tax-free in any case in which the stock was transferred from the seller to the broker or his registered nominee without tax payment, since the law requires that tax shall be paid on the transfer or transfers between the actual seller and actual buyer.

A transfer from the name of a purchasing agent other than a broker, as, for example, a bank, whether the purchase be made direct or through a broker for the agent's account, is subject to tax, since the exemption applies only to deliveries and transfers from brokers. (But see paragraph (f) of this section.) However, liability is not incurred by the mere delivery of a certificate of stock by an agent having no title or interest in the stock, or by a broker for the account of such agent.

(e) Transfers between fiduciaries and their nominees. The tax does not apply to deliveries or transfers of stock from a fiduciary to a nominee of such fiduciary, or from one nominee of such fiduciary to another, if the stock continues to be held by such nominee for the same purpose for which it would be held if retained by such fiduciary, or from the nominee to such fiduciary. The person making an exempt transfer under this subsection shall, at the time of such transfer, furnish and attach to the certificate an exemption certificate in substantially the form prescribed in paragraph (h) of this section.

(f) Transfers to or by a custodian. The tax does not apply to the delivery or transfer of stock from the owner thereof to a custodian if under a written agreement between the owner and the custodian the stock so delivered or transferred is to be held or disposed of by such custodian for, and subject at all times to the instructions of, the owner; or to the delivery or transfer of stock from such custodian to such owner.

The tax also does not apply to the delivery or transfer from such custodian to a registered nominee of such custodian, or from the owner direct to such registered nominee, or from one such nominee to another such nominee, if the stock continues to be held by the nominee for the same purpose for which it would be held if retained by such custodian; or from such nominee to such custodian or the owner. No exemption is granted unless the nominee is registered in the manner provided in § 113.153.

The tax further does not apply to the delivery or transfer of stock from a custodian of the owner to another custodian of the owner, or from the registered nominee of the first custodian to the second custodian or the registered nominee of the latter, if the transfer would have been exempt under the first or second paragraphs of this subsection if made by the owner direct to the second custodian or the registered nominee of the latter.

The exemption specified in this paragraph shall not be granted in any case unless the delivery or transfer is accompanied by an exemption certificate, signed by the custodian, in substantially the form prescribed in paragraph (h) of this section.

The custodian contemplated by this paragraph is a mere custodian and does not include a trustee. A mere custodian is a person to whom there are delivered or transferred shares or certificates of stock to be held or disposed of by the custodian for, and subject at all times to the instructions of, the owner and not otherwise.

(g) Transfers of worthless securities by executors, etc. The tax does not apply to deliveries or transfers of stock by an executor or administrator to a legatee, heir, or distributee, if it is shown to the satisfaction of the Commissioner that the value of the stock so delivered or transferred is not greater than the amount of the tax that would otherwise be imposed on such delivery or transfer.

(h) Exemption certificate. Each exempt delivery or transfer specified in paragraphs (a) to (f) inclusive, of this section, except as otherwise shown therein, shall be accompanied by a certificate in substantially the following form:

It is hereby certified that the transfer of the attached shares is made under such circumstances as to come within one of the exemptions specified in section 1802 of the Internal Revenue Code and that evidence in proof of the exemption is maintained by the undersigned and is available for inspection by internal revenue officers.

PAR. 2. Section 113.36½ is amended as follows:

(A) By striking out "(a)" immediately preceding the first sentence, and by changing the second sentence to read as follows: "However, no exemption under section 1802 (c) may be allowed unless the delivery or transfer is accompanied by a certificate in substantially the form prescribed in § 113.35 (h)."

(B) By striking out paragraph (b).

[47 CFR, Ch. I]

[Docket No. 8449]

CITIZENS RADIO SERVICE

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

In the matter of establishment by the Commission of technical requirements and procedure for obtaining type approval of equipment to be used in the Citizens Radio Service.

1. Notice is hereby given of proposed rule making in the above entitled matter.

2. The proposed rules and regulations and the basis and purpose therefor are set forth below.

3. The proposed rules and regulations are issued under the authority of sections 301 and 303 (f) and (r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

4. Any interested party who is of the opinion that the proposed rules should not be adopted, or should not be adopted in the form set forth herein, may file with the Commission, on or before August 4, 1947, a written statement or brief setting forth his comments. If any comments are received which appear to warrant the Commission in holding an oral argument before final action is taken with respect to the proposed rules, notice of the time and place of such oral argument will be given interested parties. In accordance with the provisions of § 1.764 of the Commission's rules, all persons filing statements or briefs must furnish the Commission an original and 14 copies of each statement or brief filed.

CITIZENS RADIO SERVICE

To make possible the greatest utilization of the frequencies allocated and to simplify the licensing procedure and administration of the Citizens Radio Service, the Commission will require type approval of the equipment before it is accepted for authorization under the simplified procedure.

General technical requirements; frequency. The following frequencies are available for assignment to Class A and Class B stations:

460–462 Mc	Class A stations (fixed locations exclusively).
462–468	Class A and Class B stations (fixed, mobile and portable).
468–470	Class A stations (fixed, mobile and portable).

Frequency tolerance.

Class A stations—plus or minus 0.02%.

Class B stations—all operation (including tolerance and communication band) shall be confined to within plus or minus 0.4% of 465 Mc.

Communication band.[1] The communication band for Class A stations shall not exceed 200 kilocycles.

Power. The input power to the anode (plate) circuit of the electron tube or tubes which supply energy to the radiating system shall not exceed the values shown below:

468–470	50 watts

Emission. Amplitude —, Phase —, or Frequency Modulation for continuous or interrupted carrier, radiotelephony, radiotelegraphy or facsimile.

Percent modulation. When the radio frequency carrier is amplitude modulated such modulation shall not exceed 100% on negative peaks.

Extra band radiation. Spurious radiation from a citizens radio transmitter shall be reduced or eliminated in accordance with good engineering practice. This spurious radiation shall not be of sufficient intensity to cause interference in receiving equipment of good engineering design which is tuned to a frequency or frequencies outside the band 460–470 Mc.

Procedure for securing type approval of equipment. Formal application to the Commission at Washington, D. C. may be made by a manufacturer for type approval[2] of transmitting equipment. When advised by the Commission, the applicant must send a typical production model or prototype of the particular equipment, complete with tubes, and power supply, to the Commission's laboratory at Laurel, Maryland, for test. All instructions which are intended to be supplied to the purchaser of the equipment shall be included. Transportation of the equipment and associated documents to and from the laboratory will be at no cost to the government.

Prior to approval or rejection of the equipment by the Commission, the results of these tests will be made known only to the responsible government officials and to the Commission. An official report of the tests will be made available only to the manufacturer involved; however, the Commission will publish from time to time lists of approved equipment.

The prescribed tests may be conducted by the Federal Communications Commission or by any other cooperating government department. In addition, field tests, as deemed necessary or desirable by the Commission, may be carried out by authorized government personnel to determine the reliability of the equipment under operating conditions equivalent to those expected to be encountered in actual service.

Minimum equipment specifications. Any basic instructions concerning the proper adjustment or operation of the equipment that may be necessary, shall be attached to the equipment in suitable manner and in such position as to be easily read by the operator.

A durable nameplate shall be mounted on each transmitter showing the name of the manufacturer, the type or model designation and providing suitable space for the serial number and the FCC approval number.

The transmitter shall be designed, constructed, and adjusted by the manufacturer to operate on a frequency or frequencies within the band 460–470 Mc. In designing the equipment every reasonable precaution shall be taken to protect the user from high voltage shocks and radio frequency burns. Connection to the batteries (if used) shall be made in such a manner as to permit replacement by the user without causing improper operation of the transmitter. The best engineering principles shall be utilized in the generation of radio frequency currents so as to guard against interference to other radio services. In cases of serious interference, the Commission may require appropriate technical changes in equipment to alleviate the interference.

Controls for adjustment of the carrier frequency of the transmitter shall not be accessible from the exterior of any unless such accessibility is specifically approved by the Commission.

Type approval tests will be conducted under the following conditions to determine whether or not the equipment meets the general technical requirements as set forth above. Additional tests may be perscribed as deemed necessary or desirable.

1. Gradual ambient temperature variations from 0° to 125° F.

2. Relative ambient humidity from 20 to 95 percent. The test will normally consist of subjecting the equipment for at least three consecutive periods of 24 hours each, to a relative ambient humidity of 20, 60 and 95 per cent, respectively, at a temperature of approximately 80° F.

3. Movement of transmitter or objects in the immediate vicinity thereof.

4. Power supply voltage variations normally to be encountered under actual operating conditions.

Procedure for securing approval of composite equipment or equipment manufactured in lots of less than 100 units. Composite transmitting equipment (or equipment constructed by a manufacturer in lots of less than 100 units) will not, in the usual case, be tested by the Commission for the purpose of granting type approval. The applicant shall supply complete information on supplementary sheets showing that the equipment fully complies with either Class A or Class B station requirements. In this connection, the Commission may, at its discretion, require that the equipment or a prototype be made available to its laboratory for test in accordance with the procedures outlined which are applicable to equipment manufactured in lots of more than 100 units. In addition, field tests as deemed necessary or desirable by the Commission may be carried out by authorized government personnel to determine the reliability of the equipment under operating conditions equivalent to those encountered in actual service.

Adopted: June 26, 1947.

[SEAL] T. J. SLOWIE,
Secretary.

[F. R. Doc. 47-6573; Filed, July 14, 1947; 8:47 a. m.]

[1] Defined in § 2.15 of the Commission's rules as follows:

"Communication band" means the frequency band or width of the frequency band required for the type of emission authorized.

CIVIL AERONAUTICS BOARD

[Docket No. 2560]

DET DANSKE LUFTFARTSELSKAB, A/B, ET AL.

NOTICE OF FURTHER HEARING

In the matter of the joint petition of Det Danske Luftfartselskab, A/B, Det Norske Luftfartselskap, A/S, and Svensk Interkontinental Lufttrafik, A/B, under section 402 (g) of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended, for alteration, modification, or amendment of their respective permits, if required, to permit operations under a consortium, Scandinavian Airlines System, and of the joint petition of the aforesaid foreign air carriers and the Scandinavian Airlines System under section 402 of the act for the issuance of a foreign air carrier permit to Scandinavian Airlines System authorizing foreign air transportation between the points authorized by the permits now held by Det Danske Luftfartselskab, A/B, Det Norske Luftfartselskap, A/S, and Svensk Interkontinental Lufttrafik, A/B.

Notice is hereby given pursuant to the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended, particularly section 402 (g) of said act, that further hearing in the above-entitled proceeding is assigned to be held July 16, 1947, at 2:00 p. m. (eastern daylight saving time), in Room 1302, Temporary Building T, Constitution Avenue between 12th and 14th Streets NW., before Examiner Herbert K. Bryan.

Each of the petitioners is the holder of a permit, issued by the Board pursuant to section 402 of the act, authorizing it to engage in air transportation between its respective country and the alternate terminal points New York, N. Y., and Chicago, Ill., via various intermediate points. The petitioners entered into a contract creating a consortium to operate the combined routes as a single system, known as the Scandinavian Airlines System, on the condition that each forgoes the exercise of the individual rights granted to it by its permit. They also contracted for the services of Scandinavian Airlines System, Inc., an American company, to perform various duties in the conduct of operations in the United States. Pursuant to this consortium contract, a joint petition was filed with the Board requesting approval of such an operation or, in the alternative, the alternation, modification, or amendment of their respective permits to authorize the combined operation, if such approval or alteration is found necessary under the act. A hearing on said petition was held before an examiner of the Board.

Subsequent to the hearing, an amended agreement was negotiated between the parties providing for the creation of the consortium as a single entity to conduct on behalf of the contracting parties air transportation authorized in the three respective foreign air carrier permits. Pursuant thereto, an amended petition has been filed requesting that a foreign air carrier permit authorizing air transportation between the coterminal points Stockholm, Sweden; Oslo and Stavanger, Norway; and Copenhagen, Denmark; and the alternate terminal points New York, N. Y., and Chicago, Ill., via various intermediate points, be issued to the consortium, Scandinavian Airlines System, as an entity, and that the existing respective foreign air carrier permits of the petitioners be suspended for the duration of such foreign air carrier permit.

For further details of the proposed operations interested parties are referred to the amended petition and the existing permits on file in the office of the Civil Aeronautics Board, Washington 25, D. C.

Without limiting the scope of the issues, particular attention will be directed to the following matters and questions:

1. Is Scandinavian Airlines System a person proposing to engage in foreign air transportation, thus requiring a permit pursuant to section 402?

2. Are amendments of existing permits heretofore issued pursuant to section 402 and/or the issuance of an additional permit to Scandinavian Airlines System necessary in order to permit the proposed operation?

3. Are the issuance of a foreign air carrier permit to Scandinavian Airlines System and/or the modification or suspension of existing permits of the petitioner in the public interest?

4. Is Scandinavian Airlines System fit, willing, and able to properly perform the proposed air transportation and to conform to the provisions of the act and the rules, regulations, and requirements of the Board thereunder?

5. Would the issuance of a foreign air carrier permit to the consortium, Scandinavian Airlines System, and or the amendments of the existing permits authorizing air transportation of persons, property, and mail by the consortium, as requested, be consistent with any obligation assumed by the United States in any treaty, convention, or agreement that may be in force between the United States and any other countries, particularly Norway, Sweden, and Denmark?

6. What other, if any, approvals by the Civil Aeronautics Board are necessary to authorize the operations and/or the relationship of the petitioners, the Scandinavian Airlines System, and the Scandinavian Airlines System, Inc.?

Notice also is given that any person not a party of record as of June 20, 1947, desiring to controvert in fact or law any of the issues raised by said amended petition shall file with the Board on or before July 16, 1947, a statement of said issues.

Dated at Washington, D. C., July 9, 1947.

By the Civil Aeronautics Board.

[SEAL] M. C. MULLIGAN,
Secretary.

[Docket No. 2987]

LINEA AEROPOSTAL VENEZOLANA

NOTICE OF HEARING

In the matter of the application of Linea Aeropostal Venezolana pursuant to section 402 of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended, for amendment of its foreign air carrier permit authorizing foreign air transportation between (1) Maiquetia, Venezuela, and Miami, Fla., via Havana, Cuba; and (2) Maiquetia, Venezuela, and Montreal, Canada, via Havana, Cuba, and New York, N. Y.

Notice is hereby given pursuant to the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended, particularly sections 402 and 1001 of said act, that a hearing in the above-entitled proceeding is assigned to be held on July 17, 1947, at 10 a. m. (eastern daylight saving time) in Room 1302, Temporary "T" Building, Constitution Avenue, between 12th and 14th Streets, N. W., Washington, D. C., before Examiner Richard A. Walsh.

Without limiting the scope of the issues presented by said application, particular attention will be directed to the following matters and questions:

1. Whether the proposed air transportation will be in the public interest.

2. Whether the applicant is fit, willing and able to perform such transportation and to conform to the provisions of the act and the rules, regulations, and requirements of the Board thereunder.

3. Whether the authorization of the proposed transportation is consistent with any obligation assumed by the United States in any treaty, convention or agreement in force between the United States and Venezuela.

Notice is further given that any person desiring to be heard in this proceeding must file with the Board, on or before July 17, 1947, a statement setting forth the issues of fact or law raised by said application which he desires to controvert.

For further details of the service proposed and authorization requested, interested parties are referred to the application on file with the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Dated at Washington, D. C., July 9, 1947.

By the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Secretary.

ment and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of shipments of fresh peas, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(2) It is hereby further found that compliance with the notice, public rule making procedure, and effective date requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act (Pub. Law 404, 79th Cong.; 60 Stat. 237) is impracticable and contrary to the public interest in that the time intervening between the date when information upon which this section is based became available and the time when this section must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended, is insufficient for such compliance.

(b) Order. (1) During the period beginning at 12:01 a. m., m. s. t., July 17, 1947, and ending at 12:01 a. m., m. s. t., September 16, 1947, no handler shall handle any lot of fresh peas unless such lot contains not less than eighty (80) percent peas of U. S. No. 1 quality (as defined in the U. S. Standards for Fresh Peas, issued April 25, 1942, effective June 1, 1942, and re-issued by the United States Department of Agriculture on July 19, 1946), and have a minimum pod length of three (3) inches.

(2) As used in this section, the terms "peas", "handlers", and "handle" shall have the same meaning as when used in the amended marketing agreement and order.

§ 806.1 Authorization for housing—(a) What this section provides. This section of the Code of Federal Regulations, § 806.1, is called the "Housing Permit Regulation." It was issued under the Veterans' Emergency Housing Act of 1946, and continues in effect under that act and the Housing and Rent Act of 1947.

NOTE: When the term "this section" is used in this Housing Permit Regulation, it means this entire regulation and not just a part of it. The regulation is divided into paragraphs marked with small letters; these are divided into subparagraphs marked with numbers.

This section was the method by which the Housing Expediter provided authorization, from December 24, 1946, until June 30, 1947, for the construction, repair, alteration or conversion of housing accommodations. After June 30, 1947, it is no longer necessary to have an authorization to begin residential construction work of any kind.

However, certain of the restrictions on housing already authorized under this section remain in effect. This amendment of June 30 explains which restrictions remain.

(b) [Deleted June 30, 1947.]
(c) [Deleted June 30, 1947.]
(d) [Deleted June 30, 1947.]

AUTHORIZATIONS

(e) Kinds of housing authorized. Authorization to do construction work on housing accommodations has been granted under this section to the following:

(1) Veteran. A veteran wishing to build, complete, alter, or repair a family dwelling (or convert a dwelling or other structure into a family dwelling) for his occupancy as owner.

(2) Builder for veterans. A person wishing to build or complete one or more family dwellings (or convert dwellings or other structures into family dwellings) to which veterans will be given preference in selling or renting.

(3) Non-veteran building for own occupancy. A person wishing to build a family dwelling (or convert a dwelling or other structure into a family dwelling) for his occupancy as owner.

(4) Disaster. A person wishing to reconstruct (or build on another site, in event of total destruction) or repair a dwelling destroyed or damaged by fire, flood, tornado, or other similar disaster.

(5) Repairs or alterations to make a dwelling habitable or to provide space for additional persons. A person wishing to make repairs or alterations to a dwelling necessary in order (i) to maintain it in a habitable condition or to return it to a habitable condition, or (ii) to make a summer home habitable for winter occupancy by a veteran, or (iii) to provide space for additional persons who are either veterans or members of the immediate family of the owner.

(6) Housing for student veterans. Any educational institution (or any person under its sponsorship) or any public organization wishing to construct, repair, or alter a dormitory or other single-person housing facility (or repair or alter any family dwelling) for student veterans.

Before starting construction under this subparagraph (6) of this section as amended June 1, 1947, a person under the sponsorship of an educational institution was required to obtain a letter from the institution which (i) requested that the person sponsored construct a certain number of units for student occupancy, (ii) stated that there was not a sufficient number of available rooms in the community for its student veterans, and (iii) represented that the institution would refer student veterans to the proposed accommodations as long as this section is in effect. The person sponsored must keep this letter on file for at least 2 years after construction is begun.

NOTE: For the purposes of this section, dwellings constructed, altered or repaired under paragraph (c) of this section as in effect before June 1, 1947 are deemed to be constructed, altered or repaired under the corresponding subparagraph of paragraph (e) of this section as amended June 30, 1947. However, this does not apply to former paragraph (c) (7).

(f) [Deleted June 30, 1947.]
(g) [Deleted June 30, 1947.]

CONSTRUCTION

(h) [Deleted June 30, 1947.]

(i) Posting of placards or signs. The Veterans' Preference Regulation (12 F. R. 4265) gives the rules on the posting of placards or signs in front of housing accommodations constructed under paragraph (e) (2) or (e) (6) of this section, if the construction is completed after June 30, 1947 and before March 31, 1948. (See paragraph (q) (10) of this section for definition of time at which construction is completed.)

If housing accommodations constructed under paragraph (e) (2) or (e) (6) of this section were completed on or before June 30, 1947, the builder must post either placards or signs as explained in this paragraph:

(1) Placards. Placards indicating that dwellings are being built for sale or rent to veterans under the Veterans' Emergency Housing Program are available at the State or District Offices of the Federal Housing Administration, and at the Regional Offices of the Federal Public Housing Authority. If the builder elects to post a placard or placards, the builder must obtain an appropriate placard (sale or rent, as the case may be) for each building constructed under paragraph (e) (2) or (e) (6) of this section which is completed on or before June 30, 1947.

He must post such a placard in a conspicuous location in front of each separate residential building within five days after the time construction is begun, and must continue to post the placard at least until completion of the building. In addition, unless all the accommodations in the building have been sold or rented to veterans, the builder must continue to post the placard for 60 days after completion of the building in the case of offer for sale, or 30 days afterwards in the case of offer for rent.

Rent placards contain a space for the maximum rent. In the case of dwellings offered for rent, the builder must legibly and permanently insert in this space the appropriate rent, not to exceed the maximum permitted under paragraphs (j) through (m) of this section. He must do this not later than the date on which construction of the dwellings is completed.

(2) Signs. If the builder elects to post a project sign in lieu of the placards, he must post a sign having the approximate dimensions of three by five feet (or greater) in a conspicuous location on the site of each project. In the case of a project comprised of only one dwelling, the sign need not meet these dimension requirements. Such a sign must contain the same information and be posted during the same period as is required under subparagraph (1) of this paragraph in the case of placards.

RENTS

(j) Applicability of rules on maximum rents. The restrictions on rents contained in paragraphs (j) through (m) of this section apply to all newly constructed dwellings for which a proposed maximum rent or maximum shelter rent was required to be stated in an application upon which a construction permit was issued under this section, if (1) the construction of the dwelling was completed before February 1, 1947, and (2) the dwelling is located in a defense rental area under rent control maintained pursuant to Title II of the Housing and Rent Act of 1947. This would include, for example, a prefabricated house the erection of which was completed under this section on or before January 31, 1947. (See paragraph (q) (10) of this section for definition of time at which construction is completed.)

These restrictions must be observed for such dwellings completed before February 1, 1947, as long as this section is in effect. However, under the Housing and Rent Act of 1947 the Housing Expediter has no authority to control rents on housing accommodations the construction of which is completed under this section on or after February 1, 1947, so the restrictions of paragraphs (j) through (m) of this section do not apply to such housing.

(k) Maximum rents approved. Persons who applied under this section to the FHA or FPHA for a permit to construct dwellings to be offered for rent were required to state in their applications proposed maximum rents and maximum shelter rents. The Federal Housing Administration (or the Federal Public Housing Authority) approved the proposed rents in accordance with paragraph (l) of this section.

(l) Amounts approved. No maximum shelter rent exceeding $80 per month was approved for a dwelling under this section unless the average of all maximum shelter rents approved for dwellings in the project in which the dwelling is located was $80 per month or less.

As provided in paragraph (q) (3) of this section, the maximum rent for a dwelling may include, in addition to the maximum shelter rent, a charge for tenant services and a charge for garage space. However, the total charge for tenant services was not approved if more than $3 per room per month. The charge for the garage space was not approved if more than $10 per month, and was allowed only for dwellings in multiple-family accomodations.

Maximum rents and maximum shelter rents were approved under this section only if they were reasonably related to the housing accomodations, the tenant services, and the garage space involved. However, approval of a proposed maximum rent or maximum shelter rent should not be considered as a representation by the processing agency that the rent represents the value of the dwelling for other purposes.

(m) Maximum rent not to be exceeded. No person shall rent any dwelling for which a maximum rent or maximum shelter rent has been approved under this section for more than the approved maximum rent or maximum shelter rent, respectively, if (1) the construction of the dwelling was completed before February 1, 1947, and (2) the dwelling is located in a Defense Rental Area under rent control maintained pursuant to Title II of the Housing and Rent Act of 1947.

(n) [Deleted June 30, 1947.]

PREFERENCE FOR VETERANS

(o) Veterans' preference for family dwellings. The rules set out in this paragraph apply to all housing accommodations the construction of which is completed under this section on or before June 30, 1947. Paragraph (q) (10) of this section define the time at which construction is deemed to be "completed" for this purpose. (For veterans' preference rules on construction under this section completed after June 30, 1947, see the Veterans' Preference Regulation, 12 F. R. 4265.)

(1) Preference periods. If a family dwelling built or converted under this section and completed on or before June 30, 1947, is being offered for sale or rent, the owner (whether the builder or any subsequent owner) or any other person must not sell, rent or otherwise dispose of it to any person other than a veteran unless he has publicly offered it for sale or rent, as the case may be, to veterans for their own occupancy.

In the case of sale, this offer must be made to veterans for at least 60 days (or during construction and for 60 days afterwards in the case of a builder under paragraph (e) (2) of this section). In the case of rent, this offer must be made to veterans for at least 30 days (or during construction and for 30 days afterwards, in the case of a builder under paragraph (e) (2) or paragraph (e) (6) of this section). If construction of the dwelling was completed before February 1, 1947, this offer must be made at not more than the maximum rent approved under paragraph (k) of this section.

(2) Must make public offer. A person who has built or converted a family dwelling for rent or sale under this section must, for the periods of time provided in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, publicly offer it for sale or for rent to veterans for their own occupancy.

(3) Most favorable terms to veterans. No person may sell or rent or otherwise dispose of a dwelling built or converted under this section to a person other than a veteran on terms or at a price more favorable than offered to veterans during the time a public offering must be made to veterans under subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph.

(4) Special rules for (e) (5) and (e) (6) cases. In the event that additional space provided by alterations under paragraph (e) (5) (iii) of this section is vacated, the builder or a subsequent owner or other person must not, while this section is in effect, rent it to any person other than a member of his immediate family or a veteran unless it has been publicly offered for rent to veterans for at least 30 days on the same or more favorable terms.

Family dwellings built, repaired or altered under paragraph (e) (6) of this section by persons under the sponsorship of an educational institution must be made available during the institution's school year only to student veterans and their dependents referred by the institution.

(5) Exceptions. This paragraph (o) does not apply to:

(i) Dwellings built in disaster cases under paragraph (e) (4) of this section;

(ii) The initial occupancy of a dwelling built or converted under this section for the occupancy of the builder or the continued occupancy of his tenant;

(iii) The occupancy of a dwelling in two-family or multiple-family housing accommodations by the owner of the entire structure;

(iv) Sales in the course of judicial or statutory proceedings in connection with foreclosures (sales subsequent to such judicial or statutory sales are subject to the provisions of this paragraph (o));

(v) Sales of multiple-family housing accommodations for investment purposes rather than for occupancy by the purchaser; or

(vi) The occupancy of a dwelling by a building service employee which does not exceed 15 percent of the residential floor space of the structure or project.

(p) Veterans' preference for dormitories or other single-person housing facilities. The rules set out in this paragraph apply to all single-person housing facilities the construction of which is completed under this section on or before June 30, 1947. Paragraph (q) (10) of this section defines the time at which construction is deemed to be "completed" for this purpose. (For veterans' preference rules on construction under this section completed after June 30, 1947, see the Veterans' Preference Regulation, 12 F. R. 4265.)

(1) Exclusively for veterans. A person who has built or converted a dormitory or other single-person housing facility for student veterans under paragraph (e) (6) of this section must make the accommodations available, during the school year of the institution involved, exclusively for veterans and their dependents referred by the institution.

(2) Exceptions. However, if an educational institution builds a dormitory under this section, it may make 40% of the accommodations in the dormitory available to non-veterans if it makes available to veterans an equivalent number of similar or better accommodations in other dormitories at rents not higher than the rents to be charged for the new dormitory accommodations. It may also make not more than 15 percent of the residential floor space of any dormitory or dormitory project available to building service employees.

DEFINITIONS

(q) Definitions. As used in this section:

(2) "Maximum rent" means the total consideration paid by the tenant for the dwelling accommodations as approved under paragraph (k) of this section. This includes charges paid by the tenant for tenant services and charges paid by the tenant for garage space. However, it does not include charges for the rental of furniture or charges covering the actual cost on a pro rata basis for gas and electricity for the tenant's domestic purposes.

(3) "Maximum shelter rent" means the maximum rent, less charges for tenant services and garage space.

(4) "Person" means an individual, corporation, partnership, association, public organization, or any other organized group of any of the foregoing, or legal successor or representative of any of the foregoing.

(11) "This section" means this Housing Permit Regulation, § 806.1 of the Code of Federal Regulations.

The letter must state clearly the specific provision of the section appealed from and the grounds for claiming an exceptional and unreasonable hardship.

It shall also be unlawful for any such person to condition a rental of any dwelling upon the purchase of, or agreement to purchase, any commodity, service or property interest, except tenant services and garage space included in the approved maximum rent, the rental of furniture or an investment interest in the housing accommodations.

The restrictions in paragraphs (o) and (p) of this section apply to the builder and subsequent owners of all housing accommodations constructed in violation of VHP–1. However, this does not relieve the builder of any penalty to which he may be subject by reason of the violation of VHP–1.

(2) Penalties. Any person who willfully violates any provision of this section and any person who knowingly makes any statement to any department or agency of the United States, false in any material respect, or who willfully conceals a material fact, in any description or statement required to be filed under this section, shall upon conviction thereof be subject to fine or imprisonment, or both.

Opinion Accompanying Amendment No. 1 to General Order No. 6

The accompanying amendment to General Order No. 6 adds to the list of sugar products exempt from price control the following: Corn sugar, corn syrup solids, corn syrup, and syrup blends which contain 10% or more by weight or volume of corn syrup or corn sugar, hereinafter referred to as corn syrup blends.

The action is taken as a supplement to the action taken on October 24, 1946, decontrolling most food items as supplemented by the action of June 6, 1947, decontrolling syrup blends containing 10% or more by weight or volume or maple syrup or maple sugar.

The wet corn milling industry through its advisory committee has recommended the decontrol of these corn products.

The Secretary of Agriculture has considered this recommendation and is of the opinion that it should be accepted for the following reasons:

(1) Recent changes in the cost of producing these products would require extensive studies to determine the amount and extent of necessary price adjustments, thereby creating administrative problems that far outweigh the advantages that would inure to the public from continued control during the remaining relatively short period for which there is statutory authority to retain such controls.

(2) Price control over these corn products has been retained up to the present time principally to implement the sugar control program. Corn syrup blends can be used to illustrate why continued controls over these products are no longer necessary to implement the sugar control program.

If price controls had not been retained on corn syrup blends, there was a possibility that sugar cane would have been diverted from the manufacture of sugar into unrationed cane syrups, for the production of corn syrup blends.

Statutory authority to impose price controls over sugar expires on October 31, 1947. Sugar cane for the production of sugar that can be marketed before October 31, 1947, has already been processed to such an extent that it would not be economical to use it for the production of cane syrups which in turn could be used for the manufacture of corn syrup blends. Thus, the removal of price control from corn syrup blends at the present time does not create a substantial threat that sugar cane will be diverted from the manufacture of sugar.

In view of the foregoing and the recent improvement in the general supply of sweetening agents, including wet corn milling products, there is no need for further price control over the corn products referred to above; therefore, they are removed from price control by the accompanying action.

C. C. No. 5 of the State Belt Railroad operated by the State of California.

(2) After the expiration of forty-eight (48) hours free time after a refrigerator car is first placed for loading and until shipping instructions covering such car are tendered to said carrier's agent and/or after forty-eight (48) hours free time after a refrigerator car is first placed for unloading and until such car is unloaded and released, the demurrage charges shall be $2.20 per car per day or fraction thereof for the first and second day; $5.50 per car per day or fraction thereof for the third and fourth days; and $11.00 per car per day or fraction thereof for each succeeding day.

NOTE: After a refrigerator car is loaded and released for movement by the tender of shipping instructions to said carrier's agent, if the car is not actually placed for unloading for any reason within forty-eight (48) hours after such car is released for movement, but is held by the carrier short of place of delivery for unloading, such car will be considered as constructively placed at the expiration of the said forty-eight (48) hours and demurrage time shall be computed from the expiration of the said forty-eight (48) hours until said car is unloaded and released.

(d) Expiration date. This amendment and this order shall expire at 7:00 a. m., October 1, 1947, unless otherwise modified, changed, suspended, or annulled by order of this Commission.

HANDLING OF MILK IN GREATER KANSAS CITY MARKETING AREA

NOTICE OF HEARING ON PROPOSED RULE MAKING

Pursuant to the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and in accordance with the applicable rules of practice and procedure governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR, Supps. 900.1 et seq.; 11 F. R. 7737; 12 F. R. 1159), a notice is hereby given of a public hearing to be held in the District Court Room, Federal Building at Kansas City, Missouri, beginning at 10 a. m., c. s. t., July 21, 1947, with respect to proposed amendments to the tentatively approved marketing agreement and to the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Greater Kansas City marketing area. The proposed amendments have not received the approval of the Secretary of Agriculture.

The public hearing is for the purpose of receiving evidence with respect to economic or marketing conditions which relate to the provisions of the proposed amendments to the marketing agreement and to the order, as amended, or to any modifications thereof, which are hereinafter set forth.

The Pure Milk Producers Association of Greater Kansas City and the Bates County Milk Producers Association have proposed the following amendments:

1. Delete § 913.4 (g) (2) and substitute therefor the following:

(2) If the total utilization of milk in the various classes for any handler, as computed pursuant to paragraph (f) (6) of this section, is greater than the receipts of milk from producers, the market administrator shall decrease the total pounds of milk in Class III for such handler by an amount equal to the difference between receipts of milk from producers and the total utilization of milk by classes for such handler.

2. Delete § 913.5 (a) (1) and substitute therefor the following:

(1) Class I milk prices. The price per hundredweight to be paid by each handler for milk classified as Class I milk shall be the basic formula price determined pursuant to paragraph (b) of this section plus the following amounts for the delivery periods indicated.

Delivery Period
May and June	$0.75
April, July, and August	.90
September, October, November, December, January, February, and March	1.20

Provided, That for the months of September 1947 through March 1948 the price for Class I milk shall not be less than $4.96. And provided further, That the Class I prices for April 1948 shall not be less than the March 1948 Class I prices minus 46 cents, and that the May 1948 Class I prices shall not be less than April Class I prices minus 46 cents.

3. Delete § 913.5 (a) (2) and substitute therefor the following:

(2) Class II milk prices. The price per hundredweight for milk classified as Class II milk shall be the basic formula price determined pursuant to paragraph (b) of this section plus the following amounts for the delivery periods indicated.

Delivery Period	Cents
May and June	50
April, July, and August	65
September, October, November, December, January, February and March	95

Provided, That for the months of September 1947 through March 1948 the price for Class II milk shall not be less than $4.71. And provided further, That the Class II prices for April 1948 shall not be less than the March 1948 Class II price minus 46 cents and the May Class II prices shall not be less than the April Class II prices minus 46 cents.

4. Delete § 913.5 (a) (3) and substitute therefor the following:

(3) The minimum price per hundredweight on a 3.8 percent butterfat content basis to be paid by each handler for milk classified as Class III milk, shall be the price as determined pursuant to the butter-skim milk powder formula in § 913.5 (b) of the present order.

5. Add as § 913.5 (a) (4) the following:

(4) Whenever the Secretary finds and announces that the Class I and Class II prices computed for any delivery period pursuant to (a) of this section are not in the public interest, and Class I and Class II prices for such delivery period shall be the same as the Class I and Class II for the previous delivery period.

6. Delete § 913.5 (c) and substitute therefor the following:

(c) Butterfat differential. If any handler has purchased or received milk from producers containing more or less than 3.8 percent butterfat, such handler shall add or deduct, per hundredweight of milk, for each one-tenth of one percent butterfat above or below 3.8 percent, an amount computed as follows: To the average price per pound of 92-score butter at wholesale in the Chicago market, as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture for the delivery period during which the milk was received, add 20 percent and divide the result obtained by 10.

7. Change the wording of such other sections as may be required to make the order conform with the foregoing proposals.

The Meyer Sanitary Milk Company of Kansas City, Kansas, and the Kansas City Milk Distributors Association (consisting of Chapman Dairy Co., Borden's Milk & Ice Cream Co., Country Club Dairy Co., Alnes Farm Dairy Co. and Adams Dairy Co.) have proposed the following amendments:

1. Amend § 913.5 (b) by deleting the comma following the figures "3.8" in the first line following the itemized list of plants and places and inserting in lieu thereof a period, and by deleting the words immediately following: "But in no event shall such basic formula price to be used be less than the following:" and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "If any of the plants aforesaid shall become subject to a Federal marketing order with respect to prices paid to producers, or if the basic formula price determined as aforesaid drops below the basic formula price hereinafter set forth, then the basic formula price to be used in determining Class I and Class II prices shall be as follows:

2. Amend § 913.5 (c) by deleting the following words appearing at the end of said subsection: "Equal to the Class III price for such delivery period divided by 38." and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "Computed as follows: Add 4¢ to the average price of 92-score butter at wholesale in the Chicago market, as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture for the delivery period during which milk was received, and divide the resulting sum of 10."

3. Amend § 913.7 (a) by adding the following paragraph:

(6) If any handler during the delivery periods of May, June and July disposes of Class III milk in the form of butterfat for churning because of inability to dispose or said milk at Class III prices or higher, the market administrator shall credit such handler's obligation to the pool with the difference between the current market price for such butterfat and Class III price, plus 10¢ per hundredweight for handling and less any amount received for skim from such milk.

HANDLING OF MILK IN CHICAGO, ILL., MARKETING AREA

RECOMMENDED DECISION AND OPPORTUNITY TO FILE WRITTEN EXCEPTIONS WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO ORDER

Pursuant to the rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and orders (7 CFR Supps., 900.1 et seq.; 10 F. R. 11791; 11 F. R. 7737; 12 F. R. 1159) notice is hereby given of the filing with the Hearing Clerk of a recommended decision of the Assistant Administrator, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, with respect to proposed amendments to the order, as amended, and to a proposed marketing agreement, regulating the handling of milk in the Chicago, Illinois, milk marketing area, to be made effective pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 1940 ed. 601 et seq.)

Interested parties may file exceptions to this recommended decision with the Hearing Clerk, Room 0308, South Building, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., not later than the close of business on the 12th day after the publication of this recommended decision in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Preliminary statement. A public hearing, on the record of which the proposed amendments to the order, as amended, and the proposed marketing agreement were formulated was called by the Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, following receipt of proposed amendments filed by the Pure Milk Association. Additional proposals for consideration were submitted by several other producer cooperatives, the Associated Milk Dealers, Inc., the Beatrice Foods Company, the Ice Cream Manufacturers' Association of Cook County, and the Dairy Branch, Production and Marketing Administration. The public hearing was held at Chicago, Illinois, on March 5–8 and 10–12, 1947, inclusive, upon notice issued on February 24, 1947 (12 F. R. 1394).

The material issues presented on the record of the hearing were whether:

1. The "handler" definition should be revised to provide that it shall not apply to any person selling a larger percentage of his Class I milk as a handler under a marketing agreement or order effective in another fluid milk marketing area (H. N. proposal No. 2);

2. The defined area known as "surplus milk manufacturing area" should be expanded (H. N. proposal No. 4);

3. All frozen cream, other cream frozen, plastic cream, and similar cream products disposed of beyond the limits of the surplus milk manufacturing area should be classified as Class II milk (H. N. proposal No. 3);

4. The accounting for milk and cream transferred from approved to unapproved plants should be on a daily basis (H. N. proposal No. 5);

5. Flavored milk, flavored milk drinks, and buttermilk should be reclassified from Class I milk to Class II milk (H. N. proposal No. 8);

6. The maximum amount of plant shrinkage allowed as Class IV milk should be increased (H. N. proposals No. 9 and 10);

7. The price structure for Class I milk and Class II milk should be revised as to level and seasonality (H. N. proposals No. 11, 13, 16, and 20);

8. The basic formula price provisions should be revised as to the (i) "evaporated-pay-price" formula, (ii) "butter-nonfat dry milk solids" formula (revision of the butter-nonfat dry milk solids formula therein would affect also the level of the Class IV milk price), and (iii) application of the alternate formulas set forth therein (H. N. proposals No. 12, 13, 15, and 16);

9. The plant location adjustment credits to handlers applicable to (i) fluid milk, fluid skim milk, and certain Class I milk, and (ii) Class II milk should be increased (H. N. proposals No. 14 and 17);

10. The butterfat differential applicable to producer milk testing above or below 3.5 percent of butterfat should be revised (H. N. proposal No. 18);

11. A change should be made in the level and method of determining the prices to be paid for Class I milk disposed of in markets outside the marketing area (H. N. proposal No. 19);

12. The price formula for Class II milk should include a storage allowance for frozen cream stored (H. N. proposal No. 20);

13. The "approved plant" definition should be revised and whether there should be included new provisions (i) establishing additional requirements for plant desiring to participate in the "market-wide pool," and (ii) providing for the suspension as a "pool plant" of any plant not meeting such requirements (H. N. proposals Nos. 1 and 21);

14. The pool treatment of the classified value of frozen cream, based on the inventory character of this product, should be revised for the purpose of implementing a wider seasonal variation in producer prices (H. N. proposal No. 23);

15. The location adjustments applicable to the announced uniform "70 mile zone" price to producers should be changed (H. N. proposal No. 24); and

16. Several revisions of language should be made to obtain further clarity and to simplify administrative problems with respect to:

(i) The determination of tests of chocolate milk drinks (H. N. proposal No. 6);

(ii) Precision of language in pool computation provisions (H. N. proposal No. 7);

(iii) Classification of butterfat remaining in skim milk separated (H. N. proposal No. 22);

(iv) Assessments for expenses of administration (H. N. proposals No. 25 and 26); and

(v) Assessments for marketing services (H. N. proposal No. 27).

Findings and conclusions. The proposed findings and conclusions with respect to the issues presented at the hearing, together with the reasons therefor, are as follows:

(1) The proposed addition of language to the definition of "handler" to exclude "any person who sells a larger percentage of Class I milk handled by him in a marketing area under any other milk marketing agreement or order issued under the act where such person is a handler subject to such other milk marketing agreement or order" should not be adopted at this time.

The primary purpose of this proposal is to change the basis of determining under which order a handler is subject to regulation in case Class I milk is sold in both the Chicago marketing area under Order 41 and the Suburban Chicago marketing area under Order 69. Under the current provisions of these orders a handler becomes subject to regulation under Order 41 when any of his Class I milk is sold in the Chicago marketing area even though a larger percentage of his Class I milk may be sold in the Suburban Chicago (or other) marketing area.

The proposal would make it possible for some handlers to shift constantly from one order to another in different delivery periods depending on seasonal advantages. Such shifting would not be conducive to the orderly marketing of milk in the Chicago marketing area and might provide some undue competitive advantages to these handlers. The proposal also could prevent beneficial transfers of milk between regulated markets if the transferring handler preferred to retain status under one order but the transfer resulted in the loss of that status. The question and problems raised by this proposal are closely related also to the proper phrasing and content of other provisions of each of the orders, such as the type of pool, the limits of the marketing area, and other definitions. These matters were not fully considered at this hearing, and there is a consequent lack of adequate evidence in solution of the various problems which would result from the adoption of this proposal. In addition, application of the particular proposal offered would be administratively burdensome.

(2) The "surplus milk manufacturing area" should be expanded to include the counties of Stark, Marshall, Woodford, Livingston, Ford, and Iroquois, in the State of Illinois, the counties of Benton, White, Cass, Miami, Howard, Carroll, Tippecanoe, Tipton, Clinton, Fountain, Warren, Parke, Vermilion, Vigo, and Sullivan, in the State of Indiana, and the county of Van Wert, in the State of Ohio.

Plant facilities operated by or readily available to handlers exist in these counties for the disposal of surplus milk from the Chicago marketing area. The inclusion of these counties will facilitate the handling of such surplus milk.

(3) The classification provisions should be revised to specify the final classification as Class II milk of frozen cream, other cream frozen, plastic cream and any similar cream product disposed of outside the surplus milk manufacturing area.

The surplus milk manufacturing area has been defined broadly enough to furnish under present conditions adequate facilities for the disposal for manufacturing purposes of frozen cream, other cream frozen, plastic cream, and any similar cream product in surplus supply. Therefore, it is reasonable to assume that when such items are moved outside such surplus milk manufacturing area they will be employed in their customary uses as ice cream or as other milk products defined as Class II milk under the Chicago order.

This will provide a uniform method of verifying and classifying all Class I and Class II milk items moved beyond the limits of the surplus milk manufacturing area and readily susceptible of reuse in the form of other milk products.

(4) The classification provisions covering fluid milk or fluid cream transferred from approved plants to unapproved plants located within the "surplus milk manufacturing area" should be amended so as to be more specific in regard to the types of supporting records and to the allocation plan to be followed in classifying such approved fluid milk or fluid cream.

Fluid milk and fluid cream are transferred from approved plants to unapproved plants in the "surplus milk manufacturing area." It has been the practice of the market administrator to accept daily utilization records in support of claimed classification of milk at such unapproved plants. It was proposed that this established market practice be formalized and no objections were raised thereto. It is recommended that this proposal be adopted.

In some unapproved plants approved fluid milk or fluid cream is segregated from receipts of unapproved sources. In other unapproved plants approved fluid milk or fluid cream is commingled with receipts from other sources. Classification problems are more complicated where approved milk is commingled with unapproved receipts. In the classification of approved fluid milk or fluid cream which is commingled with unapproved receipts in a plant having diversified uses it is necessary to allocate the use of such approved milk and cream since its specific utilization cannot be shown.

In most instances the quality of Chicago fluid milk is higher than that of unapproved milk. Fluid milk from approved plants is frequently used for selected manufacturing purposes in preference to that of unapproved sources. Unapproved, or "Grade B," milk is disposed of from unapproved plants in many different forms, including fluid milk and fluid cream, to markets not requiring milk of approved Chicago quality. Unapproved plants may engage for part of the month in the processing of a milk product such as evaporated milk or in the sale of fluid milk and fluid cream, while for the remainder of the month it may engage in the manufacture of other milk products such as butter and nonfat dry milk solids.

Under the recommended provision approved Chicago fluid milk received at the plant which commingles milk would be allocated first to the highest valued manufacturing use (Class III milk) then to the other manufacturing uses (Class IV milk) followed by use as Class II milk and Class I milk, respectively. Because of the relative importance of butterfat in cream, the allocation of approved fluid cream would be first to Class IV milk then to Class III milk, Class II milk, and Class I milk, in that sequence. Also approved fluid milk and fluid cream should not take precedence over unapproved or Grade B milk where the latter type of milk is disposed of for outside markets from such plants in the form of fluid milk or fluid cream. If monthly utilization records only are made available, approved fluid milk or fluid cream would be allocated in sequence beginning with Class I milk and Class II milk, respectively, to prevent approved fluid milk and fluid cream being reported in classes of lower value than the actual class of disposition, which would result in decreased returns to all producers. This is deemed necessary to protect the classification of producer milk.

(5) Flavored milk, flavored milk drinks, and buttermilk should not be moved from Class I milk to Class II milk.

The classification of these products was changed from Class II milk to Class I milk by an amendment to the order effective September 1, 1946. In support of the proposal to change the classification of these products from Class I milk to Class II milk, it was claimed (i) that sales of these items decreased during the 4 months following reclassification to Class I milk as compared with the same period in 1945 and if continued producers' returns might thereby be reduced, and (ii) that the cost of flavoring ingredients has increased.

To be sold in the main segments of the Chicago marketing area these milk drinks must be made from inspected milk. They are disposed of in fluid form through the same retail and wholesale channels as bottled fluid milk and are used principally as a beverage. The physical characteristics, purposes, values, and uses of these items are more nearly similar to those of fluid milk than of items covered by the definition of Class II milk.

It was not shown that the decrease in sales following the amendment of September 1, 1946, was due to the reclassification of these products, since the trend had already started prior to reclassification and a general retail price increase embracing many other factors took place during the same period. Under the circumstances shown a decrease in sales of these products is not in itself an adequate reason for the reclassification proposed. The alleged cost increase of flavored ingredients (no specific information of these increased costs was shown) might be an element to be considered by the handler in the establishment of his margin but should not be charged against the price to the producer.

(6) The plant shrinkage provisions (§ 941.4 (b) (4) (iii) and § 941.4 (e) (6) (vi)) should be revised only relative to shrinkage on transfers of milk to unapproved plants by deleting the references to unapproved plants.

Proposals made were designed to (i) increase the overall plant shrinkage allowance in Class IV milk and (ii) alter the application of the plant shrinkage provisions to milk transferred to unapproved plants. It was proposed that the shrinkage allowance on butterfat received at an approved plant in the form of bulk fluid milk, bulk fluid skim milk, or bulk fluid cream be increased from 1½ to 2 percent. Also, a second handler would be allowed a maximum of 2 percent butterfat shrinkage in Class IV milk in addition to the shrinkage allowed in Class IV milk to the first handler. These allowances would be in addition to the ½ percent allowance under the present order on butterfat in milk received directly from producers. In suport of the increase, it was pointed out that shrinkage may be enhanced by errors in butterfat testing or by the techniques used in such testing. Under the proposal, a maximum allowance in Class IV milk of 4.5 percent of butterfat shrinkage would be possible if milk were handled by two or more handlers. A second proposal would revise language with respect to transfers of approved milk to unapproved plants to allow shrinkage in Class IV milk on such transfers.

The average plant shrinkage of butterfat, expressed as a percent of total butterfat pounds in producer receipts plus butterfat overrun (including that portion classified in Class I milk as "excess" shrinkage or "unaccounted for milk"), averaged 1.75 percent in 1943, 1.91 percent in 1944, 2.03 percent in 1945, and 2.18 percent in the first 8 months of 1946. Shrinkage for a system of plants operated by a single handler is computed as a net amount after accounting for utilization at all such plants. In light of these shrinkage percentages and the inequities inherent in the first stated proposal, which would permit a greater shrinkage on milk moved from the plant of one handler to the plant of another handler as compared with interplant movements within a system operated by a single handler, such proposal should not be adopted. However, in many instances it is very difficult to ascertain whether milk has been sold to an unapproved plant. Therefore, to simplify the accounting for the shrinkage with respect to milk moved to unapproved plants, the second proposal should be adopted.

(7) The price differentials above the basic price for Class I and Class II milk should be revised to provide for (i) a wider seasonal variation in the uniform price to be paid to producers and (ii) an increase in the average level of price differentials above the basic price for Class I and Class II milk.

Under the present pricing provisions of the order, the Class I differential is 70 cents per hundredweight of milk, except during May and June when it is 50 cents. The Class II differential is 32 cents, except during May and June when it is 20 cents for such milk as is used for frozen cream. During the war years, the seasonal decline in the Class I differential for May and June was suspended but became effective again in 1947.

Three proposals were made to change the differentials for Class I and Class II milk. The first proposal provided for an increase in the average level of such differentials and a substantial increase in their seasonal variation, emphasizing both the shortage and surplus aspects of the problems of seasonal production. The second proposal limited the problem to the surplus aspects and favored a slight decline in the average level of such differentials. The third proposal provided for no change from the present order except that the seasonal decline in the Class I differential for May and June be eliminated.

The seasonal pattern of production is significantly different than is the pattern of demand for Class I and Class II milk, and during recent years the problems associated with these differences have become more acute than formerly. For the market as a whole, the average production per producer in 1940 was 42 percent greater during the month of peak production than during the month of low production; in 1946, it was 53 percent greater, which was the highest variation during the 1940–46 period. The seasonal variation in production is much more pronounced in the far-out zones than in the close-in zones, with the intermediate zones showing an intermediate seasonal variation. In 1946, for example, Zones 1 and 2 produced 42 percent more milk per farm per day in the high month than in the low month, as compared with 54 percent for Zones 3 to 5, 70 percent for Zones 6 to 10, and 100 percent for Zones 11 to 21. In contrast, the market demand for Class I milk is relatively uniform throughout the year with the greatest strength generally exhibited during the autumn months. The demand for Class II milk, excluding the freezing and storing aspects of cream, is less uniform than for Class I, but is nevertheless much more uniform than the production of milk. One important feature of the seasonal problem in Class II milk is the freezing of cream during the months of peak production and its use during the months of lowest milk production. Frozen cream appears to be used principally in the manufacture of ice cream and its related products; it represents, therefore, at least a partial solution to the problem of bringing the supply and demand for milk into a better balance seasonally.

Beyond the relief obtained by freezing and storing cream, the seasonal supply and demand problem is subject to improvement through price incentives and educational influences. The role of education in correcting the problem of uneven production has been dealt with by agencies such as producer associations and agricultural colleges; but education alone has not been sufficient and a price incentive is required in addition thereto.

The proponents of the second proposal advocated a decrease of differentials in Class I and Class II milk during the flush production season and proposed that this season be extended by 1 month over that provided in the present order. In support it was said that the problem was principally one of milk surpluses during the spring months and that "there is an ample supply of milk in the fall months to satisfy the Class I and Class II requirements of the Chicago market if provision is made to channel the milk into the marketing area." The limitations of channeling milk into the marketing area are several. The amount of milk in excess of Class I and Class II milk is very small. Although outside sales represent a much more important volume of milk than is represented by such excess, the record does not adequately show how such milk could be channeled to the marketing area. Furthermore, the amount of milk being moved to other markets is not unrelated to the price structure for milk in the Chicago market; because such sales indicate that other markets can afford to compete with the Chicago market on a favorable basis. In further support it was shown that milk production during the low month of 1946 was 26 percent above the low month of 1940 and that the peak month of 1946 was 36 percent above that of 1940. It was contended that these data supported the statement that the problem of seasonal variation is not caused by insufficient fall production, but rather by too great a supply in the spring. This can hardly be accepted as a valid reason for a decrease in price differentials without considering the influence on price and production throughout the year. These same data demonstrate chiefly that the seasonal variation in production has become wider. While a lower price in the spring months may be expected to reduce the production of milk during such months, it does not follow that fall production will thereby become increased without further price incentives.

During the fall months of 1945 and 1946 the volume of milk in excess of Class I and Class II uses was substantially less than in previous years. The average amount of such excess for the 3 month period, September through November, 1946, is less than 1.5 percent of total market uses and for 1945 slightly over 2 percent. In previous years this percentage ranged from about 7 to 19 percent, except for 1942 when it was 2.3 percent.

In general, a wide seasonal variation in production aggravates the problem of surpluses in the spring months and shortages in the fall months. Unit marketing costs tend to be lower with uniform milk production than with a wide seasonal variation in production. The increase in seasonal variation in milk production during recent years was attributed to the small variation in prices during the war years. A relatively high level of prices, such as now prevails, compared with a low level requires a relatively wider seasonal variation in prices as an incentive to producers to even out production.

The market needs for Class I and Class II milk have increased from an average of 138 million pounds per month in 1940 to 205 million pounds in 1946—an increase of 48 percent. Class I milk showed an increase of 50 percent and Class II milk an increase of 47 percent for that period. Total milk production for the market during this same period increased approximately 29 percent. This increase resulted from an increase in the average monthly number of producers by 1.6 percent and an increased production of milk per farm of 27 percent.

It was contended that the general level of prices should not be increased in view of the fact that the number of producers (based on preliminary data) increased especially during the latter part of 1946 and the first two months of 1947. In February 1947, the preliminary number of producers was 18,118—the highest number on record; but this number is only approximately 2 percent higher than the number for February of 1941 or March 1944, when there were, respectively, 17,726 and 17,767 producers on the market.

The amount of milk in surplus classes during the fall months must be considered as dangerously low in the light of data already indicated; actual deficits are indicated in the record which were apparently offset through the use of frozen cream. Adverse weather and crop conditions could easily place the market in a serious position of milk shortage.

Practically all costs incurred by producers in the production of milk such as feeds, supplies, labor, and equipment have increased during the past year. Prevailing prices for hogs, beef cattle, and other alternative enterprises open to most producers of inspected milk are at relatively high levels.

Handlers paid premiums to producers amounting to an average of 4.8 to 6.5 cents per hundredweight on all milk in the first two zones during the latter months of 1946. Premiums are shown to have been paid in greater and lesser amounts during the past three years throughout the milk supply area.

Class differentials above the basic or manufacturing level of milk prices in addition to meeting the cost of stricter sanitary requirements of inspected milk, should reflect also the competitive and other economic conditions affecting the supply of and demand for milk in the Chicago marketing area.

The Class I and Class II price differentials over the basic formula price, as set forth below, together with the Class III and the modified Class IV prices, will result in such prices as will reflect the price of feeds, the available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk or its products in the marketing area, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk and be in the public interest.

The Class I and Class II price differentials should be as follows:

Period	Amount per hundredweight
	Class I	Class II
May and June	$0.50	$0.30
August, September, October, and November	.90	.50
All other months	.70	.40

The above schedule of prices substantially increases the seasonal variation of price differentials and may be expected to establish a better relationship between the supply of and demand for milk. It establishes larger and more definite incentives for producers to shift some of their milk production from spring to fall, and it may also influence the seasonal demand if these differentials are reflected in consumer prices. It may also be expected that the future development of new supplies will be somewhat responsive to the seasonal aspects of price regardless of location and result in a more even seasonal production for the market than now prevails.

The general level of Class I milk price differentials is increased by approximately 3 cents over the differential prevailing during the war years, and by about 7 cents over the average level now in the order.

The general level of Class II price differentials is increased by approximately 12 cents over the differentials now in the order. The difference between the Class I and Class II price differentials has been reduced from approximately 38 cents to approximately 31 cents; this reduction will have the effect of placing the price of Class II milk closer to the uniform price and therefore will relieve somewhat the burden placed upon the price of Class I milk in maintaining or developing a desirable uniform price. Both classes of milk require the same standard of health regulation.

The effect of the recommended price schedule, when related to handler and producer location adjustments, is such that at the 21st zone the average annual price of Class I milk will be about 40 cents per hundredweight above the basic price as compared with a Class II average price of about 37–38 cents per hundredweight of milk above the basic price. This places the most distant zone in which milk is received from producers in the position of being in an almost neutral price position on Classes I and II milk but with a slightly higher average price on Class I than on Class II milk.

The Class II milk price differentials as recommended above, provide for 30 cents in May and June as compared with 50 cents for August-November; this allows a 20 cent minimum margin for the storing and freezing of cream. This is an increase of 8 cents above the present order and slightly more than the alleged costs of freezing and storing. It should therefore provide considerable incentive toward freezing cream and help to alleviate seasonal problems.

It may be estimated that the increased differentials on Class I and II milk together with the recommended reduction in the Class IV price will result in an increase of about 4.5 to 6 cents in the uniform price depending upon the percentage of milk in each of the several classes.

(8) The basic formula price provisions should be revised.

(i) One proposal for revision of the Class III formula price provision (alternate basic formula price) would add to the list of manufacturing plants set forth in § 941.5 (a) (1) the names and locations of 5 additional plants. The expressed intent of this proposal is to make such plant list more representative in providing prices for the computation of the basic formula price. Another proposal suggested the addition of 12 more plants in addition to such 5 plants. No definite problem or objection was raised, however, in connection with the reasonableness or propriety of the list of 18 plants as now included in the order.

The proponents of the proposal to add the group of 5 plants to the list indicated an objection to the elimination of the Michigan plants now in the list, although their testimony indicated also that to follow the logic behind the proposal to add the 5 Illinois plants would call for the deletion of the 5 Michigan plants. Appraisal of the testimony leads to the conclusions that the single action of adding the 5 Illinois plants would do little to improve the present Class III price formula and that there are a number of factors involved which should be considered before any revision of this formula is made. Although no direct challenge to the group of 5 plants was made by others, the proponents have not presented convincing evidence that an improvement in the formula as an index of evaporated milk plant prices would result from their inclusion.

The record does not disclose the effects which the 12 other plants suggested would have upon the present Class III price and there is practically no information in the record concerning their operations as to whether they are primarily manufacturing plants. The evidence is not sufficient to support the inclusion of the 12 latter plants. It is recommended that the suggested revision of the list not be made until there is an opportunity to make a more complete analysis of the effect of these or similar changes.

(ii) The butter-nonfat dry milk solids formula price (hereinafter referred to as the Class IV milk price) should be revised.

The proposal to revise the Class IV milk price formula would reduce the price by about 15–16 cents per hundredweight of milk. The revision would be accomplished by reducing in the formula the market price of 92-score butter by 1 cent and the net average price of nonfat dry milk solids by 1½ cents per pound. The argument for a reduction is that Class IV price is based upon two points: (1) That the price of surplus milk under an order "should be at a level which would permit the handler to recover his normal costs of operations but upon which he shall not be given an undue margin of profit"; and (2) that the present formula price is too high to enable handlers to recover their costs on Class IV milk.

The first point has important implications which are not satisfactorily developed in the record. Whether recovery of costs should be limited to efficient handlers only or applied to all handlers, or why this policy or principle should be limited to Class IV milk operations, is not made known. The question of what is an undue margin of profit also is unanswered. Therefore, recovery of "normal costs" by handlers on Class IV milk and upon which there shall not be "an undue margin of profit," may be accorded some weight but does not permit unqualified acceptance.

As to the second point, the evidence in the record concerning costs of handling Class IV milk is difficult to evaluate for purposes of revising the price formula, except in a reasonably approximate manner. In any case, some other factors must be taken into account. Costs were shown to range from 43 cents to 70 cents per hundredweight of milk. The proponents of the lower Class IV price claim average costs of 57.7 cents per hundredweight of milk, based on a survey of 4 plants, two of which were said to operate at costs of 50–51 cents, and the other 2 at 60.4 and 69.5 cents.

The record indicates that the present so-called "manufacturing allowance" on Class IV milk is 37.5 cents per hundredweight of milk (5 cents times the yield factor of 7.5 pounds of powder). Actually handlers of Class IV milk realize under the present formula a working of something more than this amount: (1) No credit is given to the value of skim milk until a full ½ cent over 5 cents per pound has been reached, allowing the handler actually 5.49 cents per pound in his working margin. This amounts to as much as an additional 3.5 cents per hundredweight of milk; (2) the record shows that actual butter "overrun" approximates 21–22 percent rather than 20 percent as used in the formula. This would amount to another 2 to 4 cents per hundredweight of milk to the handler on the basis of the current butter market; and (3) the record also shows actual nonfat dry milk solids yields per hundredweight of whole milk used to be more than the 7.5 pound factor used in the formula by at least ½ pound, which under prevailing market conditions is not less than another 4.5 cents per hundredweight of milk to the handler.

When the foregoing factors are taken into account, the operating margin for Class IV milk is computed to be approximately 48 cents per hundredweight of milk. It was claimed further that the present formula fails to recognize the cost of transporting butter between a country plant and the Chicago market. It was shown, however, that butter manufactured from Class IV milk by the proponents of the lower price is premium butter, both as to price and as to quality.

The seasonal problem of furnishing the market with adequate supplies of milk and cream is recognized elsewhere in this recommended decision and is dealt with by direct action through seasonal price recommendations on Class I and Class II milk. In the light of the seasonal price plan recommended and in the absence of affirmative action on the "pool plant" proposal, it is concluded that the Class IV price remain unchanged during all months of the year except those shown to be preponderantly surplus supply months. For the months of March, April, May, and June, therefore, the Class IV price formula should be modified to the extent of changing the present 5 cent allowance on nonfat dry milk solids to 6 cents. This means that the margin allowed under the recommended formula for these 4 months amounts to approximately 55–56 cents per hundredweight of Class IV milk, and falls at about the midpoint between the 43–70 cent cost range shown in the record. It is also close to the average cost figure of 57.7 cents per hundredweight of milk claimed by the proponents of a lower price formula. Any revision of the Class IV formula beyond the amounts indicated above would appear to require further inquiry and evidence.

(iii) In the order currently effective, the basic formula price is the highest price computed from three manufacturing milk price formulas based, respectively, on the "paying" prices of several evaporated milk concerns, open market prices of butter and cheese, and open market prices of butter and nonfat dry milk solids for the current delivery period. Two proposals to change the application of these formulas have been made. Under the first, the highest prices resulting from the respective formulas for the current delivery period and that next preceding would be averaged and used as the current basic formula price. Under the second such proposal, the highest price resulting from these manufacturing milk formulas for the delivery period next preceding (formerly the basic formula price for such delivery period) would be used as the basic formula price for the current delivery period. The first proposal was suggested for the purpose of reducing somewhat the monthly variations in Class I milk and Class II milk prices and to enable handlers to estimate more closely in advance the level of such prices which they would be required to pay in the current delivery period. The second appears to be designed to enable handlers to know with certainty their purchase prices for Class I milk and Class II milk by the fifth day of the delivery period during which the milk is received.

Under the present order, class prices are not known until approximately the fifth day after the end of the delivery period during which the milk is received. Handlers complain that they are disadvantaged by not knowing the Class I and Class II milk prices they will have to pay for milk received from producers until after that milk has been disposed of by them.

More orderly marketing of fluid milk and fluid cream may be encouraged by the announcement of the Class I and Class II prices early in the delivery period during which milk covered by such classes is disposed of by handlers. For this reason the proposal to base such class prices upon the manufacturing milk formula prices for the next preceding delivery period is recommended with the condition that the basis formula price effective for July shall not be less than that for the preceding month of June. The latter condition will assist to preserve the proper seasonal trend of prices.

Substantial quantities of Chicago approved milk are disposed of in the form of manufactured milk products covered by the Class III milk and Class IV milk definitions under the order. The latter products, although made from Chicago approved milk, are in open market competition with similar products from milk not meeting any formal health inspection. Because of competitive character of the markets for the products covered by Class III milk and Class IV milk, the prices for the latter classes should continue to be based upon the manufacturing milk formula prices for the current delivery period rather than for the next preceding delivery period.

(9) The rates of location adjustment credits to handlers for fluid milk or fluid skim milk shipped from country plants to the marketing area and on certain Class I milk not so shipped should be increased; the rates on fluid cream should not be increased.

(i) No zone adjustments on fluid milk and fluid skim milk were proposed for Zone 1, and none are allowed under the present order. It was proposed that the present rate of 1½ cents per hundredweight of milk be increased to 2½ cents for each 15-mile zone beyond the 70-mile zone (Zone 1). This proposed rate was determined by subtracting a claimed 13-cent rail rate for Zone 1 from a claimed 62-cent rate for Zone 21, and dividing the result by 20, the number of zones involved. This resulted in a rate of 2.45 cents per hundredweight of milk. Only one location within the 70-mile zone (Zone1) was shown to have a rail rate of 13 cents. The average of several locations in Zone 1 was shown as 28 cents, and in Zone 2 as 29 cents. Rail rates approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission have been increased about 15 percent since September 1, 1946, the date on which the last amendments to zone rates to handlers were made effective under Order 41.

Most fluid milk and fluid skim milk are hauled by truck. Trucking rates appear to be higher than rail rates on long hauls, but lower on short hauls. Hauling rates by truck are shown to be 16 cents per hundredweight in Zone 1, 18 cents for Zone 2, with rather uniform increases at 2 cents for each zone thereafter. Beyond Zone 14 rail rates are lower than trucking rates. Such rates average approximately 1 cent per zone between zones 1 and 21. Location adjustment credits should enable the movement of the necessary quantities of milk for Class I use but should not be high enough to encourage the uneconomic movement of fluid milk. It is economically desirable to secure the necessary fluid milk from the nearest possible sources. It is concluded that a rate of 2 cents per hundredweight per zone between 70 and 265 miles from the marketing area and a rate of 1 cent per hundredweight additional per zone beyond will assist in this objective. Higher rates for such zones would place an undue burden on the returns to producers.

(ii) Two proposals were submitted to change the rates of location adjustment credits to handlers on fluid cream. One proposal would adopt an LCL rate from the country plant location beyond Zone 1 to the perimeter of Zone 1. The second would apply the "effective tariff rates" from the point of origin to the marketing area. Neither proposal contemplates any change in the present provision under which no location adjustment credit is allowed on fluid cream originating within the 70-mile zone.

The record does not contain any information as to what the applicable LCL rail rates are or as to the extent of movements of fluid cream in less than carlot quantities by rail as compared with carlot shipments or with truck shipments. The adoption of any change in rates along the lines of the first named proposal is not warranted on the basis of the record.

The second proposal provides for a zone rate of ¾ cent per hundredweight of milk shipped to the perimeter of the 70-mile zone in the form of fluid cream. However, this proposal was modified by a request that the rates "shall be the effective tariff rates applicable on shipments of cream in cans from the zone and the point of origin to the Chicago marketing area and that such rates be secured and published by the market administrator." The basis for the ¾ cent rate was not indicated, nor was the meaning or application of "effective tariff rates" satisfactorily developed in the record. The application of rates in this second proposal to shipments of fluid cream from beyond the 70-mile zone to the marketing area instead of to the 70 mile perimeter would permit serious inequities. For the above reasons, neither feature of the second proposal should be adopted.

(10) The proposed 4-cent butterfat differential applicable to fluid milk sold as Class I milk testing above or below 3.5 percent of butterfat should not be adopted.

This proposal would have the effect of placing a price on butterfat which is in excess of 3.5 percent in fluid milk sold as Class I milk of 4 cents per point. This is substantially lower than the current price of butterfat for any use including butter, the lowest-valued use under the order. Under the proposal the market pool would subsidize the butterfat in excess of 3.5 percent disposed of in Class I fluid milk. No adequate reasons have been presented to show why these results should prevail.

(11) The method of pricing Class I milk disposed of in markets outside the Chicago, Illinois, marketing area should not be changed.

It was proposed that the price of Class I milk disposed of in any market outside the marketing area should be the "price as ascertained by the market administrator which is being paid for milk of equal grade and of equivalent use in the market where such milk is disposed of." Another proposal would limit such "ascertained prices" to the months of January through July, inclusive, with a fixed minimum of 45 cents over the basic formula price, and would apply a similar pricing principle to Class II milk disposed of outside the marketing area.

Milk approved for Chicago distribution is sold in several markets outside the marketing area. Some of this milk is sold under resale price levels lower than those in the marketing area. A portion of such milk is sold in markets having Grade A health standards similar to the City of Chicago, while some is sold in markets having less stringent health standards.

The price effective under the Chicago order should be such as to induce a supply adequate to meet the demand of the Chicago marketing area but not to fulfill the requirements of outside markets where milk of lesser quality may be used. The Chicago market does not have an excessive supply of milk except for a certain amount of seasonal surplus, which is not uncommon to the market. If Chicago approved milk is permitted to be sold in outside markets at less than the price prevailing in the marketing area, the result is a subsidizing of the outside sale. The proposal that the outside sale of Class I milk and Class II milk be permitted at a lower price only during the months of January through July, inclusive, when milk is relatively plentiful on the Chicago market, as a convenient method of disposing of seasonal surpluses which might otherwise fall into even lower-priced uses, should not be adopted because of the resulting "dumping" effect on the outside market. In addition, the fixing of the proposed lower prices for Chicago milk sold in other markets could have a depressing effect on the prices paid farmers by competing unregulated distributors in such markets, which lower prices in turn might further depress the "ascertained prices" to be used under the Chicago order.

Moreover, prices paid by individual distributors within a single outside market often vary greatly and the standards and method by which the market administrator would ascertain the price being paid in the outside market for milk of equal grade and of equivalent use were not outlined. From the administrative viewpoint, it is considered undesirable to burden the market administrator with the responsibility of determining outside market price levels in such circumstances.

(12) A special storage allowance for storing frozen cream should not be included.

Cream for disposition in the form of ice cream in the City of Chicago must be made from Chicago inspected milk. Ice cream for disposition outside the City of Chicago may be made from cream produced under less rigid health inspection requirements. Chicago ice cream manufacturers sell ice cream both in the City of Chicago and in outside markets, some of which are beyond the limits of the marketing area. Cream is frozen by Chicago handlers in the months of relatively heavy milk production as supply insurance for months of relatively light milk production. Costs incurred in freezing and storing cream are alleged to approach 20 cents per hundredweight of milk. Order No. 41 currently allows an automatic decrease of 12 cents per hundredweight on frozen cream in May and June, but cream for fluid use is not subject to a lower seasonal price differential in May and June. Chicago handlers selling in markets adjacent to the marketing area consider that they are in an unfavorable competitive situation in such markets with ice cream makers not regulated by Order No. 41.

It is proposed under conclusion (7) that a seasonal price plan be established for both Class I milk and Class II milk. The total amount of the seasonal change in the price differential from the May and June level would be 20 cents per hundredweight for Class II milk. The increase in July from the June level would be 10 cents per hundredweight and an additional increase of 10 cents per hundredweight would be effective for the months of August to November, inclusive. In addition it is usual to expect a somewhat higher basic formula price in the fall months than prevails in the months of May and June. Since the expense of freezing and storing cream does not exceed 20 cents per hundredweight of the milk used to produce such frozen cream it would appear that the person incurring such costs would take, under this seasonal price plan, little, if any, risk in protecting his fall supply of cream for ice cream manufacture. This price plan permits him to buy cream for later use at a relatively low price in the summer months and should give an adequate incentive to cream storage rather than to discourage it. An additional allowance of 17 cents per hundredweight is unnecessary in view of the seasonal price plan proposed.

Chicago ice cream manufacturers may compete for business in markets where ice cream makers do not maintain Chicago inspection, but such outside ice cream makers may not compete for ice cream business in the City of Chicago. The Chicago ice cream maker operates with respect to the bulk of his ice cream sales on a market protected against outside competitors not handling Chicago approved ice cream. Chicago producers are producing primarily for this inspected market and have pointed out the need for additional supplies of milk on the Chicago market at certain times of the year. Prices for Chicago milk should be designed to bring forth a sufficient supply of milk to meet the demands for which inspected milk is required, but not to create undue surpluses of high quality milk or to provide supplies for milk products to be sold in other markets where different price and supply conditions call for different purchase prices.

(13) The "approved plant" definition should not be changed; and new provisions for (i) establishing additional requirements for continued pool participation by plants now eligible for inclusion in the market-wide pool and (ii) the suspension of pool plants under certain conditions, should not be adopted at this time.

Producer proponents of the proposal for establishing more stringent requirements on plants with respect to pool participation support their proposal by alleging the failure of certain pool participating plants to ship fluid milk and fluid cream in the months of short production when substantially all available supplies of approved milk are needed in the Chicago market. It was pointed out that plants desiring to receive the year around benefit of a uniform price, which includes in all months the total value of the Class I and Class II milk sold on the market as well as the values of the other classes, should recognize an obligation to furnish the market with fluid milk and fluid cream whenever it is needed even though in most months of the year such plant may be engaged primarily in manufacturing operations such as the processing of evaporated milk, butter, powder, or cheese. The particular proposal offered attempts to establish standards of performance with respect to the shipment of milk and cream to be made by each and every handler to remain in the market pool.

Plants commonly considered as "standby plants" which are primarily engaged in manfacturing operations but which have entry into the pool at all times of the year do carry at least a moral obligation to furnish their total pool supply to meet the higher-valued uses if and when it is necessary. This obligation accrues from the benefit which such plants receive throughout the year in the form of price equalization which enables them to pay producer prices equal to those paid by strictly fluid milk plants similarly located. The problem posed can admittedly become serious and irksome in a fluid milk market. However, it has not reached the stage in the Chicago market where the suggested type of remedy or one of equal force is imperative. In addition, the proposal at hand does not cover the problem completely and leaves many questions to be answered, especially regarding its administrative practicality. Because of these considerations, it is concluded that the suggested pool plant provisions should not be adopted at this time.

(14) The pool treatment of the classified value of frozen cream should not be revised (§ 941.7 (b) (3)).

Under the proposal there would be set aside from the pool the difference between the value of frozen cream at the Class II price and its value at the Class IV price for the delivery period in which such cream is frozen, such difference to be returned to the pool during the delivery period in which the frozen cream is utilized.

The proposal seeks to implement seasonal pricing. However, it raises questions and implications relating to other provisions of the order which were not sufficiently developed at the hearing to warrant adoption on the basis of this record.

(15) The location adjustments applicable to the producers' uniform price should be revised.

The order provides for the announcement of the uniform price per hundredweight of milk received from producers at plants located not more than 70 miles (Zone 1) from Chicago. Beyond this distance the uniform price is subject to location adjustments. These deductions are 2 cents per hundredweight of milk for each subsequent 15 mile zone up to 175 miles and $\frac{1}{2}$ cent for each 15 mile zone thereafter. Since the order was first made effective in September, 1939, no changes have been made in these rates. The only interim change with any bearing on location allowances was the adoption, by amendment, of road and rail miles instead of air miles in determining the zone location of plants. Under the present structure, the location adjustment rate to producers parallels, up to a distance of 175 miles from the market, the transportation rate allowed handlers for shipping fluid milk; thereafter the rate of adjustment approximates that allowed for transporting fluid cream.

It was contended on behalf of certain organizations that the present location adjustment rates discriminate against the far-out producer and favor the close-in producer. In support it was shown, for example, that in 1944 location adjustments to handlers for milk received beyond the 70 mile zone totaled about $350,000, whereas location adjustments for producers in the same zones totaled about $650,000. The difference of about $300,000 was described as a "tribute" paid by distant producers to close-in producers. It was proposed on these facts that the producer location adjustments should be equivalent to the present rate of adjustment to handlers for fluid milk shipments, or $1\frac{1}{2}$ cents per hundredweight, for each 15 mile zone beyond the 70 mile zone up to a distance of 130 miles from the marketing area and beyond that at a cream rate of $\frac{1}{4}$ cent per hundredweight per zone. It was proposed further that the $1\frac{1}{2}$ cent rate should drop to 1 cent whenever the accumulated excess of total handler adjustments over total producer adjustments exceed $50,000 and should be restored again to the $1\frac{1}{2}$ cent rate when such excess drops below $25,000. The effect of these proposed rates on producers' uniform prices per hundredweight at the extreme outside and the extreme inside zones would be (i) an increase in the 21st zone (355–370 miles from Chicago) by 10 to 12 cents in relation to the uniform price for the 70-mile zone, and (ii) a decrease in the uniform price in the 70-mile zone of approximately 2 to 3 cents, with proportionate effects on the intermediate zones.

Handler location adjustments are made primarily for the purpose of equalizing among handlers the relative cost of shipping to the marketing area fluid milk and cream from all points in the supply area beyond zone 1. Producer location adjustments are made to the uniform price and are intended to assign proper values to milk delivered by them at different locations in the supply area. A comparison of dollar differences between the two types of adjustment has little significance in dealing with the problem of fixing appropriate rates of location adjustments to producers. All of the following factors affect total dollar differences in such adjustments: (1) The rates of location adjustments to handlers for fluid milk; (2) the rate of location adjustment to handlers for fluid cream (it may be pointed out that the proponents also testified in favor of an increased rate of handler allowances on fluid cream shipments on the basis of cost of shipment but not as a supporting reason for decreasing the dollar differences in adjustments); (3) the volume of milk in each zone to which the fluid milk rate applies; (4) the volume of milk in each zone to which the fluid cream rate applies; (5) the volume of milk received from all producers in each zone; and (6) the rates of location adjustments to producers. The proponents have limited their "remedy" mainly to the dollar differences in adjustments in a revision of the rates of location adjustments to producers and have given little consideration to the importance or influence of the other five factors. The principle employed by the proponents of the changed rates to producers when carried to its logical conclusion, means that when no location adjustments are made to handlers, there shall be no location adjustments made to the uniform price paid to producers. In other words, producers located beyond the 70-mile zone would receive the highest uniform prices, relative to the prices received by producers in the 70-mile zone, if the former group did not ship any fluid milk or fluid cream to the marketing area. Conversely, as shipments of fluid milk or fluid cream are made from distant points, with accompanying increases in the dollar value of handler location adjustments, the uniform prices received by distant producers become relatively lower than the prices received by close-in producers.

Moreover, producer location adjustments affect the uniform price in each zone. The claim of discrimination against far-out producers deserves analysis in this respect also. Zone 21 is the most distant zone from the market in which approved plants are located at present. A comparison of the uniform prices with class prices in Zone 21, 1940–46, inclusive, discloses that if Zone 21 had sold all of its milk for Class I use in Chicago or elsewhere during each month of that period such milk would have drawn money from the pool during 31 out of 84 months because the Class I price in the 21st zone was lower than the uniform price. It may be noted in addition that Class II milk, which is the principal type of milk furnished to the market by most far-out plants, was priced below the uniform price in Zone 21 during 49 months out of 84. During the year 1946, Class II milk in such zone was priced under the uniform price during every month while the Class I price in that zone was lower than the uniform price during the 7 months of the year. Actually, most of the Class I milk for the market came from close-in zones causing these zones to pay into the pool and thereby enabling Zone 21 and other far-out zones to draw even more out of the pool than would result under the above illustration. Under the proposed rate structure described above, the relationship between the Class I and Class II prices and the uniform prices in the outer zones would be further aggravated.

The assertion of discrimination made does not withstand the above consideration.

It was proposed by one producer organization that the rate of location adjustment to producers should be closely related to the cost to the individual producer of moving his milk to the marketing area independently of other producers and that this cost should be a uniform amount for each zone. This proposal was restated to the effect that producer location adjustments should have the same rate that applies to fluid milk shipped by handlers. It was contended also that the proposal for lower location adjustments to producers might result in a uniform price to producers in a distant zone which is higher than the Class I price for that zone. In reply to this statement, the proponents of the lower rates of location adjustments to producers argued that "there is no way under Order 41, if the proposed amendment (for a lower rate) were adopted, by which producers in distant zones could secure higher than Class I prices." However, the latter statement may not be sustained since it has been shown above that even under the rate structure in the present order the Class I price in the 21st zone at times actually has been below the uniform price for such zone and that a lower rate of location adjustment to producers in such zone and other far-out zones would aggravate this situation.

Because of the relationships of prices indicated above, it is desirable to revise rate of location adjustment to producers in a manner which will establish improved price relationships throughout the milkshed. The present rate structure provides a strong incentive for uneconomic development of the supply area. Milk for use as both Class I milk and Class II milk must conform to the same health standards and must be produced on farms meeting the same minimum health standards. Because of transportation costs, efficient marketing is promoted by securing milk for fluid use as near to the market as possible. Although it is recognized that from the practical standpoint the entire requirements of milk for fluid use cannot be produced in the most compact and close-in area, advantages from location which naturally accrue to nearby producers should not be removed to the extent that an uneconomic development of the supply area for fluid milk results.

Because the availability of approved milk in fluid form is a major element in determining its utility in relation to the needs of the marketing area, the cost of transporting such milk in fluid form from the particular zone should determine its value relative to that of milk of other producers closer to or farther away from the marketing area.

In view of the above, it is recommended that the rate of location adjustment to producers be established on the basis of the cost of moving milk in fluid form to the market. It is recognized that it is not necessary for producers to move milk individually to the market and that transportation economies are effected by the assembly and movement of milk by truck or rail either at the instance of the handler or of producers acting jointly. Since it has been recommended, in revising handler location adjustments, that the handler should be allowed credit only on the basis of moving milk from any given zone by the least expensive mode of transportation it is deemed desirable to establish producer location adjustment rates on the same basis at this time.

This would result in a rate structure of 2 cents per hundredweight per zone for zones 2–14, and an additional 1 cent for each zone thereafter. It is estimated that this proposed rate structure would affect the average annual uniform prices to producers as follows: (i) In the first 8 zones such prices would be increased approximately 1 cent per hundredweight compared with the present rate structure, (ii) in the 9th zone a net decrease in such prices of $\frac{1}{2}$ cent per hundredweight, (iii) net decreases of 2, $3\frac{1}{2}$, 5, $6\frac{1}{2}$, and 8 cents per hundredweight for Zones 10, 11, 12, 13, and 14, respectively, and (iv) from the 15th zone to the 21st zone net decreases from $8\frac{1}{2}$ cents to $11\frac{1}{2}$ cents per hundredweight.

(16) Several revisions of language should be made to obtain further clarity and to simplify administrative problems.

(i) In determining the butterfat test of flavored milk and flavored milk drinks the average fat test of these products, including the fat test of chocolate ingredients, should be used as their butterfat test in all cases where a handler's production records do not show the amount of butterfat going into the product (§ 941.4 (c) (3) (iii)).

The order now provides that in determining the pounds of butterfat in flavored milk and flavored milk drinks the weight of the products is multiplied by their average butterfat test. It has been contended in some instances that a variation exists between the total fat test of the finished product and the butterfat test thereof. A representative study by the market administrator showed that the difference between the butterfat test of the milk ingredients and the total fat test of the finished product was insignificant. The procedure presently being followed by the market administrator is to use the total fat test of flavored drinks as their butterfat test in the absence of adequate records showing a different butterfat test. The proposal will specifically spell out this method in the order. Where handlers' records show the amount of butterfat going into these products, such records have been accepted and will continue to be accepted under the proposal.

(ii) In computing the net class volumes of milk to be priced currently, the milk equivalent of any frozen cream, or other intermediate product, carried over from a previous delivery period and used in making another milk product should be deducted (§ 941.4 (f)).

Milk products which are not end products in themselves are classified and priced during the delivery period when made. It is necessary to deduct the milk equivalent of butterfat in such products from the appropriate uses for the delivery period when such products are finally used to make other products in order that a handler will not be charged twice for the same milk. The recommended procedure is administratively necessary and has been followed in the past by administrative application of the classification provisions.

(iii) A butterfat allowance of 0.06 percent should be provided to handlers who are not able to show specific tests as to butterfat content of skim milk.

There has been an administrative problem with respect to the determination of the butterfat content of skim milk. Some handlers do not have testing equipment adequate to ascertain with reasonable accuracy the butterfat content remaining in skim milk after separation. Handlers with adequate records have been permitted to claim butterfat in skim milk. A study by the market administrator indicates an average butterfat content of approximately 0.06 percent for skim milk used by handlers in manufacturing dairy products. It appears that 0.06 percent is a reasonable factor for use in the absence of adequate tests or records. Butterfat in skim milk may be a substantial factor in the shrinkage experienced by a plant engaged primarily in receiving and separating milk and shipping cream to the marketing area.

The proposed amendment would relieve an administrative problem and would tend to bring about a greater degree of equity among handlers in determining the butterfat content of skim milk.

(iv) The section providing for an assessment on handlers covering administrative expenses should be revised to (i) provide that changes in the administrative assessment rate below the maximum fixed in such section shall be determined by the Secretary rather than by the market administrator subject to review by the Secretary, and (ii) eliminate suits by the market administrator to collect such assessments.

Procedure for making changes in such rates will be less complicated if such rate-making is a direct function of the Secretary rather than a review function. This revision will simplify the establishment of appropriate rates of assessment at any time the assessment rate should be changed.

Section 941.9 (b) is unnecessary because the Secretary currently assumes responsibility for enforcement of the payment of such assessments.

(v) The section providing for the marketing services deductions should be revised to provide that changes in the rate of marketing services deductions below the rate specified in such section shall be determined by the Secretary rather than by the market administrator subject to review by the Secretary.

The fixing of the rate of marketing services deductions by the Secretary (who now reviews the rate established by the market administrator) will simplify the procedure for establishing such rate of assessment below that specified in the order when a change in the rate is necessary.

Rulings on proposed findings and conclusions. Briefs were filed on behalf of the Producer Associations and various handlers subject to Order No. 41. The briefs contain statements of fact, conclusions, and arguments with respect to all of the proposals discussed at the hearing. Every point covered in the briefs was carefully considered, along with the evidence in the record in making the findings and reaching the conclusions hereinbefore set forth. Although all of the briefs do not contain specific requests to make proposed findings, it is assumed that the statements, conclusions, and arguments submitted were for this purpose and are treated accordingly. To the extent that such proposed findings and conclusions are inconsistent with the proposed findings and conclusions contained herein, the implied request to make such findings or to reach such conclusions are denied on the basis of the facts found and stated in connection with the conclusions in this recommended decision.

Recommended marketing agreement and amendments to the order. The following amendments to the order, as amended, are recommended as the detailed and appropriate means by which the foregoing conclusions may be carried out. The recommended marketing agreement is not included in this recommended decision because the regulatory provisions thereof would be the same as those contained in the order, as amended, and as proposed here to be further amended.

HANDLING OF MILK IN WICHITA, KANS., MARKETING AREA

NOTICE OF HEARING ON PROPOSED RULE MAKING

Pursuant to the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and in accordance with the applicable rules of practice and procedure governing the formulation of marketing agreements (7 CFR, Supps. 900.1 et seq.; 11 F. R. 7737; 12 F. R. 1159), notice is hereby given of a public hearing to be held in the District Court Room, Federal Building, at Wichita, Kansas, beginning at 10 a. m., c. s. t., July 24, 1947, with respect to proposed amendments to the tentatively approved marketing agreement and to the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Wichita, Kansas, marketing area. The proposed amendments have not received the approval of the Secretary of Agriculture.

The public hearing is for the purpose of receiving evidence with respect to economic or marketing conditions which relate to the provisions of the proposed amendments to the marketing agreement and order, as amended, or to any modifications thereof, which are hereinafter set forth.

Proposed by the Wichita Milk Producers Association.

1. Delete § 968.3 (a) and substitute therefor the following:

(a) Basis of classification. Milk or cream sold in bulk by handler to nonhandler who distributes milk and cream shall be Class I or Class II except that if:

(1) Handler regularly receives both graded and ungraded milk;

(2) That he has sufficient ungraded to furnish sales in question; and

(3) Such milk or cream is sold, billed and tagged or labeled "uninspected milk for manufacturing only". If it meets all of those conditions it shall be Class III.

Any milk sold by handler to nonhandler who distributes milk or cream and which does not meet all of the above provisions shall be classified as follows:

(i) If such purchasing nonhandler is located more than 100 miles from the plant of the selling handler it shall be classified Class I in the case of milk or Class II in the case of cream.

(ii) If such purchasing nonhandler is located within 100 miles of the selling handler and permits the market administrator to audit his records it shall be classified as follows:

(a) Determine the classification of all milk received by such nonhandler and (b) allocate the milk or cream disposed of by a handler to such nonhandler to the highest use classification remaining after subtracting, in series beginning with the highest use classification, the receipts of milk by such nonhandler direct from dairy farmers who meet requirements of that market for Class I and Class II.

(iii) If such nonhandler is located within 100 miles of the handler's plant and does not permit the market administrator to audit his records it shall be classified Class I or Class II as the case may be.

2. Provide milk or cream sold by a handler to a nonhandler who does not distribute milk or cream shall be Class III.

3. Delete § 968.3 (b) and substitute therefor the following:

(b) Classes of utilization. Subject to the conditions set forth in paragraph (a) of this section the classes of utilization shall be as follows:

(1) Class I milk shall be all milk and skim milk disposed of as milk, skim milk, buttermilk or flavored milk drinks and all milk not classified as Class II milk or Class III milk pursuant to subparagraphs (2) and (3) of this paragraph.

(2) Class II milk shall be all milk, used to produce cream which is disposed of in the form of cream, other than for use in products specified in subparagraph (3) of this paragraph, creamed cottage cheese, products sold or disposed of in the form of cream testing less than 18 percent of butterfat, aerated cream, and eggnog.

(3) Class III milk shall be all milk used to produce butter, cheese (other than creamed cottage cheese), evaporated milk, condensed milk, ice cream, ice cream mix, and powdered whole milk; used for starter churning, wholesale baking and candy making purposes; accounted for as salvage from products where the recovery of fat is impossible; and not accounted for but not in excess of 3 percent of the total receipts of butterfat other than receipts from other handlers.

4. Amend § 968.4 (a) (1) by deleting "80 cents" and substituting "one dollar ten cents".

5. Amend § 968.4 (a) (2) by deleting "55 cents" and substituting "85 cents".

6. Add to § 968.4 (b) the following: "Provided, That during the months of July and August 1947 the Class I price shall be not less than $4.50 per hundredweight and the Class II price shall not be less than $4.25 per hundredweight and provided that during the months of September through December 1947 the Class I price shall not be less than $5.00 and the Class II price shall not be less than $4.75."

7. Amend § 968.5 (a) by deleting the word "7th" and substituting "5th".

8. Amend § 968.7 (b) by deleting the words "10th" and substituting "8th".

9. Amend § 968.8 (a) by deleting the word "12th" and substituting the word "10th".

10. Amend § 968.8 (e) by deleting the words "12th" and substituting the word "10th".

11. Amend § 968.8 (b) by deleting the word "27th" and substituting the word "25th".

12. Amend § 968.8 (f) (1) and (2) by deleting the word "12th" and substituting the word "10th".

13. Amend § 968.6 (e) by adding "either direct from producers or at the plant of another handler at the Class I price".

14. Delete § 968.9 Base rating and substitute:

(a) Determination of period base. For the delivery periods of each calendar year, the base of each producer shall be a quantity of milk calculated by the market administrator in the following manner: multiply the applicable figure computed pursuant to paragraphs (b) (1), (b) (2) or (b) (3) of this section by the number of days during such delivery period on which milk was received from such producer.

(b) Determination of daily base. (1) Effective for the delivery periods of each year the daily base of each producer, who regularly delivered milk to a handler during the next previous delivery periods of August, September, October, and November shall be computed by the market administrator in the following manner:

(i) Determine for each such producer his average daily delivery of milk to a handler for the time he delivered during the period from the next previous August 1 to November 30.

(2) Effective for the delivery periods of each year, the daily base of each producer who did not regularly deliver milk to a handler during the next previous delivery periods of August, September, October, and November but who began deliveries of milk to a handler subsequent to August 31 shall be computed by the market administrator in the following manner:

(i) For each delivery period from the date upon which the producer first delivers milk to a handler until the end of the next full calendar year the market administrator shall multiply such producer's daily average deliveries of milk during each period by that percentage that total Class I and Class II sales are to total deliveries of all producers.

(3) In case of a handler who is also a producer and who disposes of all of his delivery routes to another handler who is not a producer, the market administrator shall determine the daily average of the total sales of Class I milk and Class II milk by such producer during the preceding three months. The figures so determined shall be such producer's base until his base may be established pursuant to subparagraph (1) of this paragraph.

(4) If during any delivery period the total base milk delivered by all producers does not equal 100 percent of Class I and Class II sales for the delivery period, the market administrator shall add thereto, as emergency base, in the case of each producer who delivered milk in excess of his base, the percent of his excess milk which is the percent of total excess milk needed to bring total base deliveries up to approximately 100 percent of Class I and Class II sales.

(c) Base rules. (1) Any producer who ceases to deliver milk to a handler for a period of more than 30 consecutive days shall forfeit his base. In the event such producer thereafter commences to deliver milk to a handler he shall be allotted a daily base computed in the manner provided in paragraphs (b) (1) or (b) (2) of this section.

(2) A landlord who rents on a share basis shall be entitled to the entire daily base to the exclusion of the tenant if the landlord owns the entire herd. A tenant who rents on a share basis shall be entitled to the entire daily base to the exclusion of the landlord if the tenant owns the entire herd. If the cattle are jointly owned by the tenant and landlord, the daily base shall be divided between the joint owners according to ownership of the cattle when such share basis is terminated.

(3) A producer, whether landlord or tenant, may retain his base when moving his entire herd of cows from one farm to another; Provided, That at the beginning of a tenant and landlord relationship the base of each landlord and tenant may be combined and may be divided when such relationship is terminated.

(4) Base may be transferred only under the following conditions: (i) In case of the death of a producer, his base may be transferred to a surviving member or members of his family who carry on the dairy operation, and (ii) on the retirement of a producer, his base may be transferred to an immediate member of his family who carries on the dairy operations.
